Air strikes in Cambodia prior to 1970 admitted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department acknowledged today that B52 strikes were made in Cambodia prior to 1970 despite public assertions at the time of U.S. respect for the neutrality of Cambodia.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, in a letter to the Senate Armed Services Committee, said raids "had been conducted for some period of time and were fully authorized" before the United States publicly announced attacks in May 1970 into so-called sanctuaries areas of Cambodia near the South Vietnamese border.

"At this period of time, you will remember over one half million men were stationed in South Vietnam," Schlesinger said. "Because of the sensitive operational and diplomatic situation, special security precautions were taken to ensure that the operation would not be compromised."

Schlesinger sent the letter to the Senate panel as former Air Force Maj. Hal M. Knight testified under oath that he falsified records of B52 strikes in early 1970.

He said he acted under orders from superiors that he burn all documents, computer tapes and other materials that would expose the strikes in Cambodia.

Knight was asked if he ever questioned the procedure. "I asked who authorized this procedure," he replied. "I was told not to ask."

He said there always was a cover target with "a strike order in Vietnam" account for the actual mission in Cambodia.

The Air Force chief of staff Gen. George S. Brown, in another letter to chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said it was not correct to characterize as falsification the security precautions pertaining to the raids.

"So long as the reports met in every detail the requirements imposed, they were not intended to deceive those with a security 'need to know'," Brown said.

"The reasons why special security precautions were directed was not a reporting issue so long as a responsible higher authority knew in fact what was done and judged it to be in accord with instructions."

Knight said 40 to 44 raids were conducted in Cambodia in early 1970 and that he doctored reports to make it appear they took place in South Vietnam.

Knight said that after a raid he was instructed "to take all the paperwork and when daylight came to go out and burn it."

Family en route home from picnic in two vehicles

NORCO — A La Verne man and his 9-year-old son are dead and two others in the family are hospitalized as the result of a traffic crash here Saturday night.

The dead are Lester S. Suvegh, 34, of 2527 College Lane, La Verne, and his son, Leslie, 9.

Seriously injured but in improved condition this morning at Corona Community Hospital are Suvegh's wife, Sandra, 33, and the couple's other son, Shawn, 7.

According to the California Highway Patrol, the accident happened when the 1966-model car Suvegh was driving was struck from the back by the station wagon Mrs. Suvegh was operating on busy Hamner Avenue.

The highway patrol said the Suveghs were returning from a picnic Saturday night. Suvegh stopped to make a left turn at Limonite Avenue. His wife, unable to stop, rammed her station wagon into the back of her husband's car, causing the engine to explode.

Both Suvegh and his son suffered fatal burns. They were taken to the Grimes Funeral Home in Norco where routine autopsies are scheduled Tuesday.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

President spends restful night; chest pains dwindle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon spent a restful night and the chest pains caused by his bout with pneumonia are now down to a minimum, his doctor reported today.

Nixon awoke at 8 a. m. after a good night's sleep, Dr. Walter Tkach said. The President was given four chest therapy treatments Sunday.

The treatment resulted in "considerable improvement in his chest congestion and chest discomfort is now at a minimum," Tkach said in his morning medical bulletin.

The therapy did cause the President to experience some fatigue to the point where he was given mild pain killers for relief, Tkach said.

In general, Nixon had a good day on Sunday. He had a hearty dinner of seafood, served about 6:15 p. m.

The President retired after his last chest therapy about 9 p. m. and slept soundly throughout most of the night, Tkach said. This sharply contrasted with his first night at the hospital Thursday when he had a fitful four hours sleep.

The chest inhalation exercise was administered by Sue A. Williams, pulmonary nurse specialist assigned to the hospital's chest clinic.

The therapy lasts 15 to 20 minutes. Afterwards, the President sits in a chair beside his bed where he is instructed to breathe deeply and cough. This is intended to help clear out congestion.

Tkach said Sunday there is no question that Nixon has viral pneumonia, as opposed to more serious bactrial type, and said the President is at about the halfway point of his recovery.

The President is expected to remain at Bethesda Naval Hospital until late this week. Tkach would prefer he spent even more time there or at least go to one of his retreats — San Clemente, Calif., preferably —for several days more of recuperation.

2-car collision injures 9 persons

CHINO — Nine persons, including six members of a San Bernardino family, were injured in a two-car collision at Euclid Avenue and Riverside Drive Sunday night.

The drivers were Henry G. Flores, 19, of 529 E. Park St., Ontario, and Donald E. Robles, 43, of San Bernardino.

The injured were the two drivers, and five other members of the Robles family—Virginia, 42, Donelia, 19, Monica, 14, Donald Jr., 10, and Dominique, 9. Another passenger in the Robles car, Norma Romera, 13, of San Bernardino, and Flores' passenger, Samuel Flores, 16, of the same address, were also hurt.

All were treated at Chino General Hospital and released with the exception of Donelia Robles, who was transferred to Kaiser Hospital in good condition.

Telephone cables in San Dimas cut

Numerous Pomona Valley residents had their telephone service disrupted this morning when three major phone cables in San Dimas were intentionally cut.

General Telephone reported that one 900-pair trunk cable (which routes calls between two switching offices) and two local exchange cables at Eucla and Bonita avenues were severed between midnight and 2 a.m.

The cutting of the cables caused some delays for customers calling the La Puente, Covina and Baldwin Park areas. It also caused some inconveniences to certain customers with foreign exchange and extended area lines.

Officials of the utility are unsure as to why the cables were cut but reported that construction crews and a rapid resoration van will be on the scene of the cut until about 10 tonight when normal service is expected to be restored.

Woman killed in freeway accident

CHINO — A Los Angeles woman suffered fatal injuries when her car unaccountably skidded off the Pomona Freeway at the Mountain Avenue overpass at 4:20 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Maria Alice Bounds, 25, of 2529½ S. Orange Drive, died at San Antonio Community Hospital some three hours after the accident.

The victom's 2-year-old son, Asa Kirk was treated at the hospital for minor injuries.

Witnesses told California Highway Patrol officers that Mrs. Bounds was eastbound when her small foreign car suddenly skidded off the freeway, overturned on the embankment and came to rest on its wheels.

Nixon lawyer tells of Watergate ties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Herbert W. Kalmbach, President's Nixon's personal lawyer until May 1, said today he raised money for the support of the seven original Watergate defendants on the instructions of "The No. 2 and No. 3 men on the White House staff."

Kalmbach did not identify the men but it was clear his reference was to John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's two closest aides until they resigned April 30 as the Watergate scandal deepened.

Kalmbach made the statement in written testimony prepared for delivery at the Senate Watergate hearings. Kalmbach denied any personal wrongdoing.

"My actions in the period immediately following the break-in which involved the raising of funds to provide for the legal defense of the Watergate defendants and for the supptrt of their families were prompted in the belief that it was proper and necessary to discharge what I assumed to be a moral obligation that has arisen in some manner unknown to me by reason of earlier events," he said.

"The fact that I had been directed to undertake these actions by the No. 2 and No. 3 men on the White House staff made it absolutely incomprehensible to me that my actions in this regard could have been regarded in any way as improper or unethical."

Kalmbach was fired by Nixon on May 1 after it was disclosed that he had paid between $30,000 and $40,000 to Donald Segretti, the "dirty tricks" lawyer accused of attempting to sabotage Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's 1972 campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Kalmbach, 51, of Newport Beach, Calif., is believed to be a key witness in the Senate committee's attempt to determine who ordered the wiretapping of the Democratic headquarters of the Watergate and how much the President knew of the cover-up effort to conceal high White House involvement after the bugging plan went awry.

In his prepared statement, Kalmbach denied "any prior knowledge of the Watergate break-in or participation in the formulization of any planned conspiracy to cover-up that incident or acts of campaign sabotage or unethical activity."

He said he was testifying without seeking immunity from prosecution because he simply wants to tell the truth.

"It is not my purpose to testify for or against any individual," he said.

Kalmbach said he had three major responsibilities to Nixon:

—To handle personal legal matters for the President and his immediate family through Ehrlichman or John W. Dean III, official counsel to the President.

—To act as "trustee" between January 1969 and February 1972 for surplus funds left over from Nixon's 1968 campaign. Kalmbach said he disbursed these funds only on "the expressed direction of Haldeman or others with authority to tell him to."

—To solicit "early pledges of financial support for the President's 1972 campaign beginning in November. 1970." He said Maurice H. Stans, the President's chief re-election fund-raiser, directed his secretary to destroy Kalmbach's files on that activity, but those which survived have been turned over to the Senate committee.

Situation grave in Cambodia; draft possible

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — U.S. warplanes struck within seven miles of Phnom Penh today in an effort to help repel a growing Communist threat to the capital. With the military situation deteriorating, the government was reported considering its first draft.

Ground fighting mixed with heavy American bombing was reported throughout Cambodia today, with heavy government losses reported in recent days in fighting directly south of Phnom Penh. Fighting was reported on all sides of Phnom Penh and Gen. Un Kau, said "the situation is very grave."

Informed sources close to the ruling High Political Council said the government was seriously weighing institution of a military draft to bolster the army. Cambodia has no draft now and must depend on volunteers.

The High Command reported fighting in the northern, western and southern sections of the country.

Authoritative military sources said that in fighting along Route 2, about 12 miles from Phnom Penh, the crack 2nd Division lost eight killed and 75 wounded during the weekend.

American bombing continued in support of government forces as they tried to maintain the capital's defense perimeter which now lies within 12 miles of Phnom Penh. The bombing seven miles from the city was the closest raids since last April.

Sources close to the High Political Council said the proposed draft would require all men between the ages of 18 and 35 to enter the armed forces, with the exception of those in official government positions and those employed in essential private jobs.

Two burned in plane crash; arms cache discovered aboard

UPLAND — Two former prison inmates were listed in critical condition today at San Bernardino County Hospital with burns and other injuries sustained in the crash of a stolen twin-engine airplane loaded with a cache of firearms Sunday morning near Cable Airport.

The crash was reported about 7:13 a.m. when the Cessna Skymaster aircraft owned by Upland physician Samuel Kaufman went down about 100 yards west of the runway near Padua Avenue. Police said the plane had been stolen minutes before from a hanger at Cable Airport.

Critically injured in the crash were Rodney Lee Crane, 25, and Michael George Perry, 25, both of Norwalk. Crane, according to doctors at San Bernardino County Hospital, is suffering from severe burns over 65 per cent of his body, and Perry is suffering from burns and a broken back.

Police said they found the remains of two high caliber rifles, two shotguns, and three handguns, along with a quantity of ammunition inside the burned out aircraft.

Capt. Howard Seay of the Upland Police Department said this morning that it appeared the two men, both former prison inmates, apparently stole the aircraft. "We still don't know what the two men planned to do, but we found a large quantity of dehydrated food, survival gear and camping equipment inside the aircraft along with the weapons and ammunition."

Seay said that Perry, a licensed single engine aircraft pilot, spent time in prison for burglary and escape and was awaiting a hearing on parole violation. Crane has spent time in prison for assault with a deadly weapon and was free on probation. Crane was released from the California Institution for Men in Chino in 1972, Seay said.

Witnesses at Cable Airport said the twin-engine plane took off from the airport with only one engine operating. The non-operative rear engine was creating a drag on the aircraft.

Police said witnesses told them the plane managed to get airborne near the end of the runway, but began dropping. The aircraft struck a barbed wire fence, spun around and burned.

One of the first witnesses at the scene told police that he and a friend saw the plane go down and jumped in their car to go to the pilot's assistance. The witness said that they saw two men walking away from the burning airplane and asked them if they could help. The witness said the two men told them they didn't want an ambulance, only wanted a ride.

Police said the two men continued walking south to Foothill Boulevard and flagged down a Forestry Service employe who drove them to the San Dimas Forest Service substation. From there forestry service officers called for an ambulance and the police. The two men were taken to the county hospital in San Bernardino, both lapsing into unconsciousness en route.

Police were unable to talk to the two men due to their injuries.

Upland firemen responding to the scene of the crash reported that the plane was engulfed in flames and that ammunition was "cooking off" or firing from the heat. Before the fire could be contained the plane was destroyed.

Only the hulk of the two engines and the aircraft's twin tail section remained.

Rare coins worth $35,000 stolen

UPLAND — Upland police this morning were searching for two robbers who broke into a home at 1693 N. Euclid Ave. Sunday night, tied up the owner and stole a rare antique coin collection valued at $35,000 and $500 in cash.

Police said the robbery was reported about 4:42 by George TeVelde. TeVelde told police that the robbers entered his home, armed with pistols, and ordered him to open his safe that contained the rare coin collection and $500 in cash. The robbers took the coins and tied TeVelde up. TeVelde managed to free himself about four hours later and called police.

Police said one of the robbers was about 6 feet, 180 to 185 pounds, wearing a blue knit ski cap with holes for the eyes nose and mouth. The robber was wearing a blue striped short sleeved shirt and faded blue pants.

TeVelde told police that he heard the second robber, but never saw him. Police believed both men to be Caucasians.

HEY! WHAT'S HOPPENING?

This young man has a hoppin' big problem trying to nab his elusive frog after it registered its jump in the annual Yutan Jumpin' Frog Rodeo, held in Yutan, Nebraska, on Sunday. A field of some 300 frogs competed before an estimated 500 spectators. Frogs came to Nebraska from six different states.

Phase IV to serve as guide, not freeze

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Within a matter of days, American consumers and businessmen will be governed by a new set of economic rules: Phase IV of President Nixon's economic game-plan.

Barring some unexpected complication, such as a worsening of the Presidents illness, the latest attempt to stabilize the nation's explosive economy will be announced sometime this week.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon approved some parts of the program from his hospital bed Saturday and will make more decisions today.

The actual announcement probably will be made by Nixon's top economic advisers: Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, Cost of Living Council (COLC) Director John T. Dunlop and Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

The President's action will come on the heels of a price freeze that has been in effect since June 13.

The freeze barred firms from hiking prices above the level they were charging on June 13, no matter how much their costs have increased in the meantime. In Phase IV, however, prices will be allowed to rise by an amount yet undetermined.

Companies might be allowed to pass through their cost increases, or a fraction of that amount, in the form of higher prices. Or the administration could set a flat guideline, such as the 2.5 per cent that existed during 1972 under Phase II.

Wages, not covered under the current freeze, also will be restricted during Phase IV, probably to the 6.2 per cent wage and fringe benefit annual increase allowed during Phase II.

The exact shape of Phase IV is still a mystery. But Nixon indicated its principal goals and framework when he announced the price freeze.

The new program will be generally tougher than Phase III, which relied on corporate good will to keep price increases within a set of voluntary guidelines. Nixon said the food and oil industry will be singled out for special treatment since the cost of groceries and gasoline has provided most of the push in the latest round of inflation.

Big companies will be required to clear price increases in advance with the COLC. And stabilization officials have indicated they will be strict on allowing firms to boost prices to reflect higher costs.

One of the biggest problems for the Nixon economic strategists is whether to make the rules simple or complex.

Arnold R. Weber, the first COLC director, has argued that a set of easy-to-understand rules, highly publicized, is the best way to win popular support for the controls. Public opinion polls, which show inflation as the No. 1 worry of the American consumer, also indicate that widespread backing for controls is a commodity that is sadly lacking.

But many administration officials, especially Dunlop, plus organized labor, are dead set against a single set of price and pay standards. Dunlop argues that guidelines inhibit collective bargaining and encourages the press to grade every contract "pass" or "fail" depending on whether it meets the wage standard, while ignoring other important issues.

The duration of Phase IV is another unanswered question.

There have been recent hints that the new wage-price controls won't last long.

The 10-member Labor Management Advisory Committee, an outside group that carries great weight in the administration, said last week that "all wage and price controls should be eliminated as soon as possible this year..."

And Shultz, nixon's chief economic adviser, is a longtime foe of controls.

Plan to develop Russ resources

Japan, U.S. near pact in Siberian oil venture

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan and the United States appeared close to an agreement today to work together on investment in developing the oil and natural gas resources of Soviet Siberia.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers gave his blessing to the idea in a speech at the ninth meeting of the U.S.-japan Joint Economic Committee today.

Discussing measures to be taken by oil importing nations, Rogers listed "the expansion of supply through joint projects between Japanese and American firms aimed at the development of new energy resources in Siberia and elsewhere."

"While the United States cannot direct the investment decisions of our private firms," Rogers said, "we stand ready to encourage them to consider the possibility of common ventures with Japanese firms."

The Soviet Union for almost a decade has been seeking a loan of $1 billion from Japan for construction of a 4,850-mile pipeline from the Tyumen oil fields in the Urals to Nakhodka harbor on the Siberian Pacific Coast.

Under the Soviet proposal, Japan would take its repayment in crude oil starting in about 1980, after the pipeline is completed. Serious negotiations between the two countries have been under way since early 1972.

Japanese government sources said today that Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka has decided that the project would be too much for Japan to handle alone. Tanaka, who is scheduled to visit Moscow in October, will present the idea of joint Japanese-American venture to the Soviet government.

Informed Japanese government sources told UPI that behind Tanaka's decision lies a fear that the Soviet Union would not hesitate to use the oil deal for diplomatic bullying of Japan.

Going it alone, the Japanese would have to sink their $1 billion in a pipeline whose cutoff values were in Soviet hands. There was a fear in the Japanese government that Moscow might not hesitate to threaten Japan with an oil cutoff, but would hesitate to take such a step against the United States.

For that reason the Japanese have concluded that if they go into the Siberian oil venture, they want America as a partner.

Countdown rolling smoothly toward record skylab trip

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The countdown rolled along smoothly today toward the July 28 launch of three more Skylab space explorers who plan to man the orbiting station for a record 56 days.

The count was kicked off on schedule at 11 p.m. EDT Sunday, 12 days before astronauts Alan L. Bean, Jack R. Lousma and Owen K. Garriott plan to ride an Apollo command module up to the lab for another scientific research journey.

The first hurdle in the countdown is a practice launch at 7:08 a.m. EDT Friday. The countdown clock will then be turned back to T-47 hours and started again two days before the real launch of the space crew by a Saturn 1B rocket.

Launch officials will spend most of today running tests of the command module and rocket systems to make sure they will function properly on launch day.

The Skylab 2 countdown is the first time the dress rehearsal has been combined with a real launch.

Officials said they adopted the new countdown schedule because of the proven reliability of the Saturn launchers, the rockets that almost flawlessly boosted men toward the moon. The astronauts won't take part in the dress rehearsal for the first time, too, because of the Saturn 1B's good record.

Garriott, a civilian, is the first physicist-astronaut and his expertise is expected to add knowledge about the sun and about man coping with weightless space for long periods.

The astronauts will also be continuing research begun in the 28-day Skylab manned mission about how the body reacts to prolonged space voyages, and what can be learned about the earth's natural resources from orbit.

Bean, Garriott and Lousma passed their next-to-last major medical examinations last week, and are continuing training in semiquarantine, to keep them from getting sick, at the Johnson Space Center in Houston.

Two brothers beaten severely; suspect booked

POMONA — Two Pomona brothers were beaten severely late Sunday night, apparently the result of a fight the younger brother was involved in the night before.

Most seriously injured was Robert Zamore, 19, who had injuries to his head and back. He was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and trasferred to County-USC Medical Center. His condition today was termed serious.

Less seriously hurt was 17-year-old Joe Alfred Zamore. He had head and upper torso injuries and was released after treatment at the local hospital.

The trouble was in the 900 block of W. Mission Boulevard. Police arriving there said they saw several young men flee and found the older Zamore brother sitting on a curb, covered with blood. The other brother was nearby, also bloody. The area was littered with broken bottles, pieces of window glass apparently used as weapons, and pieces of pottery, also used as weapons. Officers said the brothers had been cut and hit on the head with blunt objects.

Singer held in slaying of husband, 2 children

MIAMI (UPI) — Detectives said they would seek three murder warrants today against opera singer Salwa Merrige-Abrams on charges of killing her ex-husband and two children.

Mrs. Merrige-Abrams took a handfull of pills after the Saturday murders, police said, and was rushed to the hospital in serious condition. Doctors said her condition was "stable" Sunday.

The slayings were discovered Saturday afternoon just one day after Mrs. Merrige-Abrams ended 19 years of marriage by picking up the final circuit court papers.

Miss Phyllis Arick, a singer and Mrs. Merrige-Abrams' closest friend, said she visited the coprano's home Friday just after the divorce papers were signed and "everything seemed fine."

But Miss Arick said, "She seemed upset, sure, but anybody who goes through anything like that would be upset. I just don't understand it, I really don't."

A sheriff's deputy, after receiving a call from a friend who said Mrs. Merrige-Abrams "sounded strange" on the phone., found the performer unconscious on the dining room floor. A note was left, but police would not reveal its contents.

Found shot to death in his bedroom was Jack Abrams, 14. Mrs. Abrams' husband, airline pilot James Abrams, 45, was found in another room. Their 10-year-old daughter Melisa Ann Abrams was found dead on the living room floor.

The couple had been separated for about a year, with Abrams stopping by Saturday to take the children on an outing.

Mrs. Merrige-Abrams was featured with many national companies and performed in the South Floriad area for almost 10 years. She sang mainly with the Miami Beach Symphany, the Miami Opera Guild, and the Civic Opera of the Palm Beaches.

She gave up numerous opportunities for an international career.

Bernard Breeskin, conductor of the Miami Beach Symphony, called her "one of the best mezzo sopranos in the country.

"I tried to encourage her to join larger opera companies, but she wanted to stay down here and raise her family."

Getty prepares to pay ransom for grandson

ROME (UPI) — Oil billionaire J. Paul Getty was reported ready today to pay ransom for the return of his namesake hippie grandson, missing since last week and the object of a "serious" police search.

"He is very worried about this matter and showed the greatest interest in the search," said the youth's mother, Mrs. Gail Getty, who said she spoke with Getty by telephone.

The missing youth, J. Paul Getty III, 17, was reported missing last week by his mother.

Mrs. Getty, who is divorced from the youth's father, J. Paul Getty Jr., said she received a telephone call last Thursday saying her son had been kidnaped and telling her to get money together for a ransom.

Police said young Getty was seen talking with three unidentified youths in Piazza Navona, a favorite meeting place for Roman hippies, just before he disappeared early Tuesday.

The young freckled-faced Getty neither slept nor ate regularly at his mother's home, but stayed with friends who included artists, hippies and young foreign actresses.

Martine and Jutta Zacher, 24year-old German twins in whose apartment Getty was staying at the time of his disappearance, told police they noticed three "suspicious-looking" men who seemed to be following the youth in a dark car.

U.S. delegates call tour of China 'tremendous'

SHANGHAI, China (UPI) — The largest American congressional delegation ever to visit China left for home today after a two-week tour that took them to six Chinese cities.

Each of the eight congressmen said the trip was highly successful and should help speed up development of Sino-American relations.

The group left shortly after 10 a.m. local time aboard a special U.S. Air Force jet, en route to Seattle with a refueling stop scheduled in Yokota Air Force Base in Japan.

"There can be no doubt that this trip has been a tremendous success," said Sen. Warren E. Magnuson, D-Wash., leader of the delegation of four senators and four representatives.

"You will see that it will bear fruit in the not too distant future. I am sure of that," Magnuson said. "We are determined that our relations with the People's Republic of China should be improved and expanded as rapidly as possible.

"I believe that most of us in Congress feel this way, not only the members on this trip but those who have come before us and those who are anxious to follow."

Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Relations Committee and deputy leader of the delegation, agreed with Magnuson.

"I think this trip has just been tremendous," Morgan said. "It has helped give us a feel of China that is going to be very important in the future as we deal with issues that involve the interests of China and the United Sates."

The group also included Sens. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., and Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., and Reps. John J. McFall, D-Calif., William S. Mailliard, R-Calif., and Jerry L. Pettis, R-Calif.

The delegation and the crew of the plane returning them to the United states were guests at a banquet on the eve of their departure, hosted by Wang Yiping, vice chairman of the Shanghai Revolutionary Committee.

In a toast to the group, Wang expressed hope that the visit to China would be "conducive to improvement of Sino-American relations and to mutual understanding between the peoples of China and the United States."

Responding to the toast, Magnuson said, "I think I speak for all of us when I say we are going away with deep feelings of respect nad admi- in a small way. I don't know how your people and for what you are trying to do for your country, particularly in your reconstruction efforts. And I underline the word respect.

"We talk about improving relations often but I think we truly have done so in a small way. I don't know how you people feel about it but I want you to know that we feel we have added a chapter to China - United States relations. I think you all will agree with me."

The delegation spent the last day in China—Sunday—visiting an industrial exhibition and children's palace in the morning and shopping in the afternoon.

Police still hunt gunman

GLENDORA — Police are still trying to find a gunman believed wounded in an exchange of shots with officers following a $6,000 market robbery here Thursday night.

The robbery, at the Mayflower Market, 940 S. Grand Ave., was staged by two men shortly after closing time. One fired at a Glendora officer responding to a silent alarm. More shots were fired as police pursued the pair in a high-speed chase which ended when the getaway car was abandoned. It was at that point that one suspect was arrested and the robber being sought was believed to have been wounded by a shotgun blast.

Police recovered about $1,000 which was abandoned during the chase. Still missing was the balance, about $5,000.

W. Covina man shot in stomach; 3 held

WEST COVINA — A 24-year-old man was wounded critically early today when he was shot in the abdomen at 650 E. Alwood St., police reported.

The victim, Steven Holder, 625 Matchwood Place, Azusa, was admitted to the intensive care unit at Covina Inter-Community Hospital.

Police this morning said details of the shooting were lacking but reported that three persons were arrested in connection with the incident. They were booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder. The shooting occurred shortly after 1 a.m.

The sheriff's department was used to rush six pints of uncommon-type blood to the Covina hospital from two other hospitals to aid in Holder's treatment.

A sheriff's helicopter picked up four pints at the UCLA Medical Center and flew it to Covina. And a radio car from the Altadena station picked up two pints at Huntington Memorial Hospital, Pasadena, and took it to the interchange of the 605 and 210 freeways where a car from the Industry station received it and transported it the rest of the way. The blood, type O-negative, was described as uncommon but not rare.

Stolen cups for 40 years

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It was a heavy package of paper cups. Heavy on the conscience at least.

L.C. Jones, director of city street maintenance, received a check for $1 recently, with a letter from a former employe, saying it was to pay "for the cups. They have been on my conscience. I want to be clear before God."

It turned out, Jones said, that the man had taken a package of paper cups from a city office more than 40 years ago. He would not disclose the employe's name.

Fireman pact going to City Council

POMONA — A tentative agreement on salary increases and other benefits reached between the 124-member Pomona Fireman's Association and the city's chief negotiator, Sidney Simms, will be submitted to the City Council for approval tonight.

The firemen's group will become the second city association to settle on salary negotiation this year.

The council earlier approved an agreement with the largest of the three municipal worker associations, the Pomona City Employes' Association. No agreement has yet been reached with the third, the Pomona Police Officers' Relief Association.

Vernon Johnson, president of the firemen's association, said a memorandum of understanding was signed Friday following a general membership meeting. The association was represented by attorney Richard C. Mallery.

Johnson said the tentative agreement calls for a 5 per cent cost-of-living increase effective tonight, a family dental plan yet to be spelled out and other minor benefits.

Park bond election plans come to head

LA VERNE — The City Council is expected to throw the switch tonight that will start the machine rolling toward a $1 million parks and recreation bond issue which will culminate in a special election next Oct. 16.

The size of the bond issue has tentatively been set at $972,000, but that may be changed tonight, depending on whether the council agrees to buy 160 acres of open space as urged by the Commission on Environmental Quality as part of the package.

Such a combination is opposed by the Parks and Recreation Commission which contends that the joint package would raise the size of the bond issue too high.

The council must adopt a working schedule toward the bond election by tonight to make sure it does not run out of time.

Tonight's agenda also calls for two resolutions in connection with the proposed bond issue: one declares the need for enlarging and improving three existing parks—Kuns, Pelota and Las Flores— and the other asks for the services of the county registrar of voters in connection with the special election.

In an unrelated matter, the council has set a public hearing for 8 p.m. to hear a request from McDay Estates for a zone change from commercial to multiple residential so that a mobile home park can be constructed on the south side of Foothill Boulevard between Moreno and Damien avenues.

3 guilty in CIM stabbing

ONTARIO — A West Valley Superior Court jury has found three California Institution for Men inmates guilty of stabbing two fellow inmates during a fight at CIM's Southern Reception-Guidance Center Dec. 15, 1972.

The jury delivering its verdict after a two week trial found inmates Augustine Elias, Joseph Henry Ortiz, and Frank Joseph Ruiz, guilty of assault with a deadly weapon on two brothers, Santos and Ernest Aranda.

Superior Court Judge Henry M. Busch set sentencing for the three inmates in the middle of August.

Contract negotiations with 'Big 3'

Auto unions begin talks

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROI T (UPI) — Auto contract negotiations beginning today between the United Auto Workers and the "Big Three" auto companies cover more than 700,000 auto workers and indirectly affect one in every six American workers.

After the largely ceremonial handshaking at General Motors today, Ford Tuesday and Chrysler Wednesday, bargainers for the union and auto companies will try to hammer out an agreement before current three-year pacts expire at 11:59 p.m., Sept. 14.

No Strike Seen

The continuing government control on wages and prices has eliminated much of the strike atomosphere that surrounded contract talks in 1970. Those did not end until after the union had closed GM with a crippling 67-day strike.

Coming into today's talks, UAW President Leonard Woodcock has said there is no need for a strike this year. Auto industry negotiators agree, but admit there could be one if the union remains as adamant in the talks as it has been in public on one key non-economic issue—voluntary overtime.

Woodcock has warned of a possible walkout over thati ssue, saying negotiators should not take an "over - our - dead body" stand on voluntary overtime.

Guide to Continue

Negotiators are almost certain Phase III wage guidelines calling for wage and fringe benefit increases not to exceed 6.2 per cent will be continued. That guideline has been flexible with most settlements this year in the 6-to-7 per cent range.

The key issues outline in six months of saber rattling on both sides include:

—Voluntary overtime. The union wants each worker to have the right to refuse to work overtime.

—Improvement in the "30-and-out" retirement program with the pension increasing to $650 per month with no penalty for retirement before age 56.

—Company-paid dental care.

—Improvement in the cost-of living clause to more accurately reflect price rises.

—Strengthened layoff benefits.

—In-plant health and safety programs jointly administered by the union and companies.

38 states

Should there be a repeat of 1967 negotiations, when Ford was closed for 66 days, or 1970 talks which ended only after the crippling GM strike, nearly every community in the country would be affected by the strike.

The industry is spread over 35 states — a total of 532 facilities located in 243 cities. One of every four retail sales dollars is for an automotive related purchase.

A slowdown or strike in the auto industry may mean a layoff for rubber workers in Akron, a reduction in the work force of steel mills in Pittsburgh and reduced markets for the fabric mills of the Carolinas.

It can mean economic disaster for cities with major auto plants or the hundreds of small towns whose main industries center in supplying vehicle makers with components.

The 1974 Mustang II will contain parts supplied by some 500 firms stretching from New Hampshire to California. Any slowdown in Ford production could seriously affect their economic well-being.

First detonation—28 years ago

Atom bomb test site quiet, calm

TRINITY SITE, N.M. (UPI) — The 28th anniversary of the detonation of the first atomic bomb—an event which scientists said would "change the whole course of human history" — passes almost unnoticed today.

Trinity Site, located deep in the southern New Mexico desert near Alamogordo, holds little evidence of the July 16, 1945, event that sent the world into the nuclear age.

Bunkers and buildings built for the test of the atomic bomb have crumbled into the desert. Ground Zero is now only a shallow depression in the desert floor.

Tiny pieces of "tinitite," sand melted into a greenish-colored glass by the explosion's heat, still can be found around the area.

Surrounding a stone monument at the point the bomb impacted is a fence that holds a weathered sign reading simply: "Trinity Site."

On the monument is a plaque that reads: —

"Trinity Site, where the world's first nuclear device was exploded on July 16, 1945."

The bomb was dropped from a 100-foot steel tower at 5:30 a.m. and, at the moment of impact, a light brighter than the midday sun covered the surrounding mountains.

Then came the shock wave that rippled the earth 30 miles away. It was followed by a deafening roar. The blast was seen hundreds of miles away.

Three weeks later, on Aug. 6, the second atom bomb was dropped on Hiroshima. Three days after that the third fell on Nagasaki.

Man's destiny had been set on a new course.

Dr. John Manley recalled the project. "We knew what we were working on," he said. "We knew the bomb was going to change the whole course of human history.

"The intensity of the flash was enormous. It is something you don't forget."

Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, who headed the project and died in 1967, said that at the moment of detonation he remembered an ancient Hindu quotation: "I am become death, the destroyer of worlds."

Test Director Kenneth Bainbridge told Oppenheimer: "Now we're all sons of bitches."

Tennis court backboards to be studied

CLAREMONT — Tennis court backboards at Cahuilla Park and a master plan proposal by Lampman and Associates for Sycamore Canyon Higginbotham Park will be considered by the Parks and Recreation Commission at the City Council chambers tonight at 7:30.

City Recreation Supt. Ron Hagan reported that the subject of whether to provide backboards at the new courts at Cahuilla Park has been "somewhat controversial" among tennis players.

Hagan said that the Claremont High School physical education department teachers would like to have the backboards installed as teaching aids, but city instructors feel the backboards might do more harm than good.

Hagan has recommended against the backboards, and suggested that the school district be contacted as to possible development of combination tennis backboards and handball courts directly south of the high school courts.

Warren Turner and Dick Malcolm of Lampman and Associates will present a master plan proposal for Sycamore Canyon Higginbotham Park.

The commission also will receive a request for city funds from Nature Nearby to pay a man to clear the brush and improve the trail in Sycamore Canyon.

OLD PAL — Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Van Brunt not only named their Volkswagen Klaus, but after it had traveled 175,000 miles, rather than scrap it, they had it made into a 700-pound coffee table. They bought the car for $375 in 1968 and the vehicle gave them dependable service until it was stolen and stripped of its engine. They had the auto compressed and gave it a place of honor in their living room.

Fingerprints bring criminals to justice

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Detective story writers attention: Fingerprint experts speculate that if anyone can commit the perfect crime, it's likely to be a pineapple cannery worker with a little larceny in his heart.

It's a fact that pineapple acids have a strange way of grinding down the fingertips, thus eliminating those messy clues at the scene of the crime.

And the fictional criminal naturally goes with shoes and gloves, because nowadays the science of dactylography — make a strong case in court with prints from the sole of a foot or the palm of a hand.

Take a close look at your hand for the reason why.

Veteran police fingerprint expert Earl W. Howe says the distinctive pattern of arches, loops and whorls at the tip of each of our fingers marks each person as an individual, giving him an "infallible" means of identification.

"A person's age, weight and height may change, and he may undergo illness or an accident," says Howe, "But his fingerprints never change, and they can't be successfully altered," Not permanently, that is.

Professional typists, and men who work around strong acids, abrasives or pottery wheels do find their fingers smoothing down, but their mysteriously curved prints never disappear forever.

That goes for pineapple packers, too.

Many a notorious fugitive has paid dearly in pain and money for crude surgical attempts to alter his prints, and all to no avail. Authorities easily caught up with one criminal who paid a fortune to have his fingers grafted to his chest, only to find his true prints emerged when the fingers were freed.

Gangster John Dillinger underwent surgery to alter his prints while on the run in 1934. Yet after he was killed by federal agents they found his new prints compared in 300 ways with the old prints.

And only a dozen prints are necessary to establish positive criminal identification.

Howe says the Los Angeles police Department has 1.5 million sets of fingerprints on file (the FBI boasts more than 196 million) and the police expert says the odds of finding two sets exactly alike are "about one in a billion trillion."

Howe says in 37 years of police investigations he's not seen one duplication.

Twelve centuries of human history have shown that thumbprints and fingerprints have been used to identify clay seals in China and various preChristian and Palestinian art objects. It wasn't until the late 19th Century that men began toying with the notion of using the "latent print" as a means of criminal identification.

Latent prints, impressions left by body oils and perspiration on any surface, are brought up ... or "lifted" as they say in the world of Mickey Spillane ... by adhesive tape.

Howe, who's been teaching dactyloscopy for 20 of his 59 years, says the fingerprint science needs a better classification system —using one, three or five fingers —and "we've got to devise a practical means of coding fingerprints for computer storage and retrieval."

Societies long ago dealt with criminals in a barbarous fashion, identifying them with tattoos or by brading them or gouging their eye. By 1870 the French had established an enormous archive of criminal photographs they delighted in calling their "rogue's gallery."

But crime marches on, and quickly the encyclopedia of criminal "mugshots" was outmoded. It fell to a Scottish missionary to suggest that fingerprints might radically change the system of catching thieves.

The idea caught on slowly and by 1903 New York had the country's first practical system of fingerprints.

In California stores are now introducing a new "touch-and-go" system of fingerprinting to cut down on the number of bogus checks. The device permanently records the customers' print on the flip side of his check.

Merchants say the system has already cut fraud and forgery losses more than 30 per cent.

Overcrowding in the garage

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Take a dozen or two of cardboard boxes stuffed with a variety of items, several crates of magazines and old books, a small mountain of patio furniture and camping equipment, some old trunks, boxes of bottles—and what do you have?

You have "the other side" of your two-car garage.

Many American families today have two automobiles—almost a necessity. One is for the wife to get to the hairdresser, the other is for the teen-age son to get to the hairdresser. (Dad takes the bus to work.) But the guy that invented that stupid phrase, "two-car garage," must have been a bachelor living on the seventh floor of a Newport condominium. There is no such thing as a two-car garage.

Maybe once, just once, early in your occupancy of the new split-level home, you put your two cars in your two-car garage, side by side, snug and neat, and gazed at them smugly. Then Junior came panting home from school, slid his bike between the cars, scraping each of them rather badly, and you understood that phrase "conspicuous consumption" from your college course in Economics I. So you drove your sedan out and parked it in the driveway, figuring you could always use the space in that "empty" half of the garage.

Before you got out of the car, that half was crammed to the joists with boxes, water skis, motorscooters, empty trunks, cartons of Christmas decorations, cages of long forgotten rabbits and guinea pigs, science projects of long forgotten children, lawn chair, a potter's wheel and a few oddments of broken furniture. Your garage looks like a swap meet.

Carefully avoiding the extra beds and mattresses, the ant farm and the surf board, you may be able to set up your own little workbench, with vise, saw, drill, and a few tools neatly hung on the wall. Then forget it. Before you have reached for the first piece of plywood, your workshop has vanished under a landslide of motorcycle parts, discarded sleeping bags, a doll house, a canary bird cage, a broken fish acquarium and a deflated football.

What your two-car garage really is, is a one-car garage with the county dump attached. People with only a one-car garage to start with often have to give up the car and walk to work.

Furthermore, the fallout in a suburban home continues to increase. Keep one car in the "empty" side at all times, or the effluent of middle America will soon engulf it in a creeping tide of skateboards and scuba equipment, broken record players and garden tools, a mulch of old magazines and newspapers.

A week after moving into his new home, the average Dagwood Bumpstead will have trouble finding a place to park, whether he has a two-or four-or eight-car garage.

Ask Dr. Brothers

She's still stealing

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Although on the surface I think I probably look to most people like a normal teenager, for the last two years I've been living a dangerous life. Maybe what I'm doing is normal, but whether it is or not, I know eventually, if I continue, I could get in trouble. I have this problem of shoplifting and it's kind of like a disease with me. I don't understand it but I can't seem to stop. Sometimes, it's like a game where I can win anytime I want.

In my first year of high school, a lot of the kids would pick things up just for fun, but then most of them stopped. But I went right on, doing it not with a group, but when I was all by myself. My parents would flip if I ever got caught and every time I liberate something, I get really scared inside. I'm the only girl in a family with five brothers and I think about how everyone's so worried about them getting into trouble when I'm the only one who's apt to go to jail. This is a spooky feeling.—J.T.

Dear J.T.: What you are doing is extremely serious and cannot be treated lightly.

First of all, you are not "liberating," you are stealing. The real question is why? You are not stealing because you have a great desire to possess what you steal, you are stealing becuase the act itself gives you pleasure and a sense of excitement, even achievement. You feel as if you were playing a game where you could always win. Are there any legitimate games that you can win? Is there some legitimate way you can experience a sense of success and achievment?

Most people who steal, even though they may have no particular need or desire for the object they steal, are frustrated and angry. They want to rebel and express their anger but instead they never get to the root of it; they take out their anger on someone, the store owner, who has nothing at all to do with the real source of their anger. Sometimes, people who steal compulsively are rebelling against their parents, against all authority or symbols of authority, and sometimes they are rebelling against their sex.

Studies reveal that women are much more apt to hoplift than men and some psychiatrists believe this is a kind of rebellion against not being born male. They wish to steal the power, the privilege, the adventure, the freedom and all of the things that go with being male in our society. Their stealing is like getting back at the world for robbing them of being born male. This is almost always unconscious and the woman who steals rarely has any clue that she is angry because she is a female. If she did, she would probably find constructive outlets for her anger.

Most people who steal do so as an act of hostility toward society and to satsify sexual and aggressive impulses that find no other outlet, according to Dr. Ralph Banay, former director of the psychiatric clinic at California's San Quentin prison.

Stealing is a symptom of your problems and it is a dangerous and nonproductive way of acting them out. It is important to see a professional who is capable of helping you talk out your problems so that you can attack them directly.

While you are getting professional guidance, it might be helpful for you to enter into activities or games where you can win and achieve some real gratification. It is important to find ways to release some of your aggression, for stealing is, for you, an aggressive pleasure. There is also the appeal of the forbidden. Those who cannot enjoy unless they are doing something forbidden are immature. It is childish to want something for nothing.

The only way you will be able to mature is to face your problems, for stealing is an outgrowth of them.

Retired Chino warden honored at gathering

More than 100 friends, relatives and state employes gathered at Griswold's Inn in Claremont recently to honor Henry J. Bartol after his retirement from the position of Fish and Game Warden with the State of California.

Mr. Bartol has ended a career which began in 1939 in the Marine Patrol. He was transferred from the patrol to the Land Patrol and worked at the Yountville Game Farm and then the San Joaquin River. He was then drafted into World War II. After leaving the armed service, Mr. Bartol was stationed at the Chino Game Farm, then transferred to the main office in Los Angeles. After another transfer to Little Lake, Mr. Bartol was transferred back to the Chino Area.

As a retirement gift, Mr. Bartol received a complete set of fishing equipment and will spend much time fishing and continuing his hobby of raising exotic birds.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartol have two sons, Robert J. and Richard Joseph. The couple plans to continue to reside in the Chino area.

Hathaway-Papac rites performed in Idaho

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Rexburg, Idaho, was the setting for the marriage of Miss Gail Jean Papac and Maurice Hathaway.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Papac of Pomona and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hathaway of Rexburg recited their vows before Bishop Marion Stoddard, uncle of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon organza trimmed with bands of reembroidered lace. The gown was accented with Queen Anne sleeves and a chapel-length train. Her elbow-length veil was caught to a headpiece of venise lace, organza bow petals and pearlized bead loops.

She carried a bouquet of baby yellow roses, tiny yellow and white mums and lime green ribbons.

Miss Pattie Curran of San Francisco, college roommate of the bride, was her only attendant.

Lynn Wolf of Rexburg was best man.

Attending the wedding and reception at the church were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Gladys Beck, and her aunt, Mrs. Henrietta Golenor, both of Pomona.

The couple was feted later at a reception at the home of the groom's parents. Guests included the groom's parents, his sister, Miss Shaunna Hathaway, and her fiance, Bob Miles of Mesa, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway will reside in Jackson, Wyo., after a tour of the western states.

Beads show history

Pick up a bead, a small thing — seemingly insignificant. Hold it to the light. Is it opaque or does the light filter through? Is it carved, enameled, woven or a piece of pierced stone?

Beads have been important in the formation of man's culture since the beginning of recorded history.

Although beads today are used primarily for decorative and ornamental purposes, the earliest beads probably were contrived from small fossils and worn as amulets. In Egypt the word for bead was "Shasha." The syllable "sha" was the Egyptian word for "luck."

The English word "bead" is derived from the Anglo-Saxon "bed" which means prayer. Beads have had religious significance for centuries. In Scotland, pensioners whose duty it was to pray for their benefactors were known as beadsmen.

Almost everyone knows that the island of Manhattan was purchased with beads.

As an object of commerce beads preceded the exchange of coins for goods and since the Middle Ages beads have been manufactured in Europe for sale or barter.

Some specimens which might be included in a collection are beads made from a snake's spine, the rare black coral, cornelian, onyx, ivory, amber, cypress, pewter, enameled metals, jade, rose quartz, jasper shells, sandlewood, seeds, glass.

There are many ways in which a collection can be assembled. Beads can be collected for historical significance, artistic merit, religious interest, or as geological specimens.

The collector of beads will find very little reference material on the subject. Instead, research will have to be done on a varity of subjects and enthusiasts will delve into the methods of manufacture, study the evolution of jewelry styles, probe the regions of commerce, history and religion. A bead collection can be enriching.

Patients don't follow doctor's rules

Somewhere between 20 and 52 per cent of patients fail to follow the doctor's advice.

Patients also forget one-third of what they are told, Philip Ley, a clinical lecturer in psychology at the University of Liverpool, who made a study of the average person's memory, reported recently.

They remember the diagnosis, but forget or ignore most of the instructions about what they do, Ley found. Neither age or intellectual level has anything to do with it, but the more medical knowledge the patient has, the more he remembers, perhaps because he had understood better what the doctor had said.

Bronson's in clover now, but he hasn't forgotten

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Save the lights " an assistant director hollered, and out of the gloom Charles Bronson emerged to slide into a chair in the dingy topless-bottomless joint.

Bronson's tough, furrowed Slavic features gave him the appearance of a man who might really frequent the El Rancho Club in the decaying Los Angeles neighborhood. His hooded eyes were humorless, his demeanor testy.

But far from it. Bronson lives in a Bel Air mansion and may be the world's biggest boxoffice attraction.

He was on location for his new movie, "The Stone Killer," from which he will earn more than a million dollars. But Charlie remembers his coal miner days in Scooptown, Pa., when he was 16 years old earning $1 a week for 80 hours work.

"I don't dwell on the past," he said in a near monotone. "But I haven't forgotten either. And I don't remind my kids about how rough the world can be. They wouldn't understand."

Bronson is a taciturn man. He grants few interviews and is uncomfortable when he does. The menacing figures he portrays on the screen carry over away from the camera, although he is a gentle man with a soft voice. He wears no makeup when working and doesn't socialize with costars.

He doesn't see his own pictures, not from any sense of humility. They make him ill at ease.

A one-time boxer, Charlie's powerful hands now hold a paint brush in his spare time. He has sold his paintings for as much as $3,000 per canvas.

Bronson's popularity as a movie star in the United States lagged behind his phenomenal acceptance by world audiences. His first big success, "Adieu L'Ami," earned $3 million in France alone.

"I was a hit in Europe, but for some reason Paramount never released the film in this country," he said without apparent rancor.

"Don't ask me why. There are other pictures that did well in Europe. Very successful. But they haven't been seen over here yet. Now my movies are beginning to make an impression in America."

Only a few blocks away, a theater marquee displayed "The Valachi Papers," with Bronson's name above the title.

Another of Bronson's films, "The Mechanic," has been doing runaway business in this country.

And while Charlie does not dwell on the future, neither can he forget the days when he'd have worked the year around for next to nothing. Acting was a lark compared to the mines.

"I never complain about the work now," he said, "just the time. There's a difference. I took two months off this year, the longest time I've been away from movies in six years.

"Only a dozen years ago I'd have been happy to do any picture. Now I get attractive offers, so I work."

Bronson s face did not change expression when the director called for another take. He moved away with easy grace, alone among other members of the cast and crew. Charlie Bronson is a breed apart.

Bit Parts: David Hartman, longtime television favorite, makes his movie debut in "Island at the Top of the World" for Walt Disney Productions ... David Janssen has been cast to star in "Fast Freight," an ABC television movie ... "The Hireling," starring Robert Shaw and Sarah Miles, was acquired by Columbia for release in the United States ...

Paintings of Spain hang at Pomona First Federal

POMONA — An exhibition of watercolors by A. B. "Bud" Fages of Pomona depicting scenes of Spain is now on view in the Lobby Gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 339 N. Garey Ave.

The watercolors were completed during a recent trip taken by Mr. and Mrs. Fages to visit relatives and trace their Spanish heritage. Fages also brought back many sketches which he will work into color. On exhibit, in addition, are Fages' lanscapes of Taos, N. M., and Utah.

Fages, a native of Pomona, is a graduate of Chouinard School of Art. He is a member of the Pomona Valley Art Association. His work has hung in the Southwest Museum, the Pomona library and several local revolving shows. Some of his early paintings are Yucatan scenes which he did on several trips while searching for Mayan ruins and artifacts to photograph. After 25 years in photography Fages returned to painting five years ago.

A retired Pomona camera store employe, Fages is an accomplished photographer, camera technician, musician, singer and display designer. He is chairman of the Historical Society of Pomona's booth at the Los Angeles County Fair.

Airline named official carrier for world's fair

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74 has named Scandinavian Airlines as the official European Air Carrier for the Environmental World's Fair.

King Cole, Expo president, said Monday SAS will help publicize the upcoming fair and the vacation opportunities of the Pacific Northwest to the customers of its 200 offices around the world.

Even though SAS does not serve Spokane, Leif Eie, SAS northwest manager, said the airline does not consider that a problem.

Eie said Scandinavian Airlines will bring Expo visitors from Europe to America, and Hughes Airwest, Expo's official United States air carrier, will bring them to the fair.

But never lava

Though an erupting volcano brings to mind pictures of flowing rivers of boiling lava, not all active volcanos emit lava. Mount Taal in the Philippines, with a history of death and destruction, has spewed forth noxious gases, steaming mud and ash, and white-hot rocks—but never lava.

Maddox claims President should talk or step down

BOSTON (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia says President Nixon should either come forward with a full, public explanation of his knowledge about Watergate or "step down and let the vice president take over."

The former Georgia governor said that the President's refusal to appear before the Senate Watergate committee can be construed as a concession of guilt and is destroying the presidency.

"If he does not come forward, then he should have the decency to step down and let the vice president take over," he said.

Maddox addressed the annual New England Rally for God, Family and Country. He told participants of the five-day meeing for "conservative Americans" Nixon has become "obsessed with trying to become a leader of the world rather than a leader of America and he has abdicated his responsibility to place America first."

He said the office of the presidency "is not dead. No one can believe in it, and for the next three years Congress will have to take the reins, if it can."

The administration, in "a supreme show of arrogance," thinks it is above the laws that govern the rest of America, Maddox said.

"America has become a totalitarian police state, and the administration has led us into this by hypocrisy deception and just plain lying."

The lieutenant governor also criticized the administrations's fiscal and education policies.

"He (Nixon) as president, along with John Mitchell and Elliot Richardson and the Justice Department, and others appointed by Nixon, have done more to wreck more schools, destroy more investments in communities, deny more people freedom of choice and force more busing, than all previous administrations in the history of this nation," Maddox said.

State offers wide variety of trees

By JOHN D. LOWRY

FRAZIER PARK (UPI) — Anyone with a scrap of land can grow his very own 300-foot giant Sequoia with patience and a little help from the state Division of Forestry and an irrigation company.

The forestry service offers a wide variety of trees, ranging from sturdy pines that will challenge desert climes to the gigantic Sequoia so prevalent in Northern California. It is a state project aimed at reforestation and conservation.

The service even makes recommendations as to variety to suit your particular location whether along the coast, at protected inland areas or even the parched high desert of Southern California.

My project was a one-acre site at the 4,500-foot level in the high desert 70 miles north of Los Angeles. The forestry spokesman recommended a variety of pines and suggested the giant Sequoia which seemed out of character with the semiarid location. He reassured me on the chances of successful growth and when I told him my thinking was to plant them a foot or so apart to achieve nearly instant forest he disagreed strongly.

"You have to plant them at least five feet apart, they'll eventually be at least five feet thick and 200 to 300 feet tall!" When I asked how long this would take he replied, "about 2,000 years!" He said that within five years the seedlings might be 10 feet tall.

I passed up cedar, cypress and eucalyptus in favor of the Sequoia and placed my order in January for 100 seedlings. The cost was minimal, only a few cents each. They were delivered two weeks later in wooden crates, 50 individually planted seedlings per crate in their tarpaper containers and all 6-8 inches tall.

The labor came in digging holes a foot wide and equally deep in the sandy soil and screening out the rocks before mixing it with mulch to make sure moisture would be retained after planting.

Next watering. How to overcome dragging hoses around to nurture each individuality tree.

A visit to a commercial nursery brought the inexpensive solution.

Roberts Irrigation Co. of Pauma Valley manufactures a simple easy to install system. It can be adapted to various needs but basically begins with a coil of ½ inch to one-inch plastic tubing in lengths of no less than 100 feet at less than $5 per coil.

The tubing can be laid out above or below ground with length cut to your need and an end cap cemented to one end and regular garden hose connection at the other, all available from Roberts.

Your next step is piping to individual trees or plants using a coil of ⅛-inch "spaghetti" plastic tubing. A 3-16 inch electric drill can punch holes in the large tubing and then the "spaghetti" is inserted, glued and cut to length. A patented Roberts spot-spittemathen is stuck in the ground near the plant and the "spaghetti" inserted in its top.

When you connect the garden hose to the fitting and turn on the water to just a trickle you soon see the value of the system as each little spitter begins to dribble into the soil around your tree.

With each main-line watering 20-25 small trees or plants it takes a minimum of water, and no waste, to maintain your forest. And if you have enough faucets to water them all at once, your irrigation chore is over quickly.

So your forest is bought, planted and irrigated for less than $100. Mine doubled in size in less than six months but I don't plan on watching the trees mature to their potential 300-feet.

Earnings not always telling

By ROGER SPEAR

Q — I have noticed that Superior Oil Co. (NYSE) has a price earnings multiple of over 180x while other companies have ratios that are much smaller. Why is this? — C. I.

A — Superior reports earnings on an ultraconservative basis, i.e., after taking out various drilling, exploratory expenses depreciation, depletion, etc. This produces artifically low earnings, which are misleading. In this case, cash flow is a more meaningful figure. Last year this was equal to $22.30 per share and for 1973 cash flow should reach $26.00 per share. On that basis, the cash flow price-earnings multiple is about 10x currently, in line with others in the industry.

Q — We hold 300 Pan American World Airways (NYSE) purchased at $34. What is the prospect for this stock? Do you recommend holding, selling or buying more for future gains? — F. S.

A — According to Pan Am's chairman and president, William T. Seawell, the airline has "a chance this year to break even." In the first four months through April, a loss of $22.6 million was reported. This was substantially below the $35.1 million loss in the comparable 1972 period. Revenues were up 9.6 per cent year to year. Factors which helped Pan Am improve operating results were: increased promotion of first-class travel, a stricter policy on discounted fares and reduction in military travel.

There are still many negatives in this situation, however, that might continue to be reflected in depressed share trading levels. For one, labor negotiations (contracts expire in mid-summer), covering close to half the company's employees, could be costly for Pan Am. Another uncertainty is the effect that a receding economy and devaluation will have on summer air travel.

Of the four markets —Atlantic, domestic, Pacific and Latin America — which Pan Am serves, yield per revenue passenger mile is the highest on the latter two, averaging $5.47 in the 1973 first quarter. Fare increases have been approved on one of the routes and are pending on the other. Hold for eventual rally.

Q—Would you explain the disadvantages of buying stocks in "odd lots"? Because of the penalties involved, I have been advised not to buy less than 100 shares of any one issue. What are these extra fees?—G. M.

A—On major exchanges most stock transactions involving less than 100 shares are not traded by auction. They are handled by odd-lot dealers who buy or sell at the next round lot price after receipt of order, plus or minus an odd-lot differential which amounts to ⅛ of a point. The second consideration is the commission rate. For example: The broker's fee on 10 shares of a $20 issue is $8.40 or 4.2 per cent of the money involved; a round lot of a $20 stock involves a commission of $38 or 1.9 per cent. As the amount of money involved rises the fee generally drops, on a percentage basis. The rate on a 10-share purchase of a $50 stock is 2.9 per cent and on a 100-share transaction it is 1.3 per cent. A new commission schedule now under study, if adopted, would raise the fee on a $100 to $5,000 order by 10 percent.

Passersby take 2nd look: gals on construction job

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Two 19-year-old Superior, Wis., girls have been attracting attention as hard hat construction laborers in the French Quarter.

Jim Baldwin hired them as part of his demolition crew to chip plaster, pull nails, tote lumber and shovel trash into wheelbarrows.

Jeanette Levin and Karen Hinz get paid $2 an hour.

Baldwin said recently that besides these two girls, six other young ladies have worked on his crews.

"I think most are looking for a good job where they're not hassled because they're chicks. You know, office jobs, tending bar, they get hassled on the sexual level."

The girls planned to return home this weekend after spending a week on the job.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Today the 40-hour work week is an accepted standard for workers in the United States and many other nations. The animal-loving Costa Ricans of Central America have made laws restricting horses, mules and oxen from working more than 48 hours per week, The World Almanac notes.

The doctor comments

Heart attack victim given reassurance

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am terribly depressed because I've been told by my doctor that nothing can be done for my heart attacks caused by atherosclerosis. I can hardly believe this. I was hospitalized last year for about three weeks and given all kinds of tests, then about two months later I had another attack. The first one occurred in Bible class and the second one in church. I didn't have any undue excitement of any kind previous to either attack. What is your opinion, doctor?

I've been on some medicine for high blood pressure, and also Coumadin to keep my blood from clotting. I have blood tests and checkups regularly. The doctor said on my last examination that my blood tests, blood pressure and electrocardiogram were all satisfactory, but I'm afraid to move for fear I'll have an other heart attack.

Dear Reader—Your doctor is doing something about your heart attacks. This is what the medicine to treat your blood pressure and the Coumadin to prevent blood coagulation is for. He's studying the function of your heart and circulatory system to regulate your medicine and, if necessary, institute other measures.

I'm sure thet what your doctor tried to explain to you was that the disease itself, the atherosclerosis, was difficult to treat, and the damage that had already been done to your heart from the previous attack was there to stay. This doesn't mean, however, that you can't make a good recovery or that there is nothing at all that can be done to help you maintain your health in the best condition.

Your diet is important. If you have any excess weight, it can be eliminated by a sensible program. You should be on a moderately restricted fat diet, restricted in saturated fats and limited in cholesterol. By proper diet, often you can reverse the fatty deposits that develop in the arteries. This has been demonstrated in animals. You can't eliminate the scar in the heart muscle or some of the scarring that develops in the arteries when they've been damaged from fatty deposits, or the calcium deposits that gradually developed around where the fatty deposits are in the walls of the arteries. But, I would like to stress that there are things which can be done.

Anyone with a severe cardiac problem is usually able to do more if the body weight is decreased. It's very simple. The body must work harder to move 200 pounds across the room than it does to move 100. This means there's less work for the heart and circulation to move a small body weight around. There are other beneficial effects too. The blood pressure is often significantly lowered if a person has any excess fat and eliminates it.

It's important for people who've had a heart attack to be given some reassurance. Many people do make excellent recoveries. I know that it's common to sit around and worry about what may happen after an episode, but appreciating the fact that some benefits can be achieved, and that if you've recovered well enough to go home that you may well have a reasonably good outlook, should help to dispel the discouragement that some people have. I am personally impressed about how well some people do after they have made a complete recovery from the initial heart attack. As I've mentioned before, both President Johnson and President Eisenhower are good examples of this point.

Monopoly suit filed against 15 oil firms

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida Attorney General Robert Shevin filed a federal "monopoly power" suit against the 15 largest petroleum companies Monday and said other such suits would follow from around the nation.

After threatening a suit for weeks, Shevin formally asked U.S. District Judge David Middlebrooks to order the firms to break up their alleged monopolies by selling their crude oil exploration interests.

Shevin predicted that although his was the first such state or federal suit, others will be forthcoming, including one from the state of Connecticut and another by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

He named as defendants Exxon, Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Shell, Atlantic-Richfield, Phillips, Continental, Sun, Union, Cities Service, Marathon, Standard Oil of California, Standard Oil of Indiana, and Standard Oil of Ohio.

When to play for singleton

Oswald: "When declarer lays down an ace and drops a singleton king there is usually a comment by an opponent along the line of 'I must be holding my hand too far forward.'"

Jim: "Declarers have been known to see a defender's hand but if declarer is a good player the chances are that he has another reason for his play."

Oswald: "Here is an elementary example, West's queen of clubs holds the first trick. He continues the suit. South ruffs the second club and plays three rounds of trumps. Then if South is a good player he planks his ace of hearts on the table and drops West's singleton king."

Jim: "This play couldn't do him any harm. If the king failed to drop he would eventually get to dummy with a diamond after losing the diamond finesse and lead a heart toward his queen."

Oswald: "He was sure to make his contract if East held the king of hearts. This way he had that small extra chance. West just might hold the king all by itself."

Auto transport firm makes good on claim

I am a lifelong resident of California and was residing temporarily in Rome, N.Y., last winter while my husband was stationed at Griffiss Air Force Base. When we received orders in February 1972 for immediate transfer to March AFB, we planned to ship one car and drive another together.

An auto transport firm in Syracuse, N.Y., was contacted and the office manager picked up my 1969 Mercury Montego station wagon March 29, 1972. The car was in excellent running condition, had been recently serviced for the trip and had no body marks or dents of any kind.

As I later learned, a team of drivers was to bring the car to my home in California, with all responsibilities for damage to be assumed by the auto transport firm.

My car was delivered to Upland on April 12 by a driver from the Los Angeles office. I was not at home then and my father signed for the car. He mentioned a dent in the right front door and fender but, as the driver had not come from New York, it was assumed that the dent was already in the car prior to shipment. This definitely was not the case.

Upon seeing the dent, I immediately called the Syracuse office. A representative of the firm suggested I send the lowest of three body repair estimates to him as soon as possible. The lowest of $76 was forwarded to his office on April 19.

Since my telephone call on April 12, I had no response from the transport firm. I have placed phone calls, received messages to record my questions, but no one has answered my calls. I have written three times but again there has been no response. I have called the Los Angeles branch office but they have been unable to give any assistance.

Can you help me? — D.C., Upland

Our records show that Action Line wrote to the transport firm in your behalf on Dec. 1, 1972. When you notified us on May 14 that you still had received no response, we immediately wrote again.

The firm's claims manager responded from New York City that the letter to the Syracuse office had been forwarded to him. He said a search of his files did not reveal any correspondence with "either your good selves or Mrs. C. concerning the transport of her vehicle."

He assured us that your claim would be processed. Since then, you have written that he made good on his promise and your claim has been settled.

Early in February I ordered three paintings from a Los Angeles studio. My check was processed by my bank on Feb. 28. Since that time, I have written two letters and made several phone calls attempting to obtain either the paintings or a refund.

When I call, the customer service representative assures me that someone will look up the account and call me back, but I have had no reply. — E.H., La Verne.

We reminded the studio that California law requires the mail order merchant to deliver his product within six weeks or issue an immediate refund.

You telephoned us twice, the first time to say that two of the pictures had arrived and finally that you had received the third.

Some time ago you had a story about cleaning cement driveways. I cut the article out but have lost it. You listed ways to get rust and oil off a cement driveway.

My son drained his radiator out on the cement and it looks terrible. I've tried hard to keep it looking clean and free from oil and spots.

Can you send me the information? — V.S., Montclair.

More than two years ago several readers answered this question for us. We sent you a copy of their replies and now summarize them for others with sons who work on cars.

1. Use one part of muriatic acid to several parts of water, pour it on the rust spot and brush with a broom. Then wash thoroughly with water. If this doesn't work, make the solution stronger. Wash the entire driveway with the solution while you are at it. After it is applied, the sun will bleach the driveway so that it is all the same color.

2. You should use muriatic acid that is a formula with a metal inhibitor to protect your car, etc. A full-strength solution could be a threat to pets even after the driveway is wash down.

3. One thing that helps remove rust stains in sinks and bathtubs and should work on driveways is a mixture of salt and vinegar. Take a fairly generous amount of salt and moisten it with vinegar. Let it set a few minutes and then moisten a cloth with the solution and scour the stained area. Don't let this solution get on grass or shrubs. Mop it all up before turning the hose on the cleaned area.

4. Get a small bag of cat litter, sprinkle some on the rusty streak and grind in with a block of wood or your leather shoes. If it won't do the job, the effort won't be a total loss since it will hide the grease spots on the concrete.

INCINERATOR TOPPLED

The 100-foot-high incinerator at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, a landmark since its installation in 1955, was toppled this week by Thomas House Movers of Pomona. The smokeless 75-ton incinerator was designed by Greelis Sales and Service. Although it was originally approved by the Air Pollution Control District at the time of its construction, present air quality standards necessitated its removal.

Nude-dancing counts against 12 dismissed

POMONA — So-called topless and bottomless entertainment here has come under tighter control despite dismissal of criminal charges against most of the persons arrested last May in a local crackdown.

The action was in Pomona Municipal Court where Judge James H. Piatt dismissed charges against 12 of 15 persons charged either with topless dancing, bottomless dancing or with allowing such entertainment.

The offenses are violations of city ordinances which the Supreme Court ruled earlier were valid controls of local entertainment. Conditions of the dismissals included the stipulation to abide by a civil injunction prohobiting such entertainment here. The injunction was being sought in Pomona Superior Court.

At the hearing, Playmate tavern operator Robert Lindenbaum pleaded no contest to one of seven counts against him and was given a 90-day jail term. The term was suspended. however, and Lindenbaum was placed on probation for three years on condition that he not violate the same city ordinance — allowing topless or bottomless entertainment.

Earlier in the week, City Atty. Patrick Sampson said the city was more interested in shutting down nude entertainment than it was in punishing violators. The agreement to dismiss against the defendants apparently was the result of that theory.

Two others, arrested during the raids last May, still face prosecution, however. Rudolph Angelo Cicciarelli, 30, Rowland Heights, and Janice Ann Kirkland, 27, 1052 Airshire Lane, were accused of exhibiting obscene movies and were scheduled for pretrial hearings Aug. 20. The offenses are violation of the state penal code.

Those who won dismissal of charges Thursday were Robert Newger, 41, of 1254 Paseo Dorado, San Dimas; Rhondo E. Bryant, 21, Long Beach; Jackie Rochelle Ellavsky, 25, of 627 Lorrane Ave.; Ann Christine Bargeman, 26, of 144 N. Palmetto St., Ontario; Sidney Jackson Harris, 36, of 10246 Coalinga Ave., Montclair; Susan Elaine Venetucci, 23, Cucamonga; Cynthia Jean Sparks, 24, of 310 E. Foothill Blvd.; Rita Le Neil Rogers, 30, of 4597 Berkeley Ave., Montclair; Sandra Lynn Simon, 22, of 536 E. Phillips Blvd.; Leslie Faye Willett, 24, Hollywood; Henry Thomas Bleeker, 27, of 1522 Baldy View, and Deborah Ann Cullis, 23, of 1360 W. 3rd St. Charges of exhibiting obscene movies against Margie Anna Marshall, 22, of 2235 Kellogg Park Drive, and Miss Bargeman, were dismissed June 14.

Car wash firms being washed out, file protest

POMONA — Too much of a good thing can ruin it for others.

That's the message operators of three car washes conveyed to the Pomona Planning Commission.

"We are taking these issues to your attention because we feel that there hasn't been good judgment in allowing another car wash to be built on the corner of Holt (Avenue) and Indian Hill (Boulevard)," stated the letter.

"The reasons for our concern is because we car wash owners feel that another car wash within a half or quarter mile from four other car washes in the same area will put some out of business."

The letter bears the signatures of Mrs. Richard L. Drake, Drakes Car Wash, 401 N. East End Ave.; Joseph L. Frey, Village Car Wash, 530 E. Foothill Blvd.; and Shanker Patel, Palms Car Wash, 530 E. Holt Ave.

"Right now, there are over 10 car washes in the City of Pomona. How many more can be allowed before half of us go broke? The population is small with about 65,000 to 70,000 people. How can we all do any business with such population service?" it asked.

The operators suggested an ordinance be permitted to prohibit any more car wash operations be built in the city because of economics and survival of the existing car washes.

"We can only feel as we look around right now that there are already many gas stations and other businesses that are closed because of lack of business," they stated.

City planners took no action regarding the letter other than voting to "receive and file" it.

Teachers to be granted class time for planning

POMONA — Beginning in September, third through sixth graders in Pomona's public schools will spend slightly less time in the classroom than they have in the past to allow their teachers a regular planning time.

This decision was made last week when the school board approved a recommendatin made by the Elementary Curriculum Planning Committee.

The committee felt that with a regular planning time, the quality of instruction could be increased, substantially outweighing the reduction in teaching time.

Under conpensatory education programs, the Stull Law and increased district requirements, more emphasis is being placed upon the determination of instructional objectives, evaluation of the learner and his placement at the proper level of instruction, committee members pointed out.

The individualization or personalization of the instructional program is being stressed to meet the needs and objectives that have been determined in the district.

Under the new plan, third graders will go from 285 to 255 minutes ,and fourth through sixth graders, from 320 to 296 minutes, in daily classroom instruction.

First and second graders will not be changed. They will remain in the classroom 1,650 minutes a week, attending from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Staffs will have the option to arrange these minutes so that one day per week will be set aside to coincide with the teacher preparation day for grades four through six.

Third graders will attend 1,650 minues per week, normally from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. If a preparation day is established to be consistent with grades four through six, grades one through three would run normally from 9 a.m. to 2:36 p.m. four days a week, and from 9 a.m. to 2:05 p.m. one day per week.

Fourth through sixth graders will attend 1,805 minutes each week. Normally they will attend four days from 9 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. and one day from 9 a.m. to 2:05 p.m.

In a survey of surrounding school districts, including City of Los Angeles, it was found that Pomona, in grades three thrugh six, had the greatest number of minutes in actual class time.

This past year some Pomona schools were encouraged to modify the total number of instructional minutes to include a regular planning time for teachers.

Evaluation of these schools and their programs indicated that the regular planning time had paid off, the educators said.

'We T.I.P.' strikes again; 2 booked on drug charge

POMONA — Information from We Turn In Pushers, Inc. (We T.I.P.) last week aided police in the arrest of two Pomona men for investigation of possession and cultivation of marijuana at 580 E. Columbia Ave.

According to Pomona police, the two suspects, Joseph Penn Campbell, 23, and Michael Anders Pickering, 23, both of 580 E. Columbia, were arrested outside their apartment carrying six suspected marijuana plants and about 20 grams of cut marijuana.

Police said that the arrests were the result of investigation launched with information supplied by a We T.I.P. tipster. Both suspects were booked in Pomona Jail.

We T.I.P. is a community-based, non-profit organization dedicated to aiding local police agencies in their battle against the drug menace. We T.I.P. offers anonymous informants a reward of $100 to $500 for information that leads police to the arrest and conviction of suspected drug pushers in local communities.

Informants calling on the local We T.I.P. telephone line (983-9611) or the state We T.I.P. line (800-472-7785) between noon and 6 p.m. weekdays, are told not to give their name but only information about suspected drug pushers.

Each person is assigned a code name and number by the We T.I.P. operator that he or she may use to collect the reward in the event of a conviction.

Bill Brownell, state director of We T.I.P., Inc., said there are now 63 member cities in the We T.I.P. organization throughout California with information being supplied to almost 200 police and sheriff's departments.

To date there have been 3,200 anonymous tips phoned into We T.I.P. leading to 308 arrests and 50 convictions. Drugs with a value of nearly $1.3 million have been confiscated by local police agencies following up on We T.I.P. leads. A total of $5,500 in rewards has been paid to tipsters.

That big wheat sale a goof

It would appear to be a classic case of bringing troubles on ourselves.

Watergate, the ailing dollar, Liz & Dick & Liza notwithstanding, the painfully primary concern for most of us these days is prices—of the galloping variety, with those for food leading the field.

Now the General Accounting Office the watchdog agency that keeps tabs on federal income and outgo, tells us that a primary factor in the crisis at the checkout counter is the effect of last year's huge wheat sale to the Soviet Union.

You remember. That was the unexpected but ecstatically—at first—welcomed profiting from Soviet harvest misfortunes that was supposed to mean prosperity for U.S. farmers and support for a shaky dollar in the world trade.

Only as some small critical voices have been suggesting for some time and the G.A.O. now documents in some detail, it didn't quite work out that way.

Instead, the massive deal—440 million bushels, one-quarter of the entire U.S. crop—created a grain shortage in the United States, driving wheat prices up from $1.68 per bushel in July 1972 to $3 early this year. Directly and indirectly, it has meant higher consumer prices for, in the G.A.O.'s listing, "bread and flour-based products . . . beef, pork, poultry, eggs and dairy products . . ."

And so in the end, it is the U.S. consumer who pays for the big Soviet deal—twice in fact. Now directly out of his food budget, and initially indirectly through the public funds involved in the generous credits—$750 million—extended to Moscow by Washington and the $300 million in export subsidies to make up the difference between a normally higher domestic wheat price and an export price which, the G.A.O. now says was unnecessarily low to the great advantage of the Soviets.

The G.A.O. report, submitted to Congress, places primary responsibility on the Department of Agriculture for, first, being inadequately informed as to the size of the Soviet purchases and not foreseeing the likely effects on the U.S. economy, and then for mismanaging subsidies and permitting speculation by grain dealers.

Agriculture, of course, demurs. And there may indeed be extenuating circumstances and contributing factors beyond its control.

But the consumer confronted with even-higher prices, aware of too-late half measures such as the ban on soybean exports and appalled by such desperation measures as the destruction of chicks by growers caught in the feed-cost squeeze, does not need pages of expert economic analysis to know that someone goofed somewhere.

The United States is a food-surplus nation, capable of producing still more than it now does. Without seeking exorbitant profit from the needs of others, it should still be possible to share this basic wealth with a world in many parts on the thin edge of hunger, even famine, to the benefits of its own economy—certainly not, in any circumstances, the detriment.

The administration is looking to a big grain crop this year, up from 6 per cent in corn to 24 per cent in soybeans according to Agriculture's forecast just out, to ease the price strain eventually.

Trust in providence is fine. But it also helps to help one's self, such as thoroughly checking out future big deals to be certain they are all they appear to be.

For if we take it from the G.A.O., appearances can indeed be deceiving.

TV can be good for parent, child

There are few men, women and children among us who do not succumb to viewing television each day. Particularly the latter. Recent national surveys reveal that the average child plops himself before a TV set for an annual 1,000 hours of fantasy, fakery and fact. He spends about 500 hours in a classroom.

Appalling? Possibly not. Many child psychologists and educators are revising their thinking about television and its programming. Some now say that instead of pushing families apart, television viewing can bring a parent closer to his child. The boob tube is being touted as a brain tube.

This is the thesis of the creators of a new television magazine, "Tube Talk," written for the preteen set (8-year-old average) to be enjoyed and shared with their parents.

To be distributed with newspapers, "Tube Talk" includes interviews, games, puzzles and educational features. According to a preview article, the crucial and valuable factor in the viewing of TV by the impressionable very young is that the experience be shared and that parents help a child learn while he is being entertained.

Many adults still object to TV programming for children without really watching the shows, discussing them with the young viewer or really listening to what he says about what he is seeing. TV is far past the stage of being an inexpensive babysitter yet some parents still use it as one. It is an educational force and one that more parents must learn to share.

Television as we know it is in its 26th year. Perhaps the elements are right for adult viewers, producers and advertisers to stretch themselves to the point where they will insist that this visual electronic god meet its immense potential in education and entertainment.

Kleindienst bungled Watergate case

WASHINGTON — After questioning ex-Attorney General Richard Kleindienst for four hours in secret, the special prosecutors concluded that the Watergate case might have been cracked months earlier if he had mentioned meeting ringleader G. Gordon Liddy less than 12 hours after the Watergate break-in.

Kleindienst was questioned recently by special prosecutor Archibald Cox's two top aides, James Neal and James Vorenberg, who were satisfied from Kleindienst's answers that he wasn't personally implicated in the scandal. But they couldn't understand his failure, as the nation's top law enforcement officer, to tell his subordinates about the Liddy incident.

Here's what happened on June 17, 1972:

A few hours after the Waterbuggers were arrested at gunpoint inside Democratic Party headquarters, Liddy located Kleindienst at the Burning Tree golf course and rushed off to consult him. Powell Moore, the campaign press chief, asked to go along.

Kleindienst surprised

They found Kleindienst sitting with several people at a large table and called him into a backroom. Liddy reported urgently that the burglary-bugging squad had been headed by the President's campaign security chief.

Kleindienst said he was aware of the arrests but surprised at the involvement of a campaign official. Then Kleindienst picked up a telephone and dialed Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen. "Henry," instructed Kleindienst, "I want to be sure that these people are treated as any other person would be treated who is arrested under those circumstances."

The prosecutors aren't critical of Kleindienst's handling of Liddy, which was entirely proper. But Kleindienst's failure to mention the incident to his subordinates delayed their investigation.

It took them another ten days, for example, before they learned the extent of Liddy's involvement. More important, they knew nothing about Powell Moore until the following year.

Moore's testimony

Unlike Liddy who is still refusing to talk, Moore testified fully and frankly the first time he appeared before the grand jury. His testimony led to other important pieces of the Watergate puzzle. This could have brought a breakthrough in the case a full year ago.

Here are a few of the revelations that came, at least indirectly, through Moore's testimony:

— Moore realized the morning after the break-in, he testified, that Liddy had prior knowledge of the crime. Moore reported this to campaign official Robert Mardian, a former Assistant Attorney General, who had come to the campaign directly from the Justice Department. He is now under investigation for alleged involvement in the Watergate cover-up.

— Moore witnessed the destruction of documents by Liddy, who started with a small shredder and then moved to a larger shredder to speed up the process. Liddy began the shredding operation after a long telephone conversation with his superior, Jeb Stuart Magruder, in California, Moore swore.

Magruder's instructions

— The same morning, according to the testimony, Moore overheard Magruder's assistant, Robert Reisner, getting instructions over the phone from Magruder. When Reisner eventually was called to testify, he told the grand jury that Magruder had asked him to remove sensitive files from the office, including a blue folder marked "Gemstone." This turned out to be the secret incriminating Watergate file of wiretapped conversations.

— Liddy mentioned to Moore during the morning after the break-in that three people should be notified. They were former Attorney General John Mitchell, campaign official Fred Larue and Magruder. All three, it was learned several months later, were key figures in the Watergate scandal.

— Moore testified that Mitchell helped to draft the public statement denying that the campaign committee had anything to do with the Waterbuggers or their crimes. The statement was laced with noble terms about this type of activity having no place in the American political system.

All these events happened within a few hours after the Watergate break-in. If the prosecutors had known about Moore and had been able to take his testimony last summer, the Watergate case almot certainly would have broken wide open long before the election.

Yet Kleindienst, though free of any Watergate taint himself, failed to tell his own prosecutors about his curious meeting with Liddy and Moore on June 17, 1972.

Footnote: Kleindienst explained to us that he didn't regard the Liddy-Moore visit as significant at the time. He later learned that Moore asked to come along so he would be a witness in case Liddy tried to compromise the Attorney General, Kleindienst told us.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Dandruff problem vital to progress

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The human race progresses by solving problems. If there were no more problems, the race would soon become static and probably begin regressing.

Already this has happened in some places. The town of Farthing, S.D., became a problem-free area aboout 10 years ago and hasn't advanced a lick since.

Other communities brought to a standstill by a shortage of problems include Sinking Hills, Mont., Buttermilk Falls, Wis., Tinker's Dam, Alaska and Puma City, Ariz.

But these are freakish phenonema. Fortunately for the race as a whole, some problems defy solution. The very act of grappling with them moves man forward.

Have you, for example, every considered how much the onward and upward movement of the human race has been stimulated by the dandruff problem?

Man's age-old fight against dandruff has built giant industries, provided gainful employment for thousands, and inspired chemists and advertising copywriters to new heights of creativity.

Scores of dandruff removal shampoos have been formulated, but all do just that — remove it. None actually conquers dandruff in the sense of vanquishing it, the way man has eradicated razor drag for instance.

No, dandruff keeps turning up like a bad penny. The most that can be said is that we have managed to "control" it. Which is a heap of progress itself.

The extent of that achievement can be seen if you picture to yourself what the world would be like if dandruff should ever get out of control.

Reasonably, then, we could expect the dandruff problem to be with us for years to come. But that rosy outlook is now threatened by an ominous action by the Federal Trade Commission.

Shampoo manufacturers who claim to deal with the problem are being required by the FTC to define what they mean by dandruff.

Suppose they are unable to come up with an acceptable definition? Where will that leave us?

In limbo, that's where. It will mean that all these years we have been struggling to overcome a problem that technically doesn't even exist.

If you were able to picture a world in which dandruff was out of control, now try to picture a world without any dandruff at all.

I don't know what you see but I see a catastrophe of the first magnitude —giant shampoo companies going bankrupt ... workers in breadlines ... Madison Ave. account executives leaping from office windows.

In short, the dandruff problem is vital to our continued progress. Let us hope and pray it's for real.

Flag display

June 14, 1973, Flag Day, was fittingly observed by the City of Pomona, in an impressive display of the American Flag in great numbers in the planter sections bordering the Pomona Mall.

As it happened that I was on the Mall most of the day, I had occasion at least six times to replace in upright positions flags which had fallen over and lay on the Mall itself. This was due in part to breezes which blew them over, but mostly to the fact that the flag poles were not set in sockets but merely placed on the ground in the planters. I also observed, due to my necessarily close inspection of fallen flags, that most of the flags were soiled and dirty beyond belief.

It does seem that this shoddy display could be given a brighter and more respected appearance if the City custodian of these flags (whoever he may be) could be authorized to replace the dirty flags with new ones, and if metal sockets could be set in the planters for any future mass display of our American Flag. —D. Gossip for today

We were hero worshippers in those days. And why not? After all, what red blooded young boy wouldn't have been when he had such a super hero as Frank Merriweather, the clean-cut, all-American boy athlete, to serve as his model and inspiration? Then, of course, there were Christy Matthewson, Jim Thorpe and Gentleman Jim Corbett for good measure.

All of which makes me feel a bit sorry for today's youth in search of sports heroes. What must they think when they learn that it is now being proposed that urine tests be given to football players to make sure these super athletes aren't using dope.?

INSIDE REPORT

Nixon's worsening political condition

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Nixon abandoned his studied aloofness from the Watergate scandal and personally shaped his hard-line refusal to appear before the Senate Watergate committee, sharpening conflict between him and many Republican politicans distraught over the President's deteriorating situation.

Shortly before Mr. Nixon's letter flatly refusing either to testify before the committee or hand over presidential papers, the White House received dramatically contrary advice. Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, the committee's senior Republican, advised the White House that Mr. Nixon should engage in some of kind of dialogue with the committee or risk dire consequences.

Baker's view is increasingly shared by Republican politicans, both around the country and in Congress, alarmed by the President's worsening political condition. But Mr. Nixon's active participation in the refusal to testify has cheered middle-level presidential staffers who have consistently advocated a hard line. Thus, a three-month-old battle over tactics between seasoned Republican politicans and youthful White House aides has entered a new phase, with the President himself now on the side of his hard-line staffers.

Request from Sen. Ervin

The President's letter was prompted by a request from Sen. Ervin of North Carolina Watergate committee chairman, for the papers of 35 past and present White House aides. When committee counsel Sam Dash then asked White House counsel Leonard Garmen to immediately get papers of ex-aides H. R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson, Garment promised a quick reply.

The president ordered that the papers be refused. Smoldering over suggestions by Republican and Democratic members of the Ervin committee that he testify, he expanded the refusal to embrace presidential testimony even though no formal request had been made by the committee.

The original refusal was drafted in Washington but rewritten in San Clemente. The chief rewriter: Richard M. Nixon, imparting his special tone to the letter. "This is vintage Nixon," one high presidential assistant told us.

That overjoyed middle-level White House staffers, including former lieutenants of Haldeman and Colson, who in informal "attack group" meetings had mourned the "soft line" at the White House. They had been dismayed by successive presidential "retreat"—waiving executive privilege, confessions in his May 22 statement, giving the committee White House logs on Mr. Nixon's meetings with deposed White House counsel John W. Dean III.

These hard-liners were particularly enraged by Dean's being permitted to rummage in his old files and feared those files next would be supplied to the Ervin committee as requested. The blanket presidential refusal is taken by "attack group" staffers as a welcome sign of Mr. Nixon's deciding to fight it out.

But the President's letter dismayed Republican politicians who agree with Sen. Baker, a veteran Nixon loyalist. Just before the President's letter was released, Baker spelled out his views to chief White House lobbyists William Timmons and listed three possible ways for a Nixon-committee "conversation": (1) written questions, answers and further questions; (2) interrogation (not under oath) at the White House; (3) interrogation (not under oath) on neutral ground. Whatever the arrangement, Baker urged some such dialogue.

Full support of Baker's view

Baker's view is supported not only in the Senate Republican cloakroom but at the state party level. "I believe this President is not guilty, but he sure acts guilty as hell," one conservative state chairman told us. Such politicians doubt Dean's devastating testimony can be countered solely by friendly witnesses (a view supported by John N. Mitchell's current performance).

Among Senate Republicans, the hard-line letter is regarded as unnecessarily stoking up hostility with the Ervin committee. Since the committee had not formally asked the President to appear, no formal reply was needed. But the reply provoked Ervin's harsh reaction, which in turn generated outrage at the White House.

There is no sign that the sage political hands just signed on at the White House, Melvin R. Laird and Bryce Harlow, contributed to the President's letter. Nor is there any hint they disapproved. But if it becomes politically necessary, Laird and Harlow might well recommend something along lines recommended by Baker.

Indeed, some presidential aides suggest Mr. Nixon's present refusal to "testify" does not preclude "conversing" with the committee. But that would again force a public retreat from a position shrewd politicians in his own party feel the President never had to take in the first place.

Passenger mark set at Ontario

ONTARIO — Gasoline shortage, inflation and summer vacations.

Officials cited these as contributing to a record 112,986 airline passengers who passed through Ontario International Airport last month.

The June total broke the previous monthly record of 102,432 set last August.

"June is always a good month for summer vacation travel," said Al Dubiel, airport official. "Many students are then out of school."

He said many travelers may have also been concerned over the reported gasoline shortage. "Rather than drive, they decided to fly.

"Many may have decided to take a trip this summer before inflation raises the price of airline tickets."

As an example of the heavy passenger traffic, Dubiel noted that PSA one day had a total of three empty seats on its four regular flights. Each plane, he said, carries about 105 passengers.

The airport is served by eight major air carriers and one commuter airline, which provide daily service to more than 20 cities.

The June traffic, a gain of nearly 20,000 passengers over June 1972, boosts the total number of passengers so far this year to 544,702. This is a 14 per cent gain over the 476,250 reported the first six months of last year.

Last month's passengers included 95-744 on scheduled flights; 12,487 on scheduled commuters; 1,424 on non scheduled flights; and 3,301 on alternate flights.

Despite the large passenger increase, the number of flight operations was upped only 6.3 per cent over the previous June—13,033 compared to 12,266, reported Robert Hamilton, airport manager.

"This tends to indicate a better load factor for each flight," he added.

The flight operations include: air carrier, 2,904; alternates, 76; air taxi, 1,860; military, 1,203; and general aviation, 6,990.

The June flights boosts the total this year to 74,174, compared to 71,151 the same period last year.

The amount of air cargo shipped through the airport climbed last month with 503,873 pounds being handled. This compared with 335,114 pounds the previous June, for a 50.4 per cent gain.

To illustrate the increased use of the airport, Hamilton compared the June and mid-year totals with airport activity during the 1960s.

"In the first half of this year, we've seen almost as many passengers as we did during all of 1968, and the June count alone was higher than all the passenger volume of 1960, 1961 and 1962 combined," he added.

The air cargo figures for the 1960s aren't available. "But the air cargo activity has gone up an average of 32 per cent a year for the past three years," said Hamilton.

Anti-abortion group begins bracelet drive

UPLAND — Mrs. John Stanley of Pomona is chairman of the new Bracelets for Life Committee of the Pomona Valley-West End Right to Life League, an anti-abortion organization.

The bracelets, Mrs. Stanely said, are similar in concept to the POW bracelets. "They will serve a dual purpose of declaring the wearer's positive view of life and of protesting the Supreme Court decision that a fetus is not a person in the full sense," she explained.

The silver nickel alloy bracelets have black etchings of the Greek letters A and Z and a circle with spokes symbolizing the continuity of life from conception to its natural end at death.

The date of the Supreme Court decision, Jan. 22, is engraved on the bracelet. "The bracelets become a point of conversation for those who wish to defend the unborn," said Mrs. Stanley.

Those interested in obtaining bracelets may call Mrs. Stanley at 629-5763. The cost is $3.25 each. Orders also may be placed by writing the Pomona Valley-West End Right to Life League, Box 651, Upland 91786.

The league's Lifeline telephone number, where counseling may be obtained, is 985-0205.

Veteran postal workers retire

ONTARIO — Post office employes have bidden farewell Saturday to the last of the city's "old time" workers.

John Lenert, 69, last of the employes who worked at the old post office building which was located just south of the present structure, retired after 32 years of service.

Lenert, a 1922 graduate of Chaffey College, served as chief of maintenance for the post office.

Joining Lenert in retirement was Pedro S. Murillo, 62, who retired after 16 years of postal service. A former professional baseball player in the old Pacific Coast League, Murillo worked as a distribution clerk.

Light navel orange crop seen for W.E.

SAN BERNARDINO — Hot spells and a "June" drop may cause a light navel orange crop here.

"A late blossom and fruit setting period was followed by sudden hot spells, a flush of new tree growth and June drop," reported Warren Burr, assistant county agricultural commissioner.

These conditions may also affect both the valencia orange and grapefruit crops, he added.

A new growth of lemons, associated with a light bloom, is becoming evident under the influence of hot spells. "Present indications are also a short lemon crop for next season," said Burr.

Workers are now picking valencia oranges. The fruit size continues below normal. Those oranges diverted to processing are running from 35 to 50 per cent due to small sizes, wind and thrip scars, regreening and frost damage, he noted.

"Domestic sales are slow while export demand is good," said Burr. "The present estimates are now 300 field boxes per acre, with 25 per cent of the crop harvested."

Lemon picking was only slight during June as the season neared an end. By mid-summer, however, light picking is forecast when the new season begins.

Fruit from the old crop is rapidly moving out of storage as domestic shipments continue heavy. Exports, were reduced during the month.

In other crops, Burr reported leafhoppers are posing a problem to grape growers and the sweet corn harvest began July 1.

Third of Chino students taking summer classes

CHINO — More than a third of the Chino School District students are spending part of their summer vacations back in the classroom.

Officials report 3,048 students attending regular classes at nine schools, plus 521 enrolled in swimming sessions and 10 in speech therapy.

This is a 3 per cent increase over summer enrollment last year.

Chino High School has the largest attendance with 435 students, followed by Newman Elementary School with 433 and Don Antonio Lugo High School, 415.

Other schools include: E. J. Marshall School, 356; Ramona School, 338; Gird Primary School, 272; Los Serranos and Glenmeade Schools, 251; El Rancho School, 160; and Gird Elementary School, 129.

CHINO — David S. Niererk of Chino is one of 61 Civil Air Patrol (CAP) cadets attending a space flight orientation at the NASA-Marshall Space Flight Center in Alabama.

He will return home following a tour of the nearby Army Missile and Munitions Center on Wednesday.

Mail delivery routes may change slighty

ONTARIO — Residents here may notice a change in the delivery time of their mail and possibly a new carrier serving them.

"Every year we are required to inspect the carrier routes, and based on the statistics of each route—such as the volume of mail, time required to sort case and deliver the mail—regular routes must be adjusted to as close as eight hours daily as possible," explained Charles F. Linck, postmaster.

This is difficult to do as each carrier and each delivery route are usually different, he added. "This year, in an effort to increase mail delivery productivity, carriers are being adjusted to routes which mostly have been increased about 10 per cent."

This is in keeping with the national delivery requirements and regional budgetary demands, said Linck.

On a normal day, a carrier should be able to handle his regular route in eight hours. On heavy mail volume days, however, he will probably require assistance or overtime to complete the route.

"Residents are urged to be understanding of their mail delivery situation as carriers attempt to adjust to their new delivery areas and duties," he said.

"This adjustment, coupled with the present heat wave, makes the carrier job very difficult."

Chino Basin Water District proud of new cleaning device

CUCAMONGA — The Chino Basin Municipal Water District (CBMWD) has purchased a $60,000 sewer cleaning machine which may clean five times as much line per year at one-fourth the cost.

"With conventional equipment, a crew of four or five men normally can clean 500 to 1,000 feet of sewer line per day at an average cost of 50 to 75 cents per foot," said Andrew Schlange, CBMWD general manager.

The new "Vacto-Jet Rodder," a combination sewer cleaner and catch basin cleaning machine, will average 3,000 feet of sewer line daily at a cost of under 10 cents per foot, he added.

"The water pump in the machine creates a surging action which overcomes obstruction and blockages in the line. The nozzle is reeled back through the pipe, dislodging grit, grease, sludge, small roots and other objects.

"The vacuum portion of the equipment sucks up this debris by means of a suction pipe lowered into the manhole, and conveys it to the receiving tank, thus completing the cleaning of the sewer line and removal of the material from the system in a single operation."

The district seeks to clean 50 miles of non-reclaimable waste line and 100 miles of interceptor sanitary sewage lines every two years in its preventive maintenance program.

2 more sewing sessions set

The sewing class will begin July 23 and will be held Mondays from 9:30 a.m. to noon, also at Magnolia Recreation Center. The fee is also $8 for four weeks.

Friends, foes join in praising Ryan

United Press International

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Robinson has batted against all the best pitchers in both leagues over the last 15 years, including Nolan Ryan, and he says his current teammate with the California Angels rates right up there with the best of them.

"He throws as hard as anybody I've ever seen," said Robinson, the only man ever to win the Most Valuable Player award in both leagues. "His curve ball made him, not his fast ball. He threw a lot of curves out there.

"In fact," he added with a big grin, "he struck me out three times and I wasn't even playing."

Both California teammates and Detroit rivals joined in praising Ryan after the young righthander threw his second no-hitter of the season Sunday as the Angels beat the Tigers, 6-0. Ryan struck out 17 batters, the most by any pitcher in a no-hit game. He walked four batters.

No Detroit batter reached second base, every Tiger in the lineup struck out at least once, and there was only one hard-hit ball for the California fielders to handle. That came with one out in the ninth inning when Gates Brown drilled a line drive that had Detroit shortstop Rudy Meoli, only 5-9, stretching as high as he could to snare it.

"Pitching against as good a hitting team as Detroit is right now is really doing a job," Manager Bobby Winkles of California said.

"He is as good, stuffwise, as any pitcher in the game today," Winkles said.

"It's kind of hard to compare him with the greats right now," teammate Vada Pinson said, "but he's got a great future ahead of him."

Duke Sims, who struck out three times against Ryan, at first said he was "embarrassed" but thought about it and admitted there was nothing shameful in being overmatched.

"I've had no-hitters thrown against me," Sims said, "but never as overpowering as that one."

"It's a hard thing to do a nohitter," the Detroit catcher said. "A shutout is hard enough, but to throw a no-hitter with 17 or 18 punch-outs (strikeouts) . . .

"The thing is he only threw 126 pitches. Normally when you strike out as many as he did, you're going to throw 150-160 pitches," Sims said. "It's incredible."

"I wanted the no-hitter," Ryan admitted. "I'd rather have that than the strikeout record. I think, with the stuff I had, I'll get another chance at that."

Singles by Art Kusnyer and Sandy Alomar plus Pinson's sacrifice fly in the third inning kept Ryan clinging to a 1-0 lead until the Angels exploded like their pitcher's fastball for five runs in the eighth.

Until that outburst, Ryan said later, he was more worried about winning the game than anything else—and if you know Nolan Ryan you know that wasn't just talk.

But Winston Llenas and Al Gallagher each singled home two runs and Bob Oliver singled home one to pin Jim Perry with his ninth loss against nine wins.

Kusnyer's single broke an 0-for-30 slump and was his first hit since May 5 while Llenas' hit, his 11th in 27 pinch-hit tries, enabled him to establish a new club mark with 13 pinch runs batted in.

Ryan is only 11-11 this season and his earned run average only slightly below 3.00 despite the two hitless games. His other was May 15 at Kansas City, when he struck out 12 and walked three in a 3-0 win.

This time he let it be known to the 41-411 fans who showed up on Cap Day that he was superb right away. Ryan struck out 12 of the first 14 outs Detroit made.

"Either his fastball or his curve should be outlawed, they're that tough," home plate umpire Ron Luciano said after the game, and after Ryan had been mobbed by his teammates and given a standing ovation by the crowd.

Ryan, who's only 26, now has 220 strikeouts this season, more at this time of the year than any pitcher has ever had. Sandy Koufax' season record of 382 is in definite jeopardy if Ryan stays healthy.

"He doesn't need any superlatives," shortstop Ed Brinkman of Detroit said. "You just have to watch him pitch."

RYAN'S NO-HIT FORM

This is what American League hitters must face when they bat against the Angels' no-hit ace, Nolan Ryan.

McCluskey can't beat Foyt

By United Press International

Roger McCluskey could get a complex the way he keeps losing to A.J. Foyt.

On July 1, McCluskey was leading the Pocono 500 when he ran out of gas on the last lap and Foyt cruised past to win his second United States Auto Club championship race of the year.

They finished in the same order Sunday when A.J. scored a 6.3 second beat on McCluskey in a USAC stock car race at the Michigan International Speedway. Foyt averaged 134.429 miles an hour.

The second place finish ruined McCluskey's chance for a double on the day. The Tucson, Ariz., driver opened his bid for the "iron man" stunt earlier when he beat Johnny Rutherford by 24.4 seconds in the championship car half of the Twin 200 with an average speed of 161.146 miles an hour.

McCluskey, point leader in the USAC driver standings, earned $21,076 for his day's work, including a $17,250 check for the first race victory.

Mike Keyser and Bob Beasley's Porsche Carrera staged a 5½-hour battle with the Horst Kwech-Harry Theodoracopulos Capri and won the International Motor Sports Association Camel GT Challenge at Mid-Ohio when their rivals were forced into a lengthy pit stop with a broken axle shaft just 30 minutes from the finish.

The Keyser-Beasley tandem averaged 81.634 miles an hour to beat the Corvette of runnerup Ike Knupp, Allan Barker and Mike Murray. Kwech and Theodoracopulos finished third.

The team of Nick Craw and John Morton won the six-hour B.F. Goodrich Radial Challenge race on the 2.4 mile Mid-Ohio course Saturday, leading a 1-2-3 BMW finish.

Bob Sharp, driving a Datson dealer 610, beat pole sitter John McCombe's Triumph in a Sports Car Club of America production race at Pocono Raceway. In a Sunday co-feature, Sharp lost to Bob Tullius' Triumph when he gambled on using rain tires and an expected downpour did not materialize.

Heavy rain forced postponement of Sunday's scheduled National Northern 300 stock car race at the Trenton Speedway. The race was put over to Aug. 5, with defending champion Bobby Allison maintaining the pole position when the race goes off next month.

In Saturday's big overseas race, Peter Revson became only the fifth American to win a Grand Prix Formula One race when he captured the British GP in a Works McLaren-Ford. An eight-car accident on the first lap, precipitated by Jody Scheckter's tire blow out, forced Can-Am leader George Follmer out of the race.

Revson was the first American to win a GP race since Mario Andretti's victory in the 1971 South African Grand Prix.

Ryan's no-hitter was for Angels

By United Press International

Nolan Ryan really wanted a no-hitter Sunday, but not for himself, for someone else.

Corny as it sounds, he wanted it for the California Angels, and they needed one more than Nolan Ryan did.

He had pitched a no-hitter against the Kansas City Royals on May 15 and when he duplicated the feat against the Detroit Tigers Sunday, Ryan became the first pitcher in 20 years to pitch two no-hitters in the same season.

Ryan, a fireballing 26-year-old righthander from Alvin, Tex., struck out 12 of the first 14 batters he retired as the California Angels blanked the Tigers, 6-0. Ryan finished with 17 strikeouts—the most ever in a no-hit game—before a Cap Day crowd of 41,411 in Detroit. Ryan walked four batters.

The victory broke a four-game California losing streak and snapped a winning string of five games for the Tigers. It marked the second time this season that a no-hitter has been thrown against Detroit.

"I really wanted it," said Ryan, who rarely talks about himself. "The club needed it and I needed it."

The Angeles, in third place, are 4½ games behind the Oakland A's in the American League's tight Western Division scramble.

"I haven't pitched that well recently," said Ryan, who places a high premium on the club's overall success and accepts personal achievements with modesty.

"I think Nolie feels that for us to be a contender he has to have a good second half," Winkles said. "He's made up his mind he's going to have a good second half even if we don't get him any runs."

In other American League action, New York stopped Kansas City, 2-0, Oakland downed Milwaukee, 8-5, Minnesota edged Cleveland in 10 innings, 7-6, Baltimore edged Chicago, 3-2, and Boston beat Texas, 3-1 in a rain-shortened 5½ inning game.

Roy White singled home two runs in the eighth inning to back up the combined four-hit pitching of Sam McDowell and Sparky Lyle in New York's win over Kansas City. McDowell, 4-1, allowed three hits while walking seven and fanning seven. Lyle pitched the ninth to pick up his 24th save of the year.

Bill North's ninth-inning double drove in two runs and Reggie Jackson added a two-run home run as Oakland scored four runs in the ninth for a victory over Milwaukee. Dick Green and Bert Campaneris singled in the ninth. With one out, North doubled to score Green and Campaneris and with two outs, Jackson hit his 20th home run into the right field bleachers.

Danny Thompson's one-out sacrifice fly in the 10th inning scored pinch-runner Mike Adams and gave Minnesota a victory over Cleveland. Adams entered the game as a pinchrunner for Tony Oliva, who walked to lead off the 10th, and took second when George Mitterwald walked and third on a walk to Jim Holt.

Successive eighth-inning home runs by George Mitterwald, Joe Lis and Jim Holt gave the Twins a 6-5 lead but Buddy Bell singled home the tying run in the ninth. The homers erased a 5-3 lead supplied earlier in the inning on a three-run homer by George Hendrick, his 19th.

Dwight Evans cracked a solo homer in the second inning to give Boston a victory over Texas. Evans snapped a 1-1 tie with his fifth homer of the year into the left field screen with one out in the second. Rain delayed the start of the game for 2 hours and 52 minutes and showers persisted throughout the contest before it finally was called.

Baltimore erupted for three runs on four hits in the top of the sixth inning to edge Chicago. The winning rally started when Mark Belanger doubled and Al Bumbry singled Belanger home. Paul Blair walked and Tommy Davis singled to score Bumbry before Earl Williams singled home the third run.

Prep fans get more action

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Staff Writer

AZUSA — Prep football fans attending Thursday's San Gabriel Valley All-Star football game at Citrus College will get something extra.

12 more minutes of football than they're used to.

Under the rules of the All-Star game quarters will be played in the 15-minute segments that professionals operate under.

High school games normally are played in 12-minute quarters.

The extra three minutes that are tacked onto each period presents unique conditioning problems that are compounded by the gap in time between a player's last game, probably late last November or early December.

Both East and West have had to cram conditioning and practice into the last two weeks before the game — and the effects of the lay-off and lengthened playing time may have an effect on play Thursday night.

East head coach Ken Gunn thinks the playing time will, indeed, be a factor to consider.

"The 15-minute quarter gives us quite a conditioning problem," says Gunn. "It is quite different from a normal game. Three more minutes may not seem like a long time, but to those guys down on the field it is."

The timing isn't the only difference.

Each team is limited in the number of formations it can assume during the game, which will make for a pretty conventional game plan.

The reasoning behind the field rules is prevention of injury.

The purpose of the game is to showcase great players at the peak of their careers, not to curtail those careers.

West coach Dick Salter explains the effect of formation limitiation.

"We want, above all, to protect individuals. It would be a shame to have a defensive back red-dog through the line and have a leg broken.

"Another protective rule is that when you line up to punt, you must punt. Something like a tackle-eligible play has been thrown out altogether.

"We're now locked into three offensive sets. We must always line five players up, at least, on the line in order to snap the ball."

Salter is particularly concerned about injury to this year's All-Star team.

"It's been a great plasure to work with a group of kids eager to sacrifice their plans for football. It's a privilege to work for a greater charity." (Proceeds from the game go to Casa Colina hospital in Pomona.)

"Rewards in many forms have come to these players for their participation in football. This is their chance to give some back to charity."

Gunn concurs with Salter's judgment of this year's crop of All-Stars. "The one thing that has really improved is the enthusiasm. Each young man we called was really eager to play, with the exception of one who had to work. The Game has increased in stature. Students, players, and coaches all over are really looking forward to it."

Rams welcome more veterans

FULLERTON, Calif. (UPI) — Twenty-nine more veterans, headed by all-pros Merlin Olsen and Tom Mack, checked into the Los Angeles Rams' camp Sunday night.

The Rams disclosed that 10-year safetyman Jerry Logan, obtained during the off-season from the Baltimore Colts for a draft choice, had told them he was retiring.

Coach Chuck Knox said the Rams—now 84 strong—will work out in the morning and the afternoon Monday.

Olsen, the 12-year defensive tackle, and Mack, the 11-year offensive guard, are among 46 veterans in camp.

Killebrew sets knee operation

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Hermon Killebrew, the Minnesota Twins' ailing slugger, will undergo an operation on his left knee July 23 and is expected to be lost for the remainder of the season.

A Twins' spokesman said Killebrew will be operated on for a torn medial cartiledge and could be available to the Twins in six or eight weeks. He suffered the injury June 25 while batting against the Chicago White Sox.

Killebrew is batting .245 this season with three homers and 26 runs batted in.

Broken jaw KOs Shavers from fight

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI) — Heavyweight Earnie Shavers suffered a broken jaw in a workout at the Grossinger Country Club Sunday and he will be unable to fulfill a scheduled date against Jerry Quarry on July 25.

It is estimated that the fifth ranking Shavers will be out of the ring for at least six months.

The accident happened in the second round of a two-round workout with sparring partner Jeff Merritt. Shavers, of Warren, Ohio, was taken to the Community General Hospital in Liberty, N.Y., where he was found to have a fracture of both sides of the jaw after an examination by Dr. Seymour Bessen.

Bassen, who wired the jaw Sunday night, reported that Shavers had a fractured mandible with fractures on the right side of his face to the top near the temple and along the lower left hand side of the jaw.

Shavers, who has a record of 45 wins and two losses, was placed in intensive care following the operation and will remain in the hospital at least a week.

An official for Madison Square Garden said that another opponent for Quarry might be found.

Sizzling hot Dodgers spoil Cubs' party

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Midway through Sunday's game between the Dodgers and Chicago Cubs, the visitors' announcer, Jack Brickhouse, wandered through the pressbox.

"Baseball is no fun anymore," he said with a wry grin.

At that time, Brickhouse's Cubs were merely trailing 5-2. It got worse for the Chicagoans before the game ended.

What was to have been a showdown between the leaders of the National League's East and West divisions a possible preview of the playoffs turned out to be a disaster for the Cubbies.

With Claude Osteen junkballing the slump-ridden Cub hitters into submission and Dodger batters pounding Chicago ace Rick Reuschel (10-6) and his successors for nine runs on 13 hits, the ambitious young Dodgers rolled over the Cubs, 9-3, leaving the dazed and battered Chicagoans to reel out of Dodger Stadium with their East lead cut to two games over the hot St Louis Cardianls who edged San Diego 5-4.

Meanwhile, the Dodgers, rolling merrily on their way again, retained their seven game lead in the West.

In the three games, the major league-leading Dodger hitters for team average) mauled Cub hurling for 31 hits and scored 21 runs while the Cubs could manager only six.

Only some three minor injuries marred the day for the high-flying Angelenos.

Willie Davis suffered what was described as a "minor muscle spasm" in his left hamstring just after rounding first base on what still turned out to be a triple in the seventh inning. Davis hippity-hopped his way around second and safely into the third.

He's expected to be out just a "couple of games."

Bill Russell the other irreplaceable on the Dodger roster, was hit on the left elbow by a Reuschel pitch in sixth inning. Russell remained in the game and afterward said the bruise didn't bother him much.

Winning pitcher Osteen (11-5) has been bothered by an aching elbow on his pitching arm and had doubts about his durability before and during the game.

"I came to the ball park wondering what kind of stuff I'd have," he remarked as he sat in the trainer's room, his left arm immersed in ice.

"I told them (manager Walter Alston and pitching coach Red Adams) in the fifth inning that my arm was aching and I didn't know how far I could go," he revealed. "I don't know what caused it. I've had it for a couple of days. It's just kind of a tired ache."

The aching arm caused Osteen to pitch an entirely different kind of game.

"I didn't seem to have too much so I went to what I call my offspeed stuff, slow curves and changes," he continued. As a result, when I did throw a fast ball, it seemed faster than it really was."

What Osteen did have in abundance was control. Of his 108 pitches, 76 were strikes. He didn't walk anyone and struck out five.

"The last two or three innings, I had a heck of a time just throwing the first pitch," he related. "My arm really stiffto get my arm up anyway and this really threw my game off."

The middle of the Dodger batting order was most productive this sunny, cool Sunday afternoon.

Davis went 2-for-4, batted in his 55th and 56th runs, scored his63rd and 64th, and raised his average to .304.

Joe Ferguson had two singles and a walk, batted in his 51st and 52nd runs, scored his 47th and 48th, and jacked his average up to .281.

But batting honors went to Willie Crawford who smashed a wrong field home run in the third inning to account for three of the five Dodger runs i that stanza and a double in the seventh.

Willie C. brought his RBI total to 38, his runs scored to 47, and raised his average to .308.

"I had a felling I'd hit one out today," the one-time $100,000 bonus baby said. "I hit a hanging hook. I finally have learned how to think positive about this game. That's why I'm enjoying this year so much."

All of Crawford's seven homers have been hit at Dodger Stadium. "I guess," he grinned," I just like hitting in front of the home crowd."

Steve Garvey ripped two singles and batted in two runs. Garvey now is batting. 328. He has hit safely in seven of the last eight games (13-for-33. . .329).

The Cubs scored in the first on a leadoff double by Rick Monday and two infield outs. They added another in the third inning on Monday's single and a checked-swing double by Billy Williams.

The third run came in the eighth inning on Jose Cardenal's infield hit and Ron Santo's double.

The Dodgers bunched their hits to score five times on five hits in the third, once o two hits in the fifth, and three times on four hits in the seventh.

It marked the 27th time this year the club has come from behind to win.

DODGER NOTES — The Dodgers flew out of Los Angeles for Pittsburgh right after Sunday's game. They open a three-game series with the Pirates tonight.

Don Sutton, Andy Messersmith, and Tommy John will oppose Nelson Briles, Luke Walker, and Dock Ellis.

Sunday's 42,975 paid attendance brought the total for the three games with the Cubs to 145,903 and the season total to 1,300.175. The Dodgers now are only 37,668 behind their last two million-plus season, 1971.

The Dodgers played errorless ball Sunday. They have made only 69 in 94 games this season. Last year thef passed the 100 mark in miscues and had 101 in 93 games. The infield has made only 46 errors compared to 74 last year.

McCovey hits 400th HR

By United Press International

Willie McCovey's approach to "getting even" with those wonderful folks who were responsible for sitting him on the bench five days ago, seems like a good way of getting back.

He hit two home runs Sunday to become one of only 15 major league players ever to reach the 400-mark as the San Francisco Giants ripped the Pittsburgh Pirates 12-0..

"It could have been a bigger thrill. I don't feel I have to be put in the position of having to prove anything." said McCovey, who at the age of 34 this season has hit 17 homers and batted in 43 runs.

The two shots by McCovey paced a 15-hit Giant attack and gave him 17 for the season, adding to a total of 401 lifetime.

Juan Marichal pitched the Giants over the Pirates, allowing four hits to gain credit for his seventh victory in 12 decisions.

"This game certainly restored my confidence," said Marichal, "Now I feel like I'm earning my money. I didn't feel that way in the bullpen where I hardly pitched at all and wasn't helping the team."

Also Lending support were Garry Maddox and Ed Goodson with two run homers as the Giants piled up 10 hits off four Pirate hurlers.

San Francisco completed the rout with five more runs in the eighth off rookie Tom Dettore. Key hits were a two-run single by Gary Matthews, a two-run double by Mike Phillips and a run-scoring double by Bobby Bonds.

In other National League games, Los Angeles beat Chicago 9-3, Atlanta toppled Montreal 6-1, Houston blanked Philadelphia 2-0 in a rain shortened game and St. Louis edged San Diego 5-4 in 15 innings.

Willie Crawford hit a three-run homer and a double and Willie Davis added a two-run single and triple as the Dodgers whipped the Cubs to complete a three game sweep of the series between the divisional leaders.

By capturing their fifth victory in a row, the Dodgers maintained their seven-game bulge over San Francisco in the NL West. Dodgers' left-hander Claude Osteen went the distance to register his 11th victory in 16 decisions.

Ron Schueler scattered five hits in leading Atlanta to its 11th victory in 15 starts by beating the Expos. The Braves broke away with five runs on five hits and three walks in the third inning. The key hit was Johnny Oates' single that drove in Schueler and Ralph Garr.

Ross Grimsley picked up his ninth victory against five losses as the Reds topped New York. Grimsley had a perfect game until Jim Beauchamp beat out an infield single with one out in the fifth inning. He allowed only three other hits, one of them a leadoff homer in the seventh inning by Willie Mays, his fourth of the season and the 658th of his career.

Dave Roberts blanked the Phillies in a rain-snortened 5½- inning game and the Astros used RBI singles by Doug Rader and Bob Watson to beat Philadelphia. Roberts has now beaten the Phillies eight straight times.

Bernie Carbo doubled with two out in the top of the 15th inning to drive in Ken Reitz from first base with the winning run as St. Louis outlasted the Padres. The win moved the Cardinals to within two games of the first-place Cubs in the Eastern Division.

Pomona 30 sweeps series over S. Gabriel

SAN GABRIEL —Pomona Post 30 stayed in the thick of the red-hot District playoff race Sunday completing a weekend series sweep with a 7-4 romp over San Gabriel.

Greg Ballard started and went five innings allowing a scratch singles in five innings of work, one of his most impressive outings of the year.

Mark Lambert picked up Ballard and was touched up for four hits and four runs in the sixth before retiring the final seven batters he faced.

Larry Pekarcik pitched outstanding ball in his two inning stint. The righthander struck out seven batters, one reached base via a pass ball, in his best showing of the year.

The Gems scored once in he first and two runs in the second, third, and fourth frames while racking up 17 hits, giving them 33 safeties in the two games.

Jeff Corkill had three hits including a triple, Keith Thomas matched the three-hit effort, while Wil Lewallen, Roger Slayton, Greg Gallard, and Eddie Carmean added two hits each. In fact, the only starter without a hit was Bobby Chaulk. Ballard picked up two ribbies.

La Verne shows muscle

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — Confidence is a must in any endeavor. In baseball it's a necessity. Besides being good, talented and lucky the better clubs must believe they are capable of beating any other club.

La Verne Post 330 called on its strongest characteristic—confidence—Sunday afternoon and made believers out of West Covina Post 790.

The big club blasted five round-trippers while pitchers Jim Vallone and Greg Thompson checked West Covina on four hits en route to a 12-1 rout.

La Verne, now 26-11 for the season and 11-5 (including a pair forfeit wins from Glendora scheduled for next weekend), in District 18 play can now relax and enjoy its waiting role.

Covina (12-1), West Covina (10-4), Pomona (9-5), and Arcadia (8-5) are still waging the battle for the four playoff spots. Covina, who plays South Pasadena in a make-up game Tuesday and Arcadia next Saturday and Sunday, appears to have locked up the conference title and the number one seed in the district playoffs.

West Covina looks to have a berth in the playoffs, finishes up with La Puente for a pair of games. While La Verne is assured of at least a tie for the third or fourth spot, Pomona and Arcadia must win their remaining games to get the at-large spot. The Gems have the easier schedule against South Pasadena (6-6) while Arcadia plays South Pasadena for a singleton Wednesday and league-leading Covina Friday and Saturday.

Vallone (9-7) drew a few oohs and ahs from the partisan fans as the southpaw, who started yesterday's ball game in which La Verne dropped 9-7 despite a five-run ninth inning rally, got the starting nod again and hurled starting nod again and hurled seven innings of two-hit ball.

The 'golden arm', who didn't allow a hit until a fifth inning nubber by Chuck Taylor, escape a touchy fourth frame unscathed. Vallone plunked Tony Robles with a curve and Frank Marini reached first by an error.

Following an argument with the umpire in which the lefthander felt he'd picked Marini off first, Thompson (catcher) picked Robles off second base. Bob Adams struck out and Dave Snyder grounded out to end the threat.

While Vallone displayed the poise from the rubber, Thompson and company supplied the sock.

Thompson broke a scoreless deadlock in the fifth with a grand slam home run, smashing Jim Worth's 3-1 fastball far over the left field screen (320-foot mark) scoring Rick Ortega who had doubled and Vallone and Mark Willman who had loaded the bases on back-to-back walks.

West Covina's only run came in the seventh when Adams opened with a double, advanced to third on a wild pitch and scored on a ground out by Jim Boyles.

Post 330 bounced right back with a pair of runs in the bottom of the frame when Ortega reached on an error and Mark Willman blasted a home run, his sixth of the year. It was his 25th and 26th RBI's of the season.

La Verne closed its scoring with a six-run eighth inning. Dave Alexander walked and Jim Richards singled. Al Ascosta then blasted a Worth-fastball for a three-run home run, his first of the year and giving him 18 ribbies. Ortega thrilled the fans by matching the fete with a roundtripper over the left-center field fence, his third four-bagger of the year and 16th RBI. Following Willman's double, Thompson hit his circuit clout of the game, this time a curve ball that hung, over the left-center field screen, his two round-trippers and six RBI's gives him five and 27 respectively—very respectively.

Besides Thompson's two hits, Willman collected three with Oretega garnering a pair of extra base hits.

Thompson, incidently, hurled the final two frames, allowing two harmless singles.

La Verne's confidence will have to pay off in the past season activity as it will be without the services of Mark Bumstead, who suffered a hairline fracture of a lower lumbar vertebrae in yesterday's game, and Willman who will only see weekend duty because of a job. Pitcher Brian Ranney may miss the playoffs because of a sore arm suffered from a hit pitch.

Post 330 had 14 hits to steady its .310 team batting average.

Walnut earns playoff bid

POMONA — Walnut Connie Mack assured itself of a San Gabriel Valley Connie Mack League playoff berth Sunday afternoon with a 2-1 squeaker over powerful Industry behind the superb pitching of Bobby Salas.

Claremont Connie Mack, who has but to win one of its three remaining league games to earn a playoff berth, rallied for the second day in-a-row before falling on the short end of a 6-4 non-league decision to Covina Post 207.

Montclair, who received a forefeit win from San Bernardino, blanked Chino Post 299 6-0 in a non-league encounter behind the four-hit pitching of Tim Price.

Walnut earned its playoff spot with a ninth inning run in its narrow win over powerful Industry, who dropped its third game in 17 league decisions.

Lance Parrish opened the ninth with a walk and advanced to third base on Gerard Piccioni's single to right field. Jim Vallandingham then sent the Industry shortstop deep into the whole for a grounder, who threw too late to second trying to force Piccioni while Parrish was scoring the winning run.

Salas (4-3) mixed his pitches well, keeping Industry off balance with an excellent change and a fine curve, chaulked up 10 strikeouts and only walked two batters in going the route.

Chris Chaney, who suffered the heartbreaking defeat, is now 10-2.

Walnut plays West Covina Legion in a non-league tilt Tuesday at MSAC before concluding its league season Thursday at home against Industry.

Claremont, for the second straight day, fell to defeat despite late inning rallies, this time to Covina Legion.

The Cardinals, who yesterday scored six times in the final three frames and lost 8-7, trailed 6-0 before coming back with a run in the fifth and three tallies in the sixth.

Harry Brown (2-3) started for Claremont and allowed eight hits and six walks over the first four innings before settling down stifle Covina without a hit the rest of the way.

Dave Stanton and Gary Bach led the Cards wih two hits each. Stanton's performance included a double and two RBI's.

Jack Helber's club concludes its campaign hosting Bassett today in a 5:30 p.m. tiff at Pomona College with John Huddleston (7-5) getting the starting nod. Tuesday and Wednesday Claremont travels for a pair of games with league foe Glendora.

Claremont needs only one win in the three games to gain a post season berth.

Montclair received a shot in the arm as hurler Tim Price threw a four-hit shutout over Chino Post 299.

The righthander started off shagily, yielding back-to-back singles to Paul Brionnes and Manny Delgado before settling down to retire the next 17 batters in a row. The string was broken by Delgado's sixth inning safety.

Montclair was given a forfeit win from the now disbanded San Bernardino club. The game was to have been a completion of a 2-2 game played June 27.

Montclair blasted out 14 hits including Mike Pittman's triple. Pittman, who is hitting at a .358 clip, added a single and an RBI to the offense.

Jim Brown, who recently returned from an injury (broken collarbone), contributed three singles and a run-batted-in as did Kevin McLean, also three hits. Brown has 14 hits in 30 at-bats since returning to the lineup.

Coach Bob Lastoski's crew can clinch a tie for the District 25 Division 1 Championship Tuesday night when it travels to Apple Valley for an 8 p.m. meeting. Montclair won 8-3 earlier in the season.

Botts defeats Jacobs in PGA match play

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former tour pro Rafe Botts of Los Angeles became the first black man to capture the Southern California PGA match play championship Sunday, beating Tommy Jacobs on the 35th hole of a scheduled 36-hole match

"Winning this tournament means a lot to me," said the 36-year-old Botts. "I feel it's a major event and it's my first big win."

Jacobs, 38, the head pro at the La Costa Country club, was trying to become the first man in 23 years to take the tournament three straight times.

By winning the 49th annual event, Botts gained an exemption to the PGA national tournament at Cleveland Aug. 9-12 and all tour events in California next year.

"I'm mad at myself for playing so poorly," said Jacobs, also an ex-tour pro. "I haven't played too much under pressure this year and I just didn't do the job."

Playing in his first Southern California event, Botts built up a big lead and then withstood Jacobs' late challenge.

Down seven holes early in the afternoon round, Jacobs won the 25th, 27th, 28th, 31st and 32nd holes to slice his deficit to two with four holes remaining.

Then came a lucky bounce that blunted Jacobs' comeback.

Botts hit an iron over the 15th green—the 33rd hole — that hit a woman spectator in the head and bounced onto the putting surface. He then parred the hole to halve Jacobs.

"That was the turning point in the match,' admitted Botts.

The woman was not seriously injured.

In consolation matches, Dave Hart defeated Gerry Preuss 4-2, Eddie Merrins won over Wally Bradley 4-3 and Dennie Meyer turned back Terry Ferraro 2 up.

Hank Aaron sidelined

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hank Aaron was sidelined as the Atlanta Braves beat the Montreal Expos, 6-1, Sunday and still needs 17 more home runs to tie Babe Ruth's all-time career mark of 714.

Aaron hit the 697th homer of his career against the Expos Friday night.

FLYING START — Italian skier Alessandro Casse moves down the slope after a flying start to beat his world record at 114.227 MPH on third day of international contest at Cervinia, Italy.

McKay won't scrimmage 'Stars

CHICAGO (UPI) — If any of the 1973 College All Stars can't play against the Miami Dolphins in the annual pro-collegian football contest July 27, it'll be because they get hurt "eating ice cream."

Coach John McKay doesn't plan any scrimmages for his pro rookies before game time.

"It's my theory they don't need it," he said. "If any of them are going to get hurt, let them get hurt eating ice cream."

McKay, coach of the unbeaten national champion Southern California team last fall, said his club is "as physical as the average pro team."

McKay believed too that his players have as much speed as the pros.

"We've got backs as fast as Mercury Morris," he said, "and as big as Larry Csonka. And we think we have defensive backs as fast as their receivers."

McKay said "everybody seems surprised" that he plans no scrimmages, and laughed as he added, "the pro's spent $10 million drafting these players.

"If they can't play, I think they spent a lot of money for nothing. If I got to scrimmage four hours to find out who's tough, they ought to hire me to tell them who to draft."

Regardless, he said, "We're going to play everybody and we expect them to be ready to play. We didnt bring anybody here to sit on the bench."

McKay's coaching theory is the same he used with the Trojans in that he had a minimum of scrimmages. "It worked out well," he said.

Some of his current players worked for him earlier this summer in the East-West All Star game at Lubbock, Texas, so he got an idea what they could do and they did get contact in the game.

"We have a little one-on-one and one-on-two drills," he said of the current All Stars. "They're in good shape, so we work two hours a day on the field and an hour and a half on mental drills. Mistakes are the things that lose games and we want to work to prevent them.

"This is not a proven team," he added. "The pro's are. When two All Star teams play, mistakes can even out. So if we lose this, everybody will say it's because we didn't scrimmage."

Of course the All Stars haven't beaten the pros since 1962 and every team since has scrimmaged. Until this year.

Dallas may fine Morton

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — Veteran quarterback Craig Morton, who arrived at the Dallas Cowboys training camp early but walked out in a salary dispute, faces daily fines if he doesn't report with the rest of the team's veterans tonight.

Morton, who has battled Roger Staubach for the starting position the last two years, says he wants to change some of the incentive clauses in his present contract for a higher basic salary. He said he is prepared to quit football if the team does not meet his requests.

A team spokesman said Cowboys president Tex Schramm did not talk with Morton Sunday, and that the team was not trying to trade the former University of California quarterback.

Last year's starting Dallas center, Dave Manders, also is not in camp because of a contract dispute.

Dallas rookies scrimmaged the Los Angeles Rams' rookies during the weekend.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harry Gilmer was an All-American tailback for Alabama although he weighted only 160 pounds.

Beman wins Robinson Open, pleased to play solid golf

ROBINSON, Ill. (UPI) — Deane Beman was happy to pick up the $25,000 first prize money in the $125,000 Shrine Robinson Open Golf Classic, but he was even more pleased that he put his game together again.

"I played very solid golf," said the 35-year-old Bethesda, Md., title winner after his victory Sunday. "I drove the ball very well and the way I am playing now you can put me on any golf course in the country and I can play it."

Beman, with rounds of 69-68-67-67, had a total of 13-under-par 271 on the par-71, 6,355 6-yard Crawford County Country Club course to win by one stroke over Bunky Henry and Bob Dickson, each of whom picked up $11,562.

Chuck Courtney was alone in fourth with 273 for $5,875 while Larry Hinson was fifth with a 274 and earned $5,125. A tie for sixth at 275 gave George Archer and Andy North $4,250 each.

A birdie that Beman scored on the 68th hole proved the deciding stroke and kept the tourney from going into overtime for the fifth consecutive year. The last four Classics were settled by sudden death play, a PGA record. Beman, whose last victory came in the 1972 Quad-Cities Open following a 1969 win in the Texas Open and the 1970 Milwaukee Open, gave a large share of credit in his victory to a friend, Carl Lohran, golf pro at the Glenhead North Shore Country Club in Long Island.

"He helped straighten out my game," Beman said.

First money brought the former U.S. amateur champion's career earnings to $364,067.

The $11,562 share of second place money represented a bonanza for the hard luck Henry of Valdosta, Ga., a former place kicker for Bobby Dodd at Georgia Tech.

Until recently, Henry had been without a sponsor for about three years after "going broke." He was off the tour for a month before Robinson after a 5-year-old twin son suffered a head injury in a fall off a high dive and his wife went to the hospital to have their fourth child. He had earned only $455 this year on the tour.

Henry scored three birdies and an eagle three in his final round of 66, but was proudest of saving par on the 510-yard 15th hole when he "popped one shot into some trees" and put the next one into a ditch.

Sixty-eight players finished at 284 or better for the 72 holes and 74 of the 144 who started playing last Thursday finished in the money.

Smith seeks second win

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Veteran Stan Smith, an easy winner Sunday in the Swedish International Tennis Championships, will seek his second straight victory here this week as the $60,000 U.S. Pro Tennis Championships open at the Longwood Cricket Club.

Nine matches were on the schedule for today and tonight with Smith set to join the 32-man field on Tuesday night against Jimmy Connors.

Smith easily disposed of defending champion Manuel Orantes of Spain, 6-4, 6-1, 7-6, in Baastad, Sweden, to win the Swedish title.

The 26-year-old resident of Pasadena, Calif., has now won three tournaments in Sweden during the past year. He is the top-seeded player at Longwood.

Four of the eight seeded players were scheduled to be in action today. John Alexander, seeded fourth, squares off with Jeff Borowiak, fifth-seeded Cliff Richey faces Haroon Rahim, sixth-seeded Dick Stockton meets Dick Crealy and seventh-seeded Roscoe Tanner goes against Eddie Dibbs.

No. 2 Arthur Ashe plays Harold Solomon, No. 3 Marty Riessen meets Ismael El Shafei and No. 8 Tom Gorman faces eric Van Dillen on Tuesday.

Pro football roundup

Namath just visits

By United Press International

Joe Namath stayed just long enough to get acquainted.

Namath, the New York Jets' quarterback, reported to the club's Hofstra University training site Sunday for a physical and a brief one-hour session with Ken Shipp, a new assistant coach in charge of the passing game, before leaving to fulfill some television commitments on the West Coast.

Namath, the American Conference All star quarterback last season, weighed in at 205 pounds, his normal playing weight, and passed orthopedic examinations of his tender knees.

Most of the Jet squad reported Sunday and begin two-a-day workouts today. Namath, given time off to avoid extra strain on his knees, will report next Sunday and begin workouts on Monday.

The only serious holdout expected on the Jets is running back John Riggins. Riggins, who just missed the 1,000-yard mark last season despite missing more than three games, is asking for a $150,000 contract, nearly eight times his present salary, and has said he will quit football rather than play for less.

Elsewhere on the training camp scene, the Dallas Cowboys announced that quarterback Craig Morton, who walked out of camp after a salary dispute, would be fined daily if he doesn't report with the club's veterans by Monday night.

Morton arrived at camp early and then left, also saying he'll quit if he doesn't get his price.

Dave Manders, the Cowboys' starting center, also has not reported because of salary problems.

The World Champion Miami Dolphins held their first scrimmage Sunday and Bob Griese looked in mid-season form. The talented quarterback hit 5-of-5 passes for 44 yards. Rookie wide receiver Bo Rather of Michigan caught six passes and rookie quarterback Don Strock of Virginia Tech hit 7-of-11 passes for 85 yards and a touchdown.

The Dolphins kick off the exhibition season on July 29 when they take on the College All Stars in Chicago.

The New England Patriots waived veteran tight end Tom Beer and rookies Dan Ruster, Luther Palmer, John Harrison and Homer May and the Chicago Bears announced the retirement of three veterans, guard Jim Cadile, defensive end Steve DeLong and linebacker Ross Brupbacher.

The Pittsburgh Steelers opened camp missing five rookies and Coach Chuck Noll sent the club through a mile run and timed 40-yard dashes prior to two-a-day workouts today.

Terry Beasley and Don Wesley, both wide receivers, turned in the fastest times in the 40 yard dash—4.5 seconds — as the San Francisco Forty Niners had their first day of practice. Three players, Bill Yanchar, Art Freemore and Jim Nottingham, were dropped after failing physicals.

The Los Angeles Rams said that veteran safetyman Jerry Logan, obtained in the offseason from Baltimore, is retiring. New Coach Chuck Knox welcomed 84 players to the Rams' camp.

Twenty of the league's 26 camps now are open. Only Buffalo and Kansas City in the American Conference and Atlanta, Minnesota, the New York Giants and St. Louis in the National have not opened camp.

Not official

DETROIT (UPI) — Wayne State University's first football team, the 1918 squad, went unbeaten, untied and unscored upon, but gets no official recognition in the NCAA record books because it played just four games. WSU wasn't nicknamed the Tartars at that time but did go 4-0-0 while scoring 100 points.

What energy crisis?

That's a very good question as far as Barrett Broad of Southfield, Mich., is concerned. Gas shortages won't bother anyone using his PPV (People Powered Vehicle) to get around. Pedals, of course, are the secret. Designed for fun and exercise as well as utility, the PPV, according to Barrett, is great for short trips in the neighborhood, is pollution free and best of all! presents no parking problems — simply upend the 110-pound vehicle, right, and take it indoors with you.

Mom's vigil ends with a funeral

SOUTH HOLLAND, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Frances Wozniak has been praying for the return of her son for 30 years. Monday she finally had him home.

"Now he's home," Mrs. Wozniak, 81, of Dolton, Ill., told a daughter as S. Sgt. Leonard Wozniak of the Army Air Corps was buried with full military honors. "I know he's home."

Wozniak was a 20-year-old flight engineer when his B24 Liberator went down in the jungles of New Guinea during World War II. He was listed as missing in action on July 1943, and the Air Force declared him dead in December, 1945.

But his mother waited and hoped that one day her son would return.

Unforunately, it was not alive. Last summer an oil company employe found the wreckage of the four-engine bomber 12 miles from a New Guinea village. In it were the remains of 10 American flyers.

One was Wozniak. His remains were returned Friday following positive identification by technicians working n Japan, a sister said.

"Mother has been praying for his return for 30 years," the sister, Mrs. Dorothy Karp of Morris, Ill., said. "Now she's content."

Traps set to snare bighorns for relocation

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — A project designed to trap big horn sheep to be transported to new homes at Zion National Park has started in the Lake Mead Recreational area.

Some of the big horn also will be marked with transistor collars and turned loose again in the Lake Mead Recreational area so their habits can be traced by transistor radios.

A spokesman for the Nevada Fish and Game Department said several big horns were trapped Monday for the Zion Park project. Ultimately, officials hope that nine ewes and three rams will be transporter to the Utah park.

A corral-type trap surrounding a waterhole at Lake Mead National Recreational area is being used in the joint trapping venture.

Participating in the project are personnel of the National Park Service, the Nevada Department of Fish and Game and the Utah Division of Wildlife Resources.

Air strikes in Cambodia prior to 1970 admitted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department acknowledged today that B52 strikes were made in Cambodia prior to 1970 despite public assertions at the time of U.S. respect for the neutrality of Cambodia.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, in a letter to the Senate Armed Services Committee, said raids "had been conducted for some period of time and were fully authorized" before the United States publicly announced attacks in May 1970 into so-called sanctuaries areas of Cambodia near the South Vietnamese border.

"At this period of time, you will remember over one half million men were stationed in South Vietnam," Schlesinger said. "Because of the sensitive operational and diplomatic situation, special security precautions were taken to ensure that the operation would not be compromised."

Schlesinger sent the letter to the Senate panel as former Air Force Maj. Hal M. Knight testified under oath that he falsified records of B52 strikes in early 1970.

He said he acted under orders from superiors that he burn all documents, computer tapes and other materials that would expose the strikes in Cambodia.

Knight was asked if he ever questioned the procedure. "I asked who authorized this procedure," he replied. "I was told not to ask."

He said there always was a cover target with "a strike order in Vietnam" account for the actual mission in Cambodia.

The Air Force chief of staff Gen. George S. Brown, in another letter to chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said it was not correct to characterize as falsification the security precautions pertaining to the raids.

"So long as the reports met in every detail the requirements imposed, they were not intended to deceive those with a security 'need to know'," Brown said.

"The reasons why special security precautions were directed was not a reporting issue so long as a responsible higher authority knew in fact what was done and judged it to be in accord with instructions."

Knight said 40 to 44 raids were conducted in Cambodia in early 1970 and that he doctored reports to make it appear they took place in South Vietnam.

Knight said that after a raid he was instructed "to take all the paperwork and when daylight came to go out and burn it."

Family en route home from picnic in two vehicles

NORCO — A La Verne man and his 9-year-old son are dead and two others in the family are hospitalized as the result of a traffic crash here Saturday night.

The dead are Lester S. Suvegh, 34, of 2527 College Lane, La Verne, and his son, Leslie, 9.

Seriously injured but in improved condition this morning at Corona Community Hospital are Suvegh's wife, Sandra, 33, and the couple's other son, Shawn, 7.

According to the California Highway Patrol, the accident happened when the 1966-model car Suvegh was driving was struck from the back by the station wagon Mrs. Suvegh was operating on busy Hamner Avenue.

The highway patrol said the Sueghs were returning from a picnic Saturday night. Suvegh stopped to make a left turn at Limonite Avenue. His wife, unable to stop, rammed her station wagon into the back of her husband's car, causing the engine to explode.

Both Suvegh and his son suffered fatal burns. They were taken to the Grimes Funeral Home in Norco where routine autopsies are scheduled Tuesday.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Nixon lawyer tells of Watergate ties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Herbert W. Kalmbach, President's Nixon's personal lawyer until May 1, said today he raised money for the support of the seven original Watergate defendants on the instructions of "The No. 2 and No. 3 men on the White House staff."

Kalmbach did not identify the men but it was clear his reference was to John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's two closest aides until they resigned April 30 as the Watergate scandal deepened.

Kalmbach made the statement in written testimony prepared for delivery at the Senate Watergate hearings. Kalmbach denied any personal wrongdoing.

"My actions in the period immediately following the break-in which involved the raising of funds to provide for the legal defense of the Watergate defendants and for the supptrt of their families were prompted in the belief that it was proper and necessary to discharge what I assumed to be a moral obligation that has arisen in some manner unknown to me by reason of earlier events," he said.

"The fact that I had been directed to undertake these actions by the No. 2 and No. 3 men on the White House staff made it absolutely incomprehensible to me that my actions in this regard could have been regarded in any way as improper or unethical."

Kalmbach was fired by Nixon on May 1 after it was disclosed that he had paid between $30,000 and $40,000 to Donald Segretti, the "dirty tricks" lawyer accused of attempting to sabotage Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's 1972 campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Kalmbach, 51, of Newport Beach, Calif., is believed to be a key witness in the Senate committee's attempt to determine who ordered the wiretapping of the Democratic headquarters of the Watergate and how much the President knew of the cover-up effort to conceal high White House involvement after the bugging plan went awry.

In his prepared statement, Kalmbach denied "any prior knowledge of the Watergate break-in or participation in the formulization of any planned conspiracy to cover-up that incident or acts of campaign sabotage or unethical activity."

He said he was testifying without seeking immunity from prosecution because he simply wants to tell the truth.

"It is not my purpose to testify for or against any individual," he said.

Kalmbach said he had three major responsibilities to Nixon:

—To handle personal legal matters for the President and his immediate family through Ehrlichman or John W. Dean III, official counsel to the President.

—To act as "trustee" between January 1969 and February 1972 for surplus funds left over from Nixon's 1968 campaign. Kalmbach said he disbursed these funds only on "the expressed direction of Haldeman or others with authority to tell him to."

—To solicit "early pledges of financial support for the President's 1972 campaign beginning in November, 1970." He said Maurice H. Stans, the President's chief re-election fund-raiser, directed his secretary to destroy Kalmbach's files on that activity, but those which survived have been turned over to the Senate committee.

Situation grave in Cambodia; draft possible

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — U.S. warplanes struck within seven miles of Phnom Penh today in an effort to help repel a growing Communist threat to the capital. With the military situation deteriorating, the government was reported considering its first draft.

Ground fighting mixed with heavy American bombing was reported throughout Cambodia today, with heavy government losses reported in recent days in fighting directly south of Phnom Penh. Fighting was reported on all sides of Phnom Penh and Gen. Un Kau, said "the situation is very grave."

Informed sources close to the ruling High Political Council said the government was seriously weighing institution of a military draft to bolster the army. Cambodia has no draft now and must depend on volunteers.

The High Command reported fighting in the northern, western and southern sections of the country.

Authoritative military sources said that in fighting along Route 2, about 12 miles from Phnom Penh, the crack 2nd Division lost eight killed and 75 wounded during the weekend.

American bombing continued in support of government forces as they tried to maintain the capital's defense perimeter which now lies within 12 miles of Phnom Penh. The bombing seven miles from the city was the closest raids since last April.

Sources close to the High Political Council said the proposed draft would require all men between the ages of 18 and 35 to enter the armed forces, with the exception of those in official government positions and those employed in essential private jobs.

President spends restful night; chest pains dwindle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon spent a restful night and the chest pains caused by his bout with pneumonia are now down to a minimum, his doctor reported today.

Nixon awoke at 8 a. m. after a good night's sleep, Dr. Walter Tkach said. The President was given four chest therapy treatments Sunday.

The treatment resulted in "considerable improvement in his chest congestion and chest discomfort is now at a minimum," Tkach said in his morning medical bulletin.

The therapy did cause the President to experience some fatigue to the point where he was given mild pain killers for relief, Tkach said.

In general, Nixon had a good day on Sunday. He had a hearty dinner of soul food, served about 6:15 p. m.

The President retired after his last chest therapy about 9 p. m. and slept soundly throughout most of the night, Tkach said. This sharply contrasted with his first night at the hospital Thursday when he had a fitful four hours sleep.

The chest inhalation exercise was administered by Sue A. Williams, pulmonary nurse specialist assigned to the hospital's chest clinic.

The therapy lasts 15 to 20 minutes. Afterwards, the President sits in a chair beside his bed where he is instructed to breathe deeply and cough. This is intended to help clear out congestion.

Tkach said Sunday there is no question that Nixon has viral pneumonia, as opposed to more serious bacterial type, and said the President is at about the halfway point of his recovery.

The President is expected to remain at Bethesda Naval Hospital until late this week. Tkach would prefer he spent even more time there or at least go to one of his retreats — San Clemente, Calif., preferably —for several days more of recuperation.

Woman killed in freeway accident

CHINO — A Los Angeles woman suffered fatal injuries when her car unaccountably skidded off the Pomona Freeway at the Mountain Avenue overpass at 4:20 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Maria Alice Bounds, 25, of 2529½ S. Orange Drive, died at San Antonio Community Hospital some three hours after the accident.

The victim's 2-year-old son, Asa Kirk was treated at the hospital for minor injuries.

Witnesses told California Highway Patrol officers that Mrs. Bounds was eastbound when her small foreign car suddenly skidded off the freeway, overturned on the embankment and came to rest on its wheels.

2-car collision injures 9 persons

CHINO — Nine persons, including six members of a San Bernardino family, were injured in a two-car collision at Euclid Avenue and Riverside Drive Sunday night.

The drivers were Henry G. Flores, 19, of 329 E. Park St., Ontario, and Donald E. Robles, 43, of San Bernardino.

The injured were the two drivers, and five other members of the Robles family—Virginia, 42, Donelia, 19, Monica, 14, Donald Jr., 10, and Dominique, 9. Another passenger in the Robles car, Norma Romera, 13, of San Bernardino, and Flores' passenger, Samuel Flores, 16, of the same address, were also hurt.

All were treated at Chino General Hospital and released with the exception of Donelia Robles, who was transferred to Kaiser Hospital in good condition.

Telephone cables in San Dimas cut

Numerous Pomona Valley residents had their telephone service disrupted this morning when three major phone cables in San Dimas were intentionally cut.

General Telephone reported that one 100-pair trunk cable (which routes calls between two switching offices) and two local exchange cables at Eucla and Bonita avenues were severed between midnight and 2 a.m.

The cutting of the cables caused some delays for customers calling the La Puente, Covina and Baldwin Park areas. It also caused some inconveniences to certain customers with foreign exchange and extended area lines.

Officials of the utility are unsure as to why the cables were cut but reported that construction crews and a rapid restoration van will be on the scene of the cut until about 10 tonight when normal service is expected to be restored.

Two burned in plane crash; arms cache discovered aboard

UPLAND — Two former prison inmates were listed in critical condition today at San Bernardino County Hospital with burns and other injuries sustained in the crash of a stolen twin-engine airplane loaded with a cache of firearms Sunday morning near Cable Airport.

The crash was reported about 7:13 a.m. when the Cessna Skymaster aircraft owned by Upland physician Samuel Kaufman went down about 100 yards west of the runway near Padua Avenue. Police said the plane had been stolen minutes before from a hangar at Cable Airport.

Critically injured in the crash were Rodney Lee Crane, 25, and Michael George Perry, 25, both of Norwalk. Crane, according to doctors at San Bernardino County Hospital, is suffering from severe burns over 65 per cent of his body, and Perry is suffering from burns and a broken back.

Police said they found the remains of two high caliber rifles, two shotguns, and three handguns, along with a quantity of ammunition inside the burned out aircraft.

Capt. Howard Seay of the Upland Police Department said this morning that it appeared the two men, both former prison inmates, apparently stole the aircraft. "We still don't know what the two men planned to do, but we found a large quantity of dehydrated food, survival gear and camping equipment inside the aircraft along with the weapons and ammunition."

Seay said that Perry, a licensed single engine aircraft pilot, spent time in prison for burglary and escape and was awaiting a hearing on parole violation. Crane has spent time in prison for assault with a deadly weapon and was free on probation. Crane was released from the California Institution for Men in Chino in 1972, Seay said.

Witnesses at Cable Airport said the twin-engine plane took off from the airport with only one engine operating. The non-operative rear engine was creating a drag on the aircraft.

Police said witnesses told them the plane managed to get airborne near the end of the runway, but began dropping. The aircraft struck a barbed wire fence, spun around and burned.

One of the first witnesses at the scene told police that he and a friend saw the plane go down and jumped in their car to go to the pilot's assistance. The witness said that they saw two men walking away from the burning airplane and asked them if they could help. The witness said the two men told them they didn't want an ambulance, only wanted a ride.

Police said the two men continued walking south to Foothill Boulevard and flagged down a Forestry Service employe who drove them to the San Dimas Forest Service substation. From there forestry service officers called for an ambulance and the police. The two men were taken to the county hospital in San Bernardino, both lapsing into unconsciousness en route.

Police were unable to talk to the two men due to their injuries.

Upland firemen responding to the scene of the crash reported that the plane was engulfed in flames and that ammunition was "cooking off" or firing from the heat. Before the fire could be contained the plane was destroyed.

Only the hulk of the two engines and the aircraft's twin tail section remained.

After Federal Aviation Administration officials arrived, police removed the charred remains of the weapons. What was left of the aircraft was placed on a truck and moved to a storage yard at the Upland airport.

Rare coins worth $35,000 stolen

UPLAND — Upland police this morning were searching for two robbers who broke into a home at 1693 N. Euclid Ave. Sunday night, tied up the owner and stole a rare antique coin collection valued at $35,000 and $500 in cash.

Police said the robbery was reported about 4:42 by George TeVelde. TeVelde told police that the robbers entered his home, armed with pistols, and ordered him to open his safe that contained the rare coin collection and $500 in cash. The robbers took the coins and tied TeVelde up. TeVelde managed to free himself about four hours later and called police.

Police said one of the robbers was about 6 feet, 180 to 185 pounds, wearing a blue knit ski cap with holes for the eyes nose and mouth. The robber was wearing a blue striped short sleeved shirt and faded blue pants.

TeVelde told police that he heard the second robber, but never saw him. Police believed both men to be Caucasians.

HEY! WHAT'S HOPPENING?

This young man has a hoppin' big problem trying to nab his elusive frog after it registered its jump in the annual Yutan Jumpin' Frog Rodeo, held in Yutan, Nebraska, on Sunday. A field of some 300 frogs competed before an estimated 500 spectators. Frogs came to Nebraska from six different states.

Phase IV to serve as guide, not freeze

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Within a matter of days, American consumers and businessmen will be governed by a new set of economic rules: Phase IV of President Nixon's economic game-plan.

Barring some unexpected complication, such as a worsening of the Presidents illness, the latest attempt to stabilize the nation's explosive economy will be announced sometime this week.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon approved some parts of the program from his hospital bed Saturday and will make more decisions today.

The actual announcement probably will be made by Nixon's top economic advisers: Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, Cost of Living Council (COLC) Director John T. Dunlop and Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

The President's action will come on the heels of a price freeze that has been in effect since June 13.

The freeze barred firms from hiking prices above the level they were charging on June 13, no matter how much their costs have increased in the meantime. In Phase IV, however, prices will be allowed to rise by an amount yet undetermined.

Companies might be allowed to pass through their cost increases, or a fraction of that amount, in the form of higher prices. Or the administration could set a flat guideline, such as the 2.5 per cent that existed during 1972 under Phase II.

Wages, not covered under the current freeze, also will be restricted during Phase IV, probably to the 6.2 per cent wage and fringe benefit annual increase allowed during Phase II.

The exact shape of Phase IV is still a mystery. But Nixon indicated its principal goals and framework when he announced the price freeze.

The new program will be generally tougher than Phase III, which relied on corporate good will to keep price increases within a set of voluntary guidelines. Nixon said the food and oil industry will be singled out for special treatment since the cost of groceries and gasoline has provided most of the push in the latest round of inflation.

Big companies will be required to clear price increases in advance with the COLC. And stabilization officials have indicated they will be strict on allowing firms to boost prices to reflect higher costs.

One of the biggest problems for the Nixon economic strategists is whether to make the rules simple or complex.

Arnold R. Weber, the first COLC director, has argued that a set of easy-to-understand rules, highly publicized, is the best way to win popular support for the controls. Public opinion polls, which show inflation as the No. 1 worry of the American consumer, also indicate that widespread backing for controls is a commodity that is sadly lacking.

But many administration officials, especially Dunlop, plus organized labor, are dead set against a single set of price and pay standards. Dunlop argues that guidelines inhibit collective bargaining and encourages the press to grade every contract "pass" or "fail" depending on whether it meets the wage standard, while ignoring other important issues.

The duration of Phase IV is another unanswered question.

There have been recent hints that the new wage-price controls won't last long.

The 10-member Labor Management Advisory Committee, an outside group that carries great weight in the administration, said last week that "all wage and price controls should be eliminated as soon as possible this year..."

And Shultz, nixon's chief economic adviser, is a longtime foe of controls.

Plan to develop Russ resources

Japan, U.S. near pact in Siberian oil venture

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan and the United States appeared close to an agreement today to work together on investment in developing the oil and natural gas resources of Soviet Siberia.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers gave his blessing to the idea in a speech at the ninth meeting of the U.S.-japan Joint Economic Committee today.

Discussing measures to be taken by oil importing nations, Rogers listed "the expansion of supply through joint projects between Japanese and American firms aimed at the development of new energy resources in Siberia and elsewhere."

"While the United States cannot direct the investment decisions of our private firms," Rogers said, "we stand ready to encourage them to consider the possibility of common ventures with Japanese firms."

The Soviet Union for almost a decade has been seeking a loan of $1 billion from Japan for construction of a 4,850-mile pipeline from the Tyumen oil fields in the Urals to Nakhodka harbor on the Siberian Pacific Coast.

Under the Soviet proposal, Japan would take its repayment in crude oil starting in about 1980, after the pipeline is completed. Serious negotiations between the two countries have been under way since early 1972.

Japanese government sources said today that Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka has decided that the project would be too much for Japan to handle alone. Tanaka, who is scheduled to visit Moscow in October, will present the idea of joint Japanese-American venture to the Soviet government.

Informed Japanese government sources told UPI that behind Tanaka's decision lies a fear that the Soviet Union would not hesitate to use the oil deal for diplomatic bullying of Japan.

Going it alone, the Japanese would have to sink their $1 billion in a pipeline whose cutoff values were in Soviet hands. There was a fear in the Japanese government that Moscow might not hesitate to threaten Japan with an oil cutoff, but would hesitate to take such a step against the United States.

For that reason the Japanese have concluded that if they go into the Siberian oil venture, they want America as a partner.

Countdown rolling smoothly toward record skylab trip

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The countdown rolled along smoothly today toward the July 28 launch of three more Skylab space explorers who plan to man the orbiting station for a record 56 days.

The count was kicked off on schedule at 11 p.m. EDT Sunday, 12 days before astronauts Alan L. Bean, Jack R. Lousma and Owen K. Garriott plan to ride an Apollo command module up to the lab for another scientific research journey.

The first hurdle in the countdown is a practice launch at 7:08 a.m. EDT Friday. The countdown clock will then be turned back to T-47 hours and started again two days before the real launch of the space crew by a Saturn 1B rocket.

Launch officials will spend most of today running tests of the command module and rocket systems to make sure they will function properly on launch day.

The Skylab 2 countdown is the first time the dress rehearsal has been combined with a real launch.

Officials said they adopted the new countdown schedule because of the proven reliability of the Saturn launchers, the rockets that almost flawlessly boosted men toward the moon. The astronauts won't take part in the dress rehearsal for the first time, too, because of the Saturn 1B's good record.

Garriott, a civilian, is the first physicist-astronaut and his expertise is expected to add knowledge about the sun and about man coping with weightless space for long periods.

The astronauts will also be continuing research begun in the 28-day Skylab manned mission about how the body reacts to prolonged space voyages, and what can be learned about the earth's natural resources from orbit.

Bean, Garriott and Lousma passed their next-to-last major medical examinations last week, and are continuing training in semiquarantine, to keep them from getting sick, at the Johnson Space Center in Houston.

Two brothers beaten severely; suspect booked

POMONA — Two Pomona brothers were beaten severely late Sunday night, apparently the result of a fight the younger brother was involved in the night before.

Most seriously injured was Robert Zamore, 19, who had injuries to his head and back. He was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and trasferred to County-USC Medical Center. His condition today was termed serious.

Less seriously hurt was 17-year-old Joe Alfred Zamore. He had head and upper torso injuries and was released after treatment at the local hospital.

The trouble was in the 900 block of W. Mission Boulevard. Police arriving there said they saw several young men flee and found the older Zamore brother sitting on a curb, covered with blood. The other brother was nearby, also bloody. The area was littered with broken bottles, pieces of window glass apparently used as weapons, and pieces of pottery, also used as weapons. Officers said the brothers had been cut and hit on the head with blunt objects.

Singer held in slaying of husband, 2 children

MIAMI (UPI) — Detectives said they would seek three murder warrants today against opera singer Salwa Merrige-Abrams on charges of killing her ex-husband and two children.

Mrs. Merrige-Abrams took a handfull of pills after the Saturday murders, police said, and was rushed to the hospital in serious condition. Doctors said her condition was "stable" Sunday.

The slayings were discovered Saturday afternoon just one day after Mrs. Merrige-Abrams ended 19 years of marriage by picking up the final circuit court papers.

Miss Phyllis Arick, a singer and Mrs. Merrige-Abrams' closest friend, said she visited the coprano's home Friday just after the divorce papers were signed and "everything seemed fine."

But Miss Arick said, "She seemed upset, sure, but anybody who goes through anything like that would be upset. I just don't understand it, I really don't."

A sheriff's deputy, after receiving a call from a friend who said Mrs. Merrige-Abrams "sounded strange" on the phone, found the performer unconscious on the dining room floor. A note was left, but police would not reveal its contents.

Found shot to death in his bedroom was Jack Abrams, 14. Mrs. Abrams' husband, airline pilot James Abrams, 45, was found in another room. Their 10-year-old daughter Melisa Ann Abrams was found dead on the living room floor.

The couple had been separated for about a year, with Abrams stopping by Saturday to take the children on an outing.

Mrs. Merrige-Abrams was featured with many national companies and performed in the South Floriad area for almost 10 years. She sang mainly with the Miami Beach Symphany, the Miami Opera Guild, and the Civic Opera of the Palm Beaches.

She gave up numerous opportunities for an international career.

Bernard Breeskin, conductor of the Miami Beach Symphony, called her "one of the best mezzo sopranos in the country.

"I tried to encourage her to join larger opera companies, but she wanted to stay down here and raise her family."

Getty prepares to pay ransom for grandson

ROME (UPI) — Oil billionaire J. Paul Getty was reported ready today to pay ransom for the return of his namesake hippie grandson, missing since last week and the object of a "serious" police search.

"He is very worried about this matter and showed the greatest interest in the search," said the youth's mother, Mrs. Gail Getty, who said she spoke with Getty by telephone.

The missing youth, J. Paul Getty III, 17, was reported missing last week by his mother.

Mrs. Getty, who is divorced from the youth's father, J. Paul Getty Jr., said she received a telephone call last Thursday saying her son had been kidnaped and telling her to get money together for a ransom.

Police said young Getty was seen talking with three unidentified youths in Piazza Navona, a favorite meeting place for Roman hippies, just before he disappeared early Tuesday.

The young freckled-faced Getty neither slept nor ate regularly at his mother's home, but stayed with friends who included artists, hippies and young foreign actresses.

Martine and Jutta Zacher, 24year-old German twins in whose apartment Getty was staying at the time of his disappearance, told police they noticed three "suspicious-looking" men who seemed to be following the youth in a dark car.

AVALON, Calif. (UPI) — Frank Sinatra's $250,000 yacht caught fire at sea during the weekend and the Coast Guard said the boat was "a total loss."

Sinatra was not aboard the boat, the 85-foot Christina, when flames broke out in the port engine off Catalina Island Saturday. Four members of the Irving Weiss family, friends of the singer, were using the yacht. They and two crewmen took to a lifeboat and were picked up by the Coast Guard. The boat, which burned for four hours, was towed into harbor here.

8 congressmen returning home

U.S. delegates call tour of China 'tremendous'

SHANGHAI, China (UPI) — The largest American congressional delegation ever to visit China left for home today after a two-week tour that took them to six Chinese cities.

Each of the eight congressmen said the trip was highly successful and should help speed up development of Sino-American relations.

The group left shortly after 10 a.m. local time aboard a special U.S. Air Force jet, en route to Seattle with a refueling stop scheduled in Yokota Air Force Base in Japan.

"There can be no doubt that this trip has been a tremendous success," said Sen. Warren E. Magnuson, D-Wash., leader of the delegation of four senators and four representatives.

"You will see that it will bear fruit in the not too distant future. I am sure of that," Magnuson said. "We are determined that our relations with the People's Republic of China should be improved and expanded as rapidly as possible.

"I believe that most of us in Congress feel this way, not only the members on this trip but those who have come before us and those who are anxious to follow."

Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Relations Committee and deputy leader of the delegation, agreed with Magnuson.

"I think this trip has just been tremendous," Morgan said. "It has helped give us a feel of China that is going to be very important in the future as we deal with issues that involve the interests of China and the United Sates."

The group also included Sens. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., and Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., and Reps. John J. McFall, D-Calif., William S. Mailliard, R-Calif., and Jerry L. Pettis, R-Calif.

The delegation and the crew of the plane returning them to the United states were guests at a banquet on the eve of their departure, hosted by Wang Yiping, vice chairman of the Shanghai Revolutionary Committee.

In a toast to the group, Wang expressed hope that the visit to China would be "conducive to improvement of Sino-American relations and to mutual understanding between the peoples of China and the United States."

Responding to the toast, Magnuson said, "I think I speak for all of us when I say we are going away with deep feelings of respect nad admiin a small way. I don't know how your people and for what you are trying to do for your country, particularly in your reconstruction efforts. And I underline the word respect.

"We talk about improving relations often but I think we truly have done so in a small way. I don't know how you people feel about it but I want you to know that we feel we have added a chapter to China - United States relations. I think you all will agree with me."

The delegation spent the last day in China—Sunday—visiting an industrial exhibition and children's palace in the morning and shopping in the afternoon.

Police still hunt gunman

GLENDORA — Police are still trying to find a gunman believed wounded in an exchange of shots with officers following a $6,000 market robbery here Thursday night.

The robbery, at the Mayflower Market, 940 S. Grand Ave., was staged by two men shortly after closing time. One fired at a Glendora officer responding to a silent alarm. More shots were fired as police pursued the pair in a high-speed chase which ended when the getaway car was abandoned. It was at that point that one suspect was arrested and the robber being sought was believed to have been wounded by a shotgun blast.

Police recovered about $1,000 which was abandoned during the chase. Still missing was the balance, about $5,000.

W. Covina man shot in stomach; 3 held

WEST COVINA — A 24-year-old man was wounded critically early today when he was shot in the abdomen at 650 E. Alwood St., police reported.

The victim, Steven Holder, 625 Matchwood Place, Azusa, was admitted to the intensive care unit at Covina Inter-Community Hospital.

Police this morning said details of the shooting were lacking but reported that three persons were arrested in connection with the incident. They were booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder. The shooting occurred shortly after 1 a.m.

The sheriff's department was used to rush six pints of uncommon-type blood to the Covina hospital from two other hospitals to aid in Holder's treatment.

A sheriff's helicopter picked up four pints at the UCLA Medical Center and flew it to Covina. And a radio car from the Altadena station picked up two pints at Huntington Memorial Hospital, Pasadena, and took it to the interchange of the 605 and 210 freeways where a car from the Industry station received it and transported it the rest of the way. The blood, type O-negative, was described as uncommon but not rare.

Stolen cups for 40 years

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It was a heavy package of paper cups. Heavy on the conscience at least.

L.C. Jones, director of city street maintenance, received a check for $1 recently, with a letter from a former employe, saying it was to pay "for the cups. They have been on my conscience. I want to be clear before God."

It turned out, Jones said, that the man had taken a package of paper cups from a city office more than 40 years ago. He would not disclose the employe's name.

Fireman pact going to City Council

POMONA — A tentative agreement on salary increases and other benefits reached between the 124-member Pomona Fireman's Association and the city's chief negotiator, Sidney Simms, will be submitted to the City Council for approval tonight.

The firemen's group will become the second city association to settle on salary negotiation this year.

The council earlier approved an agreement with the largest of the three municipal worker associations, the Pomona City Employes' Association. No agreement has yet been reached with the third, the Pomona Police Officers' Relief Association.

Vernon Johnson, president of the firemen's association, said a memorandum of understanding was signed Friday following a general membership meeting. The association was represented by attorney Richard C. Mallery.

Johnson said the tentative agreement calls for a 5 per cent cost-of-living increase effective tonight, a family dental plan yet to be spelled out and other minor benefits.

Park bond election plans come to head

LA VERNE — The City Council is expected to throw the switch tonight that will start the machine rolling toward a $1 million parks and recreation bond issue which will culminate in a special election next Oct. 16.

The size of the bond issue has tentatively been set at $972,000, but that may be changed tonight, depending on whether the council agrees to buy 160 acres of open space as urged by the Commission on Environmental Quality as part of the package.

Such a combination is opposed by the Parks and Recreation Commission which contends that the joint package would raise the size of the bond issue too high.

The council must adopt a working schedule toward the bond election by tonight to make sure it does not run out of time.

Tonight's agenda also calls for two resolutions in connection with the proposed bond issue: one declares the need for enlarging and improving three existing parks—Kuns, Pelota and Las Flores— and the other asks for the services of the county registrar of voters in connection with the special election.

In an unrelated matter, the council has set a public hearing for 8 p.m. to hear a request from McDay Estates for a zone change from commercial to multiple residential so that a mobile home park can be constructed on the south side of Foothill Boulevard between Moreno and Damien avenues.

3 guilty in CIM stabbing

ONTARIO — A West Valley Superior Court jury has found three California Institution for Men inmates guilty of stabbing two fellow inmates during a fight at CIM's Southern Reception-Guidance Center Dec. 15, 1972.

The jury delivering its verdict after a two week trial found inmates Augustine Elias, Joseph Henry Ortiz, and Frank Joseph Ruiz, guilty of assault with a deadly weapon on two brothers, Santos and Ernest Aranda.

Superior Court Judge Henry M. Busch set sentencing for the three inmates in the middle of August.

Contract negotiations with 'Big 3'

Auto unions begin talks

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROI T (UPI) — Auto contract negotiations beginning today between the United Auto Workers and the "Big Three" auto companies cover more than 700,000 auto workers and indirectly affect one in every six American workers.

After the largely ceremonial handshaking at General Motors today, Ford Tuesday and Chrysler Wednesday, bargainers for the union and auto companies will try to hammer out an agreement before current three-year pacts expire at 11:59 p.m., Sept. 14.

No Strike Seen

The continuing government control on wages and prices has eliminated much of the strike atomosphere that surrounded contract talks in 1970. Those did not end until after the union had closed GM with a crippling 67-day strike.

Coming into today's talks, UAW President Leonard Woodcock has said there is no need for a strike this year. Auto industry negotiators agree, but admit there could be one if the union remains as adamant in the talks as it has been in public on one key non-economic issue—voluntary overtime.

Woodcock has warned of a possible walkout over thati ssue, saying negotiators should not take an "over - our - dead body" stand on voluntary overtime.

Guide to Continue

Negotiators are almost certain Phase III wage guidelines calling for wage and fringe benefit increases not to exceed 6.2 per cent will be continued. That guideline has been flexible with most settlements this year in the 6-to-7 per cent range.

The key issues outline in six months of saber rattling on both sides include:

—Voluntary overtime. The union wants each worker to have the right to refuse to work overtime.

—Improvement in the "30-and-out" retirement program with the pension increasing to $650 per month with no penalty for retirement before age 56.

—Company-paid dental care.

—Improvement in the cost-of living clause to more accurately reflect price rises.

—Strengthened layoff benefits.

—In-plant health and safety programs jointly administered by the union and companies.

38 states

Should there be a repeat of 1967 negotiations, when Ford was closed for 66 days, or 1970 talks which ended only after the crippling GM strike, nearly every community in the country would be affected by the strike.

The industry is spread over 35 states — a total of 532 facilities located in 243 cities. One of every four retail sales dollars is for an automotive related purchase.

A slowdown or strike in the auto industry may mean a layoff for rubber workers in Akron, a reduction in the work force of steel mills in Pittsburgh and reduced markets for the fabric mills of the Carolinas.

It can mean economic disaster for cities with major auto plants or the hundreds of small towns whose main industries center in supplying vehicle makers with components.

The 1974 Mustang II will contain parts supplied by some 500 firms stretching from New Hampshire to California. Any slowdown in Ford production could seriously affect their economic well-being.

First detonation—28 years ago

Atom bomb test site quiet, calm

TRINITY SITE, N.M. (UPI) — The 28th anniversary of the detonation of the first atomic bomb—an event which scientists said would "change the whole course of human history" — passes almost unnoticed today.

Trinity Site, located deep in the southern New Mexico desert near Alamogordo, holds little evidence of the July 16, 1945, event that sent the world into the nuclear age.

Bunkers and buildings built for the test of the atomic bomb have crumbled into the desert. Ground Zero is now only a shallow depression in the desert floor.

Tiny pieces of "tinitite," sand melted into a greenish-colored glass by the explosion's heat, still can be found around the area.

Surrounding a stone monument at the point the bomb impacted is a fence that holds a weathered sign reading simply: "Trinity Site."

On the monument is a plaque that reads: —

"Trinity Site, where the world's first nuclear device was exploded on July 16, 1945."

The bomb was dropped from a 100-foot steel tower at 5:30 a.m. and, at the moment of impact, a light brighter than the midday sun covered the surrounding mountains.

Then came the shock wave that rippled the earth 30 miles away. It was followed by a deafening roar. The blast was seen hundreds of miles away.

Three weeks later, on Aug. 6, the second atom bomb was dropped on Hiroshima. Three days after that the third fell on Nagasaki.

Man's destiny had been set on a new course.

Dr. John Manley recalled the project. "We knew what we were working on," he said. "We knew the bomb was going to change the whole course of human history.

"The intensity of the flash was enormous. It is something you don't forget."

Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, who headed the project and died in 1967, said that at the moment of detonation he remembered an ancient Hindu quotation: "I am become death, the destroyer of worlds."

Test Director Kenneth Bainbridge told Oppenheimer: "Now we're all sons of bitches."

Tennis court backboards to be studied

CLAREMONT — Tennis court backboards at Cahuilla Park and a master plan proposal by Lampman and Associates for Sycamore Canyon Higginbotham Park will be considered by the Parks and Recreation Commission at the City Council chambers tonight at 7:30.

City Recreation Supt. Ron Hagan reported that the subject of whether to put backboards at the new courts at Cahuilla Park has been "somewhat controversial" among tennis players.

Hagan said that the Claremont High School physical education department teachers would like to have the backboards installed as teaching aids, but city instructors feel the backboards might do more harm than good.

Hagan has recommended against the backboards, and suggested that the school district be contacted as to possible development of combination tennis backboards and handball courts directly south of the high school courts.

Warren Turner and Dick Malcolm of Lampman and Associates will present a master plan proposal for Sycamore Canyon Higginbotham Park.

The commission also will receive a request for city funds from Nature Nearby to pay a man to clear the brush and improve the trail in Sycamore Canyon.

OLD PAL — Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Van Brunt not only named their Volkswagen Klaus, but after it had traveled 175,000 miles, rather than scrap it, they had it made into a 700-pound coffee table. They bought the car for $375 in 1968 and the vehicle gave them dependable service until it was stolen and stripped of its engine. They had the auto compressed and gave it a place of honor in their living room.

Fingerprints bring criminals to justice

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Detective story writers attention: Fingerprint experts speculate that if anyone can commit the perfect crime, it's likely to be a pineapple cannery worker with a little larceny in his heart.

It's a fact that pineapple acids have a strange way of grinding down the fingertips, thus eliminating those messy clues at the scene of the crime.

And the fictional criminal naturally goes with shoes and gloves, because nowadays the science of dactylography — make a strong case in court with prints from the sole of a foot or the palm of a hand.

Take a close look at your hand for the reason why.

Veteran police fingerprint expert Earl W. Howe says the distinctive pattern of arches, loops and whorls at the tip of each of our fingers marks each person as an individual, giving him an "infallible" means of identification.

"A person's age, weight and height may change, and he may undergo illness or an accident," says Howe, "But his fingerprints never change, and they can't be successfully altered," Not permanently, that is.

Professional typists, and men who work around strong acids, abrasives or pottery wheels do find their fingers smoothing down, but their mysteriously curved prints never disappear forever.

That goes for pineapple packers, too.

Many a notorious fugitive has paid dearly in pain and money for crude surgical attempts to alter his prints, and all to no avail. Authorities easily caught up with one criminal who paid a fortune to have his fingers grafted to his chest, only to find his true prints emerged when the fingers were freed.

Gangster John Dillinger underwent surgery to alter his prints while on the run in 1934. Yet after he was killed by federal agents they found his new prints compared in 300 ways with the old prints.

And only a dozen prints are necessary to establish positive criminal identification.

Howe says the Los Angeles police Department has 1.5 million sets of fingerprints on file (the FBI boasts more than 196 million) and the police expert says the odds of finding two sets exactly alike are "about one in a billion trillion."

Howe says in 37 years of police investigations he's not seen one duplication.

Twelve centuries of human history have shown that thumbprints and fingerprints have been used to identify clay seals in China and various preChristian and Palestinian art objects. It wasn't until the late 19th Century that men began toying with the notion of using the "latent print" as a means of criminal identification.

Latent prints, impressions left by body oils and perspiration on any surface, are brought up ... or "lifted" as they say in the world of Mickey Spillane ... by adhesive tape.

Howe, who's been teaching dactyloscopy for 20 of his 59 years, says the fingerprint science needs a better classification system —using one, three or five fingers —and "we've got to devise a practical means of coding fingerprints for computer storage and retrieval."

Societies long ago dealt with criminals in a barbarous fashion, identifying them with tattoos or by brading them or gouging their eye. By 1870 the French had established an enormous archive of criminal photographs they delighted in calling their "rogue's gallery."

But crime marches on, and quickly the encyclopedia of criminal "mugshots" was outmoded. It fell to a Scottish missionary to suggest that fingerprints might radically change the system of catching thieves.

The idea caught on slowly and by 1903 New York had the country's first practical system of fingerprints.

In California stores are now introducing a new "touch-and-go" system of fingerprinting to cut down on the number of bogus checks. The device permanently records the customers' print on the flip side of his check.

Merchants say the system has already cut fraud and forgery losses more than 30 per cent.

Overcrowding in the garage

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Take a dozen or two of cardboard boxes stuffed with a variety of items, several crates of magazines and old books, a small mountain of patio furniture and camping equipment, some old trunks, boxes of bottles—and what do you have?

You have "the other side" of your two-car garage.

Many American families today have two automobiles—almost a necessity. One is for the wife to get to the hairdresser, the other is for the teen-age son to get to the hairdresser. (Dad takes the bus to work.) But the guy that invented that stupid phrase, "two-car garage," must have been a bachelor living on the seventh floor of a Newport condominium. There is no such thing as a two-car garage.

Maybe once, just once, early in your occupancy of the new split-level home, you put your two cars in your two-car garage, side by side, snug and neat, and gazed at them smugly. Then Junior came panting home from school, slid his bike between the cars, scraping each of them rather badly, and you understood that phrase "conspicuous consumption" from your college course in Economics I. So you drove your sedan out and parked it in the driveway, figuring you could always use the space in that "empty" half of the garage.

Before you got out of the car, that half was crammed to the joists with boxes, water skis, motorscooters, empty trunks, cartons of Christmas decorations, cages of long forgotten rabbits and guinea pigs, science projects of long forgotten children, lawn chair, a potter's wheel and a few oddments of broken furniture. Your garage looks like a swap meet.

Carefully avoiding the extra beds and mattresses, the ant farm and the surf board, you may be able to set up your own little workbench, with vise, saw, drill, and a few tools neatly hung on the wall. Then forget it. Before you have reached for the first piece of plywood, your workshop has vanished under a landslide of motorcycle parts, discarded sleeping bags, a doll house, a canary bird cage, a broken fish acquarium and a deflated football.

What your two-car garage really is, is a one-car garage with the county dump attached. People with only a one-car garage to start with often have to give up the car and walk to work.

Furthermore, the fallout in a suburban home continues to increase. Keep one car in the "empty" side at all times, or the effluent of middle America will soon engulf it in a creeping tide of skateboards and scuba equipment, broken record players and garden tools, a mulch of old magazines and newspapers.

A week after moving into his new home, the average Dagwood Bumpstead will have trouble finding a place to park, whether he has a two-or four-or eight-car garage.

Ask Dr. Brothers

She's still stealing

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Although on the surface I think I probably look to most people like a normal teenager, for the last two years I've been living a dangerous life. Maybe what I'm doing is normal, but whether it is or not, I know eventually, if I continue, I could get in trouble. I have this problem of shoplifting and it's kind of like a disease with me. I don't understand it but I can't seem to stop. Sometimes, it's like a game where I can win anytime I want.

In my first year of high school, a lot of the kids would pick things up just for fun, but then most of them stopped. But I went right on, doing it not with a group, but when I was all by myself. My parents would flip if I ever got caught and every time I liberate something, I get really scared inside. I'm the only girl in a family with five brothers and I think about how everyone's so worried about them getting into trouble when I'm the only one who's apt to go to jail. This is a spooky feeling.—J.T.

Dear J.T.: What you are doing is extremely serious and cannot be treated lightly.

First of all, you are not "liberating," you are stealing. The real question is why? You are not stealing because you have a great desire to possess what you steal, you are stealing becuase the act itself gives you pleasure and a sense of excitement, even achievement. You feel as if you were playing a game where you could always win. Are there any legitimate games that you can win? Is there some legitimate way you can experience a sense of success and achievment?

Most people who steal, even though they may have no particular need or desire for the object they steal, are frustrated and angry. They want to rebel and express their anger but instead they never get to the root of it; they take out their anger on someone, the store owner, who has nothing at all to do with the real source of their anger. Sometimes, people who steal compulsively are rebelling against their parents, against all authority or symbols of authority, and sometimes they are rebelling against their sex.

Studies reveal that women are much more apt to hoplift than men and some psychiatrists believe this is a kind of rebellion against not being born male. They wish to steal the power, the privilege, the adventure, the freedom and all of the things that go with being male in our society. Their stealing is like getting back at the world for robbing them of being born male. This is almost always unconscious and the woman who steals rarely has any clue that she is angry because she is a female. If she did, she would probably find constructive outlets for her anger.

Most people who steal do so as an act of hostility toward society and to satsify sexual and aggressive impulses that find no other outlet, according to Dr. Ralph Banay, former director of the psychiatric clinic at California's San Quentin prison.

Stealing is a symptom of your problems and it is a dangerous and nonproductive way of acting them out. It is important to see a professional who is capable of helping you talk out your problems so that you can attack them directly.

While you are getting professional guidance, it might be helpful for you to enter into activities or games where you can win and achieve some real gratification. It is important to find ways to release some of your aggression, for stealing is, for you, an aggressive pleasure. There is also the appeal of the forbidden. Those who cannot enjoy unless they are doing something forbidden are immature. It is childish to want something for nothing.

The only way you will be able to mature is to face your problems, for stealing is an outgrowth of them.

Retired Chino warden honored at gathering

More than 100 friends, relatives and state employes gathered at Griswold's Inn in Claremont recently to honor Henry J. Bartol after his retirement from the position of Fish and Game Warden with the State of California.

Mr. Bartol has ended a career which began in 1939 in the Marine Patrol. He was transferred from the patrol to the Land Patrol and worked at the Yountville Game Farm and then the San Joaquin River. He was then drafted into World War II. After leaving the armed service, Mr. Bartol was stationed at the Chino Game Farm, then transferred to the main office in Los Angeles. After another transfer to Little Lake, Mr. Bartol was transferred back to the Chino Area.

As a retirement gift, Mr. Bartol received a complete set of fishing equipment and will spend much time fishing and continuing his hobby of raising exotic birds.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartol have two sons, Robert J. and Richard Joseph. The couple plans to continue to reside in the Chino area.

Hathaway-Papac rites performed in Idaho

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Rexburg, Idaho, was the setting for the marriage of Miss Gail Jean Papac and Maurice Hathaway.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Papac of Pomona and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hathaway of Rexburg recited their vows before Bishop Marion Stoddard, uncle of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon organza trimmed with bands of reembroidered lace. The gown was accented with Queen Anne sleeves and a chapel-length train. Her elbow-length veil was caught to a headpiece of venise lace, organza bow petals and pearlized bead loops.

She carried a bouquet of baby yellow roses, tiny yellow and white mums and lime green ribbons.

Miss Pattie Curran of San Francisco, college roommate of the bride, was her only attendant.

Lynn Wolf of Rexburg was best man.

Attending the wedding and reception at the church were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Gladys Beck, and her aunt, Mrs. Henrietta Golenor, both of Pomona.

The couple was feted later at a reception at the home of the groom's parents. Guests included the groom's parents, his sister, Miss Shaunna Hathaway, and her fiance, Bob Miles of Mesa, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway will reside in Jackson, Wyo., after a tour of the western states.

Beads show history

Pick up a bead, a small thing — seemingly insignificant. Hold it to the light. Is it opaque or does the light filter through? Is it carved, enameled, woven or a piece of pierced stone?

Beads have been important in the formation of man's culture since the beginning of recorded history.

Although beads today are used primarily for decorative and ornamental purposes, the earliest beads probably were contrived from small fossils and worn as amulets. In Egypt the word for bead was "Shasha." The syllable "sha" was the Egyptian word for "luck."

The English word "bead" is derived from the Angio-Saxon "bed" which means prayer. Beads have had religious significance for centuries. In Scotland, pensioners whose duty it was to pray for their benefactors were known as beadsmen.

Almost everyone knows that the island of Manhattan was purchased with beads.

As an object of commerce beads preceded the exchange of coins for goods and since the Middle Ages beads have been manufactured in Europe for sale or barter.

Some specimens which might be included in a collection are beads made from a snake's spine, the rare black coral, cornelian, onyx, ivory, amber, cypress, pewter, enameled metals, jade, rose quartz, jasper shells, sandlewood, seeds, glass.

There are many ways in which a collection can be assembled. Beads can be collected for historical significance, artistic merit, religious interest, or as geological specimens.

The collector of beads will find very little reference material on the subject. Instead, research will have to be done on a varity of subjects and enthusiasts will delve into the methods of manufacture, study the evolution of jewelry styles, probe the regions of commerce, history and religion. A bead collection can be enriching.

Patients don't follow doctor's rules

Somewhere between 20 and 52 per cent of patients fail to follow the doctor's advice.

Patients also forget one-third of what they are told, Philip Ley, a clinical lecturer in psychology at the University of Liverpool, who made a study of the average person's memory, reported recently.

They remember the diagnosis, but forget or ignore most of the instructions about what they do, Ley found. Neither age or intellectual level has anything to do with it, but the more medical knowledge the patient has, the more he remembers, perhaps because he had understood better what the doctor had said.

Airline named official carrier for world's fair

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74 has named Scandinavian Airlines as the official European Air Carrier for the Environmental World's Fair.

King Cole, Expo president, said Monday SAS will help publicize the upcoming fair and the vacation opportunities of the Pacific Northwest to the customers of its 200 offices around the world.

Even though SAS does not serve Spokane, Leif Eie, SAS northwest manager, said the airline does not consider that a problem.

Eie said Scandinavian Airlines will bring Expo visitors from Europe to America, and Hughes Airwest, Expo's official United States air carrier, will bring them to the fair.

Bronson's in clover now, but he hasn't forgotten

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Save the lights " an assistant director hollered, and out of the gloom Charles Bronson emerged to slide into a chair in the dingy topless-bottomless joint.

Bronson's tough, furrowed Slavic features gave him the appearance of a man who might really frequent the El Rancho Club in the decaying Los Angeles neighborhood. His hooded eyes were humorless, his demeanor testy.

But far from it. Bronson lives in a Bel Air mansion and may be the world's biggest boxoffice attraction.

He was on location for his new movie, "The Stone Killer," from which he will earn more than a million dollars. But Charlie remembers his coal miner days in Scooptown, Pa., when he was 16 years old earning $1 a week for 80 hours work.

"I don't dwell on the past," he said in a near monotone. "But I haven't forgotten either. And I don't remind my kids about how rough the world can be. They wouldn't understand."

Bronson is a taciturn man. He grants few interviews and is uncomfortable when he does. The menacing figures he portrays on the screen carry over away from the camera, although he is a gentle man with a soft voice. He wears no makeup when working and doesn't socialize with costars.

He doesn't see his own pictures, not from any sense of humility. They make him ill at ease.

A one-time boxer, Charlie's powerful hands now hold a paint brush in his spare time. He has sold his paintings for as much as $3,000 per canvas.

Bronson's popularity as a movie star in the United States lagged behind his phenomenal acceptance by world audiences. His first big success, "Adieu L'Ami," earned $3 million in France alone.

"I was a hit in Europe, but for some reason Paramount never released the film in this country," he said without apparent rancor.

"Don't ask me why. There are other pictures that did well in Europe. Very successful. But they haven't been seen over here yet. Now my movies are beginning to make an impression in America."

Only a few blocks away, a theater marquee displayed "The Valachi Papers," with Bronson's name above the title.

Another of Bronson's films, "The Mechanic," has been doing runaway business in this country.

And while Charlie does not dwell on the future, neither can he forget the days when he'd have worked the year around for next to nothing. Acting was a lark compared to the mines.

"I never complain about the work now," he said, "just the time. There's a difference. I took two months off this year, the longest time I've been away from movies in six years.

"Only a dozen years ago I'd have been happy to do any picture. Now I get attractive offers, so I work."

Bronson s face did not change expression when the director called for another take. He moved away with easy grace, alone among other members of the cast and crew. Charlie Bronson is a breed apart.

Bit Parts: David Hartman, longtime television favorite, makes his movie debut in "Island at the Top of the World" for Walt Disney Productions ... David Janssen has been cast to star in "Fast Freight," an ABC television movie ... "The Hireling," starring Robert Shaw and Sarah Miles, was acquired by Columbia for release in the United States ...

But never lava

Though an erupting volcano brings to mind pictures of flowing rivers of boiling lava, not all active volcanos emit lava. Mount Taal in the Philippines, with a history of death and destruction, has spewed forth noxious gases, steaming mud and ash, and white-hot rocks—but never lava.

Maddox claims President should talk or step down

BOSTON (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia says President Nixon should either come forward with a full, public explanation of his knowledge about Watergate or "step down and let the vice president take over."

The former Georgia governor said that the President's refusal to appear before the Senate Watergate committee can be construed as a concession of guilt and is destroying the presidency.

"If he does not come forward, then he should have the decency to step down and let the vice president take over," he said.

Maddox addressed the annual New England Rally for God, Family and Country. He told participants of the five-day meeing for "conservative Americans" Nixon has become "obsessed with trying to become a leader of the world rather than a leader of America and he has abdicated his responsibility to place America first."

He said the office of the presidency "is not dead. No one can believe in it, and for the next three years Congress will have to take the reins, if it can."

The administration, in "a supreme show of arrogance," thinks it is above the laws that govern the rest of America, Maddox said.

"America has become a totalitarian police state, and the administration has led us into this by hypocrisy deception and just plain lying."

The lieutenant governor also criticized the administrations's fiscal and education policies.

"He (Nixon) as president, along with John Mitchell and Elliot Richardson and the Justice Department, and others appointed by Nixon, have done more to wreck more schools, destroy more investments in communities, deny more people freedom of choice and force more busing, than all previous administrations in the history of this nation," Maddox said.

State offers wide variety of trees

By JOHN D. LOWRY

FRAZIER PARK (UPI) — Anyone with a scrap of land can grow his very own 300-foot giant Sequoia with patience and a little help from the state Division of Forestry and an irrigation company.

The forestry service offers a wide variety of trees, ranging from sturdy pines that will challenge desert climes to the gigantic Sequoia so prevalent in Northern California. It is a state project aimed at reforestation and conservation.

The service even makes recommendations as to variety to suit your particular location whether along the coast, at protected inland areas or even the parched high desert of Southern California.

My project was a one-acre site at the 4,500-foot level in the high desert 70 miles north of Los Angeles. The forestry spokesman recommended a variety of pines and suggested the giant Sequoia which seemed out of character with the semiarid location. He reassured me on the chances of successful growth and when I told him my thinking was to plant them a foot or so apart to achieve nearly instant forest he disagreed strongly.

"You have to plant them at least five feet apart, they'll eventually be at least five feet thick and 200 to 300 feet tall!" When I asked how long this would take he replied, "about 2,000 years!" He said that within five years the seedlings might be 10 feet tall.

I passed up cedar, cypress and eucalyptus in favor of the Sequoia and placed my order in January for 100 seedlings. The cost was minimal, only a few cents each. They were delivered two weeks later in wooden crates, 50 individually planted seedlings per crate in their tarpaper containers and all 6-8 inches tall.

The labor came in digging holes a foot wide and equally deep in the sandy soil and screening out the rocks before mixing it with mulch to make sure moisture would be retained after planting.

Next watering. How to overcome dragging hoses around to nurture each individuality tree.

A visit to a commercial nursery brought the inexpensive solution.

Roberts Irrigation Co. of Pauma Valley manufactures a simple easy to install system. It can be adapted to various needs but basically begins with a coil of ½ inch to one-inch plastic tubing in lengths of no less than 100 feet at less than $5 per coil.

The tubing can be laid out above or below ground with length cut to your need and an end cap cemented to one end and regular garden hose connection at the other, all available from Roberts.

Your next step is piping to individual trees or plants using a coil of ⅛-inch "spaghetti" plastic tubing. A 3-16 inch electric drill can punch holes in the large tubing and then the "spaghetti" is inserted, glued and cut to length. A patented Roberts spot-spittemathen is stuck in the ground near the plant and the "spaghetti" inserted in its top.

When you connect the garden hose to the fitting and turn on the water to just a trickle you soon see the value of the system as each little spitter begins to dribble into the soil around your tree.

With each main-line watering 20-25 small trees or plants it takes a minimum of water, and no waste, to maintain your forest. And if you have enough faucets to water them all at once, your irrigation chore is over quickly.

So your forest is bought, planted and irrigated for less than $100. Mine doubled in size in less than six months but I don't plan on watching the trees mature to their potential 300-feet.

Earnings not always telling

By ROGER SPEAR

Q — I have noticed that Superior Oil Co. (NYSE) has a price earnings multiple of over 180x while other companies have ratios that are much smaller. Why is this? — C. I.

A — Superior reports earnings on an ultraconservative basis, i.e., after taking out various drilling, exploratory expenses depreciation, depletion, etc. This produces artifically low earnings, which are misleading. In this case, cash flow is a more meaningful figure. Last year this was equal to $22.30 per share and for 1973 cash flow should reach $26.00 per share. On that basis, the cash flow price-earnings multiple is about 10x currently, in line with others in the industry.

Q — We hold 300 Pan American World Airways (NYSE) purchased at $34. What is the prospect for this stock? Do you recommend holding, selling or buying more for future gains? — F. S.

A — According to Pan Am's chairman and president, William T. Seawell, the airline has "a chance this year to break even." In the first four months through April, a loss of $22.6 million was reported. This was substantially below the $35.1 million loss in the comparable 1972 period. Revenues were up 9.6 per cent year to year. Factors which helped Pan Am improve operating results were: increased promotion of first-class travel, a stricter policy on discounted fares and reduction in military travel.

There are still many negatives in this situation, however, that might continue to be reflected in depressed share trading levels. For one, labor negotiations (contracts expire in mid-summer), covering close to half the company's employees, could be costly for Pan Am. Another uncertainty is the effect that a receding economy and devaluation will have on summer air travel.

Of the four markets —Atlantic, domestic, Pacific and Latin America — which Pan Am serves, yield per revenue passenger mile is the highest on the latter two, averaging $5.47 in the 1973 first quarter. Fare increases have been approved on one of the routes and are pending on the other. Hold for eventual rally.

Q—Would you explain the disadvantages of buying stocks in "odd lots"? Because of the penalties involved, I have been advised not to buy less than 100 shares of any one issue. What are these extra fees?—G. M.

A—On major exchanges most stock transactions involving less than 100 shares are not traded by auction. They are handled by odd-lot dealers who buy or sell at the next round lot price after receipt of order, plus or minus an odd-lot differential which amounts to ⅛ of a point. The second consideration is the commission rate. For example: The broker's fee on 10 shares of a $20 issue is $8.40 or 4.2 per cent of the money involved; a round lot of a $20 stock involves a commission of $38 or 1.9 per cent. As the amount of money involved rises the fee generally drops, on a percentage basis. The rate on a 10-share purchase of a $50 stock is 2.9 per cent and on a 100-share transaction it is 1.3 per cent. A new commission schedule now under study, if adopted, would raise the fee on a $100 to $5,000 order by 10 percent.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Today the 40-hour work week is an accepted standard for workers in the United States and many other nations. The animal-loving Costa Ricans of Central America have made laws restricting horses, mules and oxen from working more than 48 hours per week, The World Almanac notes.

The doctor comments

Heart attack victim given reassurance

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am terribly depressed because I've been told by my doctor that nothing can be done for my heart attacks caused by atherosclerosis. I can hardly believe this. I was hospitalized last year for about three weeks and given all kinds of tests, then about two months later I had another attack. The first one occurred in Bible class and the second one in church. I didn't have any undue excitement of any kind previous to either attack. What is your opinion, doctor?

I've been on some medicine for high blood pressure, and also Coumadin to keep my blood from clotting. I have blood tests and checkups regularly. The doctor said on my last examination that my blood tests, blood pressure and electrocardiogram were all satisfactory, but I'm afraid to move for fear I'll have an other heart attack.

Dear Reader—Your doctor is doing something about your heart attacks. This is what the medicine to treat your blood pressure and the Coumadin to prevent blood coagulation is for. He's studying the function of your heart and circulatory system to regulate your medicine and, if necessary, institute other measures.

I'm sure thet what your doctor tried to explain to you was that the disease itself, the atherosclerosis, was difficult to treat, and the damage that had already been done to your heart from the previous attack was there to stay. This doesn't mean, however, that you can't make a good recovery or that there is nothing at all that can be done to help you maintain your health in the best condition.

Your diet is important. If you have any excess weight, it can be eliminated by a sensible program. You should be on a moderately restricted fat diet, restricted in saturated fats and limited in cholesterol. By proper diet, often you can reverse the fatty deposits that develop in the arteries. This has been demonstrated in animals. You can't eliminate the scar in the heart muscle or some of the scarring that develops in the arteries when they've been damaged from fatty deposits, or the calcium deposits that gradually developed around where the fatty deposits are in the walls of the arteries. But, I would like to stress that there are things which can be done.

Anyone with a severe cardiac problem is usually able to do more if the body weight is decreased. It's very simple. The body must work harder to move 200 pounds across the room than it does to move 100. This means there's less work for the heart and circulation to move a small body weight around. There are other beneficial effects too. The blood pressure is often significantly lowered if a person has any excess fat and eliminates it.

It's important for people who've had a heart attack to be given some reassurance. Many people do make excellent recoveries. I know that it's common to sit around and worry about what may happen after an episode, but appreciating the fact that some benefits can be achieved, and that if you've recovered well enough to go home that you may well have a reasonably good outlook, should help to dispel the discouragement that some people have. I am personally impressed about how well some people do after they have made a complete recovery from the initial heart attack. As I've mentioned before, both President Johnson and President Eisenhower are good examples of this point.

Monopoly suit filed against 15 oil firms

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida Attorney General Robert Shevin filed a federal "monopoly power" suit against the 15 largest petroleum companies Monday and said other such suits would follow from around the nation.

After threatening a suit for weeks, Shevin formally asked U.S. District Judge David Middlebrooks to order the firms to break up their alleged monopolies by selling their crude oil exploration interests.

Shevin predicted that although his was the first such state or federal suit, others will be forthcoming, including one from the state of Connecticut and another by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

He named as defendants Exxon, Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Shell, Atlantic-Richfield, Phillips, Continental, Sun, Union, Cities Service, Marathon, Standard Oil of California, Standard Oil of Indiana, and Standard Oil of Ohio.

Jim: "Declarers have been known to see a defender's hand but if declarer is a good player the chances are that he has another reason for his play."

Oswald: "Here is an elementary example, West's queen of clubs holds the first trick. He continues the suit. South ruffs the second club and plays three rounds of trumps. Then if South is a good player he planks his ace of hearts on the table and drops West's singleton king."

Jim: "This play couldn't do him any harm. If the king failed to drop he would eventually get to dummy with a diamond after losing the diamond finesse and lead a heart toward his queen."

Oswald: "He was sure to make his contract if East held the king of hearts. This way he had that small extra chance. West just might hold the king all by itself."

Auto transport firm makes good on claim

I am a lifelong resident of California and was residing temporarily in Rome, N.Y., last winter while my husband was stationed at Griffiss Air Force Base. When we received orders in February 1972 for immediate transfer to March AFB, we planned to ship one car and drive another together.

An auto transport firm in Syracuse, N.Y., was contacted and the office manager picked up my 1969 Mercury Montego station wagon March 29, 1972. The car was in excellent running condition, had been recently serviced for the trip and had no body marks or dents of any kind.

As I later learned, a team of drivers was to bring the car to my home in California, with all responsibilities for damage to be assumed by the auto transport firm.

My car was delivered to Upland on April 12 by a driver from the Los Angeles office. I was not at home then and my father signed for the car. He mentioned a dent in the right front door and fender but, as the driver had not come from New York, it was assumed that the dent was already in the car prior to shipment. This definitely was not the case.

Upon seeing the dent, I immediately called the Syracuse office. A representative of the firm suggested I send the lowest of three body repair estimates to him as soon as possible. The lowest of $76 was forwarded to his office on April 19.

Since my telephone call on April 12, I had no response from the transport firm. I have placed phone calls, received messages to record my questions, but no one has answered my calls. I have written three times but again there has been no response. I have called the Los Angeles branch office but they have been unable to give any assistance.

Can you help me? — D.C., Upland

Our records show that Action Line wrote to the transport firm in your behalf on Dec. 1. 1972. When you notified us on May 14 that you still had received no response, we immediately wrote again.

The firm's claims manager responded from New York City that the letter to the Syracuse office had been forwarded to him. He said a search of his files did not reveal any correspondence with "either your good selves or Mrs. C. concerning the transport of her vehicle."

He assured us that your claim would be processed. Since then, you have written that he made good on his promise and your claim has been settled.

Early in February I ordered three paintings from a Los Angeles studio. My check was processed by my bank on Feb. 28. Since that time, I have written two letters and made several phone calls attempting to obtain either the paintings or a refund.

When I call, the customer service representative assures me that someone will look up the account and call me back, but I have had no reply. — E.H., La Verne.

We reminded the studio that California law requires the mail order merchant to deliver his product within six weeks or issue an immediate refund.

You telephoned us twice, the first time to say that two of the pictures had arrived and finally that you had received the third.

Some time ago you had a story about cleaning cement driveways. I cut the article out but have lost it. You listed ways to get rust and oil off a cement driveway.

My son drained his radiator out on the cement and it looks terrible. I've tried hard to keep it looking clean and free from oil and spots.

Can you send me the information? — V.S., Montclair.

More than two years ago several readers answered this question for us. We sent you a copy of their replies and now summarize them for others with sons who work on cars.

1. Use one part of muriatic acid to several parts of water, pour it on the rust spot and brush with a broom. Then wash thoroughly with water. If this doesn't work, make the solution stronger. Wash the entire driveway with the solution while you are at it. After it is applied, the sun will bleach the driveway so that it is all the same color.

2. You should use muriatic acid that is a formula with a metal inhibitor to protect your car, etc. A full-strength solution could be a threat to pets even after the driveway is wash down.

3. One thing that helps remove rust stains in sinks and bathtubs and should work on driveways is a mixture of salt and vinegar. Take a fairly generous amount of salt and moisten a cloth with vinegar. Let it set a few minutes and then moisten a cloth with the solution and scour the stained area. Don't let this solution get on grass or shrubs. Mop it all up before turning the hose on the cleaned area.

4. Get a small bag of cat litter, sprinkle some on the rusty streak and grind in with a block of wood or your leather shoes. If it won't do the job, the effort won't be a total loss since it will hide the grease spots on the concrete.

INCINERATOR TOPPLED

The 100-foot-high incinerator at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, a landmark since its installation in 1955, was toppled this week by Thomas House Movers of Pomona. The smokeless 75-ton incinerator was designed by Greelis Sales and Service. Although it was originally approved by the Air Pollution Control District at the time of its construction, present air quality standards necessitated its removal.

Nude-dancing counts against 12 dismissed

POMONA — So-called topless and bottomless entertainment here has come under tighter control despite dismissal of criminal charges against most of the persons arrested last May in a local crackdown.

The action was in Pomona Municipal Court where Judge James H. Piatt dismissed charges against 12 of 15 persons charged either with topless dancing, bottomless dancing or with allowing such entertainment.

The offenses are violations of city ordinances which the Supreme Court ruled earlier were valid controls of local entertainment. Conditions of the dismissals included the stipulation to abide by a civil injunction prohobiting such entertainment here. The injunction was being sought in Pomona Superior Court.

At the hearing, Playmate tavern operator Robert Lindenbaum pleaded no contest to one of seven counts against him and was given a 90-day jail term. The term was suspended. however, and Lindenbaum was placed on probation for three years on condition that he not violate the same city ordinance — allowing topless or bottomless entertainment.

Earlier in the week, City Atty. Patrick Sampson said the city was more interested in shutting down nude entertainment than it was in punishing violatbrs. The agreement to dismiss against the defendants apparently was the result of that theory.

Two others, arrested during the raids last May, still face prosecution, however. Rudolph Angelo Cicciarelli, 30, Rowland Heights, and Janice Ann Kirkland, 27, 1052 Airshire Lane, were accused of exhibiting obscene movies and were scheduled for pretrial hearings Aug. 20. The offenses are violation of the state penal code.

Those who won dismissal of charges Thursday were Robert Newger, 41, of 1254 Paseo Dorado, San Dimas; Rhondo E. Bryant, 21, Long Beach; Jackie Rochelle Ellavsky, 25, of 627 Lorrane Ave.; Ann Christine Bargeman, 26, of 144 N. Palmetto St., Ontario; Sidney Jackson Harris, 36, of 10246 Coalinga Ave., Montclair; Susan Elaine Venetucci, 23, Cucamonga; Cynthia Jean Sparks, 24, of 310 E. Foothill Blvd.; Rita Le Neil Rogers, 30, of 4597 Berkeley Ave., Montclair; Sandra Lynn Simon, 22, of 536 E. Phillips Blvd.; Leslie Faye Willett, 24, Hollywood; Henry Thomas Bleeker, 27, of 1522 Baldy View, and Deborah Ann Cullis, 23, of 1360 W. 3rd St. Charges of exhibiting obscene movies against Margie Anna Marshall, 22, of 2235 Kellogg Park Drive, and Miss Bargeman, were dismissed June 14.

Car wash firms being washed out, file protest

POMONA — Too much of a good thing can ruin it for others.

That's the message operators of three car washes conveyed to the Pomona Planning Commission.

"We are taking these issues to your attention because we feel that there hasn't been good judgment in allowing another car wash to be built on the corner of Holt (Avenue) and Indian Hill (Boulevard)," stated the letter.

"The reasons for our concern is because we car wash owners feel that another car wash within a half or quarter mile from four other car washes in the same area will put some out of business."

The letter bears the signatures of Mrs. Richard L. Drake, Drakes Car Wash, 401 N. East End Ave.; Joseph L. Frey, Village Car Wash, 530 E. Foothill Blvd.; and Shanker Patel, Palms Car Wash, 530 E. Holt Ave.

"Right now, there are over 10 car washes in the City of Pomona. How many more can be allowed before half of us go broke? The population is small with about 65,000 to 70,000 people. How can we all do any business with such population service?" it asked.

The operators suggested an ordinance be permitted to prohibit any more car wash operations be built in the city because of economics and survival of the existing car washes.

"We can only feel as we look around right now that there are already many gas stations and other businesses that are closed because of lack of business,"they stated.

City planners took no action regarding the letter other than voting to "receive and file" it.

Teachers to be granted class time for planning

POMONA — Beginning in September, third through sixth graders in Pomona's public schools will spend slightly less time in the classroom than they have in the past to allow their teachers a regular planning time.

This decision was made last week when the school board approved a recommendatin made by the Elementary Curriculum Planning Committee.

The committee felt that with a regular planning time, the quality of instruction could be increased, substantially outweighing the reduction in teaching time.

Under conpensatory education programs, the Stull Law and increased district requirements, more emphasis is being placed upon the determination of instructional objectives, evaluation of the learner and his placement at the proper level of instruction, committee members pointed out.

The individualization or personalization of the instructional program is being stressed to meet the needs and objectives that have been determined in the district.

Under the new plan, third graders will go from 285 to 255 minutes ,and fourth through sixth graders, from 320 to 296 minutes, in daily classroom instruction.

First and second graders will not be changed. They will remain in the classroom 1,650 minutes a week, attending from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Staffs will have the option to arrange these minutes so that one day per week will be set aside to coincide with the teacher preparation day for grades four through six.

Third graders will attend 1,650 minues per week, normally from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. If a preparation day is established to be consistent with grades four through six, grades one through three would run normally from 9 a.m. to 2:36 p.m. four days a week, and from 9 a.m. to 2:05 p.m. one day per week.

Fourth through sixth graders will attend 1,805 minutes each week. Normally they will attend four days from 9 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. and one day from 9 a.m. to 2:05 p.m.

In a survey of surrounding school districts, including City of Los Angeles, it was found that Pomona, in grades three thrugh six, had the greatest number of minutes in actual class time.

This past year some Pomoma schools were encouraged to modify the total number of instructional minutes to include a regular planning time for teachers.

Evaluation of these schools and their programs indicated that the regular planning time had paid off, the educators said.

'We T.I.P.' strikes again; 2 booked on drug charge

POMONA — Information from We Turn In Pushers, Inc. (We T.I.P.) last week aided police in the arrest of two Pomona men for investigation of possession and cultivation of marijuana at 580 E. Columbia Ave.

According to Pomona police, the two suspects, Joseph Penn Campbell, 23, and Michael Anders Pickering, 23, both of 580 E. Columbia, were arrested outside their apartment carrying six suspected marijuana plants and about 20 grams of cut marijuana.

Police said that the arrests were the result of investigation launched with information supplied by a We T.I.P. tipster. Both suspects were booked in Pomona Jail.

We T.I.P. is a community-based, non-profit organization dedicated to aiding local police agencies in their battle against the drug menace. We T.I.P. offers anonymous informants a reward of $100 to $500 for information that leads police to the arrest and conviction of suspected drug pushers in local communities.

Informants calling on the local W e T.I.P. telephone line (983-9611) or the state We T.I.P. line (800-472-7785) between noon and 6 p.m. weekdays, are told not to give their name but only information about suspected drug pushers.

Each person is assigned a code name and number by the We T.I.P. operator that he or she may use to collect the reward in the event of a conviction.

Bill Brownell, state director of We T.I.P., Inc., said there are now 63 member cities in the We T.I.P. organization throughout California with information being supplied to almost 200 police and sheriff's departments.

To date there have been 3,200 anonymous tips phoned into We T.I.P. leading to 308 arrests and 50 convictions. Drugs with a value of nearly $1.3 million have been confiscated by local police agencies following up on We T.I.P. leads. A total of $5,500 in rewards has been paid to tipsters.

That big wheat sale a goof

It would appear to be a classic case of bringing troubles on ourselves.

Watergate, the ailing dollar, Liz & Dick & Liza notwithstanding, the painfully primary concern for most of us these days is prices—of the galloping variety, with those for food leading the field.

Now the General Accounting Office the watchdog agency that keeps tabs on federal income and outgo, tells us that a primary factor in the crisis at the checkout counter is the effect of last year's huge wheat sale to the Soviet Union.

You remember. That was the unexpected but ecstatically—at first—welcomed profiting from Soviet harvest misfortunes that was supposed to mean prosperity for U.S. farmers and support for a shaky dollar in the world trade.

Only as some small critical voices have been suggesting for some time and the G.A.O. now documents in some detail, it didn't quite work out that way.

Instead, the massive deal—440 million bushels, one-quarter of the entire U.S. crop—created a grain shortage in the United States, driving wheat prices up from $1.68 per bushel in July 1972 to $3 early this year. Directly and indirectly, it has meant higher consumer prices for, in the G.A.O.'s listing, "bread and flour-based products . . . beef, pork, poultry, eggs and dairy products . . ."

And so in the end, it is the U.S. consumer who pays for the big Soviet deal—twice in fact. Now directly out of his food budget, and initially indirectly through the public funds involved in the generous credits—$750 million—extended to Moscow by Washington and the $300 million in export subsidies to make up the difference between a normally higher domestic wheat price and an export price which, the G.A.O. now says was unnecessarily low to the great advantage of the Soviets.

The G.A.O. report, submitted to Congress, places primary responsibility on the Department of Agriculture for, first, being inadequately informed as to the size of the Soviet purchases and not foreseeing the likely effects on the U.S. economy, and then for mismanaging subsidies and permitting speculation by grain dealers.

Agriculture, of course, demurs. And there may indeed be extenuating circumstances and contributing factors beyond its control.

But the consumer confronted with even-higher prices, aware of too-late half measures such as the ban on soybean exports and appalled by such desperation measures as the destruction of chicks by growers caught in the feed-cost squeeze, does not need pages of expert economic analysis to know that someone goofed somewhere.

The United States is a food-surplus nation, capable of producing still more than it now does. Without seeking exorbitant profit from the needs of others, it should still be possible to share this basic wealth with a world in many parts on the thin edge of hunger, even famine, to the benefits of its own economy—certainly not, in any circumstances, the detriment.

The administration is looking to a big grain crop this year, up from 6 per cent in corn to 24 per cent in soybeans according to Agriculture's forecast just out, to ease the price strain eventually.

Trust in providence is fine. But it also helps to help one's self, such as thoroughly checking out future big deals to be certain they are all they appear to be.

For if we take it from the G.A.O., appearances can indeed be deceiving.

Kleindienst bungled Watergate case

WASHINGTON — After questioning ex-Attorney General Richard Kleindienst for four hours in secret, the special prosecutors concluded that the Watergate case might have been cracked months earlier if he had mentioned meeting ringleader G. Gordon Liddy less than 12 hours after the Watergate break-in.

Kleindienst was questioned recently by special prosecutor Archibald Cox's two top aides, James Neal and James Vorenberg, who were satisfied from Kleindienst's answers that he wasn't personally implicated in the scandal. But they couldn't understand his failure, as the nation's top law enforcement officer, to tell his subordinates about the Liddy incident.

Here's what happened on June 17, 1972:

A few hours after the Waterbuggers were arrested at gunpoint inside Democratic Party headquarters, Liddy located Kleindienst at the Burning Tree golf course and rushed off to consult him. Powell Moore, the campaign press chief, asked to go along.

Kleindienst surprised

They found Kleindienst sitting with several people at a large table and called him into a backroom. Liddy reported urgently that the burglary-bugging squad had been headed by the President's campaign security chief.

Kleindienst said he was aware of the arrests but surprised at the involvement of a campaign official. Then Kleindienst picked up a telephone and dialed Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen. "Henry," instructed Kleindienst, "I want to be sure that these people are treated as any other person would be treated who is arrested under those circumstances."

The prosecutors aren't critical of Kleindienst's handling of Liddy, which was entirely proper. But Kleindienst's failure to mention the incident to his subordinates delayed their investigation.

It took them another ten days, for example, before they learned the extent of Liddy's involvement. More important, they knew nothing about Powell Moore until the following year.

Moore's testimony

Unlike Liddy who is still refusing to talk, Moore testified fully and frankly the first time he appeared before the grand jury. His testimony led to other important pieces of the Watergate puzzle. This could have brought a breakthrough in the case a full year ago.

Here are a few of the revelations that came, at least indirectly, through Moore's testimony:

— Moore realized the morning after the break-in, he testified, that Liddy had prior knowledge of the crime. Moore reported this to campaign official Robert Mardian, a former Assistant Attorney General, who had come to the campaign directly from the Justice Department. He is now under investigation for alleged involvement in the Watergate cover-up.

— Moore witnessed the destruction of documents by Liddy, who started with a small shredder and then moved to a larger shredder to speed up the process. Liddy began the shredding operation after a long telephone conversation with his superior, Jeb Stuart Magruder, in California, Moore swore.

Magruder's instructions

— The same morning, according to the testimony, Moore overheard Magruder's assistant, Robert Reisner, getting instructions over the phone from Magruder. When Reisner eventually was called to testify, he told the grand jury that Magruder had asked him to remove sensitive files from the office, including a blue folder marked "Gemstone." This turned out to be the secret incriminating Watergate file of wiretapped conversations.

— Liddy mentioned to Moore during the morning after the break-in that three people should be notified. They were former Attorney General John Mitchell, campaign official Fred Larue and Magruder. All three, it was learned several months later, were key figures in the Watergate scandal.

— Moore testified that Mitchell helped to draft the public statement denying that the campaign committee had anything to do with the Waterbuggers or their crimes. The statement was laced with noble terms about this type of activity having no place in the American political system.

All these events happened within a few hours after the Watergate break-in. If the prosecutors had known about Moore and had been able to take his testimony last summer, the Watergate case almost certainly would have broken wide open long before the election.

Yet Kleindienst, though free of any Watergate taint himself, failed to tell his own prosecutors about his curious meeting with Liddy and Moore on June 17, 1972.

Footnote: Kleindienst explained to us that he didn't regard the Liddy-Moore visit as significant at the time. He later learned that Moore asked to come along so he would be a witness in case Liddy tried to compromise the Attorney General, Kleindienst told us.

Gossip for today

We were hero worshippers in those days. And why not? After all, what red blooded young boy wouldn't have been when he had such a super hero as Frank Merriweather, the clean-cut, all-American boy athlete, to serve as his model and inspiration? Then, of course, there were Christy Matthewson, Jim Thorpe and Gentleman Jim Corbett for good measure.

All of which makes me feel a bit sorry for today's youth in search of sports heroes. What must they think when they learn that it is now being proposed that urine tests be given to football players to make sure these super athletes aren't using dope.?

INSIDE REPORT

Nixon's worsening political condition

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Nixon abandoned his studied aloofness from the Watergate scandal and personally shaped his hard-line refusal to appear before the Senate Watergate committee, sharpening conflict between him and many Republican politicans distraught over the President's deteriorating situation.

Shortly before Mr. Nixon's letter flatly refusing either to testify before the committee or hand over presidential papers, the White House received dramatically contrary advice. Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, the committee's senior Republican, advised the White House that Mr. Nixon should engage in some of kind of dialogue with the committee or risk dire consequences.

Baker's view is increasingly shared by Republican politicans, both around the country and in Congress, alarmed by the President's worsening political condition. But Mr. Nixon's active participation in the refusal to testify has cheered middle-level presidential staffers who have consistently advocated a hard line. Thus, a three-month-old battle over tactics between seasoned Republican politicans and youthful White House aides has entered a new phase, with the President himself now on the side of his hard-line staffers.

Request from Sen. Ervin

The President's letter was prompted by a request from Sen. Ervin of North Carolina Watergate committee chairman, for the papers of 35 past and present White House aides. When committee counsel Sam Dash then asked White House counsel Leonard Garmen to immediately get papers of ex-aides H. R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson, Garment promised a quick reply.

The president ordered that the papers be refused. Smoldering over suggestions by Republican and Democratic members of the Ervin committee that he testify, he expanded the refusal to embrace presidential testimony even though no formal request had been made by the committee.

The original refusal was drafted in Washington but rewritten in San Clemente. The chief rewriter: Richard M. Nixon, imparting his special tone to the letter. "This is vintage Nixon," one high presidential assistant told us.

That overjoyed middle-level White House staffers, including former lieutenants of Haldeman and Colson, who in informal "attack group" meetings had mourned the "soft line" at the White House. They had been dismayed by successive presidential "retreat"—waiving executive privilege, confessions in his May 22 statement, giving the committee White House logs on Mr. Nixon's meetings with deposed White House counsel John W. Dean III.

These hard-liners were particularly enraged by Dean's being permitted to rummage in his old files and feared those files next would be supplied to the Ervin committee as requested. The blanket presidential refusal is taken by "attack group" staffers as a welcome sign of Mr. Nixon's deciding to fight it out.

But the President's letter dismayed Republican politicians who agree with Sen. Baker, a veteran Nixon loyalist. Just before the President's letter was released, Baker spelled out his views to chief White House lobbyists William Timmons and listed three possible ways for a Nixon-committee "conversation": (1) written questions, answers and further questions; (2) interrogation (not under oath) at the White House; (3) interrogation (not under oath) on neutral ground. Whatever the arrangement, Baker urged some such dialogue.

Full support of Baker's view

Baker's view is supported not only in the Senate Republican cloakroom but at the state party level. "I believe this President is not guilty, but he sure acts guilty as hell," one conservative state chairman told us. Such politicians doubt Dean's devastating testimony can be countered solely by friendly witnesses (a view supported by John N. Mitchell's current performance).

Among Senate Republicans, the hard-line letter is regarded as unnecessarily stoking up hostility with the Ervin committee. Since the committee had not formally asked the President to appear, no formal reply was needed. But the reply provoked Ervin's harsh reaction, which in turn generated outrage at the White House.

There is no sign that the sage political hands just signed on at the White House, Melvin R. Laird and Bryce Harlow, contributed to the President's letter. Nor is there any hint they disapproved. But if it becomes politically necessary, Laird and Harlow might well recommend something along lines recommended by Baker.

Indeed, some presidential aides suggest Mr. Nixon's present refusal to "testify" does not preclude "conversing" with the committee. But that would again force a public retreat from a position shrewd politicians in his own party feel the President never had to take in the first place.

TV can be good for parent, child

There are few men, women and children among us who do not succumb to viewing television each day. Particularly the latter. Recent national surveys reveal that the average child plops himself before a TV set for an annual 1,000 hours of fantasy, fakery and fact. He spends about 500 hours in a classroom.

Appalling? Possibly not. Many child psychologists and educators are revising their thinking about television and its programming. Some now say that instead of pushing families apart, television viewing can bring a parent closer to his child. The boob tube is being touted as a brain tube.

This is the thesis of the creators of a new television magazine, "Tube Talk," written for the preteen set (8-year-old average) to be enjoyed and shared with their parents.

To be distributed with newspapers, "Tube Talk" includes interviews, games, puzzles and educational features. According to a preview article, the crucial and valuable factor in the viewing of TV by the impressionable very young is that the experience be shared and that parents help a child learn while he is being entertained.

Many adults still object to TV programming for children without really watching the shows, discussing them with the young viewer or really listening to what he says about what he is seeing. TV is far past the stage of being an inexpensive babysitter yet some parents still use it as one. It is an educational force and one that more parents must learn to share.

Television as we know it is in its 26th year. Perhaps the elements are right for adult viewers, producers and advertisers to stretch themselves to the point where they will insist that this visual electronic god meet its immense potential in education and entertainment.

Dandruff problem vital to progress

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The human race progresses by solving problems, If there were no more problems, the race would soon become static and probably begin regressing.

Already this has happened in some places. The town of Farthing, S.D., became a problem-free area aboout 10 years ago and hasn't advanced a lick since.

Other communities brought to a standstill by a shortage of problems include Sinking Hills, Mont., Buttermilk Falls, Wis., Tinker's Dam, Alaska and Puma City, Ariz.

But these are freakish phenonema. Fortunately for the race as a whole, some problems defy solution. The very act of grappling with them moves man forward.

Have you, for example, every considered how much the onward and upward movement of the human race has been stimulated by the dandruff problem?

Man's age-old fight against dandruff has built giant industries, provided gainful employment for thousands, and inspired chemists and advertising copywriters to new heights of creativity.

Scores of dandruff removal shampoos have been formulated, but all do just that — remove it. None actually conquers dandruff in the sense of vanquishing it, the way man has eradicated razor drag for instance.

No, dandruff keeps turning up like a bad penny. The most that can be said is that we have managed to "control" it. Which is a heap of progress itself.

The extent of that achievement can be seen if you picture to yourself what the world would be like if dandruff should ever get out of control.

Reasonably, then, we could expect the dandruff problem to be with us for years to come. But that rosy outlook is now threatened by an ominous action by the Federal Trade Commission.

Shampoo manufacturers who claim to deal with the problem are being required by the FTC to define what they mean by dandruff.

Suppose they are unable to come up with an acceptable definition? Where will that leave us?

In limbo, that's where. It will mean that all these years we have been struggling to overcome a problem that technically doesn't even exist.

If you were able to picture a world in which dandruff was out of control, now try to picture a world without any dandruff at all.

I don't know what you see but I see a catastrophe of the first magnitude —giant shampoo companies going bankrupt ... workers in breadlines ... Madison Ave. account executives leaping from office windows.

In short, the dandruff problem is vital to our continued progress. Let us hope and pray it's for real.

Flag display

June 14, 1973, Flag Day, was fittingly observed by the City of Pomona, in an impressive display of the American Flag in great numbers in the planter sections bordering the Pomona Mall.

As it happened that I was on the Mall most of the day, I had occasion at least six times to replace in upright positions flags which had fallen over and lay on the Mall itself. This was due in part to breezes which blew them over, but mostly to the fact that the flag poles were not set in sockets but merely placed on the ground in the planters. I also observed, due to my necessarily close inspection of fallen flags, that most of the flags were soiled and dirty beyond belief.

It does seem that this shoddy display could be given a brighter and more respected appearance if the City custodian of these flags (whoever he may be) could be authorized to replace the dirty flags with new ones, and if metal sockets could be set in the planters for any future mass display of our American Flag. —D. Passenger mark set at Ontario

ONTARIO — Gasoline shortage, inflation and summer vacations.

Officials cited these as contributing to a record 112,986 airline passengers who passed through Ontario International Airport last month.

The June total broke the previous monthly record of 102,432 set last August.

"June is always a good month for summer vacation travel," said Al Dubiel, airport official. "Many students are then out of school."

He said many travelers may have also been concerned over the reported gasoline shortage. "Rather than drive, they decided to fly.

"Many may have decided to take a trip this summer before inflation raises the price of airline tickets."

As an example of the heavy passenger traffic, Dubiel noted that PSA one day had a total of three empty seats on its four regular flights. Each plane, he said, carries about 105 passengers.

The airport is served by eight major air carriers and one commuter airline, which provide daily service to more than 20 cities.

The June traffic, a gain of nearly 20,000 passengers over June 1972, boosts the total number of passengers so far this year to 544,702. This is a 14 per cent gain over the 476,250 reported the first six months of last year.

Last month's passengers included 95-744 on scheduled flights; 12,487 on scheduled commuters; 1,424 on non scheduled flights; and 3,301 on alternate flights.

Despite the large passenger increase, the number of flight operations was upped only 6.3 per cent over the previous June—13,033 compared to 12,266, reported Robert Hamilton, airport manager.

"This tends to indicate a better load factor for each flight," he added.

The flight operations include: air carrier, 2,904; alternates, 76; air taxi, 1,860; military, 1,203; and general aviation, 6,990.

The June flights boosts the total this year to 74,174, compared to 71,151 the same period last year.

The amount of air cargo shipped through the airport climbed last month with 503,873 pounds being handled. This compared with 335,114 pounds the previous June, for a 50.4 per cent gain.

To illustrate the increased use of the airport, Hamilton compared the June and mid-year totals with airport activity during the 1960s.

"In the first half of this year, we've seen almost as many passengers as we did during all of 1968, and the June count alone was higher than all the passenger volume of 1960, 1961 and 1962 combined," he added.

The air cargo figures for the 1960s aren't available. "But the air cargo activity has gone up an average of 32 per cent a year for the past three years," said Hamilton.

Anti-abortion group begins bracelet drive

UPLAND — Mrs. John Stanley of Pomona is chairman of the new Bracelets for Life Committee of the Pomona Valley-West End Right to Life League, an anti-abortion organization.

The bracelets, Mrs. Stanely said, are similar in concept to the POW bracelets. "They will serve a dual purpose of declaring the wearer's positive view of life and of protesting the Supreme Court decision that a fetus is not a person in the full sense," she explained.

The silver nickel alloy bracelets have black etchings of the Greek letters A and Z and a circle with spokes symbolizing the continuity of life from conception to its natural end at death.

The date of the Supreme Court decision, Jan. 22, is engraved on the bracelet. "The bracelets become a point of conversation for those who wish to defend the unborn," said Mrs. Stanley.

Those interested in obtaining bracelets may call Mrs. Stanley at 629-5763. The cost is $3.25 each. Orders also may be placed by writing the Pomona Valley-West End Right to Life League, Box 651, Upland 91786.

The league's Lifeline telephone number, where counseling may be obtained, is 985-0205.

Veteran postal workers retire

ONTARIO — Post office employes have bidden farewell Saturday to the last of the city's "old time" workers.

John Lenert, 69, last of the employes who worked at the old post office building which was located just south of the present structure, retired after 32 years of service.

Lenert, a 1922 graduate of Chaffey College, served as chief of maintenance for the post office.

Joining Lenert in retirement was Pedro S. Murillo, 62, who retired after 16 years of postal service. A former professional baseball player in the old Pacific Coast League, Murillo worked as a distribution clerk.

Light navel orange crop seen for W.E.

SAN BERNARDINO — Hot spells and a "June" drop may cause a light navel orange crop here.

"A late blossom and fruit setting period was followed by sudden hot spells, a flush of new tree growth and June drop," reported Warren Burr, assistant county agricultural commissioner.

These conditions may also affect both the valencia orange and grapefruit crops, he added.

A new growth of lemons, associated with a light bloom, is becoming evident under the influence of hot spells. "Present indications are also a short lemon crop for next season," said Burr.

Workers are now picking valencia oranges. The fruit size continues below normal. Those oranges diverted to processing are running from 35 to 50 per cent due to small sizes, wind and thrip scars, regreening and frost damage, he noted.

"Domestic sales are slow while export demand is good," said Burr. "The present estimates are now 300 field boxes per acre, with 25 per cent of the crop harvested."

Lemon picking was only slight during June as the season neared an end. By mid-summer, however, light picking is forecast when the new season begins.

Fruit from the old crop is rapidly moving out of storage as domestic shipments continue heavy. Exports, were reduced during the month.

In other crops, Burr reported leafhoppers are posing a problem to grape growers and the sweet corn harvest began July 1.

Third of Chino students taking summer classes

CHINO — More than a third of the Chino School District students are spending part of their summer vacations back in the classroom.

Officials report 3,048 students attending regular classes at nine schools, plus 521 enrolled in swimming sessions and 10 in speech therapy.

This is a 3 per cent increase over summer enrollment last year.

Chino High School has the largest attendance with 435 students, followed by Newman Elementary School with 433 and Don Antonio Lugo High School, 415.

Other schools include: E. J. Marshall School, 356; Ramona School, 338; Gird Primary School, 272; Los Serranos and Glenmeade Schools, 251; El Rancho School, 160; and Gird Elementary School, 129.

Mail delivery routes may change slighty

ONTARIO — Residents here may notice a change in the delivery time of their mail and possibly a new carrier serving them.

"Every year we are required to inspect the carrier routes, and based on the statistics of each route—such as the volume of mail, time required to sort case and deliver the mail—regular routes must be adjusted to as close as eight hours daily as possible," explained Charles F. Linck, postmaster.

This is difficult to do as each carrier and each delivery route are usually different, he added. "This year, in an effort to increase mail delivery productivity, carriers are being adjusted to routes which mostly have been increased about 10 per cent."

This is in keeping with the national delivery requirements and regional budgetary demands, said Linck.

On a normal day, a carrier should be able to handle his regular route in eight hours. On heavy mail volume days, however, he will probably require assistance or overtime to complete the route.

"Residents are urged to be understanding of their mail delivery situation as carriers attempt to adjust to their new delivery areas and duties," he said.

"This adjustment, coupled with the present heat wave, makes the carrier job very difficult."

Chino Ford gets special award

Chino Basin Water District proud of new cleaning device

CUCAMONGA — The Chino Basin Municipal Water District (CBMWD) has purchased a $60,000 sewer cleaning machine which may clean five times as much line per year at one-fourth the cost.

"With conventional equipment, a crew of four or five men normally can clean 500 to 1,000 feet of sewer line per day at an average cost of 50 to 75 cents per foot," said Andrew Schlange, CBMWD general manager.

The new "Vacto-Jet Rodder," a combination sewer cleaner and catch basin cleaning machine, will average 3,000 feet of sewer line daily at a cost of under 10 cents per foot, he added.

"The water pump in the machine creates a surging action which overcomes obstruction and blockages in the line. The nozzle is reeled back through the pipe, dislodging grit, grease, sludge, small roots and other objects.

"The vacuum portion of the equipment sucks up this debris by means of a suction pipe lowered into the manhole, and conveys it to the receiving tank, thus completing the cleaning of the sewer line and removal of the material from the system in a single operation."

The district seeks to clean 50 miles of non-reclaimable waste line and 100 miles of interceptor sanitary sewage lines every two years in its preventive maintenance program.

Friends, foes join in praising Ryan

United Press International

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Robinson has batted against all the best pitchers in both leagues over the last 15 years, including Nolan Ryan, and he says his current teammate with the California Angels rates right up there with the best of them.

"He throws as hard as anybody I've ever seen," said Robinson, the only man ever to win the Most Valuable Player award in both leagues. "His curve ball made him, not his fast ball. He threw a lot of curves out there.

"In fact," he added with a big grin, "he struck me out three times and I wasn't even playing."

Both California teammates and Detroit rivals joined in praising Ryan after the young righthander threw his second no-hitter of the season Sunday as the Angels beat the Tigers, 6-0. Ryan struck out 17 batters, the most by any pitcher in a no-hit game. He walked four batters.

No Detroit batter reached second base, every Tiger in the lineup struck out at least once, and there was only one hard-hit ball for the California fielders to handle. That came with one out in the ninth inning when Gates Brown drilled a line drive that had Detroit shortstop Rudy Meoli, only 5-9, stretching as high as he could to snare it.

"Pitching against as good a hitting team as Detroit is right now is really doing a job," Manager Bobby Winkles of California said.

"He is as good, stuffwise, as any pitcher in the game today," Winkles said.

"It's kind of hard to compare him with the greats right now," teammate Vada Pinson said, "but he's got a great future ahead of him."

Duke Sims, who struck out three times against Ryan, at first said he was "embarrassed" but thought about it and admitted there was nothing shameful in being overmatched.

"I've had no-hitters thrown against me," Sims said, "but never as overpowering as that one."

"It's a hard thing to do a nohitter," the Detroit catcher said. "A shutout is hard enough, but to throw a no-hitter with 17 or 18 punch-outs (strikeouts) . . .

"The thing is he only threw 126 pitches. Normally when you strike out as many as he did, you're going to throw 150-160 pitches," Sims said. "It's incredible."

"I wanted the no-hitter," Ryan admitted. "I'd rather have that than the strikeout record. I think, with the stuff I had, I'll get another chance at that."

Singles by Art Kusnyer and Sandy Alomar plus Pinson's sacrifice fly in the third inning kept Ryan clinging to a 1-0 lead until the Angels exploded like their pitcher's fastball for five runs in the eighth.

Until that outburst, Ryan said later, he was more worried about winning the game than anything else—and if you know Nolan Ryan you know that wasn't just talk.

But Winston Llenas and Al Gallagher each singled home two runs and Bob Oliver singled home one to pin Jim Perry with his ninth loss against nine wins.

Kusnyer's single broke an 0-for-30 slump and was his first hit since May 5 while Llenas' hit, his 11th in 27 pinch-hit tries, enabled him to establish a new club mark with 13 pinch runs batted in.

Ryan is only 11-11 this season and his earned run average only slightly below 3.00 despite the two hitless games. His other was May 15 at Kansas City, when he struck out 12 and walked three in a 3-0 win.

This time he let it be known to the 41-411 fans who showed up on Cap Day that he was superb right away. Ryan struck out 12 of the first 14 outs Detroit made.

"Either his fastball or his curve should be outlawed, they're that tough," home plate umpire Ron Luciano said after the game, and after Ryan had been mobbed by his teammates and given a standing ovation by the crowd.

Ryan, who's only 26, now has 220 strikeouts this season, more at this time of the year than any pitcher has ever had. Sandy Koufax' season record of 382 is in definite jeopardy if Ryan stays healthy.

"He doesn't need any superlatives," shortstop Ed Brinkman of Detroit said. "You just have to watch him pitch."

RYAN'S NO-HIT FORM

This is what American League hitters must face when they bat against the Angels' no-hit ace, Nolan Ryan.

McCluskey can't beat Foyt

By United Press International

Roger McCluskey could get a complex the way he keeps losing to A.J. Foyt.

On July 1, McCluskey was leading the Pocono 500 when he ran out of gas on the last lap and Foyt cruised past to win his second United States Auto Club championship race of the year.

They finished in the same order Sunday when A.J. scored a 6.3 second beat on McCluskey in a USAC stock car race at the Michigan International Speedway. Foyt averaged 134.429 miles an hour.

The second place finish ruined McCluskey's chance for a double on the day. The Tucson, Ariz., driver opened his bid for the "iron man" stunt earlier when he beat Johnny Rutherford by 24.4 seconds in the championship car half of the Twin 200 with an average speed of 161.146 miles an hour.

McCluskey, point leader in the USAC driver standings, earned $21,076 for his day's work, including a $17,250 check for the first race victory.

Mike Keyser and Bob Beasley's Porsche Carrera staged a 5½-hour battle with the Horst Kwech-Harry Theodoracopulos Capri and won the International Motor Sports Association Camel GT Challenge at Mid-Ohio when their rivals were forced into a lengthy pit stop with a broken axle shaft just 30 minutes from the finish.

The Keyser-Beasley tandem averaged 81.634 miles an hour to beat the Corvette of runnerup Ike Knupp, Allan Barker and Mike Murray. Kwech and Theodoracopulos finished third.

The team of Nick Craw and John Morton won the six-hour B.F. Goodrich Radial Challenge race on the 2.4 mile Mid-Ohio course Saturday, leading a 1-2-3 BMW finish.

Bob Sharp, driving a Datson dealer 610, beat pole sitter John McCombe's Triumph in a Sports Car Club of America production race at Pocono Raceway. In a Sunday co-feature, Sharp lost to Bob Tullius' Triumph when he gambled on using rain tires and an expected downpour did not materialize.

Heavy rain forced postponement of Sunday's scheduled National Northern 300 stock car race at the Trenton Speedway. The race was put over to Aug. 5, with defending champion Bobby Allison maintaining the pole position when the race goes off next month.

In Saturday's big overseas race, Peter Revson became only the fifth American to win a Grand Prix Formula One race when he captured the British GP in a Works McLaren-Ford. An eight-car accident on the first lap, precipitated by Jody Scheckter's tire blow out, forced Can-Am leader George Follmer out of the race.

Revson was the first American to win a GP race since Mario Andretti's victory in the 1971 South African Grand Prix.

Ryan's no-hitter was for Angels

By United Press International

Nolan Ryan really wanted a no-hitter Sunday, but not for himself, for someone else.

Corny as it sounds, he wanted it for the California Angels, and they needed one more than Nolan Ryan did.

He had pitched a no-hitter against the Kansas City Royals on May 15 and when he duplicated the feat against the Detroit Tigers Sunday, Ryan became the first pitcher in 20 years to pitch two no-hitters in the same season.

Ryan, a fireballing 26-year-old righthander from Alvin, Tex., struck out 12 of the first 14 batters he retired as the California Angels blanked the Tigers, 6-0. Ryan finished with 17 strikeouts—the most ever in a no-hit game—before a Cap Day crowd of 41,411 in Detroit. Ryan walked four batters.

The victory broke a four-game California losing streak and snapped a winning string of five games for the Tigers. It marked the second time this season that a no-hitter has been thrown against Detroit.

"I really wanted it," said Ryan, who rarely talks about himself. "The club needed it and I needed it."

The Angeles, in third place, are 4½ games behind the Oakland A's in the American League's tight Western Division scramble.

"I haven't pitched that well recently," said Ryan, who places a high premium on the club's overall success and accepts personal achievements with modesty.

"I think Nolie feels that for us to be a contender he has to have a good second half," Winkles said. "He's made up his mind he's going to have a good second half even if we don't get him any runs."

In other American League action, New York stopped Kansas City, 2-0, Oakland downed Milwaukee, 8-5, Minnesota edged Cleveland in 10 innings, 7-6, Baltimore edged Chicago, 3-2, and Boston beat Texas, 3-1 in a rain-shortened 5½ inning game.

Roy White singled home two runs in the eighth inning to back up the combined four-hit pitching of Sam McDowell and Sparky Lyle in New York's win over Kansas City. McDowell, 4-1; allowed three hits while walking seven and fanning seven. Lyle pitched the ninth to pick up his 24th save of the year.

Bill North's ninth-inning double drove in two runs and Reggie Jackson added a two-run home run as Oakland scored four runs in the ninth for a victory over Milwaukee. Dick Green and Bert Campaneris singled in the ninth. With one out, North doubled to score Green and Campaneris and with two outs, Jackson hit his 20th home run into the right field bleachers.

Danny Thompson's one-out sacrifice fly in the 10th inning scored pinch-runner Mike Adams and gave Minnesota a victory over Cleveland. Adams entered the game as a pinchrunner for Tony Oliva, who walked to lead off the 10th, and took second when George Mitterwald walked and third on a walk to Jim Holt.

Successive eighth-inning home runs by George Mitterwald, Joe Lis and Jim Holt gave the Twins a 6-5 lead but Buddy Bell singled home the tying run in the ninth. The homers erased a 5-3 lead supplied earlier in the inning on a three-run homer by George Hendrick, his 19th.

Dwight Evans cracked a solo homer in the second inning to give Boston a victory over Texas. Evans snapped a 1-1 tie with his fifth homer of the year into the left field screen with one out in the second. Rain delayed the start of the game for 2 hours and 52 minutes and showers persisted throughout the contest before it finally was called.

Baltimore erupted for three runs on four hits in the top of the sixth inning to edge Chicago. The winning rally started when Mark Belanger doubled and Al Bumbry singled Belanger home. Paul Blair walked and Tommy Davis singled to score Bumbry before Earl Williams singled home the third run.

Prep fans get more action

AZUSA — Prep football fans attending Thursday's San Gabriel Valley All-Star football game at Citrus College will get something extra.

12 more minutes of football than they're used to.

Under the rules of the All-Star game quarters will be played in the 15-minute segments that professionals operate under.

High school games normally are played in 12-minute quarters.

The extra three minutes that are tacked onto each period presents unique conditioning problems that are compounded by the gap in time between a player's last game, probably late last November or early December.

Both East and West have had to cram conditioning and practice into the last two weeks before the game — and the effects of the lay-off and lengthened playing time may have an effect on play Thursday night.

East head coach Ken Gunn thinks the playing time will, indeed, be a factor to consider.

"The 15-minute quarter gives us quite a conditioning problem," says Gunn. "It is quite different from a normal game. Three more minutes may not seem like a long time, but to those guys down on the field it is."

The timing isn't the only difference.

Each team is limited in the number of formations it can assume during the game, which will make for a pretty conventional game plan.

The reasoning behind the field rules is prevention of injury.

The purpose of the game is to showcase great players at the peak of their careers, not to curtail those careers.

West coach Dick Salter explains the effect of formation limitiation.

"We want, above all, to protect individuals. It would be a shame to have a defensive back red-dog through the line and have a leg broken.

"Another protective rule is that when you line up to punt, you must punt. Something like a tackle-eligible play has been thrown out altogether.

"We're now locked into three offensive sets. We must always line five players up, at least, on the line in order to snap the ball."

Salter is particularly concerned about injury to this year's All-Star team.

"It's been a great plasure to work with a group of kids eager to sacrifice their plans for football. It's a privilege to work for a greater charity." (Proceeds from the game go to Casa Colina hospital in Pomona.)

"Rewards in many forms have come to these players for their participation in football. This is their chance to give some back to charity."

Gunn concurs with Salter's judgment of this year's crop of All-Stars. "The one thing that has really improved is the enthusiasm. Each young man we called was really eager to play, with the exception of one who had to work. The Game has increased in stature. Students, players, and coaches all over are really looking forward to it."

Rams welcome more veterans

FULLERTON, Calif. (UPI) — Twenty-nine more veterans, headed by all-pros Merlin Olsen and Tom Mack, checked into the Los Angeles Rams' camp Sunday night.

The Rams disclosed that 10-year safetyman Jerry Logan, obtained during the off-season from the Baltimore Colts for a draft choice, had told them he was retiring.

Coach Chuck Knox said the Rams—now 84 strong—will work out in the morning and the afternoon Monday.

Olsen, the 12-year defensive tackle, and Mack, the 11-year offensive guard, are among 46 veterans in camp.

Killebrew sets knee operation

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Hermon Killebrew, the Minnesota Twins' ailing slugger, will undergo an operation on his left knee July 23 and is expected to be lost for the remainder of the season.

A Twins' spokesman said Killebrew will be operated on for a torn medial cartiledge and could be available to the Twins in six or eight weeks. He suffered the injury June 25 while batting against the Chicago White Sox.

Killebrew is batting .245 this season with three homers and 26 runs batted in.

Broken jaw KOs Shavers from fight

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI) — Heavyweight Earnie Shavers suffered a broken jaw in a workout at the Grossinger Country Club Sunday and he will be unable to fulfill a scheduled date against Jerry Quarry on July 25.

It is estimated that the fifth ranking Shavers will be out of the ring for at least six months.

The accident happened in the second round of a two-round workout with sparring partner Jeff Merritt. Shavers, of Warren, Ohio, was taken to the Community General Hospital in Liberty, N.Y., where he was found to have a fracture of both sides of the jaw after an examination by Dr. Seymour Bessen.

Bassen, who wired the jaw Sunday night, reported that Shavers had a fractured mandible with fractures on the right side of his face to the top near the temple and along the lower left hand side of the jaw.

Shavers, who has a record of 45 wins and two losses, was placed in intensive care following the operation and will remain in the hospital at least a week.

An official for Madison Square Garden said that another opponent for Quarry might be found.

Sizzling hot Dodgers spoil Cubs' party

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Midway through Sunday's game between the Dodgers and Chicago Cubs, the visitors' announcer, Jack Brickhouse, wandered through the pressbox.

"Baseball is no fun anymore," he said with a wry grin.

At that time, Brickhouse's Cubs were merely trailing 5-2. It got worse for the Chicagoans before the game ended.

What was to have been a showdown between the leaders of the National League's East and West divisions a possible preview of the playoffs turned out to be a disaster for the Cubbies.

With Claude Osteen junkballing the slump-ridden Cub hitters into submission and Dodger batters pounding Chicago ace Rick Reuschel (10-6) and his successors for nine runs on 13 hits, the ambitious young Dodgers rolled over the Cubs, 9-3, leaving the dazed and battered Chicagoans to reel out of Dodger Stadium with their East lead cut to two games over the hot St Louis Cardianls who edged San Diego 5-4.

Meanwhile, the Dodgers, rolling merrily on their way again, retained their seven game lead in the West.

In the three games, the major league-leading Dodger hitters for team average) mauled Cub hurling for 31 hits and scored 21 runs while the Cubs could manager only six.

Only some three minor injuries marred the day for the high-flying Angelenos.

Willie Davis suffered what was described as a "minor muscle spasm" in his left hamstring just after rounding first base on what still turned out to be a triple in the seventh inning. Davis hippity-hopped his way around second and safely into the third.

He's expected to be out just a "couple of games."

Bill Russell the other irreplaceable on the Dodger roster, was hit on the left elbow by a Reuschel pitch in sixth inning. Russell remained in the game and afterward said the bruise didn't bother him much.

Winning pitcher Osteen (11-5) has been bothered by an aching elbow on his pitching arm and had doubts about his durability before and during the game.

"I came to the ball park wondering what kind of stuff I'd have," he remarked as he sat in the trainer's room, his left arm immersed in ice.

"I told them (manager Walter Alston and pitching coach Red Adams) in the fifth inning that my arm was aching and I didn't know how far I could go," he revealed. "I don't know what caused it. I've had it for a couple of days. It's just kind of a tired ache."

The aching arm caused Osteen to pitch an entirely different kind of game.

"I didn't seem to have too much so I went to what I call my offspeed stuff, slow curves and changes," he continued. As a result, when I did throw a fast ball, it seemed faster than it really was."

What Osteen did have in abundance was control. Of his 108 pitches, 76 were strikes. He didn't walk anyone and struck out five.

"The last two or three innings, I had a heck of a time just throwing the first pitch," he related. "My arm really stiffto get my arm up anyway and this really threw my game off."

The middle of the Dodger batting order was most productive this sunny, cool Sunday afternoon.

Davis went 2-for-4, batted in his 55th and 56th runs, scored his63rd and 64th, and raised his average to .304.

Joe Ferguson had two singles and a walk, batted in his 51st and 52nd runs, scored his 47th and 48th, and jacked his average up to .281.

But batting honors went to Willie Crawford who smashed a wrong field home run in the third inning to account for three of the five Dodger runs i that stanza and a double in the seventh.

Willie C. brought his RBI total to 38, his runs scored to 47, and raised his average to .308.

"I had a felling I'd hit one out today," the one-time $100,000 bonus baby said. "I hit a hanging hook. I finally have learned how to think positive about this game. That's why I'm enjoying this year so much."

All of Crawford's seven homers have been hit at Dodger Stadium. "I guess," he grinned," I just like hitting in front of the home crowd."

Steve Garvey ripped two singles and batted in two runs. Garvey now is batting. 328. He has hit safely in seven of the last eight games (13-for-33. . .329).

The Cubs scored in the first on a leadoff double by Rick Monday and two infield outs. They added another in the third inning on Monday's single and a checked-swing double by Billy Williams.

The third run came in the eighth inning on Jose Cardenal's infield hit and Ron Santo's double.

The Dodgers bunched their hits to score five times on five hits in the third, once o two hits in the fifth, and three times on four hits in the seventh.

It marked the 27th time this year the club has come from behind to win.

DODGER NOTES — The Dodgers flew out of Los Angeles for Pittsburgh right after Sunday's game. They open a three-game series with the Pirates tonight.

Don Sutton, Andy Messersmith, and Tommy John will oppose Nelson Briles, Luke Walker, and Dock Ellis.

Sunday's 42,975 paid attendance brought the total for the three games with the Cubs to 145,903 and the season total to 1,300,175. The Dodgers now are only 37,668 behind their last two million-plus season, 1971.

The Dodgers played errorless ball Sunday. They have made only 69 in 94 games this season. Last year thef passed the 100 mark in miscues and had 101 in 93 games. The infield has made only 46 errors compared to 74 last year.

McCovey hits 400th HR

By United Press International

Willie McCovey's approach to "getting even" with those wonderful folks who were responsible for sitting him on the bench five days ago, seems like a good way of getting back.

He hit two home runs Sunday to become one of only 15 major league players ever to reach the 400-mark as the San Francisco Giants ripped the Pittsburgh Pirates 12-0..

"It could have been a bigger thrill. I don't feel I have to be put in the position of having to prove anything," said McCovey, who at the age of 34 this season has hit 17 homers and batted in 43 runs.

The two shots by McCovey paced a 15-hit Giant attack and gave him 17 for the season, adding to a total of 401 lifetime.

Juan Marichal pitched the Giants over the Pirates, allowing four hits to gain credit for his seventh victory in 12 decisions.

"This game certainly restored my confidence," said Marichal, "Now I feel like I'm earning my money. I didn't feel that way in the bullpen where I hardly pitched at all and wasn't helping the team."

Also Lending support were Garry Maddox and Ed Goodson with two run homers as the Giants piled up 10 hits off four Pirate hurlers.

San Francisco completed the rout with five more runs in the eighth off rookie Tom Dettore. Key hits were a two-run single by Gary Matthews, a two-run double by Mike Phillips and a run-scoring double by Bobby Bonds.

In other National League games, Los Angeles beat Chicago 9-3, Atlanta toppled Montreal 6-1, Houston blanked Philadelphia 2-0 in a rain shortened game and St. Louis edged San Diego 5-4 in 15 innings.

Willie Crawford hit a three-run homer and a double and Willie Davis added a two-run single and triple as the Dodgers whipped the Cubs to complete a three game sweep of the series between the divisional leaders.

By capturing their fifth victory in a row, the Dodgers maintained their seven-game bulge over San Francisco in the NL West. Dodgers' left-hander Claude Osteen went the distance to register his 11th victory in 16 decisions.

Ron Schueler scattered five hits in leading Atlanta to its 11th victory in 15 starts by beating the Expos. The Braves broke away with five runs on five hits and three walks in the third inning. The key hit was Johnny Oates' single that drove in Schueler and Ralph Garr.

Ross Grimsley picked up his ninth victory against five losses as the Reds topped New York. Grimsley had a perfect game until Jim Beauchamp beat out an infield single with one out in the fifth inning. He allowed only three other hits, one of them a leadoff homer in the seventh inning by Willie Mays, his fourth of the season and the 658th of his career.

Dave Roberts blanked the Phillies in a rain-snortened 5½- inning game and the Astros used RBI singles by Doug Rader and Bob Watson to beat Philadelphia. Roberts has now beaten the Phillies eight straight times.

Bernie Carbo doubled with two out in the top of the 15th inning to drive in Ken Reitz from first base with the winning run as St. Louis outlasted the Padres. The win moved the Cardinals to within two games of the first-place Cubs in the Eastern Division.

Pomona 30 sweeps series over S. Gabriel

SAN GABRIEL —Pomona Post 30 stayed in the thick of the red-hot District playoff race Sunday completing a weekend series sweep with a 7-4 romp over San Gabriel.

Greg Ballard started and went five innings allowing a scratch singles in five innings of work, one of his most impressive outings of the year.

Mark Lambert picked up Ballard and was touched up for four hits and four runs in the sixth before retiring the final seven batters he faced.

Larry Pekarcik pitched outstanding ball in his two inning stint. The righthander struck out seven batters, one reached base via a pass ball, in his best showing of the year.

The Gems scored once in he first and two runs in the second, third, and fourth frames while racking up 17 hits, giving them 33 safeties in the two games.

Jeff Corkill had three hits including a triple, Keith Thomas matched the three-hit effort, while Wil Lewallen, Roger Slayton, Greg Gallard, and Eddie Carmean added two hits each. In fact, the only starter without a hit was Bobby Chaulk. Ballard picked up two ribbies.

La Verne shows muscle

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — Confidence is a must in any endeavor. In baseball it's a necessity. Besides being good, talented and lucky the better clubs must believe they are capable of beating any other club.

La Verne Post 330 called on its strongest characteristic—confidence—Sunday afternoon and made believers out of West Covina Post 790.

The big club blasted five round-trippers while pitchers Jim Vallone and Greg Thompson checked West Covina on four hits en route to a 12-1 rout.

La Verne, now 26-11 for the season and 11-5 (including a pair forfeit wins from Glendora scheduled for next weekend), in District 18 play can now relax and enjoy its waiting role.

Covina (12-1), West Covina (10-4), Pomona (9-5), and Arcadia (8-5) are still waging the battle for the four playoff spots. Covina, who plays South Pasadena in a make-up game Tuesday and Arcadia next Saturday and Sunday, appears to have locked up the conference title and the number one seed in the district playoffs.

West Covina looks to have a berth in the playoffs, finishes up with La Puente for a pair of games. While La Verne is assured of at least a tie for the third or fourth spot, Pomona and Arcadia must win their remaining games to get the at-large spot. The Gems have the easier schedule against South Pasadena (6-6) while Arcadia plays South Pasadena for a singleton Wednesday and league-leading Covina Friday and Saturday.

Vallone (9-7) drew a few oohs and ahs from the partisan fans as the southpaw, who started yesterday's ball game in which La Verne dropped 9-7 despite a five-run ninth inning rally, got the starting nod again and hurled starting nod again and hurled seven innings of two-hit ball.

The 'golden arm', who didn't allow a hit until a fifth inning nubber by Chuck Taylor, escape a touchy fourth frame unscathed. Vallone plunked Tony Robles with a curve and Frank Marini reached first by an error.

Following an argument with the umpire in which the lefthander felt he'd picked Marini off first, Thompson (catcher) picked Robles off second base. Bob Adams struck out and Dave Snyder grounded out to end the threat.

While Vallone displayed the poise from the rubber, Thompson and company supplied the sock.

Thompson broke a scoreless deadlock in the fifth with a grand slam home run, smashing Jim Worth's 3-1 fastball far over the left field screen (320-foot mark) scoring Rick Ortega who had doubled and Vallone and Mark Willman who had loaded the bases on back-to-back walks.

West Covina's only run came in the seventh when Adams opened with a double, advanced to third on a wild pitch and scored on a ground out by Jim Boyles.

Post 330 bounced right back with a pair of runs in the bottom of the frame when Ortega reached on an error and Mark Willman blasted a home run, his sixth of the year. It was his 25th and 26th RBI's of the season.

La Verne closed its scoring with a six-run eighth inning. Dave Alexander walked and Jim Richards singled. Al Ascosta then blasted a Worth-fastball for a three-run home run, his first of the year and giving him 18 ribbies. Ortega thrilled the fans by matching the fete with a roundtripper over the left-center field fence, his third four-bagger of the year and 16th RBI. Following Willman's double, Thompson hit his circuit clout of the game, this time a curve ball that hung, over the left-center field screen, his two roundtrippers and six RBI's gives him five and 27 respectively—very respectively.

Besides Thompson's two hits, Willman collected three with Oretega garnering a pair of extra base hits.

Thompson, incidently, hurled the final two frames, allowing two harmless singles.

La Verne's confidence will have to pay off in the past season activity as it will be without the services of Mark Bumstead, who suffered a hairline fracture of a lower lumbar vertebrae in yesterday's game, and Willman who will only see weekend duty because of a job. Pitcher Brian Ranney may miss the playoffs because of a sore arm suffered from a hit pitch.

Post 330 had 14 hits to steady its .310 team batting average.

Walnut earns playoff bid

POMONA — Walnut Connie Mack assured itself of a San Gabriel Valley Connie Mack League playoff berth Sunday afternoon with a 2-1 squeaker over powerful Industry behind the superb pitching of Bobby Salas.

Claremont Connie Mack, who has but to win one of its three remaining league games to earn a playoff berth, rallied for the second day in-a-row before falling on the short end of a 6-4 non-league decision to Covina Post 207.

Montclair, who received a forefeit win from San Bernardino, blanked Chino Post 299 6-0 in a non-league encounter behind the four-hit pitching of Tim Price.

Walnut earned its playoff spot with a ninth inning run in its narrow win over powerful Industry, who dropped its third game in 17 league decisions.

Lance Parrish opened the ninth with a walk and advanced to third base on Gerard Piccioni's single to right field. Jim Vallandingham then sent the Industry shortstop deep into the whole for a grounder, who threw too late to second trying to force Piccioni while Parrish was scoring the winning run.

Parrish put Walnutsose' cnd Parrish put Walnut's second inning run on the scoreboard with a 390-foot homer to left, his fourth of the year.

Salas (4-3) mixed his pitches well, keeping Industry off balance with an excellent change and a fine curve, chaulked up 10 strikeouts and only walked two batters in going the route.

Chris Chaney, who suffered the heartbreaking defeat, is now 10-2.

Walnut plays West Covina Legion in a non-league tilt Tuesday at MSAC before concluding its league season Thursday at home against Industry.

Claremont, for the second straight day, fell to defeat despite late inning rallies, this time to Covina Legion.

The Cardinals, who yesterday scored six times in the final three frames and lost 8-7, trailed 6-0 before coming back with a run in the fifth and three tallies in the sixth.

Harry Brown (2-3) started for Claremont and allowed eight hits and six walks over the first four innings before settling down stifle Covina without a hit the rest of the way.

Dave Stanton and Gary Bach led the Cards wih two hits each. Stanton's performance included a double and two RBI's.

Jack Helber's club concludes its campaign hosting Bassett today in a 5:30 p.m. tiff at Pomona College with John Huddleston (7-5) getting the starting nod. Tuesday and Wednesday Claremont travels for a pair of games with league foe Glendora.

Claremont needs only one win in the three games to gain a post season berth.

Montclair received a shot in the arm as hurler Tim Price threw a four-hit shutout over Chino Post 299.

The righthander started off shagily, yielding back-to-back singles to Paul Brionnes and Manny Delgado before settling down to retire the next 17 batters in a row. The string was broken by Delgado's sixth inning safety.

Price ended the o ttecns Price ended the contest with 10 k's while issuing one pass in leading his club to a 20-10 overall mark.

Montclair was given a forfeit win from the now disbanded San Bernardino club. The game was to have been a completion of a 2-2 game played June 27.

Montclair blasted out 14 hits including Mike Pittman's triple. Pittman, who is hitting at a .358 clip, added a single and an RBI to the offense.

Jim Brown, who recently returned from an injury (broken collarbone), contributed three singles and a run-batted-in as did Kevin McLean, also three hits. Brown has 14 hits in 30 at-bats since returning to the lineup.

Coach Bob Lastoski's crew can clinch a tie for the District 25 Division 1 Championship Tuesday night when it travels to Apple Valley for an 8 p.m. meeting. Montclair won 8-3 earlier in the season.

Botts defeats Jacobs in PGA match play

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former tour pro Rafe Botts of Los Angeles became the first black man to capture the Southern California PGA match play championship Sunday, beating Tommy Jacobs on the 35th hole of a scheduled 36-hole match

"Winning this tournament means a lot to me," said the 36-year-old Botts. "I feel it's a major event and it's my first big win."

Jacobs, 38, the head pro at the La Costa Country club, was trying to become the first man in 23 years to take the tournament three straight times.

By winning the 49th annual event, Botts gained an exemption to the PGA national tournament at Cleveland Aug. 9-12 and all tour events in California next year.

"I'm mad at myself for playing so poorly," said Jacobs, also an ex-tour pro. "I haven't played too much under pressure this year and I just didn't do the job."

Playing in his first Southern California event, Botts built up a big lead and then withstood Jacobs' late challenge.

Down seven holes early in the afternoon round, Jacobs won the 25th, 27th, 28th, 31st and 32nd holes to slice his deficit to two with four holes remaining.

Then came a lucky bounce that blunted Jacobs' comeback.

Botts hit an iron over the 15th green—the 33rd hole — that hit a woman spectator in the head and bounced onto the putting surface. He then parred the hole to halve Jacobs.

"That was the turning point in the match,' admitted Botts.

The woman was not seriously injured.

In consolation matches, Dave Hart defeated Gerry Preuss 4-2, Eddie Merrins won over Wally Bradley 4-3 and Dennie Meyer turned back Terry Ferraro 2 up.

FLYING START — Italian skier Alessandro Casse moves down the slope after a flying start to beat his world record at 114.227 MPH on third day of international contest at Cervinia, Italy.

McKay won't scrimmage 'Stars

CHICAGO (UPI) — If any of the 1973 College All Stars can't play against the Miami Dolphins in the annual pro-collegian football contest July 27, it'll be because they get hurt "eating ice cream."

Coach John McKay doesn't plan any scrimmages for his pro rookies before game time.

"It's my theory they don't need it," he said. "If any of them are going to get hurt, let them get hurt eating ice cream."

McKay, coach of the unbeaten national champion Southern California team last fall, said his club is "as physical as the average pro team."

McKay believed too that his players have as much speed as the pros.

"We've got backs as fast as Mercury Morris," he said, "and as big as Larry Csonka. And we think we have defensive backs as fast as their receivers."

McKay said "everybody seems surprised" that he plans no scrimmages, and laughed as he added, "the pro's spent $10 million drafting these players.

"If they can't play, I think they spent a lot of money for nothing. If I got to scrimmage four hours to find out who's tough, they ought to hire me to tell them who to draft."

Regardless, he said, "We're going to play everybody and we expect them to be ready to play. We didnt bring anybody here to sit on the bench."

McKay's coaching theory is the same he used with the Trojans in that he had a minimum of scrimmages. "It worked out well," he said.

Some of his current players worked for him earlier this summer in the East-West All Star game at Lubbock, Texas, so he got an idea what they could do and they did get contact in the game.

"We have a little one-on-one and one-on-two drills," he said of the current All Stars. "They're in good shape, so we work two hours a day on the field and an hour and a half on mental drills. Mistakes are the things that lose games and we want to work to prevent them.

"This is not a proven team," he added. "The pro's are. When two All Star teams play, mistakes can even out. So if we lose this, everybody will say it's because we didn't scrimmage."

Of course the All Stars haven't beaten the pros since 1962 and every team since has scrimmaged. Until this year.

Dallas may fine Morton

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — Veteran quarterback Craig Morton, who arrived at the Dallas Cowboys training camp early but walked out in a salary dispute, faces daily fines if he doesn't report with the rest of the team's veterans tonight.

Morton, who has battled Roger Staubach for the starting position the last two years, says he wants to change some of the incentive clauses in his present contract for a higher basic salary. He said he is prepared to quit football if the team does not meet his requests.

A team spokesman said Cowboys president Tex Schramm did not talk with Morton Sunday, and that the team was not trying to trade the former University of California quarterback.

Last year's starting Dallas center, Dave Manders, also is not in camp because of a contract dispute.

Dallas rookies scrimmaged the Los Angeles Rams' rookies during the weekend.

Lightweight gridder

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harry Gilmer was an All-American tailback for Alabama although he weighted only 160 pounds.

Beman wins Robinson Open, pleased to play solid golf

ROBINSON, Ill. (UPI) — Deane Beman was happy to pick up the $25,000 first prize money in the $125,000 Shrine Robinson Open Golf Classic, but he was even more pleased that he put his game together again.

"I played very solid golf," said the 35-year-old Bethesda, Md., title winner after his victory Sunday. "I drove the ball very well and the way I am playing now you can put me on any golf course in the country and I can play it."

Beman, with rounds of 69-68-67-67, had a total of 13-under-par 271 on the par-71, 6,556-yard Crawford County Country Club course to win by one stroke over Bunky Henry and Bob Dickson, each of whom picked up $11,562.

Chuck Courtney was alone in fourth with 273 for $5,875 while Larry Hinson was fifth with a 274 and earned $5,125. A tie for sixth at 275 gave George Archer and Andy North $4,250 each.

A birdie that Beman scored on the 68th hole proved the deciding stroke and kept the tourney from going into overtime for the fifth consecutive year. The last four Classics were settled by sudden death play, a PGA record. Beman, whose last victory came in the 1972 Quad-Cities Open following a 1969 win in the Texas Open and the 1970 Milwaukee Open, gave a large share of credit in his victory to a friend, Carl Lohran, golf pro at the Glenhead North Shore Country Club in Long Island.

"He helped straighten out my game," Beman said.

First money brought the former U.S. amateur champion's career earnings to $364,067.

The $11,562 share of second place money represented a bonanza for the hard luck Henry of Valdosta, Ga., a former place kicker for Bobby Dodd at Georgia Tech.

Until recently, Henry had been without a sponsor for about three years after "going broke." He was off the tour for a month before Robinson after a 5-year-old twin son suffered a head injury in a fall off a high dive and his wife went to the hospital to have their fourth child. He had earned only $455 this year on the tour.

Henry scored three birdies and an eagle three in his final round of 66, but was proudest of saving par on the 510-yard 15th hole when he "popped one shot into some trees" and put the next one into a ditch.

Sixty-eight players finished at 284 or better for the 72 holes and 74 of the 144 who started playing last Thursday finished in the money.

Smith seeks second win

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Veteran Stan Smith, an easy winner Sunday in the Swedish International Tennis Championships, will seek his second straight victory here this week as the $60,000 U.S. Pro Tennis Championships open at the Longwood Cricket Club.

Nine matches were on the schedule for today and tonight with Smith set to join the 32-man field on Tuesday night against Jimmy Connors.

Smith easily disposed of defending champion Manuel Orantes of Spain, 6-4, 6-1, 7-6, in Baastad, Sweden, to win the Swedish title.

The 26-year-old resident of Pasadena, Calif., has now won three tournaments in Sweden during the past year. He is the top-seeded player at Longwood.

Four of the eight seeded players were scheduled to be in action today. John Alexander, seeded fourth, squares off with Jeff Borowiak, fifth-seeded Cliff Richey faces Haroon Rahim, sixth-seeded Dick Stockton meets Dick Crealy and seventh-seeded Roscoe Tanner goes against Eddie Dibbs.

No. 2 Arthur Ashe plays Harold Solomon, No. 3 Marty Riessen meets Ismael El Shafei and No. 8 Tom Gorman faces eric Van Dillen on Tuesday.

Pro football roundup

Namath just visits

By United Press International

Joe Namath stayed just long enough to get acquainted.

Namath, the New York Jets' quarterback, reported to the club's Hofstra University training site Sunday for a physical and a brief one-hour session with Ken Shipp, a new assistant coach in charge of the passing game, before leaving to fulfill some television commitments on the West Coast.

Namath, the American Conference All star quarterback last season, weighed in at 205 pounds, his normal playing weight, and passed orthopedic examinations of his tender knees.

Most of the Jet squad reported Sunday and begin two-a-day workouts today. Namath, given time off to avoid extra strain on his knees, will report next Sunday and begin workouts on Monday.

The only serious holdout expected on the Jets is running back John Riggins. Riggins, who just missed the 1,000-yard mark last season despite missing more than three games, is asking for a $150,000 contract, nearly eight times his present salary, and has said he will quit football rather than play for less.

Elsewhere on the training camp scene, the Dallas Cowboys announced that quarterback Craig Morton, who walked out of camp after a salary dispute, would be fined daily if he doesn't report with the club's veterans by Monday night.

Morton arrived at camp early and then left, also saying he'll quit if he doesn't get his price.

Dave Manders, the Cowboys' starting center, also has not reported because of salary problems.

The World Champion Miami Dolphins held their first scrimmage Sunday and Bob Griese looked in mid-season form. The talented quarterback hit 5-of-5 passes for 44 yards. Rookie wide receiver Bo Rather of Michigan caught six passes and rookie quarterback Don Strock of Virginia Tech hit 7-of-11 passes for 85 yards and a touchdown.

The Dolphins kick off the exhibition season on July 29 when they take on the College All Stars in Chicago.

The New England Patriots waived veteran tight end Tom Beer and rookies Dan Ruster, Luther Palmer, John Harrison and Homer May and the Chicago Bears announced the retirement of three veterans, guard Jim Cadile, defensive end Steve DeLong and linebacker Ross Brupbacher.

The Pittsburgh Steelers opened camp missing five rookies and Coach Chuck Noll sent the club through a mile run and timed 40-yard dashes prior to two-a-day workouts today.

Terry Beasley and Don Wesley, both wide receivers, turned in the fastest times in the 40 yard dash—4.5 seconds — as the San Francisco Forty Niners had their first day of practice. Three players, Bill Yanchar, Art Freemore and Jim Nottingham, were dropped after failing physicals.

The Los Angeles Rams said that veteran safetyman Jerry Logan, obtained in the offseason from Baltimore, is retiring. New Coach Chuck Knox welcomed 84 players to the Rams' camp.

Twenty of the league's 26 camps now are open. Only Buffalo and Kansas City in the American Conference and Atlanta, Minnesota, the New York Giants and St. Louis in the National have not opened camp.

Not official

DETROIT (UPI) — Wayne State University's first football team, the 1918 squad, went unbeaten, untied and unscored upon, but gets no official recognition in the NCAA record books because it played just four games. WSU wasn't nicknamed the Tartars at that time but did go 4-0-0 while scoring 100 points.

What energy crisis?

That's a very good question as far as Barrett Broad of Southfield, Mich., is concerned. Gas shortages won't bother anyone using his PPV (People Powered Vehicle) to get around. Pedals, of course, are the secret. Designed for fun and exercise as well as utility, the PPV, according to Barrett, is great for short trips in the neighborhood, is pollution free and best of all presents no parking problems — simply upend the 110-pound vehicle, right, and take it indoors with you.

Mom's vigil ends with a funeral

SOUTH HOLLAND, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Frances Wozniak has been praying for the return of her son for 30 years. Monday she finally had him home.

"Now he's home," Mrs. Wozniak, 81, of Dolton, Ill., told a daughter as S. Sgt. Leonard Wozniak of the Army Air Corps was buried with full military honors. "I know he's home."

Wozniak was a 20-year-old flight engineer when his B24 Liberator went down in the jungles of New Guinea during World War II. He was listed as missing in action on July 1943, and the Air Force declared him dead in December, 1945.

But his mother waited and hoped that one day her son would return.

Unforunately, it was not alive. Last summer an oil company employe found the wreckage of the four-engine bomber 12 miles from a New Guinea village. In it were the remains of 10 American flyers.

One was Wozniak. His remains were returned Friday following positive identification by technicians working n Japan, a sister said.

"Mother has been praying for his return for 30 years," the sister, Mrs. Dorothy Karp of Morris, Ill., said. "Now she's content."

Traps set to snare bighorns for relocation

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — A project designed to trap big horn sheep to be transported to new homes at Zion National Park has started in the Lake Mead Recreational area.

Some of the big horn also will be marked with transistor collars and turned loose again in the Lake Mead Recreational area so their habits can be traced by transistor radios.

A spokesman for the Nevada Fish and Game Department said several big horns were trapped Monday for the Zion Park project. Ultimately, officials hope that nine ewes and three rams will be transporter to the Utah park.

A corral-type trap surrounding a waterhole at Lake Mead National Recreational area is being used in the joint trapping venture.

Participating in the project are personnel of the National Park Service, the Nevada Department of Fish and Game and the Utah Division of Wildlife Resources.

Air strikes in Cambodia prior to 1970 admitted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department acknowledged today that B52 strikes were made in Cambodia prior to 1970 despite public assertions at the time of U.S. respect for the neutrality of Cambodia.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, in a letter to the Senate Armed Services Committee, said raids "had been conducted for some period of time and were fully authorized" before the United States publicly announced attacks in May 1970 into so-called sanctuaries areas of Cambodia near the South Vietnamese border.

"At this period of time, you will remember over one half million men were stationed in South Vietnam," Schlesinger said. "Because of the sensitive operational and diplomatic situation, special security precautions were taken to ensure that the operation would not be compromised."

Schlesinger sent the letter to the Senate panel as former Air Force Maj. Hal M. Knight testified under oath that he falsified records of B52 strikes in early 1970.

He said he acted under orders from superiors that he burn all documents, computer tapes and other materials that would expose the strikes in Cambodia.

Knight was asked if he ever questioned the procedure. "I asked who authorized this procedure," he replied. "I was told not to ask."

He said there always was a cover target with "a strike order in Vietnam" account for the actual mission in Cambodia.

The Air Force chief of staff Gen. George S. Brown, in another letter to chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said it was not correct to characterize as falsification the security precautions pertaining to the raids.

"So long as the reports met in every detail the requirements imposed, they were not intended to deceive those with a security 'need to know'," Brown said.

"The reasons why special security precautions were directed was not a reporting issue so long as a responsible higher authority knew in fact what was done and judged it to be in accord with instructions."

Knight said 40 to 44 raids were conducted in Cambodia in early 1970 and that he doctored reports to make it appear they took place in South Vietnam.

Knight said that after a raid he was instructed "to take all the paperwork and when daylight came to go out and burn it."

Family en route home from picnic in two vehicles

NORCO — A La Verne man and his 9-year-old son are dead and two others in the family are hospitalized as the result of a traffic crash here Saturday night.

The dead are Lester S. Suvegh, 34, of 2527 College Lane, La Verne, and his son, Leslie, 9.

Seriously injured but in improved condition this morning at Corona Community Hospital are Suvegh's wife, Sandra, 33, and the couple's other son, Shawn, 7.

According to the California Highway Patrol, the accident happened when the 1966-model car Suvegh was driving was struck from the back by the station wagon Mrs. Suvegh was operating on busy Hamner Avenue.

The highway patrol said the Suveghs were returning from a picnic Saturday night. Suvegh stopped to make a left turn at Limonite Avenue. His wife, unable to stop, rammed her station wagon into the back of her husband's car, causing the engine to explode.

Both Suvegh and his son suffered fatal burns. They were taken to the Grimes Funeral Home in Norco where routine autopsies are scheduled Tuesday.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Nixon lawyer tells of Watergate ties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Herbert W. Kalmbach, President's Nixon's personal lawyer until May 1, said today he raised money for the support of the seven original Watergate defendants on the instructions of "The No. 2 and No. 3 men on the White House staff."

Kalmbach did not identify the men but it was clear his reference was to John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's two closest aides until they resigned April 30 as the Watergate scandal deepened.

Kalmbach made the statement in written testimony prepared for delivery at the Senate Watergate hearings. Kalmbach denied any personal wrongdoing.

"My actions in the period immediately following the break-in which involved the raising of funds to provide for the legal defense of the Watergate defendants and for the supptrt of their families were prompted in the belief that it was proper and necessary to discharge what I assumed to be a moral obligation that has arisen in some manner unknown to me by reason of earlier events," he said.

"The fact that I had been directed to undertake these actions by the No. 2 and No. 3 men on the White House staff made it absolutely incomprehensible to me that my actions in this regard could have been regarded in any way as improper or unethical."

Kalmbach was fired by Nixon on May 1 after it was disclosed that he had paid between $30,000 and $40,000 to Donald Segretti, the "dirty tricks" lawyer accused of attempting to sabotage Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's 1972 campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Kalmbach, 51, of Newport Beach, Calif., is believed to be a key witness in the Senate committee's attempt to determine who ordered the wiretapping of the Democratic headquarters of the Watergate and how much the President knew of the cover-up effort to conceal high White House involvement after the bugging plan went awry.

In his prepared statement, Kalmbach denied "any prior knowledge of the Watergate break-in or participation in the formulization of any planned conspiracy to cover-up that incident or acts of campaign sabotage or unethical activity."

He said he was testifying without seeking immunity from prosecution because he simply wants to tell the truth.

"It is not my purpose to testify for or against any individual," he said.

Kalmbach said he had three major responsibilities to Nixon:

—To handle personal legal matters for the President and his immediate family through Ehrlichman or John W. Dean III, official counsel to the President.

—To act as "trustee" between January 1969 and February 1972 for surplus funds left over from Nixon's 1968 campaign. Kalmbach said he disbursed these funds only on "the expressed direction of Haldeman or others with authority to tell him to."

—To solicit "early pledges of financial support for the President's 1972 campaign beginning in November, 1970." He said Maurice H. Stans, the President's chief re-election fund-raiser, directed his secretary to destroy Kalmbach's files on that activity, but those which survived have been turned over to the Senate committee.

President spends restful night; chest pains dwindle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon spent a restful night and the chest pains caused by his bout with pneumonia are now down to a minimum, his doctor reported today.

Nixon awoke at 8 a. m. after a good night's sleep, Dr. Walter Tkach said. The President was given four chest therapy treatments Sunday.

The treatment resulted in "considerable improvement in his chest congestion and chest discomfort is now at a minimum," Tkach said in his morning medical bulletin.

The therapy did cause the President to experience some fatigue to the point where he was given mild pain killers for relief, Tkach said.

In general, Nixon had a good day on Sunday. He had a hearty dinner of seafood, served about 6:15 p. m.

The President retired after his last chest therapy about 9 p. m. and slept soundly throughout most of the night, Tkach said. This sharply contrasted with his first night at the hospital Thursday when he had a fitful four hours sleep.

The chest inhalation exercise was administered by Sue A. Williams, pulmonary nurse specialist assigned to the hospital's chest clinic.

The therapy lasts 15 to 20 minutes. Afterwards, the President sits in a chair beside his bed where he is instructed to breathe deeply and cough. This is intended to help clear out congestion.

Tkach said Sunday there is no question that Nixon has viral pneumonia, as opposed to more serious bactrial type, and said the President is at about the halfway point of his recovery.

The President is expected to remain at Bethesda Naval Hospital until late this week. Tkach would prefer he spent even more time there or at least go to one of his retreats — San Clemente, Calif., preferably —for several days more of recuperation.

Woman killed in freeway accident

CHINO — A Los Angeles woman suffered fatal injuries when her car unaccountably skidded off the Pomona Freeway at the Mountain Avenue overpass at 4:20 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Maria Alice Bounds, 25, of 2529½ S. Orange Drive, died at San Antonio Community Hospital some three hours after the accident.

The victom's 2-year-old son, Asa Kirk was treated at the hospital for minor injuries.

Witnesses told California Highway Patrol officers that Mrs. Bounds was eastbound when her small foreign car suddenly skidded off the freeway, overturned on the embankment and came to rest on its wheels.

Situation grave in Cambodia; draft possible

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — U.S. warplanes struck within seven miles of Phnom Penh today in an effort to help repel a growing Communist threat to the capital. With the military situation deteriorating, the government was reported considering its first draft.

Ground fighting mixed with heavy American bombing was reported throughout Cambodia today, with heavy government losses reported in recent days in fighting directly south of Phnom Penh. Fighting was reported on all sides of Phnom Penh and Gen. Un Kau, said "the situation is very grave."

Informed sources close to the ruling High Political Council said the government was seriously weighing institution of a military draft to bolster the army. Cambodia has no draft now and must depend on volunteers.

The High Command reported fighting in the northern, western and southern sections of the country.

Authoritative military sources said that in fighting along Route 2, about 12 miles from Phnom Penh, the crack 2nd Division lost eight killed and 75 wounded during the weekend.

American bombing continued in support of government forces as they tried to maintain the capital's defense perimeter which now lies within 12 miles of Phnom Penh. The bombing seven miles from the city was the closest raids since last April.

Sources close to the High Political Council said the proposed draft would require all men between the ages of 18 and 35 to enter the armed forces, with the exception of those in official government positions and those employed in essential private jobs.

2-car collision injures 9 persons

CHINO — Nine persons, including six members of a San Bernardino family, were injured in a two-car collision at Euclid Avenue and Riverside Drive Sunday night.

The drivers were Henry G. Flores, 19, of 529 E. Park St., Ontario, and Donald E. Robles, 43, of San Bernardino.

The injured were the two drivers, and five other members of the Robles family—Virginia, 42, Donelia, 19, Monica, 14, Donald Jr., 10, and Dominique, 9. Another passenger in the Robles car, Norma Romera, 13, of San Bernardino, and Flores' passenger, Samuel Flores, 16, of the same address, were also hurt.

All were treated at Chino General Hospital and released with the exception of Donelia Robles, who was transferred to Kaiser Hospital in good condition.

Telephone cables in San Dimas cut

Numerous Pomona Valley residents had their telephone service disrupted this morning when three major phone cables in San Dimas were intentionally cut.

General Telephone reported that one 600-pair trunk cable (which routes calls between two switching offices) and two local exchange cables at Eucla and Bonita avenues were severed between midnight and 2 a.m.

The cutting of the cables caused some delays for customers calling the La Puente, Covina and Baldwin Park areas. It also caused some inconveniences to certain customers with foreign exchange and extended area lines.

Officials of the utility are unsure as to why the cables were cut but reported that construction crews and a rapid restoration van will be on the scene of the cut until about 10 tonight when normal service is expected to be restored.

Two burned in plane crash; arms cache discovered aboard

UPLAND — Two former prison inmates were listed in critical condition today at San Bernardino County Hospital with burns and other injuries sustained in the crash of a stolen twin-engine airplane loaded with a cache of firearms Sunday morning near Cable Airport.

The crash was reported about 7:13 a.m. when the Cessna Skymaster aircraft owned by Upland physician Samuel Kaufman went down about 100 yards west of the runway near Padua Avenue. Police said the plane had been stolen minutes before from a hanger at Cable Airport.

Critically injured in the crash were Rodney Lee Crane, 25, and Michael George Perry, 25, both of Norwalk. Crane, according to doctors at San Bernardino County Hospital, is suffering from severe burns over 65 per cent of his body, and Perry is suffering from burns and a broken back.

Police said they found the remains of two high caliber rifles, two shotguns, and three handguns, along with a quantity of ammunition inside the burned out aircraft.

Capt. Howard Seay of the Upland Police Department said this morning that it appeared the two men, both former prison inmates, apparently stole the aircraft. "We still don't know what the two men planned to do, but we found a large quantity of dehydrated food, survival gear and camping equipment inside the aircraft along with the weapons and ammunition."

Seay said that Perry, a licensed single engine aircraft pilot, spent time in prison for burglary and escape and was awaiting a hearing on parole violation. Crane has spent time in prison for assault with a deadly weapon and was free on probation. Crane was released from the California Institution for Men in Chino in 1972, Seay said.

Witnesses at Cable Airport said the twin-engine plane took off from the airport with only one engine operating. The non-operative rear engine was creating a drag on the aircraft.

Police said witnesses told them the plane managed to get airborne near the end of the runway, but began dropping. The aircraft struck a barbed wire fence, spun around and burned.

One of the first witnesses at the scene told police that he and a friend saw the plane go down and jumped in their car to go to the pilot's assistance. The witness said that they saw two men walking away from the burning airplane and asked them if they could help. The witness said the two men told them they didn't want an ambulance, only wanted a ride.

Police said the two men continued walking south to Foothill Boulevard and flagged down a Forestry Service employe who drove them to the San Dimas Forest Service substation. From there forestry service officers called for an ambulance and the police. The two men were taken to the county hospital in San Bernardino, both lapsing into unconsciousness en route.

Police were unable to talk to the two men due to their injuries.

Upland firemen responding to the scene of the crash reported that the plane was engulfed in flames and that ammunition was "cooking off" or firing from the heat. Before the fire could be contained the plane was destroyed.

Only the hulk of the two engines and the aircraft's twin tail section remained.

After Federal Aviation Administration officials arrived, police removed the charred remains of the weapons. What was left of the aircraft was placed on a truck and moved to a storage yard at the Upland airport.

Rare coins worth $35,000 stolen

UPLAND — Upland police this morning were searching for two robbers who broke into a home at 1693 N. Euclid Ave. Sunday night, tied up the owner and stole a rare antique coin collection valued at $35,000 and $500 in cash.

Police said the robbery was reported about 4:42 by George TeVelde. TeVelde told police that the robbers entered his home, armed with pistols, and ordered him to open his safe that contained the rare coin collection and $500 in cash. The robbers took the coins and tied TeVelde up. TeVelde managed to free himself about four hours later and called police.

Police said one of the robbers was about 6 feet, 180 to 185 pounds, wearing a blue knit ski cap with holes for the eyes nose and mouth. The robber was wearing a blue striped short sleeved shirt and faded blue pants.

TeVelde told police that he heard the second robber, but never saw him. Police believed both men to be Caucasians.

HEY! WHAT'S HOPPENING?

This young man has a hoppin' big problem trying to nab his elusive frog after it registered its jump in the annual Yutan Jumpin' Frog Rodeo, held in Yutan, Nebraska, on Sunday. A field of some 300 frogs competed before an estimated 500 spectators. Frogs came to Nebraska from six different states.

Phase IV to serve as guide, not freeze

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Within a matter of days, American consumers and businessmen will be governed by a new set of economic rules: Phase IV of President Nixon's economic gameplan.

Barring some unexpected complication, such as a worsening of the Presidents illness, the latest attempt to stabilize the nation's explosive economy will be announced sometime this week.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon approved some parts of the program from his hospital bed Saturday and will make more decisions today.

The actual announcement probably will be made by Nixon's top economic advisers: Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, Cost of Living Council (COLC) Director John T. Dunlop and Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

The President's action will come on the heels of a price freeze that has been in effect since June 13.

The freeze barred firms from hiking prices above the level they were charging on June 13, no matter how much their costs have increased in the meantime. In Phase IV, however, prices will be allowed to rise by an amount yet undetermined.

Companies might be allowed to pass through their cost increases, or a fraction of that amount, in the form of higher prices. Or the administration could set a flat guideline, such as the 2.5 per cent that existed during 1972 under Phase II.

Wages, not covered under the current freeze, also will be restricted during Phase IV, probably to the 6.2 per cent wage and fringe benefit annual increase allowed during Phase II.

The exact shape of Phase IV is still a mystery. But Nixon indicated its principal goals and framework when he announced the price freeze.

The new program will be generally tougher than Phase III, which relied on corporate good will to keep price increases within a set of voluntary guidelines. Nixon said the food and oil industry will be singled out for special treatment since the cost of groceries and gasoline has provided most of the push in the latest round of inflation.

Big companies will be required to clear price increases in advance with the COLC. And stabilization officials have indicated they will be strict on allowing firms to boost prices to reflect higher costs.

One of the biggest problems for the Nixon economic strategists is whether to make the rules simple or complex.

Arnold R. Weber, the first COLC director, has argued that a set of easy-to-understand rules, highly publicized, is the best way to win popular support for the controls. Public opinion polls, which show inflation as the No. 1 worry of the American consumer, also indicate that widespread backing for controls is a commodity that is sadly lacking.

But many administration officials, especially Dunlop, plus organized labor, are dead set against a single set of price and pay standards. Dunlop argues that guidelines inhibit collective bargaining and encourages the press to grade every contract "pass" or "fail" depending on whether it meets the wage standard, while ignoring other important issues.

The duration of Phase IV is another unanswered question.

There have been recent hints that the new wage-price controls won't last long.

The 10-member Labor Management Advisory Committee, an outside group that carries great weight in the administration, said last week that "all wage and price controls should be eliminated as soon as possible this year..."

And Shultz, nixon's chief economic adviser, is a longtime foe of controls.

Plan to develop Russ resources

Japan, U.S. near pact in Siberian oil venture

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan and the United States appeared close to an agreement today to work together on investment in developing the oil and natural gas resources of Soviet Siberia.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers gave his blessing to the idea in a speech at the ninth meeting of the U.S.-japan Joint Economic Committee today.

Discussing measures to be taken by oil importing nations, Rogers listed "the expansion of supply through joint projects between Japanese and American firms aimed at the development of new energy resources in Siberia and elsewhere."

"While the United States cannot direct the investment decisions of our private firms," Rogers said, "we stand ready to encourage them to consider the possibility of common ventures with Japanese firms."

The Soviet Union for almost a decade has been seeking a loan of $1 billion from Japan for construction of a 4,850-mile pipeline from the Tyumen oil fields in the Urals to Nakhodka harbor on the Siberian Pacific Coast.

Under the Soviet proposal, Japan would take its repayment in crude oil starting in about 1980, after the pipeline is completed. Serious negotiations between the two countries have been under way since early 1972.

Japanese government sources said today that Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka has decided that the project would be too much for Japan to handle alone. Tanaka, who is scheduled to visit Moscow in October, will present the idea of joint Japanese-American venture to the Soviet government.

Informed Japanese government sources told UPI that behind Tanaka's decision lies a fear that the Soviet Union would not hesitate to use the oil deal for diplomatic bullying of Japan.

Going it alone, the Japanese would have to sink their $1 billion in a pipeline whose cutoff values were in Soviet hands. There was a fear in the Japanese government that Moscow might not hesitate to threaten Japan with an oil cutoff, but would hesitate to take such a step against the United States.

For that reason the Japanese have concluded that if they go into the Siberian oil venture, they want America as a partner.

Countdown rolling smoothly toward record skylab trip

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The countdown rolled along smoothly today toward the July 28 launch of three more Skylab space explorers who plan to man the orbiting station for a record 56 days.

The count was kicked off on schedule at 11 p.m. EDT Sunday, 12 days before astronauts Alan L. Bean, Jack R. Lousma and Owen K. Garriott plan to ride an Apollo command module up to the lab for another scientific research journey.

The first hurdle in the countdown is a practice launch at 7:08 a.m. EDT Friday. The countdown clock will then be turned back to T-47 hours and started again two days before the real launch of the space crew by a Saturn 1B rocket.

Launch officials will spend most of today running tests of the command module and rocket systems to make sure they will function properly on launch day.

The Skylab 2 countdown is the first time the dress rehearsal has been combined with a real launch.

Officials said they adopted the new countdown schedule because of the proven reliability of the Saturn launchers, the rockets that almost flawlessly boosted men toward the moon. The astronauts won't take part in the dress rehearsal for the first time, too, because of the Saturn 1B's good record.

Garriott, a civilian, is the first physicist-astronaut and his expertise is expected to add knowledge about the sun and about man coping with weightless space for long periods.

The astronauts will also be continuing research begun in the 28-day Skylab manned mission about how the body reacts to prolonged space voyages, and what can be learned about the earth's natural resources from orbit.

Bean, Garriott and Lousma passed their next-to-last major medical examinations last week, and are continuing training in semiquarantine, to keep them from getting sick, at the Johnson Space Center in Houston.

Two brothers beaten severely; suspect booked

POMONA — Two Pomona brothers were beaten severely late Sunday night, apparently the result of a fight the younger brother was involved in the night before.

Most seriously injured was Robert Zamore, 19, who had injuries to his head and back. He was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and trasferred to County-USC Medical Center. His condition today was termed serious.

Less seriously hurt was 17-year-old Joe Alfred Zamore. He had head and upper torso injuries and was released after treatment at the local hospital.

The trouble was in the 900 block of W. Mission Boulevard. Police arriving there said they saw several young men flee and found the older Zamore brother sitting on a curb, covered with blood. The other brother was nearby, also bloody. The area was littered with broken bottles, pieces of window glass apparently used as weapons, and pieces of pottery, also used as weapons. Officers said the brothers had been cut and hit on the head with blunt objects.

Getty prepares to pay ransom for grandson

ROME (UPI) — Oil billionaire J. Paul Getty was reported ready today to pay ransom for the return of his namesake hippie grandson, missing since last week and the object of a "serious" police search.

"He is very worried about this matter and showed the greatest interest in the search," said the youth's mother, Mrs. Gail Getty, who said she spoke with Getty by telephone.

The missing youth, J. Paul Getty III, 17, was reported missing last week by his mother.

Mrs. Getty, who is divorced from the youth's father, J. Paul Getty Jr., said she received a telephone call last Thursday saying her son had been kidnaped and telling her to get money together for a ransom.

Police said young Getty was seen talking with three unidentified youths in Piazza Navona, a favorite meeting place for Roman hippies, just before he disappeared early Tuesday.

The young freckled-faced Getty neither slept nor ate regularly at his mother's home, but stayed with friends who included artists, hippies and young foreign actresses.

Martine and Jutta Zacher, 24year-old German twins in whose apartment Getty was staying at the time of his disappearance, told police they noticed three "suspicious-looking" men who seemed to be following the youth in a dark car.

Singer held in slaying of husband, 2 children

MIAMI (UPI) — Detectives said they would seek three murder warrants today against opera singer Salwa Merrige-Abrams on charges of killing her ex-husband and two children.

Mrs. Merrige-Abrams took a handfull of pills after the Saturday murders, police said, and was rushed to the hospital in serious condition. Doctors said her condition was "stable" Sunday.

The slayings were discovered Saturday afternoon just one day after Mrs. Merrige-Abrams ended 19 years of marriage by picking up the final circuit court papers.

Miss Phyllis Arick, a singer and Mrs. Merrige-Abrams' closest friend, said she visited the coprano's home Friday just after the divorce papers were signed and "everything seemed fine."

But Miss Arick said, "She seemed upset, sure, but anybody who goes through anything like that would be upset. I just don't understand it, I really don't."

A sheriff's deputy, after receiving a call from a friend who said Mrs. Merrige-Abrams "sounded strange" on the phone., found the performer unconscious on the dining room floor. A note was left, but police would not reveal its contents.

Found shot to death in his bedroom was Jack Abrams, 14. Mrs. Abrams' husband, airline pilot James Abrams, 45, was found in another room. Their 10-year-old daughter Melisa Ann Abrams was found dead on the living room floor.

The couple had been separated for about a year, with Abrams stopping by Saturday to take the children on an outing.

Mrs. Merrige-Abrams was featured with many national companies and performed in the South Floriad area for almost 10 years. She sang mainly with the Miami Beach Symphany, the Miami Opera Guild, and the Civic Opera of the Palm Beaches.

She gave up numerous opportunities for an international career.

Bernard Breeskin, conductor of the Miami Beach Symphony, called her "one of the best mezzo sopranos in the country.

"I tried to encourage her to join larger opera companies, but she wanted to stay down here and raise her family."

8 congressmen returning home

U.S. delegates call tour of China 'tremendous'

SHANGHAI, China (UPI) — The largest American congressional delegation ever to visit China left for home today after a two-week tour that took them to six Chinese cities.

Each of the eight congressmen said the trip was highly successful and should help speed up development of Sino-American relations.

The group left shortly after 10 a.m. local time aboard a special U.S. Air Force jet, en route to Seattle with a refueling stop scheduled in Yokota Air Force Base in Japan.

"There can be no doubt that this trip has been a tremendous success," said Sen. Warren E. Magnuson, D-Wash., leader of the delegation of four senators and four representatives.

"You will see that it will bear fruit in the not too distant future. I am sure of that," Magnuson said. "We are determined that our relations with the People's Republic of China should be improved and expanded as rapidly as possible.

"I believe that most of us in Congress feel this way, not only the members on this trip but those who have come before us and those who are anxious to follow."

Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Relations Committee and deputy leader of the delegation, agreed with Magnuson.

"I think this trip has just been tremendous," Morgan said. "It has helped give us a feel of China that is going to be very important in the future as we deal with issues that involve the interests of China and the United Sates."

The group also included Sens. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., and Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., and Reps. John J. McFall, D-Calif., William S. Mailliard, R-Calif., and Jerry L. Pettis, R-Calif.

The delegation and the crew of the plane returning them to the United states were guests at a banquet on the eve of their departure, hosted by Wang Yiping, vice chairman of the Shanghai Revolutionary Committee.

In a toast to the group, Wang expressed hope that the visit to China would be "conducive to improvement of Sino-American relations and to mutual understanding between the peoples of China and the United States."

Responding to the toast, Magnuson said, "I think I speak for all of us when I say we are going away with deep feelings of respect nad admin a small way. I don't know how your people and for what you are trying to do for your country, particularly in your reconstruction efforts. And I underline the word respect.

"We talk about improving relations often but I think we truly have done so in a small way. I don't know how you people feel about it but I want you to know that we feel we have added a chapter to China-United States relations. I think you all will agree with me."

The delegation spent the last day in China—Sunday—visiting an industrial exhibition and children's palace in the morning and shopping in the afternoon.

Police still hunt gunman

GLENDORA — Police are still trying to find a gunman believed wounded in an exchange of shots with officers following a $6,000 market robbery here Thursday night.

The robbery, at the Mayflower Market, 940 S. Grand Ave., was staged by two men shortly after closing time. One fired at a Glendora officer responding to a silent alarm. More shots were fired as police pursued the pair in a high-speed chase which ended when the getaway car was abandoned. It was at that point that one suspect was arrested and the robber being sought was believed to have been wounded by a shotgun blast.

Police recovered about $1,000 which was abandoned during the chase. Still missing was the balance, about $5,000.

W. Covina man shot in stomach; 3 held

WEST COVINA — A 24-year-old man was wounded critically early today when he was shot in the abdomen at 650 E. Alwood St., police reported.

The victim, Steven Holder, 625 Matchwood Place, Azusa, was admitted to the intensive care unit at Covina Inter-Community Hospital.

Police this morning said details of the shooting were lacking but reported that three persons were arrested in connection with the incident. They were booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder. The shooting occurred shortly after 1 a.m.

The sheriff's department was used to rush six pints of uncommon-type blood to the Covina hospital from two other hospitals to aid in Holder's treatment.

A sheriff's helicopter picked up four pints at the UCLA Medical Center and flew it to Covina. And a radio car from the Altadena station picked up two pints at Huntington Memorial Hospital, Pasadena, and took it to the interchange of the 605 and 210 freeways where a car from the Industry station received it and transported it the rest of the way. The blood, type O-negative, was described as uncommon but not rare.

Stolen cups for 40 years

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It was a heavy package of paper cups. Heavy on the conscience at least.

L.C. Jones, director of city street maintenance, received a check for $1 recently, with a letter from a former employe, saying it was to pay "for the cups. They have been on my conscience. I want to be clear before God."

It turned out, Jones said, that the man had taken a package of paper cups from a city office more than 40 years ago. He would not disclose the employe's name.

Fireman pact going to City Council

POMONA — A tentative agreement on salary increases and other benefits reached between the 124-member Pomona Fireman's Association and the city's chief negotiator, Sidney Simms, will be submitted to the City Council for approval tonight.

The firemen's group will become the second city association to settle on salary negotiation this year.

The council earlier approved an agreement with the largest of the three municipal worker associations, the Pomona City Employes' Association. No agreement has yet been reached with the third, the Pomona Police Officers' Relief Association.

Vernon Johnson, president of the firemen's association, said a memorandum of understanding was signed Friday following a general membership meeting. The association was represented by attorney Richard C. Mallery.

Johnson said the tentative agreement calls for a 5 per cent cost-of-living increase effective tonight, a family dental plan yet to be spelled out and other minor benefits.

Park bond election plans come to head

LA VERNE — The City Council is expected to throw the switch tonight that will start the machine rolling toward a $1 million parks and recreation bond issue which will culminate in a special election next Oct. 16.

The size of the bond issue has tentatively been set at $972,000, but that may be changed tonight, depending on whether the council agrees to buy 160 acres of open space as urged by the Commission on Environmental Quality as part of the package.

Such a combination is opposed by the Parks and Recreation Commission which contends that the joint package would raise the size of the bond issue too high.

The council must adopt a working schedule toward the bond election by tonight to make sure it does not run out of time.

Tonight's agenda also calls for two resolutions in connection with the proposed bond issue: one declares the need for enlarging and improving three existing parks—Kuns, Pelota and Las Flores— and the other asks for the services of the county registrar of voters in connection with the special election.

In an unrelated matter, the council has set a public hearing for 8 p.m. to hear a request from McDay Estates for a zone change from commercial to multiple residential so that a mobile home park can be constructed on the south side of Foothill Boulevard between Moreno and Damien avenues.

3 guilty in CIM stabbing

ONTARIO — A West Valley Superior Court jury has found three California Institution for Men inmates guilty of stabbing two fellow inmates during a fight at CIM's Southern Reception-Guidance Center Dec. 15, 1972.

The jury delivering its verdict after a two week trial found inmates Augustine Elias, Joseph Henry Ortiz, and Frank Joseph Ruiz, guilty of assault with a deadly weapon on two brothers, Santos and Ernest Aranda.

Superior Court Judge Henry M. Busch set sentencing for the three inmates in the middle of August.

Contract negotiations with 'Big 3'

Auto unions begin talks

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROI T (UPI) — Auto contract negotiations beginning today between the United Auto Workers and the "Big Three" auto companies cover more than 700,000 auto workers and indirectly affect one in every six American workers.

After the largely ceremonial handshaking at General Motors today, Ford Tuesday and Chrysler Wednesday, bargainers for the union and auto companies will try to hammer out an agreement before current three-year pacts expire at 11:59 p.m., Sept. 14.

No Strike Seen

The continuing government control on wages and prices has eliminated much of the strike atomosphere that surrounded contract talks in 1970. Those did not end untii after the union had closed GM with a crippling 67-day strike.

Coming into today's talks, UAW President Leonard Woodcock has said there is no need for a strike this year. Auto industry negotiators agree, but admit there could be one if the union remains as adamant in the talks as it has been in public on one key non-economic issue—voluntary overtime.

Woodcock has warned of a possible walkout over thati ssue, saying negotiators should not take an "over - our - dead body" stand on voluntary overtime.

Guide to Continue

Negotiators are almost certain Phase III wage guidelines calling for wage and fringe benefit increases not to exceed 6.2 per cent will be continued. That guideline has been flexible with most settlements this year in the 6-to-7 per cent range.

The key issues outline in six months of saber rattling on both sides include:

—Voluntary overtime. The union wants each worker to have the right to refuse to work overtime.

—Improvement in the "30-and-out" retirement program with the pension increasing to $650 per month with no penalty for retirement before age 56.

—Company-paid dental care.

—Improvement in the cost-of living clause to more accurately reflect price rises.

—Strengthened layoff benefits.

—In-plant health and safety programs jointly administered by the union and companies.

38 states

Should there be a repeat of 1967 negotiations, when Ford was closed for 66 days, or 1970 talks which ended only after the crippling GM strike, nearly every community in the country would be affected by the strike.

The industry is spread over 35 states — a total of 532 facilities located in 243 cities. One of every four retail sales dollars is for an automotive related purchase.

A slowdown or strike in the auto industry may mean a layoff for rubber workers in Akron, a reduction in the work force of steel mills in Pittsburgh and reduced markets for the fabric mills of the Carolinas.

It can mean economic disaster for cities with major auto plants or the hundreds of small towns whose main industries center in supplying vehicle makers with components.

The 1974 Mustang II will contain parts supplied by some 500 firms stretching from New Hampshire to California. Any slowdown in Ford production could seriously affect their economic well-being.

First detonation—28 years ago

Atom bomb test site quiet, calm

TRINITY SITE, N.M. (UPI) — The 28th anniversary of the detonation of the first atomic bomb—an event which scientists said would "change the whole course of human history" — passes almost unnoticed today.

Trinity Site, located deep in the southern New Mexico desert near Alamogordo, holds little evidence of the July 16, 1945, event that sent the world into the nuclear age.

Bunkers and buildings built for the test of the atomic bomb have crumbled into the desert. Ground Zero is now only a shallow depression in the desert floor.

Tiny pieces of "tinitite," sand melted into a greenish-colored glass by the explosion's heat, still can be found around the area.

Surrounding a stone monument at the point the bomb impacted is a fence that holds a weathered sign reading simply: "Trinity Site."

On the monument is a plaque that reads: —

"Trinity Site, where the world's first nuclear device was exploded on July 16, 1945."

The bomb was dropped from a 100-foot steel tower at 5:30 a.m. and, at the moment of impact, a light brighter than the midday sun covered the surrounding mountains.

Then came the shock wave that rippled the earth 30 miles away. It was followed by a deafening roar. The blast was seen hundreds of miles away.

Three weeks later, on Aug. 6, the second atom bomb was dropped on Hiroshima. Three days after that the third fell on Nagasaki.

Man's destiny had been set on a new course.

Dr. John Manley recalled the project. "We knew what we were working on," he said. "We knew the bomb was going to change the whole course of human history.

"The intensity of the flash was enormous. It is something you don't forget."

Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, who headed the project and died in 1967, said that at the moment of detonation he remembered an ancient Hindu quotation: "I am become death, the destroyer of worlds."

Test Director Kenneth Bainbridge told Oppenheimer: "Now we're all sons of bitches."

Tennis court backboards to be studied

CLAREMONT — Tennis court backboards at Cahuilla Park and a master plan proposal by Lampman and Associates for Sycamore Canyon Higginbotham Park will be considered by the Parks and Recreation Commission at the City Council chambers tonight at 7:30.

City Recreation Supt. Ron Hagan reported that the subject of whether to provide backboards at the new courts at Cahuilla Park has been "somewhat controversial" among tennis players.

Hagan said that the Claremont High School physical education department teachers would like to have the backboards installed as teaching aids, but city instructors feel the backboards might do more harm than good.

Hagan has recommended against the backboards, and suggested that the school district be contacted as to possible development of combination tennis backboards and handball courts directly south of the high school courts.

Warren Turner and Dick Malcolm of Lampman and Associates will present a master plan proposal for Sycamore Canyon Higginbotham Park.

The commission also will receive a request for city funds from Nature Nearby to pay a man to clear the brush and improve the trail in Sycamore Canyon.

OLD PAL — Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Van Brunt not only named their Volkswagen Klaus, but after it had traveled 175,000 miles, rather than scrap it, they had it made into a 700-pound coffee table. They bought the car for $375 in 1968 and the vehicle gave them dependable service until it was stolen and stripped of its engine. They had the auto compressed and gave it a place of honor in their living room.

Fingerprints bring criminals to justice

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Detective story writers attention: Fingerprint experts speculate that if anyone can commit the perfect crime, it's likely to be a pineapple cannery worker with a little larceny in his heart.

It's a fact that pineapple acids have a strange way of grinding down the fingertips, thus eliminating those messy clues at the scene of the crime.

And the fictional criminal naturally goes with shoes and gloves, because nowadays the science of dactylography — make a strong case in court with prints from the sole of a foot or the palm of a hand.

Take a close look at your hand for the reason why.

Veteran police fingerprint expert Earl W. Howe says the distinctive pattern of arches, loops and whorls at the tip of each of our fingers marks each person as an individual, giving him an "infallible" means of identification.

"A person's age, weight and height may change, and he may undergo illness or an accident," says Howe, "But his fingerprints never change, and they can't be successfully altered," Not permanently, that is.

Professional typists, and men who work around strong acids, abrasives or pottery wheels do find their fingers smoothing down, but their mysteriously curved prints never disappear forever.

That goes for pineapple packers, too.

Many a notorious fugitive has paid dearly in pain and money for crude surgical attempts to alter his prints, and all to no avail. Authorities easily caught up with one criminal who paid a fortune to have his fingers grafted to his chest, only to find his true prints emerged when the fingers were freed.

Gangster John Dillinger underwent surgery to alter his prints while on the run in 1934. Yet after he was killed by federal agents they found his new prints compared in 300 ways with the old prints.

And only a dozen prints are necessary to establish positive criminal identification.

Howe says the Los Angeles police Department has 1.5 million sets of fingerprints on file (the FBI boasts more than 196 million) and the police expert says the odds of finding two sets exactly alike are "about one in a billion trillion."

Howe says in 37 years of police investigations he's not seen one duplication.

Twelve centuries of human history have shown that thumbprints and fingerprints have been used to identify clay seals in China and various preChristian and Palestinian art objects. It wasn't until the late 19th Century that men began toying with the notion of using the "latent print" as a means of criminal identification.

Latent prints, impressions left by body oils and perspiration on any surface, are brought up ... or "lifted" as they say in the world of Mickey Spillane ... by adhesive tape.

Howe, who's been teaching dactyloscopy for 20 of his 59 years, says the fingerprint science needs a better classification system —using one, three or five fingers —and "we've got to devise a practical means of coding fingerprints for computer storage and retrieval."

Societies long ago dealt with criminals in a barbarous fashion, identifying them with tattoos or by brading them or gouging their eye. By 1870 the French had established an enormous archive of criminal photographs they delighted in calling their "rogue's gallery."

But crime marches on, and quickly the encyclopedia of criminal "mugshots" was outmoded. It fell to a Scottish missionary to suggest that fingerprints might radically change the system of catching thieves.

The idea caught on slowly and by 1903 New York had the country's first practical system of fingerprints.

In California stores are now introducing a new "touch-and-go" system of fingerprinting to cut down on the number of bogus checks. The device permanently records the customers' print on the flip side of his check.

Merchants say the system has already cut fraud and forgery losses more than 30 per cent.

Overcrowding in the garage

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Take a dozen or two of cardboard boxes stuffed with a variety of items, several crates of magazines and old books, a small mountain of patio furniture and camping equipment, some old trunks, boxes of bottles—and what do you have?

You have "the other side" of your two-car garage.

Many American families today have two automobiles—almost a necessity. One is for the wife to get to the hairdresser, the other is for the teen-age son to get to the hairdresser. (Dad takes the bus to work.) But the guy that invented that stupid phrase, "two-car garage," must have been a bachelor living on the seventh floor of a Newport condominium. There is no such thing as a two-car garage.

Maybe once, just once, early in your occupancy of the new split-level home, you put your two cars in your two-car garage, side by side, snug and neat, and gazed at them smugly. Then Junior came panting home from school, slid his bike between the cars, scraping each of them rather badly, and you understood that phrase "conspicuous consumption" from your college course in Economics I. So you drove your sedan out and parked it in the driveway, figuring you could always use the space in that "empty" half of the garage.

Before you got out of the car, that half was crammed to the joists with boxes, water skis, motorscooters, empty trunks, cartons of Christmas decorations, cages of long forgotten rabbits and guinea pigs, science projects of long forgotten children, lawn chair, a potter's wheel and a few oddments of broken furniture. Your garage looks like a swap meet.

Carefully avoiding the extra beds and mattresses, the ant farm and the surf board, you may be able to set up your own little workbench, with vise, saw, drill, and a few tools neatly hung on the wall. Then forget it. Before you have reached for the first piece of plywood, your workshop has vanished under a landslide of motorcycle parts, discarded sleeping bags, a doll house, a canary bird cage, a broken fish acquarium and a deflated football.

What your two-car garage really is, is a one-car garage with the county dump attached. People with only a one-car garage to start with often have to give up the car and walk to work.

Furthermore, the fallout in a suburban home continues to increase. Keep one car in the "empty" side at all times, or the effluent of middle America will soon engulf it in a creeping tide of skateboards and scuba equipment, broken record players and garden tools, a mulch of old magazines and newspapers.

A week after moving into his new home, the average Dagwood Bumpstead will have trouble finding a place to park, whether he has a two-or four-or eight-car garage.

Home of the oldest

The Caucasus mountain region of the Soviet Union is home to the world's largest well-documented number of people above 100 years old. A 1970 census placed the region's number of centenarians at 4,500 to 5,000.

The United States Mint system has coined money for more than 20 foreign countries.

Ask Dr. Brothers

She's still stealing

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Although on the surface I think I probably look to most people like a normal teenager, for the last two years I've been living a dangerous life. Maybe what I'm doing is normal, but whether it is or not, I know eventually, if I continue, I could get in trouble. I have this problem of shoplifting and it's kind of like a disease with me. I don't understand it but I can't seem to stop. Sometimes, it's like a game where I can win anytime I want.

In my first year of high school, a lot of the kids would pick things up just for fun, but then most of them stopped. But I went right on, doing it not with a group, but when I was all by myself. My parents would flip if I ever got caught and every time I liberate something, I get really scared inside. I'm the only girl in a family with five brothers and I think about how everyone's so worried about them getting into trouble when I'm the only one who's apt to go to jail. This is a spooky feeling.—J.T.

Dear J.T.: What you are doing is extremely serious and cannot be treated lightly.

First of all, you are not "liberating," you are stealing. The real question is why? You are not stealing because you have a great desire to possess what you steal, you are stealing becuase the act itself gives you pleasure and a sense of excitement, even achievement. You feel as if you were playing a game where you could always win. Are there any legitimate games that you can win? Is there some legitimate way you can experience a sense of success and achievment?

Most people who steal, even though they may have no particular need or desire for the object they steal, are frustrated and angry. They want to rebel and express their anger but instead they never get to the root of it; they take out their anger on someone, the store owner, who has nothing at all to do with the real source of their anger. Sometimes, people who steal compulsively are rebelling against their parents, against all authority or symbols of authority, and sometimes they are rebelling against their sex.

Studies reveal that women are much more apt to hoplift than men and some psychiatrists believe this is a kind of rebellion against not being born male. They wish to steal the power, the privilege, the adventure, the freedom and all of the things that go with being male in our society. Their stealing is like getting back at the world for robbing them of being born male. This is almost always unconscious and the woman who steals rarely has any clue that she is angry because she is a female. If she did, she would probably find constructive outlets for her anger.

Most people who steal do so as an act of hostility toward society and to satsify sexual and aggressive impulses that find no other outlet, according to Dr. Ralph Banay, former director of the psychiatric clinic at California's San Quentin prison.

Stealing is a symptom of your problems and it is a dangerous and nonproductive way of acting them out. It is important to see a professional who is capable of helping you talk out your problems so that you can attack them directly.

While you are getting professional guidance, it might be helpful for you to enter into activities or games where you can win and achieve some real gratification. It is important to find ways to release some of your aggression, for stealing is, for you, an aggressive pleasure. There is also the appeal of the forbidden. Those who cannot enjoy unless they are doing something forbidden are immature. It is childish to want something for nothing.

The only way you will be able to mature is to face your problems, for stealing is an outgrowth of them.

Retired Chino warden honored at gathering

More than 100 friends, relatives and state employes gathered at Griswold's Inn in Claremont recently to honor Henry J. Bartol after his retirement from the position of Fish and Game Warden with the State of California.

Mr. Bartol has ended a career which began in 1939 in the Marine Patrol. He was transferred from the patrol to the Land Patrol and worked at the Yountville Game Farm and then the San Joaquin River. He was then drafted into World War II. After leaving the armed service, Mr. Bartol was stationed at the Chino Game Farm, then transferred to the main office in Los Angeles. After another transfer to Little Lake, Mr. Bartol was transferred back to the Chino Area.

As a retirement gift, Mr. Bartol received a complete set of fishing equipment and will spend much time fishing and continuing his hobby of raising exotic birds.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartol have two sons, Robert J. and Richard Joseph. The couple plans to continue to reside in the Chino area.

Hathaway-Papac rites performed in Idaho

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Rexburg, Idaho, was the setting for the marriage of Miss Gail Jean Papac and Maurice Hathaway.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Papac of Pomona and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hathaway of Rexburg recited their vows before Bishop Marion Stoddard, uncle of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon organza trimmed with bands of reembroidered lace. The gown was accented with Queen Anne sleeves and a chapel-length train. Her elbow-length veil was caught to a headpiece of venise lace, organza bow petals and pearlized bead loops.

She carried a bouquet of baby yellow roses, tiny yellow and white mums and lime green ribbons.

Miss Pattie Curran of San Francisco, college roommate of the bride, was her only attendant.

Lynn Wolf of Rexburg was best man.

Attending the wedding and reception at the church were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Gladys Beck, and her aunt, Mrs. Henrietta Golenor, both of Pomona.

The couple was feted later at a reception at the home of the groom's parents. Guests included the groom's parents, his sister, Miss Shaunna Hathaway, and her fiance, Bob Miles of Mesa, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway will reside in Jackson, Wyo., after a tour of the western states.

Beads show history

Pick up a bead, a small thing — seemingly insignificant. Hold it to the light. Is it opaque or does the light filter through? Is it carved, enameled, woven or a piece of pierced stone?

Beads have been important in the formation of man's culture since the beginning of recorded history.

Although beads today are used primarily for decorative and ornamental purposes, the earliest beads probably were contrived from small fossils and worn as amulets. In Egypt the word for bead was "Shasha." The syllable "sha" was the Egyptian word for "luck."

The English word "bead" is derived from the Anglo-Saxon "bed" which means prayer. Beads have had religious significance for centuries. In Scotland, pensioners whose duty it was to pray for their benefactors were known as beadsmen.

Almost everyone knows that the island of Manhattan was purchased with beads.

As an object of commerce beads preceded the exchange of coins for goods and since the Middle Ages beads have been manufactured in Europe for sale or barter.

Some specimens which might be included in a collection are beads made from a snake's spine, the rare black coral, cornelian, onyx, ivory, amber, cypress, pewter, enameled metals, jade, rose quartz, jasper shells, sandlewood, seeds, glass.

There are many ways in which a collection can be assembled. Beads can be collected for historical significance, artistic merit, religious interest, or as geological specimens.

The collector of beads will find very little reference material on the subject. Instead, research will have to be done on a varity of subjects and enthusiasts will delve into the methods of manufacture, study the evolution of jewelry styles, probe the regions of commerce, history and religion. A bead collection can be enriching.

Patients don't follow doctor's rules

Somewhere between 20 and 52 per cent of patients fail to follow the doctor's advice.

Patients also forget one-third of what they are told, Philip Ley, a clinical lecturer in psychology at the University of Liverpool, who made a study of the average person's memory, reported recently.

They remember the diagnosis, but forget or ignore most of the instructions about what they do, Ley found. Neither age or intellectual level has anything to do with it, but the more medical knowledge the patient has, the more he remembers, perhaps because he had understood better what the doctor had said.

SPANISH SCENE — Pomona artist A. B. (Bud) Fages works on one of the paintings he did during a recent trip to Spain. An exhibition of his work is now on display in the Lobby Gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 399 N. Garey Ave., Pomona.

Bronson's in clover now, but he hasn't forgotten

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Save the lights " an assistant director hollered, and out of the gloom Charles Bronson emerged to slide into a chair in the dingy topless-bottomless joint.

Bronson's tough, furrowed Slavic features gave him the appearance of a man who might really frequent the El Rancho Club in the decaying Los Angeles neighborhood. His hooded eyes were humorless, his demeanor testy.

But far from it. Bronson lives in a Bel Air mansion and may be the world's biggest boxoffice attraction.

He was on location for his new movie, "The Stone Killer," from which he will earn more than a million dollars. But Charlie remembers his coal miner days in Scooptown, Pa., when he was 16 years old earning $1 a week for 80 hours work.

"I don't dwell on the past," he said in a near monotone. "But I haven't forgotten either. And I don't remind my kids about how rough the world can be. They wouldn't understand."

Bronson is a taciturn man. He grants few interviews and is uncomfortable when he does. The menacing figures he portrays on the screen carry over away from the camera, although he is a gentle man with a soft voice. He wears no makeup when working and doesn't socialize with costars.

He doesn't see his own pictures, not from any sense of humility. They make him ill at ease.

A one-time boxer, Charlie's powerful hands now hold a paint brush in his spare time. He has sold his paintings for as much as $3,000 per canvas.

Bronson's popularity as a movie star in the United States lagged behind his phenomenal acceptance by world audiences. His first big success, "Adieu L'Ami," earned $3 million in France alone.

"I was a hit in Europe, but for some reason Paramount never released the film in this country," he said without apparent rancor.

"Don't ask me why. There are other pictures that did well in Europe. Very successful. But they haven't been seen over here yet. Now my movies are beginning to make an impression in America."

Only a few blocks away, a theater marquee displayed "The Valachi Papers," with Bronson's name above the title.

Another of Bronson's films, "The Mechanic," has been doing runaway business in this country.

And while Charlie does not dwell on the future, neither can he forget the days when he'd have worked the year around for next to nothing. Acting was a lark compared to the mines.

"I never complain about the work now," he said, "just the time. There's a difference. I took two months off this year, the longest time I've been away from movies in six years.

"Only a dozen years ago I'd have been happy to do any picture. Now I get attractive offers, so I work."

Bronson s face did not change expression when the director called for another take. He moved away with easy grace, alone among other members of the cast and crew. Charlie Bronson is a breed apart.

Bit Parts: David Hartman, longtime television favorite, makes his movie debut in "Island at the Top of the World" for Walt Disney Productions ... David Janssen has been cast to star in "Fast Freight," an ABC television movie ... "The Hireling," starring Robert Shaw and Sarah Miles, was acquired by Columbia for release in the United States ...

Paintings of Spain hang at Pomona First Federal

POMONA — An exhibition of watercolors by A. B. "Bud" Fages of Pomona depicting scenes of Spain is now on view in the Lobby Gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 339 N. Garey Ave.

The watercolors were completed during a recent trip taken by Mr. and Mrs. Fages to visit relatives and trace their Spanish heritage. Fages also brought back many sketches which he will work into color. On exhibit, in addition, are Fages' lanscapes of Taos, N. M., and Utah.

Fages, a native of Pomona, is a graduate of Chouinard School of Art. He is a member of the Pomona Valley Art Association. His work has hung in the Southwest Museum, the Pomona library and several local revolving shows. Some of his early paintings are Yucatan scenes which he did on several trips while searching for Mayan ruins and artifacts to photograph. After 25 years in photography Fages returned to painting five years ago.

A retired Pomona camera store employe, Fages is an accomplished photographer, camera technician, musician, singer and display designer. He is chairman of the Historical Society of Pomona's booth at the Los Angeles County Fair.

Airline named official carrier for world's fair

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74 has named Scandinavian Airlines as the official European Air Carrier for the Environmental World's Fair.

King Cole, Expo president, said Monday SAS will help publicize the upcoming fair and the vacation opportunities of the Pacific Northwest to the customers of its 200 offices around the world.

Even though SAS does not serve Spokane, Leif Eie, SAS northwest manager, said the airline does not consider that a problem.

Eie said Scandinavian Airlines will bring Expo visitors from Europe to America, and Hughes Airwest, Expo's official United States air carrier, will bring them to the fair.

But never lava

Though an erupting volcano brings to mind pictures of flowing rivers of boiling lava, not all active volcanos emit lava. Mount Taal in the Philippines, with a history of death and destruction, has spewed forth noxious gases, steaming mud and ash, and white-hot rocks—but never lava.

Maddox claims President should talk or step down

BOSTON (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia says President Nixon should either come forward with a full, public explanation of his knowledge about Watergate or "step down and let the vice president take over."

The former Georgia governor said that the President's refusal to appear before the Senate Watergate committee can be construed as a concession of guilt and is destroying the presidency.

"If he does not come forward, then he should have the decency to step down and let the vice president take over," he said.

Maddox addressed the annual New England Rally for God, Family and Country. He told participants of the five-day meeing for "conservative Americans" Nixon has become "obsessed with trying to become a leader of the world rather than a leader of America and he has abdicated his responsibility to place America first."

He said the office of the presidency "is not dead. No one can believe in it, and for the next three years Congress will have to take the reins, if it can."

The administration, in "a supreme show of arrogance," thinks it is above the laws that govern the rest of America, Maddox said.

"America has become a totalitarian police state, and the administration has led us into this by hypocrisy deception and just plain lying."

The lieutenant governor also criticized the administrations's fiscal and education policies.

"He (Nixon) as president, along with John Mitchell and Elliot Richardson and the Justice Department, and others appointed by Nixon, have done more to wreck more schools, destroy more investments in communities, deny more people freedom of choice and force more busing, than all previous administrations in the history of this nation," Maddox said.

State offers wide variety of trees

By JOHN D. LOWRY

FRAZIER PARK (UPI) — Anyone with a scrap of land can grow his very own 300-foot giant Sequoia with patience and a little help from the state Division of Forestry and an irrigation company.

The forestry service offers a wide variety of trees, ranging from sturdy pines that will challenge desert climes to the gigantic Sequoia so prevalent in Northern California. It is a state project aimed at reforestation and conservation.

The service even makes recommendations as to variety to suit your particular location whether along the coast, at protected inland areas or even the parched high desert of Southern California.

My project was a one-acre site at the 4,500-foot level in the high desert 70 miles north of Los Angeles. The forestry spokesman recommended a variety of pines and suggested the giant Sequoia which seemed out of character with the semiarid location. He reassured me on the chances of successful growth and when I told him my thinking was to plant them a foot or so apart to achieve nearly instant forest he disagreed strongly.

"You have to plant them at least five feet apart, they'll eventually be at least five feet thick and 200 to 300 feet tall!" When I asked how long this would take he replied, "about 2,000 years!" He said that within five years the seedlings might be 10 feet tall.

I passed up cedar, cypress and eucalyptus in favor of the Sequoia and placed my order in January for 100 seedlings. The cost was minimal, only a few cents each. They were delivered two weeks later in wooden crates, 50 individually planted seedlings per crate in their tarpaper containers and all 6-8 inches tall.

The labor came in digging holes a foot wide and equally deep in the sandy soil and screening out the rocks before mixing it with mulch to make sure moisture would be retained after planting.

Next watering. How to overcome dragging hoses around to nurture each individuality tree.

A visit to a commercial nursery brought the inexpensive solution.

Roberts Irrigation Co. of Pauma Valley manufactures a simple easy to install system. It can be adapted to various needs but basically begins with a coil of ½ inch to one-inch plastic tubing in lengths of no less than 100 feet at less than $5 per coil.

The tubing can be laid out above or below ground with length cut to your need and an end cap cemented to one end and regular garden hose connection at the other, all available from Roberts.

Your next step is piping to individual trees or plants using a coil of ⅛-inch "spaghetti" plastic tubing. A 3-16 inch electric drill can punch holes in the large tubing and then the "spaghetti" is inserted, glued and cut to length. A patented Roberts spot-spittemathen is stuck in the ground near the plant and the "spaghetti" inserted in its top.

When you connect the garden hose to the fitting and turn on the water to just a trickle you soon see the value of the system as each little spitter begins to dribble into the soil around your tree.

With each main-line watering 20-25 small trees or plants it takes a minimum of water, and no waste, to maintain your forest. And if you have enough faucets to water them all at once, your irrigation chore is over quickly.

So your forest is bought, planted and irrigated for less than $100. Mine doubled in size in less than six months but I don't plan on watching the trees mature to their potential 300-feet.

Earnings not always telling

By ROGER SPEAR

Q — I have noticed that Superior Oil Co. (NYSE) has a price earnings multiple of over 180x while other companies have ratios that are much smaller. Why is this? — C. I.

A — Superior reports earnings on an ultraconservative basis, i.e., after taking out various drilling, exploratory expenses depreciation, depletion, etc. This produces artifically low earnings, which are misleading. In this case, cash flow is a more meaningful figure. Last year this was equal to $22.30 per share and for 1973 cash flow should reach $26.00 per share. On that basis, the cash flow price-earnings multiple is about 10x currently, in line with others in the industry.

Q — We hold 300 Pan American World Airways (NYSE) purchased at $34. What is the prospect for this stock? Do you recommend holding, selling or buying more for future gains? — F. S.

A — According to Pan Am's chairman and president, William T. Seawell, the airline has "a chance this year to break even." In the first four months through April, a loss of $22.6 million was reported. This was substantially below the $35.1 million loss in the comparable 1972 period. Revenues were up 9.6 per cent year to year. Factors which helped Pan Am improve operating results were: increased promotion of first-class travel, a stricter policy on discounted fares and reduction in military travel.

There are still many negatives in this situation, however, that might continue to be reflected in depressed share trading levels. For one, labor negotiations (contracts expire in mid-summer), covering close to half the company's employees, could be costly for Pan Am. Another uncertainty is the effect that a receding economy and devaluation will have on summer air travel.

Of the four markets —Atlantic, domestic, Pacific and Latin America — which Pan Am serves, yield per revenue passenger mile is the highest on the latter two, averaging $5.47 in the 1973 first quarter. Fare increases have been approved on one of the routes and are pending on the other. Hold for eventual rally.

Q—Would you explain the disadvantages of buying stocks in "odd lots"? Because of the penalties involved, I have been advised not to buy less than 100 shares of any one issue. What are these extra fees?—G. M.

A—On major exchanges most stock transactions involving less than 100 shares are not traded by auction. They are handled by odd-lot dealers who buy or sell at the next round lot price after receipt of order, plus or minus an odd-lot differential which amounts to ⅛ of a point. The second consideration is the commission rate. For example: The broker's fee on 10 shares of a $20 issue is $8.40 or 4.2 per cent of the money involved; a round lot of a $20 stock involves a commission of $38 or 1.9 per cent. As the amount of money involved rises the fee generally drops, on a percentage basis. The rate on a 10-share purchase of a $50 stock is 2.9 per cent and on a 100-share transaction it is 1.3 per cent. A new commission schedule now under study, if adopted, would raise the fee on a $100 to $5,000 order by 10 percent.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Today the 40-hour work week is an accepted standard for workers in the United States and many other nations. The animal-loving Costa Ricans of Central America have made laws restricting horses, mules and oxen from working more than 48 hours per week, The World Almanac notes.

The doctor comments

Heart attack victim given reassurance

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am terribly depressed because I've been told by my doctor that nothing can be done for my heart attacks caused by atherosclerosis. I can hardly believe this. I was hospitalized last year for about three weeks and given all kinds of tests, then about two months later I had another attack. The first one occurred in Bible class and the second one in church. I didn't have any undue excitement of any kind previous to either attack. What is your opinion, doctor?

I've been on some medicine for high blood pressure, and also Coumadin to keep my blood from clotting. I have blood tests and checkups regularly. The doctor said on my last examination that my blood tests, blood pressure and electrocardiogram were all satisfactory, but I'm afraid to move for fear I'll have an other heart attack.

Dear Reader—Your doctor is doing something about your heart attacks. This is what the medicine to treat your blood pressure and the Coumadin to prevent blood coagulation is for. He's studying the function of your heart and circulatory system to regulate your medicine and, if necessary, institute other measures.

I'm sure thet what your doctor tried to explain to you was that the disease itself, the atherosclerosis, was difficult to treat, and the damage that had already been done to your heart from the previous attack was there to stay. This doesn't mean, however, that you can't make a good recovery or that there is nothing at all that can be done to help you maintain your health in the best condition.

Your diet is important. If you have any excess weight, it can be eliminated by a sensible program. You should be on a moderately restricted fat diet, restricted in saturated fats and limited in cholesterol. By proper diet, often you can reverse the fatty deposits that develop in the arteries. This has been demonstrated in animals. You can't eliminate the scar in the heart muscle or some of the scarring that develops in the arteries when they've been damaged from fatty deposits, or the calcium deposits that gradually developed around where the fatty deposits are in the walls of the arteries. But, I would like to stress that there are things which can be done.

Anyone with a severe cardiac problem is usually able to do more if the body weight is decreased. It's very simple. The body must work harder to move 200 pounds across the room than it does to move 100. This means there's less work for the heart and circulation to move a small body weight around. There are other beneficial effects too. The blood pressure is often significantly lowered if a person has any excess fat and eliminates it.

It's important for people who've had a heart attack to be given some reassurance. Many people do make excellent recoveries. I know that it's common to sit around and worry about what may happen after an episode, but appreciating the fact that some benefits can be achieved, and that if you've recovered well enough to go home that you may well have a reasonably good outlook, should help to dispel the discouragement that some people have. I am personally impressed about how well some people do after they have made a complete recovery from the initial heart attack. As I've mentioned before, both President Johnson and President Eisenhower are good examples of this point.

Monopoly suit filed against 15 oil firms

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida Attorney General Robert Shevin filed a federal "monopoly power" suit against the 15 largest petroleum companies Monday and said other such suits would follow from around the nation.

After threatening a suit for weeks, Shevin formally asked U.S. District Judge David Middlebrooks to order the firms to break up their alleged monopolies by selling their crude oil exploration interests.

Shevin predicted that although his was the first such state or federal suit, others will be forthcoming, including one from the state of Connecticut and another by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

He named as defendants Exxon, Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Shell, Atlantic-Richfield, Phillips, Continental, Sun, Union, Cities Service, Marathon, Standard Oil of California, Standard Oil of Indiana, and Standard Oil of Ohio.

Jim: "Declarers have been known to see a defender's hand but if declarer is a good player the chances are that he has another reason for his play."

Oswald: "Here is an elementary example, West's queen of clubs holds the first trick. He continues the suit. South ruffs the second club and plays three rounds of trumps. Then if South is a good player he planks his ace of hearts on the table and drops West's singleton king."

Jim: "This play couldn't do him any harm. If the king failed to drop he would eventually get to dummy with a diamond after losing the diamond finesse and lead a heart toward his queen."

Oswald: "He was sure to make his contract if East held the king of hearts. This way he had that small extra chance. West just might hold the king all by itself."

Auto transport firm makes good on claim

I am a lifelong resident of California and was residing temporarily in Rome, N.Y., last winter while my husband was stationed at Griffiss Air Force Base. When we received orders in February 1972 for immediate transfer to March AFB, we planned to ship one car and drive another together.

An auto transport firm in Syracuse, N.Y., was contacted and the office manager picked up my 1969 Mercury Montego station wagon March 29, 1972. The car was in excellent running condition, had been recently serviced for the trip and had no body marks or dents of any kind.

As I later learned, a team of drivers was to bring the car to my home in California, with all responsibilities for damage to be assumed by the auto transport firm.

My car was delivered to Upland on April 12 by a driver from the Los Angeles office. I was not at home then and my father signed for the car. He mentioned a dent in the right front door and fender but, as the driver had not come from New York, it was assumed that the dent was already in the car prior to shipment. This definitely was not the case.

Upon seeing the dent, I immediately called the Syracuse office. A representative of the firm suggested I send the lowest of three body repair estimates to him as soon as possible. The lowest of $76 was forwarded to his office on April 19.

Since my telephone call on April 12, I had no response from the transport firm. I have placed phone calls, received messages to record my questions, but no one has answered my calls. I have written three times but again there has been no response. I have called the Los Angeles branch office but they have been unable to give any assistance.

Can you help me? — D.C., Upland

Our records show that Action Line wrote to the transport firm in your behalf on Dec. 1, 1972. When you notified us on May 14 that you still had received no response, we immediately wrote again.

The firm's claims manager responded from New York City that the letter to the Syracuse office had been forwarded to him. He said a search of his files did not reveal any correspondence with "either your good selves or Mrs. C. concerning the transport of her vehicle."

He assured us that your claim would be processed. Since then, you have written that he made good on his promise and your claim has been settled.

Early in February I ordered three paintings from a Los Angeles studio. My check was processed by my bank on Feb. 28. Since that time, I have written two letters and made several phone calls attempting to obtain either the paintings or a refund.

When I call, the customer service representative assures me that someone will look up the account and call me back, but I have had no reply. — E.H., La Verne.

We reminded the studio that California law requires the mail order merchant to deliver his product within six weeks or issue an immediate refund.

You telephoned us twice, the first time to say that two of the pictures had arrived and finally that you had received the third.

Some time ago you had a story about cleaning cement driveways. I cut the article out but have lost it. You listed ways to get rust and oil off a cement driveway.

My son drained his radiator out on the cement and it looks terrible. I've tried hard to keep it looking clean and free from oil and spots.

Can you send me the information? — V.S., Montclair.

More than two years ago several readers answered this question for us. We sent you a copy of their replies and now summarize them for others with sons who work on cars.

1. Use one part of muriatic acid to several parts of water, pour it on the rust spot and brush with a broom. Then wash thoroughly with water. If this doesn't work, make the solution stronger. Wash the entire driveway with the solution while you are at it. After it is applied, the sun will bleach the driveway so that it is all the same color.

2. You should use muriatic acid that is a formula with a metal inhibitor to protect your car, etc. A full-strength solution could be a threat to pets even after the driveway is wash down.

3. One thing that helps remove rust stains in sinks and bathtubs and should work on driveways is a mixture of salt and vinegar. Take a fairly generous amount of salt and moisten it with vinegar. Let it set a few minutes and then moisten a cloth with the solution and scour the stained area. Don't let this solution get on grass or shrubs. Mop it all up before turning the hose on the cleaned area.

4. Get a small bag of cat litter, sprinkle some on the rusty streak and grind in with a block of wood or your leather shoes. If it won't do the job, the effort won't be a total loss since it will hide the grease spots on the concrete.

INCINERATOR TOPPLED

The 100-foot-high incinerator at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, a landmark since its installation in 1955, was toppled this week by Thomas House Movers of Pomona. The smokeless 75-ton incinerator was designed by Greelis Sales and Service. Although it was originally approved by the Air Pollution Control District at the time of its construction, present air quality standards necessitated its removal.

Nude-dancing counts against 12 dismissed

POMONA — So-called topless and bottomless entertainment here has come under tighter control despite dismissal of criminal charges against most of the persons arrested last May in a local crackdown.

The action was in Pomona Municipal Court where Judge James H. Piatt dismissed charges against 12 of 15 persons charged either with topless dancing, bottomless dancing or with allowing such entertainment.

The offenses are violations of city ordinances which the Supreme Court ruled earlier were valid controls of local entertainment. Conditions of the dismissals included the stipulation to abide by a civil injunction prohobiting such entertainment here. The injunction was being sought in Pomona Superior Court.

At the hearing, Playmate tavern operator Robert Lindenbaum pleaded no contest to one of seven counts against him and was given a 90-day jail term. The term was suspended, however, and Lindenbaum was placed on probation for three years on condition that he not violate the same city ordinance — allowing topless or bottomless entertainment.

Earlier in the week, City Atty. Patrick Sampson said the city was more interested in shutting down nude entertainment than it was in punishing violators. The agreement to dismiss against the defendants apparently was the result of that theory.

Two others, arrested during the raids last May, still face prosecution, however. Rudolph Angelo Cicciarelli, 30, Rowland Heights, and Janice Ann Kirkland, 27, 1052 Airshire Lane, were accused of exhibiting obscene movies and were scheduled for pretrial hearings Aug. 20. The offenses are violation of the state penal code.

Those who won dismissal of charges Thursday were Robert Newger, 41, of 1254 Paseo Dorado, San Dimas; Rhondo E. Bryant, 21, Long Beach; Jackie Rochelle Ellavsky, 25, of 627 Lorrane Ave.; Ann Christine Bargeman, 26, of 144 N. Palmetto St., Ontario; Sidney Jackson Harris, 36, of 10246 Coalinga Ave., Montclair; Susan Elaine Venetucci, 23, Cucamonga; Cynthia Jean Sparks, 24, of 310 E. Foothill Blvd.; Rita Le Neil Rogers, 30, of 4597 Berkeley Ave., Montclair; Sandra Lynn Simon, 22, of 536 E. Phillips Blvd.; Leslie Faye Willett, 24, Hollywood; Henry Thomas Bleeker, 27, of 1522 Baldy View, and Deborah Ann Cullis, 23, of 1360 W. 3rd St. Charges of exhibiting obscene movies against Margie Anna Marshall, 22, of 2235 Kellogg Park Drive, and Miss Bargeman, were dismissed June 14.

Mrs. Goeske heads foster grandparents

POMONA — Mrs. Janet Goeske of Riverside was recently installed as chairman of the Foster Grandparents Advisory Council for Pacific and Patton State hospitals.

Mrs. Goeske, who has done volunteer work at Pacific State for 25 years, succeeded Milton Ball as chairman. She is also chairman of the Governor's Advisory Board at Pacific State.

Elected to the council along with Mrs. Goeske were Nelson Lortie, vice president, and Mrs. Stan Donovan, publicity chairman. Lortie is a Pomona resident, while Mrs. Donovan lives in Whittier.

New members elected to the board were Larry Hagen and Donna Medders, both of Pomona.

The Foster Grandparent program is funded through ACTION, and provides employment for citizens over 60.

The foster grandparents work four hours a day, five days a week providing care and attention for mentally retarded children. They are paid $1.60 an hour, $1 a day for transportation, and provided with a noon meal.

Interested persons are asked to contact Ruth Hughes, project officer at Pacific State, at 595-1221 extension, 475.

Car wash firms being washed out, file protest

POMONA — Too much of a good thing can ruin it for others.

That's the message operators of three car washes conveyed to the Pomona Planning Commission.

"We are taking these issues to your attention because we feel that there hasn't been good judgment in allowing another car wash to be built on the corner of Holt (Avenue) and Indian Hill (Boulevard)," stated the letter.

"The reasons for our concern is because we car wash owners feel that another car wash within a half or quarter mile from four other car washes in the same area will put some out of business."

The letter bears the signatures of Mrs. Richard L. Drake, Drakes Car Wash, 401 N. East End Ave.; Joseph L. Frey, Village Car Wash, 530 E. Foothill Blvd.; and Shanker Patel, Palms Car Wash, 530 E. Holt Ave.

"Right now, there are over 10 car washes in the City of Pomona. How many more can be allowed before half of us go broke? The population is small with about 65,000 to 70,000 people. How can we all do any business with such population service?" it asked.

The operators suggested an ordinance be permitted to prohibit any more car wash operations be built in the city because of economics and survival of the existing car washes.

"We can only feel as we look around right now that there are already many gas stations and other businesses that are closed because of lack of business,"they stated.

City planners took no action regarding the letter other than voting to "receive and file" it.

Teachers to be granted class time for planning

POMONA — Beginning in September, third through sixth graders in Pomona's public schools will spend slightly less time in the classroom than they have in the past to allow their teachers a regular planning time.

This decision was made last week when the school board approved a recommendatin made by the Elementary Curriculum Planning Committee.

The committee felt that with a regular planning time, the quality of instruction could be increased, substantially outweighing the reduction in teaching time.

Under conpensatory education programs, the Stull Law and increased district requirements, more emphasis is being placed upon the determination of instructional objectives, evaluation of the learner and his placement at the proper level of instruction, committee members pointed out.

The individualization or personalization of the instructional program is being stressed to meet the needs and objectives that have been determined in the district.

Under the new plan, third graders will go from 285 to 255 minutes ,and fourth through sixth graders, from 320 to 296 minutes, in daily classroom instruction.

First and second graders will not be changed. They will remain in the classroom 1,650 minutes a week, attending from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Staffs will have the option to arrange these minutes so that one day per week will be set aside to coincide with the teacher preparation day for grades four through six.

Third graders will attend 1,650 minues per week, normally from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. If a preparation day is established to be consistent with grades four through six, grades one through three would run normally from 9 a.m. to 2:36 p.m. four days a week, and from 9 a.m. to 2:05 p.m. one day per week.

Fourth through sixth graders will attend 1,805 minutes each week. Normally they will attend four days from 9 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. and one day from 9 a.m. to 2:05 p.m.

In a survey of surrounding school districts, including City of Los Angeles, it was found that Pomona, in grades three thrugh six, had the greatest number of minutes in actual class time.

This past year some Pomoma schools were encouraged to modify the total number of instructional minutes to include a regular planning time for teachers.

Evaluation of these schools and their programs indicated that the regular planning time had paid off, the educators said.

'We T.I.P.' strikes again; 2 booked on drug charge

POMONA — Information from We Turn In Pushers, Inc. (We T.I.P.) last week aided police in the arrest of two Pomona men for investigation of possession and cultivation of marijuana at 580 E. Columbia Ave.

According to Pomona police, the two suspects, Joseph Penn Campbell, 23, and Michael Anders Pickering, 23, both of 580 E. Columbia, were arrested outside their apartment carrying six suspected marijuana plants and about 20 grams of cut marijuana.

Police said that the arrests were the result of investigation launched with information supplied by a We T.I.P. tipster. Both suspects were booked in Pomona Jail.

We T.I.P. is a community-based, non-profit organization dedicated to aiding local police agencies in their battle against the drug menace. We T.I.P. offers anonymous informants a reward of $100 to $500 for information that leads police to the arrest and conviction of suspected drug pushers in local communities.

Informants calling on the local We T.I.P. telephone line (983-9611) or the state We T.I.P. line (800-472-7785) between noon and 6 p.m. weekdays, are told not to give their name but only information about suspected drug pushers.

Each person is assigned a code name and number by the We T.I.P. operator that he or she may use to collect the reward in the event of a conviction.

Bill Brownell, state director of We T.I.P., Inc., said there are now 63 member cities in the We T.I.P. organization throughout California with information being supplied to almost 200 police and sheriff's departments.

To date there have been 3,200 anonymous tips phoned into We T.I.P. leading to 308 arrests and 50 convictions. Drugs with a value of nearly $1.3 million have been confiscated by local police agencies following up on We T.I.P. leads. A total of $5,500 in rewards has been paid to tipsters.

That big wheat sale a goof

It would appear to be a classic case of bringing troubles on ourselves.

Watergate, the ailing dollar, Liz & Dick & Liza notwithstanding, the painfully primary concern for most of us these days is prices—of the galloping variety, with those for food leading the field.

Now the General Accounting Office the watchdog agency that keeps tabs on federal income and outgo, tells us that a primary factor in the crisis at the checkout counter is the effect of last year's huge wheat sale to the Soviet Union.

You remember. That was the unexpected but ecstatically—at first—welcomed profiting from Soviet harvest misfortunes that was supposed to mean prosperity for U.S. farmers and support for a shaky dollar in the world trade.

Only as some small critical voices have been suggesting for some time and the G.A.O. now documents in some detail, it didn't quite work out that way.

Instead, the massive deal—440 million bushels, one-quarter of the entire U.S. crop—created a grain shortage in the United States, driving wheat prices up from $1.68 per bushel in July 1972 to $3 early this year. Directly and indirectly, it has meant higher consumer prices for, in the G.A.O.'s listing, "bread and flour-based products . . . beef, pork, poultry, eggs and dairy products . . ."

And so in the end, it is the U.S. consumer who pays for the big Soviet deal—twice in fact. Now directly out of his food budget, and initially indirectly through the public funds involved in the generous credits—$750 million—extended to Moscow by Washington and the $300 million in export subsidies to make up the difference between a normally higher domestic wheat price and an export price which, the G.A.O. now says was unnecessarily low to the great advantage of the Soviets.

The G.A.O. report, submitted to Congress, places primary responsibility on the Department of Agriculture for, first, being inadequately informed as to the size of the Soviet purchases and not foreseeing the likely effects on the U.S. economy, and then for mismanaging subsidies and permitting speculation by grain dealers.

Agriculture, of course, demurs. And there may indeed be extenuating circumstances and contributing factors beyond its control.

But the consumer confronted with even-higher prices, aware of too-late half measures such as the ban on soybean exports and appalled by such desperation measures as the destruction of chicks by growers caught in the feed-cost squeeze, does not need pages of expert economic analysis to know that someone goofed somewhere.

The United States is a food-surplus nation, capable of producing still more than it now does. Without seeking exorbitant profit from the needs of others, it should still be possible to share this basic wealth with a world in many parts on the thin edge of hunger, even famine, to the benefits of its own economy—certainly not, in any circumstances, the detriment.

The administration is looking to a big grain crop this year, up from 6 per cent in corn to 24 per cent in soybeans according to Agriculture's forecast just out, to ease the price strain eventually.

Trust in providence is fine. But it also helps to help one's self, such as thoroughly checking out future big deals to be certain they are all they appear to be.

For if we take it from the G.A.O., appearances can indeed be deceiving.

TV can be good for parent, child

There are few men, women and children among us who do not succumb to viewing television each day. Particularly the latter. Recent national surveys reveal that the average child plops himself before a TV set for an annual 1,000 hours of fantasy, fakery and fact. He spends about 500 hours in a classroom.

Appalling? Possibly not. Many child psychologists and educators are revising their thinking about television and its programming. Some now say that instead of pushing families apart, television viewing can bring a parent closer to his child. The boob tube is being touted as a brain tube.

This is the thesis of the creators of a new television magazine, "Tube Talk," written for the preteen set (8-year-old average) to be enjoyed and shared with their parents.

To be distributed with newspapers, "Tube Talk" includes interviews, games, puzzles and educational features. According to a preview article, the crucial and valuable factor in the viewing of TV by the impressionable very young is that the experience be shared and that parents help a child learn while he is being entertained.

Many adults still object to TV programming for children without really watching the shows, discussing them with the young viewer or really listening to what he says about what he is seeing. TV is far past the stage of being an inexpensive babysitter yet some parents still use it as one. It is an educational force and one that more parents must learn to share.

Television as we know it is in its 26th year. Perhaps the elements are right for adult viewers, producers and advertisers to stretch themselves to the point where they will insist that this visual electronic god meet its immense potential in education and entertainment.

Kleindienst bungled Watergate case

WASHINGTON — After questioning ex-Attorney General Richard Kleindienst for four hours in secret, the special prosecutors concluded that the Watergate case might have been cracked months earlier if he had mentioned meeting ringleader G. Gordon Liddy less than 12 hours after the Watergate break-in.

Kleindienst was questioned recently by special prosecutor Archibald Cox's two top aides, James Neal and James Vorenberg, who were satisfied from Kleindienst's answers that he wasn't personally implicated in the scandal. But they couldn't understand his failure, as the nation's top law enforcement officer, to tell his subordinates about the Liddy incident.

Here's what happened on June 17, 1972:

A few hours after the Waterbuggers were arrested at gunpoint inside Democratic Party headquarters, Liddy located Kleindienst at the Burning Tree golf course and rushed off to consult him. Powell Moore, the campaign press chief, asked to go along.

Kleindienst surprised

They found Kleindienst sitting with several people at a large table and called him into a backroom. Liddy reported urgently that the burglary-bugging squad had been headed by the President's campaign security chief.

Kleindienst said he was aware of the arrests but surprised at the involvement of a campaign official. Then Kleindienst picked up a telephone and dialed Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen. "Henry," instructed Kleindienst, "I want to be sure that these people are treated as any other person would be treated who is arrested under those circumstances."

The prosecutors aren't critical of Kleindienst's handling of Liddy, which was entirely proper. But Kleindienst's failure to mention the incident to his subordinates delayed their investigation.

It took them another ten days, for example, before they learned the extent of Liddy's involvement. More important, they knew nothing about Powell Moore until the following year.

Moore's testimony

Unlike Liddy who is still refusing to talk, Moore testified fully and frankly the first time he appeared before the grand jury. His testimony led to other important pieces of the Watergate puzzle. This could have brought a breakthrough in the case a full year ago.

Here are a few of the revelations that came, at least indirectly, through Moore's testimony:

— Moore realized the morning after the break-in, he testified, that Liddy had prior knowledge of the crime. Moore reported this to campaign official Robert Mardian, a former Assistant Attorney General, who had come to the campaign directly from the Justice Department. He is now under investigation for alleged involvement in the Watergate cover-up.

— Moore witnessed the destruction of documents by Liddy, who started with a small shredder and then moved to a larger shredder to speed up the process. Liddy began the shredding operation after a long telephone conversation with his superior, Jeb Stuart Magruder, in California, Moore swore.

Magruder's instructions

— The same morning, according to the testimony, Moore overheard Magruder's assistant, Robert Reisner, getting instructions over the phone from Magruder. When Reisner eventually was called to testify, he told the grand jury that Magruder had asked him to remove sensitive files from the office, including a blue folder marked "Gemstone." This turned out to be the secret incriminating Watergate file of wiretapped conversations.

— Liddy mentioned to Moore during the morning after the break-in that three people should be notified. They were former Attorney General John Mitchell, campaign official Fred Larue and Magruder. All three, it was learned several months later, were key figures in the Watergate scandal.

— Moore testified that Mitchell helped to draft the public statement denying that the campaign committee had anything to do with the Waterbuggers or their crimes. The statement was laced with noble terms about this type of activity having no place in the American political system.

All these events happened within a few hours after the Watergate break-in. If the prosecutors had known about Moore and had been able to take his testimony last summer, the Watergate case almost certainly would have broken wide open long before the election.

Yet Kleindienst, though free of any Watergate taint himself, failed to tell his own prosecutors about his curious meeting with Liddy and Moore on June 17, 1972.

Footnote: Kleindienst explained to us that he didn't regard the Liddy-Moore visit as significant at the time. He later learned that Moore asked to come along so he would be a witness in case Liddy tried to compromise the Attorney General, Kleindienst told us.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Dandruff problem vital to progress

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The human race progresses by solving problems. If there were no more problems, the race would soon become static and probably begin regressing.

Already this has happened in some places. The town of Farthing, S.D., became a problem-free area aboout 10 years ago and hasn't advanced a lick since.

Other communities brought to a standstill by a shortage of problems include Sinking Hills, Mont., Buttermilk Falls, Wis., Tinker's Dam, Alaska and Puma City, Ariz.

But these are freakish phenonema. Fortunately for the race as a whole, some problems defy solution. The very act of grappling with them moves man forward.

Have you, for example, every considered how much the onward and upward movement of the human race has been stimulated by the dandruff problem?

Man's age-old fight against dandruff has built giant industries, provided gainful employment for thousands, and inspired chemists and advertising copywriters to new heights of creativity.

Scores of dandruff removal shampoos have been formulated, but all do just that — remove it. None actually conquers dandruff in the sense of vanquishing it, the way man has eradicated razor drag for instance.

No, dandruff keeps turning up like a bad penny. The most that can be said is that we have managed to "control" it. Which is a heap of progress itself.

The extent of that achievement can be seen if you picture to yourself what the world would be like if dandruff should ever get out of control.

Reasonably, then, we could expect the dandruff problem to be with us for years to come. But that rosy outlook is now threatened by an ominous action by the Federal Trade Commission.

Shampoo manufacturers who claim to deal with the problem are being required by the FTC to define what they mean by dandruff.

Suppose they are unable to come up with an acceptable definition? Where will that leave us?

In limbo, that's where. It will mean that all these years we have been struggling to overcome a problem that technically doesn't even exist.

If you were able to picture a world in which dandruff was out of control, now try to picture a world without any dandruff at all.

I don't know what you see but I see a catastrophe of the first magnitude —giant shampoo companies going bankrupt ... workers in breadlines ... Madison Ave. account executives leaping from office windows.

In short, the dandruff problem is vital to our continued progress. Let us hope and pray it's for real.

Flag display

June 14, 1973, Flag Day, was fittingly observed by the City of Pomona, in an impressive display of the American Flag in great numbers in the planter sections bordering the Pomona Mall.

As it happened that I was on the Mall most of the day, I had occasion at least six times to replace in upright positions flags which had fallen over and lay on the Mall itself. This was due in part to breezes which blew them over, but mostly to the fact that the flag poles were not set in sockets but merely placed on the ground in the planters. I also observed, due to my necessarily close inspection of fallen flags, that most of the flags were soiled and dirty beyond belief.

It does seem that this shoddy display could be given a brighter and more respected appearance if the City custodian of these flags (whoever he may be) could be authorized to replace the dirty flags with new ones, and if metal sockets could be set in the planters for any future mass display of our American Flag. —D. Gossip for today

We were hero worshippers in those days. And why not? After all, what red blooded young boy wouldn't have been when he had such a super hero as Frank Merriweather, the clean-cut, all-American boy athlete, to serve as his model and inspiration? Then, of course, there were Christy Matthewson, Jim Thorpe and Gentleman Jim Corbett for good measure.

All of which makes me feel a bit sorry for today's youth in search of sports heroes. What must they think when they learn that it is now being proposed that urine tests be given to football players to make sure these super athletes aren't using dope.?

INSIDE REPORT

Nixon's worsening political condition

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Nixon abandoned his studied aloofness from the Watergate scandal and personally shaped his hard-line refusal to appear before the Senate Watergate committee, sharpening conflict between him and many Republican politicans distraught over the President's deteriorating situation.

Shortly before Mr. Nixon's letter flatly refusing either to testify before the committee or hand over presidential papers, the White House received dramatically contrary advice. Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, the committee's senior Republican, advised the White House that Mr. Nixon should engage in some of kind of dialogue with the committee or risk dire consequences.

Baker's view is increasingly shared by Republican politicans, both around the country and in Congress, alarmed by the President's worsening political condition. But Mr. Nixon's active participation in the refusal to testify has cheered middle-level presidential staffers who have consistently advocated a hard line. Thus, a three-month-old battle over tactics between seasoned Republican politicans and youthful White House aides has entered a new phase, with the President himself now on the side of his hard-line staffers.

Request from Sen. Ervin

The President's letter was prompted by a request from Sen. Ervin of North Carolina Watergate committee chairman, for the papers of 35 past and present White House aides. When committee counsel Sam Dash then asked White House counsel Leonard Garmen to immediately get papers of ex-aides H. R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson, Garment promised a quick reply.

The president ordered that the papers be refused. Smoldering over suggestions by Republican and Democratic members of the Ervin committee that he testify, he expanded the refusal to embrace presidential testimony even though no formal request had been made by the committee.

The original refusal was drafted in Washington but rewritten in San Clemente. The chief rewriter: Richard M. Nixon, imparting his special tone to the letter. "This is vintage Nixon," one high presidential assistant told us.

That overjoyed middle-level White House staffers, including former lieutenants of Haldeman and Colson, who in informal "attack group" meetings had mourned the "soft line" at the White House. They had been dismayed by successive presidential "retreat"—waiving executive privilege, confessions in his May 22 statement, giving the committee White House logs on Mr. Nixon's meetings with deposed White House counsel John W. Dean III.

These hard-liners were particularly enraged by Dean's being permitted to rummage in his old files and feared those files next would be supplied to the Ervin committee as requested. The blanket presidential refusal is taken by "attack group" staffers as a welcome sign of Mr. Nixon's deciding to fight it out.

But the President's letter dismayed Republican politicians who agree with Sen. Baker, a veteran Nixon loyalist. Just before the President's letter was released, Baker spelled out his views to chief White House lobbyists William Timmons and listed three possible ways for a Nixon-committee "conversation": (1) written questions, answers and further questions; (2) interrogation (not under oath) at the White House; (3) interrogation (not under oath) on neutral ground. Whatever the arrangement, Baker urged some such dialogue.

Full support of Baker's view

Baker's view is supported not only in the Senate Republican cloakroom but at the state party level. "I believe this President is not guilty, but he sure acts guilty as hell," one conservative state chairman told us. Such politicians doubt Dean's devastating testimony can be countered solely by friendly witnesses (a view supported by John N. Mitchell's current performance).

Among Senate Republicans, the hard-line letter is regarded as unnecessarily stoking up hostility with the Ervin committee. Since the committee had not formally asked the President to appear, no formal reply was needed. But the reply provoked Ervin's harsh reaction, which in turn generated outrage at the White House.

There is no sign that the sage political hands just signed on at the White House, Melvin R. Laird and Bryce Harlow, contributed to the President's letter. Nor is there any hint they disapproved. But if it becomes politically necessary, Laird and Harlow might well recommend something along lines recommended by Baker.

Indeed, some presidential aides suggest Mr. Nixon's present refusal to "testify" does not preclude "conversing" with the committee. But that would again force a public retreat from a position shrewd politicians in his own party feel the President never had to take in the first place.

Passenger mark set at Ontario

ONTARIO — Gasoline shortage, inflation and summer vacations.

Officials cited these as contributing to a record 112,986 airline passengers who passed through Ontario International Airport last month.

The June total broke the previous monthly record of 102,432 set last August.

"June is always a good month for summer vacation travel," said Al Dubiel, airport official. "Many students are then out of school."

He said many travelers may have also been concerned over the reported gasoline shortage. "Rather than drive, they decided to fly.

"Many may have decided to take a trip this summer before inflation raises the price of airline tickets."

As an example of the heavy passenger traffic, Dubiel noted that PSA one day had a total of three empty seats on its four regular flights. Each plane, he said, carries about 105 passengers.

The airport is served by eight major air carriers and one commuter airline, which provide daily service to more than 20 cities.

The June traffic, a gain of nearly 20,000 passengers over June 1972, boosts the total number of passengers so far this year to 544,702. This is a 14 per cent gain over the 476,250 reported the first six months of last year.

Last month's passengers included 95-744 on scheduled flights; 12,487 on scheduled commuters; 1,424 on non scheduled flights; and 3,301 on alternate flights.

Despite the large passenger increase, the number of flight operations was upped only 6.3 per cent over the previous June—13,033 compared to 12,266, reported Robert Hamilton, airport manager.

"This tends to indicate a better load factor for each flight," he added.

The flight operations include: air carrier, 2,904; alternates, 76; air taxi, 1,860; military, 1,203; and general aviation, 6,990.

The June flights boosts the total this year to 74,174, compared to 71,151 the same period last year.

The amount of air cargo shipped through the airport climbed last month with 503,875 pounds being handled. This compared with 335,114 pounds the previous June, for a 50.4 per cent gain.

To illustrate the increased use of the airport, Hamilton compared the June and mid-year totals with airport activity during the 1960s.

"In the first half of this year, we've seen almost as many passengers as we did during all of 1968, and the June count alone was higher than all the passenger volume of 1960, 1961 and 1962 combined," he added.

The air cargo figures for the 1960s aren't available. "But the air cargo activity has gone up an average of 32 per cent a year for the past three years," said Hamilton.

Anti-abortion group begins bracelet drive

UPLAND — Mrs. John Stanley of Pomona is chairman of the new Bracelets for Life Committee of the Pomona Valley-West End Right to Life League, an anti-abortion organization.

The bracelets, Mrs. Stanely said, are similar in concept to the POW bracelets. "They will serve a dual purpose of declaring the wearer's positive view of life and of protesting the Supreme Court decision that a fetus is not a person in the full sense," she explained.

The silver nickel alloy bracelets have black etchings of the Greek letters A and Z and a circle with spokes symbolizing the continuity of life from conception to its natural end at death.

The date of the Supreme Court decision, Jan. 22, is engraved on the bracelet. "The bracelets become a point of conversation for those who wish to defend the unborn," said Mrs. Stanley.

Those interested in obtaining bracelets may call Mrs. Stanley at 629-5763. The cost is $3.25 each. Orders also may be placed by writing the Pomona Valley-West End Right to Life League, Box 651, Upland 91786.

The league's Lifeline telephone number, where counseling may be obtained, is 985-0205.

Veteran postal workers retire

ONTARIO — Post office employes have bidden farewell Saturday to the last of the city's "old time" workers.

John Lenert, 69, last of the employes who worked at the old post office building which was located just south of the present structure, retired after 32 years of service.

Lenert, a 1922 graduate of Chaffey College, served as chief of maintenance for the post office.

Joining Lenert in retirement was Pedro S. Murillo, 62, who retired after 16 years of postal service. A former professional baseball player in the old Pacific Coast League, Murillo worked as a distribution clerk.

Light navel orange crop seen for W.E.

SAN BERNARDINO — Hot spells and a "June" drop may cause a light navel orange crop here.

"A late blossom and fruit setting period was followed by sudden hot spells, a flush of new tree growth and June drop," reported Warren Burr, assistant county agricultural commissioner.

These conditions may also affect both the valencia orange and grapefruit crops, he added.

A new growth of lemons, associated with a light bloom, is becoming evident under the influence of hot spells. "Present indications are also a short lemon crop for next season," said Burr.

Workers are now picking valencia oranges. The fruit size continues below normal. Those oranges diverted to processing are running from 35 to 50 per cent due to small sizes, wind and thrip scars, regreening and frost damage, he noted.

"Domestic sales are slow while export demand is good," said Burr. "The present estimates are now 300 field boxes per acre, with 25 per cent of the crop harvested."

Lemon picking was only slight during June as the season neared an end. By mid-summer, however, light picking is forecast when the new season begins.

Fruit from the old crop is rapidly moving out of storage as domestic shipments continue heavy. Exports, were reduced during the month.

In other crops, Burr reported leafhoppers are posing a problem to grape growers and the sweet corn harvest began July 1.

Third of Chino students taking summer classes

CHINO — More than a third of the Chino School District students are spending part of their summer vacations back in the classroom.

Officials report 3,048 students attending regular classes at nine schools, plus 521 enrolled in swimming sessions and 10 in speech therapy.

This is a 3 per cent increase over summer enrollment last year.

Chino High School has the largest attendance with 435 students, followed by Newman Elementary School with 433 and Don Antonio Lugo High School, 415.

Other schools include: E. J. Marshall School, 356; Ramona School, 338; Gird Primary School, 272; Los Serranos and Glenmeade Schools, 251; El Rancho School, 160; and Gird Elementary School, 129.

Chino Ford gets special award

CHINO — Chino Ford has been awarded the Ford Dealer Distinguished Achievement Award for 1972, the third consecutive year that it has been so honored.

Mail delivery routes may change slighty

ONTARIO — Residents here may notice a change in the delivery time of their mail and possibly a new carrier serving them.

"Every year we are required to inspect the carrier routes, and based on the statistics of each route—such as the volume of mail, time required to sort case and deliver the mail—regular routes must be adjusted to as close as eight hours daily as possible," explained Charles F. Linck, postmaster.

This is difficult to do as each carrier and each delivery route are usually different, he added. "This year, in an effort to increase mail delivery productivity, carriers are being adjusted to routes which mostly have been increased about 10 per cent."

This is in keeping with the national delivery requirements and regional budgetary demands, said Linck.

On a normal day, a carrier should be able to handle his regular route in eight hours. On heavy mail volume days, however, he will probably require assistance or overtime to complete the route.

"Residents are urged to be understanding of their mail delivery situation as carriers attempt to adjust to their new delivery areas and duties," he said.

"This adjustment, coupled with the present heat wave, makes the carrier job very difficult."

Chino Basin Water District proud of new cleaning device

CUCAMONGA — The Chino Basin Municipal Water District (CBMWD) has purchased a $60,000 sewer cleaning machine which may clean five times as much line per year at one-fourth the cost.

"With conventional equipment, a crew of four or five men normally can clean 500 to 1,000 feet of sewer line per day at an average cost of 50 to 75 cents per foot," said Andrew Schlange, CBMWD general manager.

The new "Vacto-Jet Rodder," a combination sewer cleaner and catch basin cleaning machine, will average 3,000 feet of sewer line daily at a cost of under 10 cents per foot, he added.

"The water pump in the machine creates a surging action which overcomes obstruction and blockages in the line. The nozzle is reeled back through the pipe, dislodging grit, grease, sludge, small roots and other objects.

"The vacuum portion of the equipment sucks up this debris by means of a suction pipe lowered into the manhole, and conveys it to the receiving tank, thus completing the cleaning of the sewer line and removal of the material from the system in a single operation."

The district seeks to clean 50 miles of non-reclaimable waste line and 100 miles of interceptor sanitary sewage lines every two years in its preventive maintenance program.

Friends, foes join in praising Ryan

United Press International

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Robinson has batted against all the best pitchers in both leagues over the last 15 years, including Nolan Ryan, and he says his current teammate with the California Angels rates right up there with the best of them.

"He throws as hard as anybody I've ever seen," said Robinson, the only man ever to win the Most Valuable Player award in both leagues. "His curve ball made him, not his fast ball. He threw a lot of curves out there.

"In fact," he added with a big grin, "he struck me out three times and I wasn't even playing."

Both California teammates and Detroit rivals joined in praising Ryan after the young righthander threw his second no-hitter of the season Sunday as the Angels beat the Tigers, 6-0. Ryan struck out 17 batters, the most by any pitcher in a no-hit game. He walked four batters.

No Detroit batter reached second base, every Tiger in the lineup struck out at least once, and there was only one hard-hit ball for the California fielders to handle. That came with one out in the ninth inning when Gates Brown drilled a line drive that had Detroit shortstop Rudy Meoli, only 5-9, stretching as high as he could to snare it.

"Pitching against as good a hitting team as Detroit is right now is really doing a job," Manager Bobby Winkles of California said.

"He is as good, stuffwise, as any pitcher in the game today," Winkles said.

"It's kind of hard to compare him with the greats right now," teammate Vada Pinson said, "but he's got a great future ahead of him."

Duke Sims, who struck out three times against Ryan, at first said he was "embarrassed" but thought about it and admitted there was nothing shameful in being overmatched.

"I've had no-hitters thrown against me," Sims said, "but never as overpowering as that one."

"It's a hard thing to do a nohitter," the Detroit catcher said. "A shutout is hard enough, but to throw a no-hitter with 17 or 18 punch-outs (strikeouts) . . .

"The thing is he only threw 126 pitches. Normally when you strike out as many as he did, you're going to throw 150-160 pitches," Sims said. "It's incredible."

"I wanted the no-hitter," Ryan admitted. "I'd rather have that than the strikeout record. I think, with the stuff I had, I'll get another chance at that."

Singles by Art Kusnyer and Sandy Alomar plus Pinson's sacrifice fly in the third inning kept Ryan clinging to a 1-0 lead until the Angels exploded like their pitcher's fastball for five runs in the eighth.

Until that outburst, Ryan said later, he was more worried about winning the game than anything else—and if you know Nolan Ryan you know that wasn't just talk.

But Winston Llenas and Al Gallagher each singled home two runs and Bob Oliver singled home one to pin Jim Perry with his ninth loss against nine wins.

Kusnyer's single broke an 0-for-30 slump and was his first hit since May 5 while Llenas' hit, his 11th in 27 pinch-hit tries, enabled him to establish a new club mark with 13 pinch runs batted in.

Ryan is only 11-11 this season and his earned run average only slightly below 3.00 despite the two hitless games. His other was May 15 at Kansas City, when he struck out 12 and walked three in a 3-0 win.

This time he let it be known to the 41-411 fans who showed up on Cap Day that he was superb right away. Ryan struck out 12 of the first 14 outs Detroit made.

"Either his fastball or his curve should be outlawed, they're that tough," home plate umpire Ron Luciano said after the game, and after Ryan had been mobbed by his teammates and given a standing ovation by the crowd.

Ryan, who's only 26, now has 220 strikeouts this season, more at this time of the year than any pitcher has ever had. Sandy Koufax' season record of 382 is in definite jeopardy if Ryan stays healthy.

"He doesn't need any superlatives," shortstop Ed Brinkman of Detroit said. "You just have to watch him pitch."

RYAN'S NO-HIT FORM

This is what American League hitters must face when they bat against the Angels' no-hit ace, Nolan Ryan.

McCluskey can't beat Foyt

By United Press International

Roger McCluskey could get a complex the way he keeps losing to A.J. Foyt.

On July 1, McCluskey was leading the Pocono 500 when he ran out of gas on the last lap and Foyt cruised past to win his second United States Auto Club championship race of the year.

They finished in the same order Sunday when A.J. scored a 6.3 second beat on McCluskey in a USAC stock car race at the Michigan International Speedway. Foyt averaged 134.429 miles an hour.

The second place finish ruined McCluskey's chance for a double on the day. The Tucson, Ariz., driver opened his bid for the "iron man" stunt earlier when he beat Johnny Rutherford by 24.4 seconds in the championship car half of the Twin 200 with an average speed of 161.146 miles an hour.

McCluskey, point leader in the USAC driver standings, earned $21,076 for his day's work, including a $17,250 check for the first race victory.

Mike Keyser and Bob Beasley's Porsche Carrera staged a 5½-hour battle with the Horst Kwech-Harry Theodoracopulos Capri and won the International Motor Sports Association Camel GT Challenge at Mid-Ohio when their rivals were forced into a lengthy pit stop with a broken axle shaft just 30 minutes from the finish.

The Keyser-Beasley tandem averaged 81.634 miles an hour to beat the Corvette of runnerup Ike Knupp, Allan Barker and Mike Murray. Kwech and Theodoracopulos finished third.

The team of Nick Craw and John Morton won the six-hour B.F. Goodrich Radial Challenge race on the 2.4 mile Mid-Ohio course Saturday, leading a 1-2-3 BMW finish.

Bob Sharp, driving a Datson dealer 610, beat pole sitter John McCombe's Triumph in a Sports Car Club of America production race at Pocono Raceway. In a Sunday co-feature, Sharp lost to Bob Tullius' Triumph when he gambled on using rain tires and an expected downpour did not materialize.

Heavy rain forced postponement of Sunday's scheduled National Northern 300 stock car race at the Trenton Speedway. The race was put over to Aug. 5, with defending champion Bobby Allison maintaining the pole position when the race goes off next month.

In Saturday's big overseas race, Peter Revson became only the fifth American to win a Grand Prix Formula One race when he captured the British GP in a Works McLaren-Ford. An eight-car accident on the first lap, precipitated by Jody Scheckter's tire blow out, forced Can-Am leader George Follmer out of the race.

Revson was the first American to win a GP race since Mario Andretti's victory in the 1971 South African Grand Prix.

Ryan's no-hitter was for Angels

By United Press International

Nolan Ryan really wanted a no-hitter Sunday, but not for himself, for someone else.

Corny as it sounds, he wanted it for the California Angels, and they needed one more than Nolan Ryan did.

He had pitched a no-hitter against the Kansas City Royals on May 15 and when he duplicated the feat against the Detroit Tigers Sunday, Ryan became the first pitcher in 20 years to pitch two no-hitters in the same season.

Ryan, a fireballing 26-year-old righthander from Alvin, Tex., struck out 12 of the first 14 batters he retired as the Caifornia Angels blanked the Tigers, 6-0. Ryan finished with 17 strikeouts—the most ever in a no-hit game—before a Cap Day crowd of 41,411 in Detroit. Ryan walked four batters.

The victory broke a four-game California losing streak and snapped a winning string of five games for the Tigers. It marked the second time this season that a no-hitter has been thrown against Detroit.

"I really wanted it," said Ryan, who rarely talks about himself. "The club needed it and I needed it."

The Angeles, in third place, are 4½ games behind the Oakland A's in the American League's tight Western Division scramble.

"I haven't pitched that well recently," said Ryan, who places a high premium on the club's overall success and accepts personal achievements with modesty.

"I think Nolie feels that for us to be a contender he has to have a good second half," Winkles said. "He's made up his mind he's going to have a good second half even if we don't get him any runs."

In other American League action, New York stopped Kansas City, 2-0, Oakland downed Milwaukee, 8-5, Minnesota edged Cleveland in 10 innings, 7-6, Baltimore edged Chicago, 3-2, and Boston beat Texas, 3-1 in a rain-shortened 5½ inning game.

Roy White singled home two runs in the eighth inning to back up the combined four-hit pitching of Sam McDowell and Sparky Lyle in New York's win over Kansas City. McDowell, 4-1, allowed three hits while walking seven and fanning seven. Lyle pitched the ninth to pick up his 24th save of the year.

Bill North's ninth-inning double drove in two runs and Reggie Jackson added a two-run home run as Oakland scored four runs in the ninth for a victory over Milwaukee. Dick Green and Bert Campaneris singled in the ninth. With one out, North doubled to score Green and Campaneris and with two outs, Jackson hit his 20th home run into the right field bleachers.

Danny Thompson's one-out sacrifice fly in the 10th inning scored pinch-runner Mike Adams and gave Minnesota a victory over Cleveland. Adams entered the game as a pinchrunner for Tony Oliva, who walked to lead off the 10th, and took second when George Mitterwald walked and third on a walk to Jim Holt.

Successive eighth-inning home runs by George Mitterwald, Joe Lis and Jim Holt gave the Twins a 6-5 lead but Buddy Bell singled home the tying run in the ninth. The homers erased a 5-3 lead supplied earlier in the inning on a three-run homer by George Hendrick, his 19th.

Dwight Evans cracked a solo homer in the second inning to give Boston a victory over Texas. Evans snapped a 1-1 tie with his fifth homer of the year into the left field screen with one out in the second. Rain delayed the start of the game for 2 hours and 52 minutes and showers persisted throughout the contest before it finally was called.

Baltimore erupted for three runs on four hits in the top of the sixth inning to edge Chicago. The winning rally started when Mark Belanger doubled and Al Bumbry singled Belanger home. Paul Blair walked and Tommy Davis singled to score Bumbry before Earl Williams singled home the third run.

Prep fans get more action

AZUSA — Prep football fans attending Thursday's San Gabriel Valley All-Star football game at Citrus College will get something extra.

12 more minutes of football than they're used to.

Under the rules of the All-Star game quarters will be played in the 15-minute segments that professionals operate under.

High school games normally are played in 12-minute quarters.

The extra three minutes that are tacked onto each period presents unique conditioning problems that are compounded by the gap in time between a player's last game, probably late last November or early December.

Both East and West have had to cram conditioning and practice into the last two weeks before the game — and the effects of the lay-off and lengthened playing time may have an effect on play Thursday night.

East head coach Ken Gunn thinks the playing time will, indeed, be a factor to consider.

"The 15-minute quarter gives us quite a conditioning problem," says Gunn. "It is quite different from a normal game. Three more minutes may not seem like a long time, but to those guys down on the field it is."

The timing isn't the only difference.

Each team is limited in the number of formations it can assume during the game, which will make for a pretty conventional game plan.

The reasoning behind the field rules is prevention of injury.

The purpose of the game is to showcase great players at the peak of their careers, not to curtail those careers.

West coach Dick Salter explains the effect of formation limitiation.

"We want, above all, to protect individuals. It would be a shame to have a defensive back red-dog through the line and have a leg broken.

"Another protective rule is that when you line up to punt, you must punt. Something like a tackle-eligible play has been thrown out altogether.

"We're now locked into three offensive sets. We must always line five players up, at least, on the line in order to snap the ball."

Salter is particularly concerned about injury to this year's All-Star team.

"It's been a great plasure to work with a group of kids eager to sacrifice their plans for football. It's a privilege to work for a greater charity." (Proceeds from the game go to Casa Colina hospital in Pomona.)

"Rewards in many forms have come to these players for their participation in football. This is their chance to give some back to charity."

Gunn concurs with Salter's judgment of this year's crop of All-Stars. "The one thing that has really improved is the enthusiasm. Each young man we called was really eager to play, with the exception of one who had to work. The Game has increased in stature. Students, players, and coaches all over are really looking forward to it."

Rams welcome more veterans

FULLERTON, Calif. (UPI) — Twenty-nine more veterans, headed by all-pros Merlin Olsen and Tom Mack, checked into the Los Angeles Rams' camp Sunday night.

The Rams disclosed that 10-year safetyman Jerry Logan, obtained during the off-season from the Baltimore Colts for a draft choice, had told them he was retiring.

Coach Chuck Knox said the Rams—now 84 strong—will work out in the morning and the afternoon Monday.

Olsen, the 12-year defensive tackle, and Mack, the 11-year offensive guard, are among 46 veterans in camp.

Killebrew sets knee operation

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Hermon Killebrew, the Minnesota Twins' ailing slugger, will undergo an operation on his left knee July 23 and is expected to be lost for the remainder of the season.

A Twins' spokesman said Killebrew will be operated on for a torn medial cartiledge and could be available to the Twins in six or eight weeks. He suffered the injury June 25 while batting against the Chicago White Sox.

Killebrew is batting .245 this season with three homers and 26 runs batted in.

Broken jaw KOs Shavers from fight

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI) — Heavyweight Earnie Shavers suffered a broken jaw in a workout at the Grossinger Country Club Sunday and he will be unable to fulfill a scheduled date against Jerry Quarry on July 25.

It is estimated that the fifth ranking Shavers will be out of the ring for at least six months.

The accident happened in the second round of a two-round workout with sparring partner Jeff Merritt. Shavers, of Warren, Ohio, was taken to the Community General Hospital in Liberty, N.Y., where he was found to have a fracture of both sides of the jaw after an examination by Dr. Seymour Bessen.

Bassen, who wired the jaw Sunday night, reported that Shavers had a fractured mandible with fractures on the right side of his face to the top near the temple and along the lower left hand side of the jaw.

Shavers, who has a record of 45 wins and two losses, was placed in intensive care following the operation and will remain in the hospital at least a week.

An official for Madison Square Garden said that another opponent for Quarry might be found.

Sizzling hot Dodgers spoil Cubs' party

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Midway through Sunday's game between the Dodgers and Chicago Cubs, the visitors' announcer, Jack Brickhouse, wandered through the pressbox.

"Baseball is no fun anymore," he said with a wry grin.

At that time, Brickhouse's Cubs were merely trailing 5-2. It got worse for the Chicagoans before the game ended.

What was to have been a showdown between the leaders of the National League's East and West divisions a possible preview of the playoffs turned out to be a disaster for the Cubbies.

With Claude Osteen junkballing the slump-ridden Cub hitters into submission and Dodger batters pounding Chicago ace Rick Reuschel (10-6) and his successors for nine runs on 13 hits, the ambitious young Dodgers rolled over the Cubs, 9-3, leaving the dazed and battered Chicagoans to reel out of Dodger Stadium with their East lead cut to two games over the hot St Louis Cardianls who edged San Diego 5-4.

Meanwhile, the Dodgers, rolling merrily on their way again, retained their seven game lead in the West.

In the three games, the major league-leading Dodger hitters for team average) mauled Cub hurling for 31 hits and scored 21 runs while the Cubs could manager only six.

Only some three minor injuries marred the day for the high-flying Angelenos.

Willie Davis suffered what was described as a "minor muscle spasm" in his left hamstring just after rounding first base on what still turned out to be a triple in the seventh inning. Davis hippity-hopped his way around second and safely into the third.

He's expected to be out just a "couple of games."

Bill Russell the other irreplaceable on the Dodger roster, was hit on the left elbow by a Reuschel pitch in sixth inning. Russell remained in the game and afterward said the bruise didn't bother him much.

Winning pitcher Osteen (11-5) has been bothered by an aching elbow on his pitching arm and had doubts about his durability before and during the game.

"I came to the ball park wondering what kind of stuff I'd have," he remarked as he sat in the trainer's room, his left arm immersed in ice.

"I told them (manager Walter Alston and pitching coach Red Adams) in the fifth inning that my arm was aching and I didn't know how far I could go," he revealed. "I don't know what caused it. I've had it for a couple of days. It's just kind of a tired ache."

The aching arm caused Osteen to pitch an entirely different kind of game.

"I didn't seem to have too much so I went to what I call my offspeed stuff, slow curves and changes," he continued. As a result, when I did throw a fast ball, it seemed faster than it really was."

What Osteen did have in abundance was control. Of his 108 pitches, 76 were strikes. He didn't walk anyone and struck out five.

"The last two or three innings, I had a heck of a time just throwing the first pitch," he related. "My arm really stiffto get my arm up anyway and this really threw my game off."

The middle of the Dodger batting order was most productive this sunny, cool Sunday afternoon.

Davis went 2-for-4, batted in his 55th and 56th runs, scored his63rd and 64th, and raised his average to .304.

Joe Ferguson had two singles and a walk, batted in his 51st and 52nd runs, scored his 47th and 48th, and jacked his average up to .281.

But batting honors went to Willie Crawford who smashed a wrong field home run in the third inning to account for three of the five Dodger runs i that stanza and a double in the seventh.

Willie C. brought his RBI total to 38, his runs scored to 47, and raised his average to .308.

"I had a felling I'd hit one out today," the one-time $100,000 bonus baby said. "I hit a hanging hook. I finally have learned how to think positive about this game. That's why I'm enjoying this year so much."

All of Crawford's seven homers have been hit at Dodger Stadium. "I guess," he grinned," I just like hitting in front of the home crowd."

Steve Garvey ripped two singles and batted in two runs. Garvey now is batting. 328. He has hit safely in seven of the last eight games (13-for-33. . .329).

The Cubs scored in the first on a leadoff double by Rick Monday and two infield outs. They added another in the third inning on Monday's single and a checked-swing double by Billy Williams.

The third run came in the eighth inning on Jose Cardenal's infield hit and Ron Santo's double.

The Dodgers bunched their hits to score five times on five hits in the third, once o two hits in the fifth, and three times on four hits in the seventh.

It marked the 27th time this year the club has come from behind to win.

DODGER NOTES — The Dodgers flew out of Los Angeles for Pittsburgh right after Sunday's game. They open a three-game series with the Pirates tonight.

Don Sutton, Andy Messersmith, and Tommy John will oppose Nelson Briles, Luke Walker, and Dock Ellis.

Sunday's 42,975 paid attendance brought the total for the three games with the Cubs to 145,903 and the season total to 1,300,175. The Dodgers now are only 37,668 behind their last two million-plus season, 1971.

The Dodgers played errorless ball Sunday. They have made only 69 in 94 games this season. Last year thef passed the 100 mark in miscues and had 101 in 93 games. The infield has made only 46 errors compared to 74 last year.

McCovey hits 400th HR

By United Press International

Willie McCovey's approach to "getting even" with those wonderful folks who were responsible for sitting him on the bench five days ago, seems like a good way of getting back.

He hit two home runs Sunday to become one of only 15 major league players ever to reach the 400-mark as the San Francisco Giants ripped the Pittsburgh Pirates 12-0..

"It could have been a bigger thrill. I don't feel I have to be put in the position of having to prove anything." said McCovey, who at the age of 34 this season has hit 17 homers and batted in 43 runs.

The two shots by McCovey paced a 15-hit Giant attack and gave him 17 for the season, adding to a total of 401 lifetime.

Juan Marichal pitched the Giants over the Pirates, allowing four hits to gain credit for his seventh victory in 12 decisions.

"This game certainly restored my confidence," said Marichal, "Now I feel like I'm earning my money. I didn't feel that way in the bullpen where I hardly pitched at all and wasn't helping the team."

Also Lending support were Garry Maddox and Ed Goodson with two run homers as the Giants piled up 10 hits off four Pirate hurlers.

San Francisco completed the rout with five more runs in the eighth off rookie Tom Dettore. Key hits were a two-run single by Gary Matthews, a two-run double by Mike Phillips and a run-scoring double by Bobby Bonds.

In other National League games, Los Angeles beat Chicago 9-3, Atlanta toppled Montreal 6-1, Houston blanked Philadelphia 2-0 in a rain shortened game and St. Louis edged San Diego 5-4 in 15 innings.

Willie Crawford hit a three-run homer and a double and Willie Davis added a two-run single and triple as the Dodgers whipped the Cubs to complete a three game sweep of the series between the divisional leaders.

By capturing their fifth victory in a row, the Dodgers maintained their seven-game bulge over San Francisco in the NL West. Dodgers' left-hander Claude Osteen went the distance to register his 11th victory in 16 decisions.

Ron Schueler scattered five hits in leading Atlanta to its 11th victory in 15 starts by beating the Expos. The Braves broke away with five runs on five hits and three walks in the third inning. The key hit was Johnny Oates' single that drove in Schueler and Ralph Garr.

Ross Grimsley picked up his ninth victory against five losses as the Reds topped New York. Grimsley had a perfect game until Jim Beauchamp beat out an infield single with one out in the fifth inning. He allowed only three other hits, one of them a leadoff homer in the seventh inning by Willie Mays, his fourth of the season and the 658th of his career.

Dave Roberts blanked the Phillies in a rain-snortened 5½- inning game and the Astros used RBI singles by Doug Rader and Bob Watson to beat Philadelphia. Roberts has now beaten the Phillies eight straight times.

Bernie Carbo doubled with two out in the top of the 15th inning to drive in Ken Reitz from first base with the winning run as St. Louis outlasted the Padres. The win moved the Cardinals to within two games of the first-place Cubs in the Eastern Division.

Pomona 30 sweeps series over S. Gabriel

SAN GABRIEL —Pomona Post 30 stayed in the thick of the red-hot District playoff race Sunday completing a weekend series sweep with a 7-4 romp over San Gabriel.

Greg Ballard started and went five innings allowing a scratch singles in five innings of work, one of his most impressive outings of the year.

Mark Lambert picked up Ballard and was touched up for four hits and four runs in the sixth before retiring the final seven batters he faced.

Larry Pekarcik pitched outstanding ball in his two inning stint. The righthander struck out seven batters, one reached base via a pass ball, in his best showing of the year.

The Gems scored once in he first and two runs in the second, third, and fourth frames while racking up 17 hits, giving them 33 safeties in the two games.

Jeff Corkill had three hits including a triple, Keith Thomas matched the three-hit effort, while Wil Lewallen, Roger Slayton, Greg Gallard, and Eddie Carmean added two hits each. In fact, the only starter without a hit was Bobby Chaulk. Ballard picked up two ribbies.

La Verne shows muscle

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — Confidence is a must in any endeavor. In baseball it's a necessity. Besides being good, talented and lucky the better clubs must believe they are capable of beating any other club.

La Verne Post 330 called on its strongest characteristic—confidence—Sunday afternoon and made believers out of West Covina Post 790.

The big club blasted five round-trippers while pitchers Jim Vallone and Greg Thompson checked West Covina on four hits en route to a 12-1 rout.

La Verne, now 26-11 for the season and 11-5 (including a pair forfeit wins from Glendora scheduled for next weekend), in District 18 play can now relax and enjoy its waiting role.

Covina (12-1), West Covina (10-4), Pomona (9-5), and Arcadia (8-5) are still waging the battle for the four playoff spots. Covina, who plays South Pasadena in a make-up game Tuesday and Arcadia next Saturday and Sunday, appears to have locked up the conference title and the number one seed in the district playoffs.

West Covina looks to have a berth in the playoffs, finishes up with La Puente for a pair of games. While La Verne is assured of at least a tie for the third or fourth spot, Pomona and Arcadia must win their remaining games to get the at-large spot. The Gems have the easier schedule against South Pasadena (6-6) while Arcadia plays South Pasadena for a singleton Wednesday and league-leading Covina Friday and Saturday.

Vallone (9-7) drew a few oohs and ahs from the partisan fans as the southpaw, who started yesterday's ball game in which La Verne dropped 9-7 despite a five-run ninth inning rally, got the starting nod again and hurled starting nod again and hurled seven innings of two-hit ball.

The 'golden arm', who didn't allow a hit until a fifth inning nubbey by Chuck Taylor, escape a touchy fourth frame unscathed. Vallone plunked Tony Robles with a curve and Frank Marini reached first by an error.

Following an argument with the umpire in which the lefthander felt he'd picked Marini off first, Thompson (catcher) picked Robles off second base. Bob Adams struck out and Dave Snyder grounded out to end the threat.

While Vallone displayed the poise from the rubber, Thompson and company supplied the sock.

Thompson broke a scoreless deadlock in the fifth with a grand slam home run, smashing Jim Worth's 3-1 fastball far over the left field screen (320-foot mark) scoring Rick Ortega who had doubled and Vallone and Mark Willman who had loaded the bases on back-to-back walks.

West Covina's only run came in the seventh when Adams opened with a double, advanced to third on a wild pitch and scored on a ground out by Jim Boyles.

Post 330 bounced right back with a pair of runs in the bottom of the frame when Ortega reached on an error and Mark Willman blasted a home run, his sixth of the year. It was his 25th and 26th RBI's of the season.

La Verne closed its scoring with a six-run eighth inning. Dave Alexander walked and Jim Richards singled. Al Ascosta then blasted a Worth-fastball for a three-run home run, his first of the year and giving him 18 ribbies. Ortega thrilled the fans by matching the fete with a roundtripper over the left-center field fence, his third four-bagger of the year and 16th RBI. Following Willman's double, Thompson hit his circuit clout of the game, this time a curve ball that hung, over the left-center field screen, his two round-trippers and six RBI's gives him five and 27 respectively—very respectively.

Besides Thompson's two hits, Willman collected three with Oretega garnering a pair of extra base hits.

Thompson, incidently, hurled the final two frames, allowing two harmless singles.

La Verne's confidence will have to pay off in the past season activity as it will be without the services of Mark Bumstead, who suffered a hairline fracture of a lower lumbar vertebrae in yesterday's game, and Willman who will only see weekend duty because of a job. Pitcher Brian Ranney may miss the playoffs because of a sore arm suffered from a hit pitch.

Post 330 had 14 hits to steady its .310 team batting average.

Walnut earns playoff bid

POMONA — Walnut Connie Mack assured itself of a San Gabriel Valley Connie Mack League playoff berth Sunday afternoon with a 2-1 squeaker over powerful Industry behind the superb pitching of Bobby Salas.

Claremont Connie Mack, who has but to win one of its three remaining league games to earn a playoff berth, rallied for the second day in-a-row before falling on the short end of a 6-4 non-league decision to Covina Post 207.

Montclair, who received a forefeit win from San Bernardino, blanked Chino Post 299 6-0 in a non-league encounter behind the four-hit pitching of Tim Price.

Walnut earned its playoff spot with a ninth inning run in its narrow win over powerful Industry, who dropped its third game in 17 league decisions.

Lance Parrish opened the ninth with a walk and advanced to third base on Gerard Piccioni's single to right field. Jim Vallandingham then sent the Industry shortstop deep into the whole for a grounder, who threw too late to second trying to force Piccioni while Parrish was scoring the winning run.

Parrish put Walnutsose' cnd Parrish put Walnut's second inning run on the scoreboard with a 390-foot homer to left, his fourth of the year.

Salas (4-3) mixed his pitches well, keeping Industry off balance with an excellent change and a fine curve, chaulked up 10 strikeouts and only walked two batters in going the route.

Chris Chaney, who suffered the heartbreaking defeat, is now 10-2.

Walnut plays West Covina Legion in a non-league tilt Tuesday at MSAC before concluding its league season Thursday at home against Industry.

Claremont, for the second straight day, fell to defeat despite late inning rallies, this time to Covina Legion.

The Cardinals, who yesterday scored six times in the final three frames and lost 8-7, trailed 6-0 before coming back with a run in the fifth and three tallies in the sixth.

Harry Brown (2-3) started for Claremont and allowed eight hits and six walks over the first four innings before settling down stifle Covina without a hit the rest of the way.

Dave Stanton and Gary Bach led the Cards wih two hits each. Stanton's performance included a double and two RBI's.

Jack Helber's club concludes its campaign hosting Bassett today in a 5:30 p.m. tiff at Pomona College with John Huddleston (7-5) getting the starting nod. Tuesday and Wednesday Claremont travels for a pair of games with league foe Glendora.

Claremont needs only one win in the three games to gain a post season berth.

Montclair received a shot in the arm as hurler Tim Price threw a four-hit shutout over Chino Post 299.

The righthander started off shagily, yielding back-to-back singles to Paul Brionnes and Manny Delgado before settling down to retire the next 17 batters in a row. The string was broken by Delgado's sixth inning safety.

Price ended the o ttecns Price ended the contest with 10 k's while issuing one pass in leading his club to a 20-10 overall mark.

Mortclair was given a forfeit win from the now disbanded San Bernardino club. The game was to have been a completion of a 2-2 game played June 27.

Montclair blasted out 14 hits including Mike Pittman's triple. Pittman, who is hitting at a .358 clip, added a single and an RBI to the offense.

Jim Brown, who recently returned from an injury (broken collarbone), contributed three singles and a run-batted-in as did Kevin McLean, also three hits. Brown has 14 hits in 30 at-bats since returning to the lineup.

Coach Bob Lastoski's crew can clinch a tie for the District 25 Division I Championship Tuesday night when it travels to Apple Valley for an 8 p.m. meeting. Montclair won 8-3 earlier in the season.

Hank Aaron sidelined

ATLANTA (UPI) — Hank Aaron was sidelined as the Atlanta Braves beat the Monteal Expos, 6-1, Sunday and still needs 17 more home runs to tie Babe Ruth's all-time career mark of 714.

Aaron hit the 697th homer of his career against the Expos Friday night.

Botts defeats Jacobs in PGA match play

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former tour pro Rafe Botts of Los Angeles became the first black man to capture the Southern California PGA match play championship Sunday, beating Tommy Jacobs on the 35th hole of a scheduled 36-hole match

"Winning this tournament means a lot to me," said the 36-year-old Botts. "I feel it's a major event and it's my first big win."

Jacobs, 38, the head pro at the La Costa Country club, was trying to become the first man in 23 years to take the tournament three straight times.

By winning the 49th annual event, Botts gained an exemption to the PGA national tournament at Cleveland Aug. 9-12 and all tour events in California next year.

"I'm mad at myself for playing so poorly," said Jacobs, also an ex-tour pro. "I haven't played too much under pressure this year and I just didn't do the job."

Playing in his first Southern California event, Botts built up a big lead and then withstood Jacobs' late challenge.

Down seven holes early in the afternoon round, Jacobs won the 25th, 27th, 28th, 31st and 32nd holes to slice his deficit to two with four holes remaining.

Then came a lucky bounce that blunted Jacobs' comeback.

Botts hit an iron over the 15th green—the 33rd hole — that hit a woman spectator in the head and bounced onto the putting surface. He then parred the hole to halve Jacobs.

"That was the turning point in the match,' admitted Botts.

The woman was not seriously injured.

In consolation matches, Dave Hart defeated Gerry Preuss 4-2, Eddie Merrins won over Wally Bradley 4-3 and Dennie Meyer turned back Terry Ferraro 2 up.

FLYING START — Italian skier Alessandro Casse moves down the slope after a flying start to beat his world record at 114.227 MPH on third day of international contest at Cervinia, Italy.

McKay won't scrimmage 'Stars

CHICAGO (UPI) — If any of the 1973 College All Stars can't play against the Miami Dolphins in the annual pro-collegian football contest July 27, it'll be because they get hurt "eating ice cream."

Coach John McKay doesn't plan any scrimmages for his pro rookies before game time.

"It's my theory they don't need it," he said. "If any of them are going to get hurt, let them get hurt eating ice cream."

McKay, coach of the unbeaten national champion Southern California team last fall, said his club is "as physical as the average pro team."

McKay believed too that his players have as much speed as the pros.

"We've got backs as fast as Mercury Morris," he said, "and as big as Larry Csonka. And we think we have defensive backs as fast as their receivers."

McKay said "everybody seems surprised" that he plans no scrimmages, and laughed as he added, "the pro's spent $10 million drafting these players.

"If they can't play, I think they spent a lot of money for nothing. If I got to scrimmage four hours to find out who's tough, they ought to hire me to tell them who to draft."

Regardless, he said, "We're going to play everybody and we expect them to be ready to play. We didnt bring anybody here to sit on the bench."

McKay's coaching theory is the same he used with the Trojans in that he had a minimum of scrimmages. "It worked out well," he said.

Some of his current players worked for him earlier this summer in the East-West All Star game at Lubbock, Texas, so he got an idea what they could do and they did get contact in the game.

"We have a little one-on-one and one-on-two drills," he said of the current All Stars. "They're in good shape, so we work two hours a day on the field and an hour and a half on mental drills. Mistakes are the things that lose games and we want to work to prevent them.

"This is not a proven team," he added. "The pro's are. When two All Star teams play, mistakes can even out. So if we lose this, everybody will say it's because we didn't scrimmage."

Of course the All Stars haven't beaten the pros since 1962 and every team since has scrimmaged. Until this year.

Dallas may fine Morton

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — Veteran quarterback Craig Morton, who arrived at the Dallas Cowboys training camp early but walked out in a salary dispute, faces daily fines if he doesn't report with the rest of the team's veterans tonight.

Morton, who has battled Roger Staubach for the starting position the last two years, says he wants to change some of the incentive clauses in his present contract for a higher basic salary. He said he is prepared to quit football if the team does not meet his requests.

A team spokesman said Cowboys president Tex Schramm did not talk with Morton Sunday, and that the team was not trying to trade the former University of California quarterback.

Last year's starting Dallas center, Dave Manders, also is not in camp because of a contract dispute.

Dallas rookies scrimmaged the Los Angeles Rams' rookies during the weekend.

Beman wins Robinson Open, pleased to play solid golf

ROBINSON, Ill. (UPI) — Deane Beman was happy to pick up the $25,000 first prize money in the $125,000 Shrine Robinson Open Golf Classic, but he was even more pleased that he put his game together again.

"I played very solid golf," said the 35-year-old Bethesda, Md., title winner after his victory Sunday. "I drove the ball very well and the way I am playing now you can put me on any golf course in the country and I can play it."

Beman, with rounds of 69-68-67-67, had a total of 13-underpar 271 on the par-71, 6,556-yard Crawford County Country Club course to win by one stroke over Bunky Henry and Bob Dickson, each of whom picked up $11,562.

Chuck Courtney was alone in fourth with 273 for $5,875 while Larry Hinson was fifth with a 274 and earned $5,125. A tie for sixth at 275 gave George Archer and Andy North $4,250 each.

A birdie that Beman scored on the 68th hole proved the deciding stroke and kept the tourney from going into overtime for the fifth consecutive year. The last four Classics were settled by sudden death play, a PGA record. Beman, whose last victory came in the 1972 Quad-Cities Open following a 1969 win in the Texas Open and the 1970 Milwaukee Open, gave a large share of credit in his victory to a friend, Carl Lohran, golf pro at the Glenhead North Shore Country Club in Long Island.

"He helped straighten out my game," Beman said.

First money brought the former U.S. amateur champion's career earnings to $364,067.

The $11,562 share of second place money represented a bonanza for the hard luck Henry of Valdosta, Ga., a former place kicker for Bobby Dodd at Georgia Tech.

Until recently, Henry had been without a sponsor for about three years after "going broke." He was off the tour for a month before Robinson after a 5-year-old twin son suffered a head injury in a fall off a high dive and his wife went to the hospital to have their fourth child. He had earned only $455 this year on the tour.

Henry scored three birdies and an eagle three in his final round of 66, but was proudest of saving par on the 510-yard 15th hole when he "popped one shot into some trees" and put the next one into a ditch.

Sixty-eight players finished at 284 or better for the 72 holes and 74 of the 144 who started playing last Thursday finished in the money.

Smith seeks second win

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Veteran Stan Smith, an easy winner Sunday in the Swedish International Tennis Championships, will seek his second straight victory here this week as the $60,000 U.S. Pro Tennis Championships open at the Longwood Cricket Club.

Nine matches were on the schedule for today and tonight with Smith set to join the 32-man field on Tuesday night against Jimmy Connors.

Smith easily disposed of defending champion Manuel Orantes of Spain, 6-4, 6-1, 7-6, in Baastad, Sweden, to win the Swedish title.

The 26-year-old resident of Pasadena, Calif., has now won three tournaments in Sweden during the past year. He is the top-seeded player at Longwood.

Four of the eight seeded players were scheduled to be in action today. John Alexander, seeded fourth, squares off with Jeff Borowiak, fifth-seeded Cliff Richey faces Haroon Rahim, sixth-seeded Dick Stockton meets Dick Crealy and seventh-seeded Roscoe Tanner goes against Eddie Dibbs.

No. 2 Arthur Ashe plays Harold Solomon, No. 3 Marty Riessen meets Ismael El Shafei and No. 8 Tom Gorman faces eric Van Dillen on Tuesday.

Pro football roundup

Namath just visits

By United Press International

Joe Namath stayed just long enough to get acquainted.

Namath, the New York Jets' quarterback, reported to the club's Hofstra University training site Sunday for a physical and a brief one-hour session with Ken Shipp, a new assistant coach in charge of the passing game, before leaving to fulfill some television commitments on the West Coast.

Namath, the American Conference All star quarterback last season, weighed in at 205 pounds, his normal playing weight, and passed orthopedic examinations of his tender knees.

Most of the Jet squad reported Sunday and begin two-a-day workouts today. Namath, given time off to avoid extra strain on his knees, will report next Sunday and begin workouts on Monday.

The only serious holdout expected on the Jets is running back John Riggins. Riggins, who just missed the 1,000-yard mark last season despite missing more than three games, is asking for a $150,000 contract, nearly eight times his present salary, and has said he will quit football rather than play for less.

Elsewhere on the training camp scene, the Dallas Cowboys announced that quarterback Craig Morton, who walked out of camp after a salary dispute, would be fined daily if he doesn't report with the club's veterans by Monday night.

Morton arrived at camp early and then left, also saying he'll quit if he doesn't get his price.

Dave Manders, the Cowboys' starting center, also has not reported because of salary problems.

The World Champion Miami Dolphins held their first scrimmage Sunday and Bob Griese looked in mid-season form. The talented quarterback hit 5-of-5 passes for 44 yards. Rookie wide receiver Bo Rather of Michigan caught six passes and rookie quarterback Don Strock of Virginia Tech hit 7-of-11 passes for 85 yards and a touchdown.

The Dolphins kick off the exhibition season on July 29 when they take on the College All Stars in Chicago.

The New England Patriots waived veteran tight end Tom Beer and rookies Dan Ruster, Luther Palmer, John Harrison and Homer May and the Chicago Bears announced the retirement of three veterans, guard Jim Cadile, defensive end Steve DeLong and linebacker Ross Brupbacher.

The Pittsburgh Steelers opened camp missing five rookies and Coach Chuck Noll sent the club through a mile run and timed 40-yard dashes prior to two-a-day workouts today.

Terry Beasley and Don Wesley, both wide receivers, turned in the fastest times in the 40 yard dash—4.5 seconds — as the San Francisco Forty Niners had their first day of practice. Three players, Bill Yanchar, Art Freemore and Jim Nottingham, were dropped after failing physicals.

The Los Angeles Rams said that veteran safetyman Jerry Logan, obtained in the offseason from Baltimore, is retiring. New Coach Chuck Knox welcomed 84 players to the Rams' camp.

Twenty of the league's 26 camps now are open. Only Buffalo and Kansas City in the American Conference and Atlanta, Minnesota, the New York Giants and St. Louis in the National have not opened camp.

Not official

DETROIT (UPI) — Wayne State University's first football team, the 1918 squad, went unbeaten, untied and unscored upon, but gets no official recognition in the NCAA record books because it played just four games. WSU wasn't nicknamed the Tartars at that time but did go 4-0-0 while scoring 100 points.

What energy crisis?

That's a very good question as far as Barrett Broad of Southfield, Mich., is concerned. Gas shortages won't bother anyone using his PPV (People Powered Vehicle) to get around. Pedals, of course, are the secret. Designed for fun and exercise as well as utility, the PPV, according to Barrett, is great for short trips in the neighborhood, is pollution free and best of all presents no parking problems — simply upend the 110-pound vehicle, right, and take it indoors with you.

Mom's vigil ends with a funeral

SOUTH HOLLAND, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Frances Wozniak has been praying for the return of her son for 30 years. Monday she finally had him home.

"Now he's home," Mrs. Wozniak, 81, of Dolton, Ill., told a daughter as S. Sgt. Leonard Wozniak of the Army Air Corps was buried with full military honors. "I know he's home."

Wozniak was a 20-year-old flight engineer when his B24 Liberator went down in the jungles of New Guinea during World War II. He was listed as missing in action on July 7, 1943, and the Air Force declared him dead in December, 1945.

But his mother waited and hoped that one day her son would return.

Unforunately, it was not alive. Last summer an oil company employe found the wreckage of the four-engine bomber 12 miles from a New Guinea village. In it were the remains of 10 American flyers.

One was Wozniak. His remains were returned Friday following positive identification by technicians working n Japan, a sister said.

"Mother has been praying for his return for 30 years," the sister, Mrs. Dorothy Karp of Morris, Ill., said. "Now she's content."

Traps set to snare bighorns for relocation

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — A project designed to trap big horn sheep to be transported to new homes at Zion National Park has started in the Lake Mead Recreational area.

Some of the big horn also will be marked with transistor collars and turned loose again in the Lake Mead Recreational area so their habits can be traced by transistor radios.

A spokesman for the Nevada Fish and Game Department said several big horns were trapped Monday for the Zion Park project. Ultimately, officials hope that nine ewes and three rams will be transporter to the Utah park.

A corral-type trap surrounding a waterhole at Lake Mead National Recreational area is being used in the joint trapping venture.

Participating in the project are personnel of the National Park Service, the Nevada Department of Fish and Game and the Utah Division of Wildlife Resources.

BEAUTY WINS COUNTY CONTEST

Barbara Fridel, 19, a California State Northridge coed, won the title of Miss Los Angeles County on Sunday. Barbara will have the opportunity of becoming Miss California and her state's delegate to Miss USA-Universe Beauty Pageant next May. The contest of Miss L.A. County was held in Los Angeles.

Air strikes in Cambodia prior to 1970 admitted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department acknowledged today that B52 strikes were made in Cambodia prior to 1970 despite public assertions at the time of U.S. respect for the neutrality of Cambodia.

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, in a letter to the Senate Armed Services Committee, said raids "had been conducted for some period of time and were fully authorized" before the United States publicly announced attacks in May 1970 into so-called sanctuaries areas of Cambodia near the South Vietnamese border.

"At this period of time, you will remember over one half million men were stationed in South Vietnam," Schlesinger said. "Because of the sensitive operational and diplomatic situation, special security precautions were taken to ensure that the operation would not be compromised."

Schlesinger sent the letter to the Senate panel as former Air Force Maj. Hal M. Knight testified under oath that he falsified records of B52 strikes in early 1970.

He said he acted under orders from superiors that he burn all documents, computer tapes and other materials that would expose the strikes in Cambodia.

Knight was asked if he ever questioned the procedure. "I asked who authorized this procedure," he replied. "I was told not to ask."

He said there always was a cover target with "a strike order in Vietnam" account for the actual mission in Cambodia.

The Air Force chief of staff Gen. George S. Brown, in another letter to chairman Stuart Symington, D-Mo., of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said it was not correct to characterize as falsification the security precautions pertaining to the raids.

"So long as the reports met in every detail the requirements imposed, they were not intended to deceive those with a security 'need to know'," Brown said.

"The reasons why special security precautions were directed was not a reporting issue so long as a responsible higher authority knew in fact what was done and judged it to be in accord with instructions."

Knight said 40 to 44 raids were conducted in Cambodia in early 1970 and that he doctored reports to make it appear they took place in South Vietnam.

Knight said that after a raid he was instructed "to take all the paperwork and when daylight came to go out and burn it."

Family en route home from picnic in two vehicles

NORCO — A La Verne man and his 9-year-old son are dead and two others in the family are hospitalized as the result of a traffic crash here Saturday night.

The dead are Lester S. Suvegh, 34, of 2527 College Lane, La Verne, and his son, Leslie, 9.

Seriously injured but in improved condition this morning at Corona Community Hospital are Suvegh's wife, Sandra, 33, and the couple's other son, Shawn, 7.

According to the California Highway Patrol, the accident happened when the 1966-model car Suvegh was driving was struck from the back by the station wagon Mrs. Suvegh was operating on busy Hamner Avenue.

The highway patrol said the Sueghs were returning from a picnic Saturday night. Suvegh stopped to make a left turn at Limonite Avenue. His wife, unable to stop, rammed her station wagon into the back of her husband's car, causing the engine to explode.

Both Suvegh and his son suffered fatal burns. They were taken to the Grimes Funeral Home in Norco where routine autopsies are scheduled Tuesday.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Nixon lawyer tells of Watergate ties

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Herbert W. Kalmbach, President's Nixon's personal lawyer until May 1, said today he raised money for the support of the seven original Watergate defendants on the instructions of "The No. 2 and No. 3 men on the White House staff."

Kalmbach did not identify the men but it was clear his reference was to John D. Ehrlichman and H. R. Haldeman, Nixon's two closest aides until they resigned April 30 as the Watergate scandal deepened.

Kalmbach made the statement in written testimony prepared for delivery at the Senate Watergate hearings. Kalmbach denied any personal wrongdoing.

"My actions in the period immediately following the break-in which involved the raising of funds to provide for the legal defense of the Watergate defendants and for the supptrt of their families were prompted in the belief that it was proper and necessary to discharge what I assumed to be a moral obligation that has arisen in some manner unknown to me by reason of earlier events," he said.

"The fact that I had been directed to undertake these actions by the No. 2 and No. 3 men on the White House staff made it absolutely incomprehensible to me that my actions in this regard could have been regarded in any way as improper or unethical."

Kalmbach was fired by Nixon on May 1 after it was disclosed that he had paid between $30,000 and $40,000 to Donald Segretti, the "dirty tricks" lawyer accused of attempting to sabotage Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's 1972 campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Kalmbach, 51, of Newport Beach, Calif., is believed to be a key witness in the Senate committee's attempt to determine who ordered the wiretapping of the Democratic headquarters of the Watergate and how much the President knew of the cover-up effort to conceal high White House involvement after the bugging plan went awry.

In his prepared statement, Kalmbach denied "any prior knowledge of the Watergate break-in or participation in the formulization of any planned conspiracy to cover-up that incident or acts of campaign sabotage or unethical activity."

He said he was testifying without seeking immunity from prosecution because he simply wants to tell the truth.

"It is not my purpose to testify for or against any individual," he said.

Kalmbach said he had three major responsibilities to Nixon:

—To handle personal legal matters for the President and his immediate family through Ehrlichman or John W. Dean III, official counsel to the President.

—To act as "trustee" between January 1969 and February 1972 for surplus funds left over from Nixon's 1968 campaign. Kalmbach said he disbursed these funds only on "the expressed direction of Haldeman or others with authority to tell him to."

—To solicit "early pledges of financial support for the President's 1972 campaign beginning in November, 1970." He said Maurice H. Stans, the President's chief re-election fund-raiser, directed his secretary to destroy Kalmbach's files on that activity, but those which survived have been turned over to the Senate committee.

Situation grave in Cambodia; draft possible

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — U.S. warplanes struck within seven miles of Phnom Penh today in an effort to help repel a growing Communist threat to the capital. With the military situation deteriorating, the government was reported considering its first draft.

Ground fighting mixed with heavy American bombing was reported throughout Cambodia today, with heavy government losses reported in recent days in fighting directly south of Phnom Penh. Fighting was reported on all sides of Phnom Penh and Gen. Un Kau, said "the situation is very grave."

Informed sources close to the ruling High Political Council said the government was seriously weighing institution of a military draft to bolster the army. Cambodia has no draft now and must depend on volunteers.

The High Command reported fighting in the northern, western and southern sections of the country.

Authoritative military sources said that in fighting along Route 2, about 12 miles from Phnom Penh, the crack 2nd Division lost eight killed and 75 wounded during the weekend.

American bombing continued in support of government forces as they tried to maintain the capital's defense perimeter which now lies within 12 miles of Phnom Penh. The bombing seven miles from the city was the closest raids since last April.

Sources close to the High Political Council said the proposed draft would require all men between the ages of 18 and 35 to enter the armed forces, with the exception of those in official government positions and those employed in essential private jobs.

President spends restful night; chest pains dwindle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon spent a restful night and the chest pains caused by his bout with pneumonia are now down to a minimum, his doctor reported today.

Nixon awoke at 8 a. m. after a good night's sleep, Dr. Walter Tkach said. The President was given four chest therapy treatments Sunday.

The treatment resulted in "considerable improvement in his chest congestion and chest discomfort is now at a minimum," Tkach said in his morning medical bulletin.

The therapy did cause the President to experience some fatigue to the point where he was given mild pain killers for relief, Tkach said.

In general, Nixon had a good day on Sunday. He had a hearty dinner of soul food, served about 6:15 p. m.

The President retired after his last chest therapy about 9 p. m. and slept soundly throughout most of the night, Tkach said. This sharply contrasted with his first night at the hospital Thursday when he had a fitful four hours sleep.

The chest inhalation exercise was administered by Sue A. Williams, pulmonary nurse specialist assigned to the hospital's chest clinic.

The therapy lasts 15 to 20 minutes. Afterwards, the President sits in a chair beside his bed where he is instructed to breathe deeply and cough. This is intended to help clear out congestion.

Tkach said Sunday there is no question that Nixon has viral pneumonia, as opposed to more serious bacterial type, and said the President is at about the halfway point of his recovery.

The President is expected to remain at Bethesda Naval Hospital until late this week. Tkach would prefer he spent even more time there or at least go to one of his retreats — San Clemente, Calif., preferably — for several days more of recuperation.

Woman killed in freeway accident

CHINO — A Los Angeles woman suffered fatal injuries when her car unaccountably skidded off the Pomona Freeway at the Mountain Avenue overpass at 4:20 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Maria Alice Bounds, 25, of 2529½ S. Orange Drive, died at San Antonio Community Hospital some three hours after the accident.

The victim's 2-year-old son, Asa Kirk was treated at the hospital for minor injuries.

Witnesses told California Highway Patrol officers that Mrs. Bounds was eastbound when her small foreign car suddenly skidded off the freeway, overturned on the embankment and came to rest on its wheels.

2-car collision injures 9 persons

CHINO — Nine persons, including six members of a San Bernardino family, were injured in a two-car collision at Euclid Avenue and Riverside Drive Sunday night.

The drivers were Henry G. Flores, 19, of 329 E. Park St., Ontario, and Donald E. Robles, 43, of San Bernardino.

The injured were the two drivers, and five other members of the Robles family—Virginia, 42, Donelia, 19, Monica, 14, Donald Jr., 10, and Dominique, 9. Another passenger in the Robles car, Norma Romera, 13, of San Bernardino, and Flores' passenger, Samuel Flores, 16, of the same address, were also hurt.

All were treated at Chino General Hospital and released with the exception of Donelia Robles, who was transferred to Kaiser Hospital in good condition.

Telephone cables in San Dimas cut

Numerous Pomona Valley residents had their telephone service disrupted this morning when three major phone cables in San Dimas were intentionally cut.

General Telephone reported that one 100-pair trunk cable (which routes calls between two switching offices) and two local exchange cables at Eucla and Bonita avenues were severed between midnight and 2 a.m.

The cutting of the cables caused some delays for customers calling the La Puente, Covina and Baldwin Park areas. It also caused some inconveniences to certain customers with foreign exchange and extended area lines.

Officials of the utility are unsure as to why the cables were cut but reported that construction crews and a rapid restoration van will be on the scene of the cut until about 10 tonight when normal service is expected to be restored.

Two burned in plane crash; arms cache discovered aboard

UPLAND — Two former prison inmates were listed in critical condition today at San Bernardino County Hospital with burns and other injuries sustained in the crash of a stolen twin-engine airplane loaded with a cache of firearms Sunday morning near Cable Airport.

The crash was reported about 7:13 a.m. when the Cessna Skymaster aircraft owned by Upland physician Samuel Kaufman went down about 100 yards west of the runway near Padua Avenue. Police said the plane had been stolen minutes before from a hangar at Cable Airport.

Critically injured in the crash were Rodney Lee Crane, 25, and Michael George Perry, 25, both of Norwalk. Crane, according to doctors at San Bernardino County Hospital, is suffering from severe burns over 65 per cent of his body, and Perry is suffering from burns and a broken back.

Police said they found the remains of two high caliber rifles, two shotguns, and three handguns, along with a quantity of ammunition inside the burned out aircraft.

Capt. Howard Seay of the Upland Police Department said this morning that it appeared the two men, both former prison inmates, apparently stole the aircraft. "We still don't know what the two men planned to do, but we found a large quantity of dehydrated food, survival gear and camping equipment inside the aircraft along with the weapons and ammunition."

Seay said that Perry, a licensed single engine aircraft pilot, spent time in prison for burglary and escape and was awaiting a hearing on parole violation. Crane has spent time in prison for assault with a deadly weapon and was free on probation. Crane was released from the California Institution for Men in Chino in 1972, Seay said.

Witnesses at Cable Airport said the twin-engine plane took off from the airport with only one engine operating. The non-operative rear engine was creating a drag on the aircraft.

Police said witnesses told them the plane managed to get airborne near the end of the runway, but began dropping. The aircraft struck a barbed wire fence, spun around and burned.

One of the first witnesses at the scene told police that he and a friend saw the plane go down and jumped in their car to go to the pilot's assistance. The witness said that they saw two men walking away from the burning airplane and asked them if they could help. The witness said the two men told them they didn't want an ambulance, only wanted a ride.

Police said the two men continued walking south to Foothill Boulevard and flagged down a Forestry Service employe who drove them to the San Dimas Forest Service substation. From there forestry service officers called for an ambulance and the police. The two men were taken to the county hospital in San Bernardino, both lapsing into unconsciousness en route.

Police were unable to talk to the two men due to their injuries.

Upland firemen responding to the scene of the crash reported that the plane was engulfed in flames and that ammunition was "cooking off" or firing from the heat. Before the fire could be contained the plane was destroyed.

Only the hulk of the two engines and the aircraft's twin tail section remained.

After Federal Aviation Administration officials arrived, police removed the charred remains of the weapons. What was left of the aircraft was placed on a truck and moved to a storage yard at the Upland airport.

Rare coins worth $35,000 stolen

UPLAND — Upland police this morning were searching for two robbers who broke into a home at 1693 N. Euclid Ave. Sunday night, tied up the owner and stole a rare antique coin collection valued at $35,000 and $500 in cash.

Police said the robbery was reported about 4:42 by George TeVelde. TeVelde told police that the robbers entered his home, armed with pistols, and ordered him to open his safe that contained the rare coin collection and $500 in cash. The robbers took the coins and tied TeVelde up. TeVelde managed to free himself about four hours later and called police.

Police said one of the robbers was about 6 feet, 180 to 185 pounds, wearing a blue knit ski cap with holes for the eyes nose and mouth. The robber was wearing a blue striped short sleeved shirt and faded blue pants.

TeVelde told police that he heard the second robber, but never saw him. Police believed both men to be Caucasians.

HEY! WHAT'S HOPPENING?

This young man has a hoppin' big problem trying to nab his elusive frog after it registered its jump in the annual Yutan Jumpin' Frog Rodeo, held in Yutan, Nebraska, on Sunday. A field of some 300 frogs competed before an estimated 500 spectators. Frogs came to Nebraska from six different states.

Phase IV to serve as guide, not freeze

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Within a matter of days, American consumers and businessmen will be governed by a new set of economic rules: Phase IV of President Nixon's economic game-plan.

Barring some unexpected complication, such as a worsening of the Presidents illness, the latest attempt to stabilize the nation's explosive economy will be announced sometime this week.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon approved some parts of the program from his hospital bed Saturday and will make more decisions today.

The actual announcement probably will be made by Nixon's top economic advisers: Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, Cost of Living Council (COLC) Director John T. Dunlop and Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

The President's action will come on the heels of a price freeze that has been in effect since June 13.

The freeze barred firms from hiking prices above the level they were charging on June 13, no matter how much their costs have increased in the meantime. In Phase IV, however, prices will be allowed to rise by an amount yet undetermined.

Companies might be allowed to pass through their cost increases, or a fraction of that amount, in the form of higher prices. Or the administration could set a flat guideline, such as the 2.5 per cent that existed during 1972 under Phase II.

Wages, not covered under the current freeze, also will be restricted during Phase IV, probably to the 6.2 per cent wage and fringe benefit annual increase allowed during Phase II.

The exact shape of Phase IV is still a mystery. But Nixon indicated its principal goals and framework when he announced the price freeze.

The new program will be generally tougher than Phase III, which relied on corporate good will to keep price increases within a set of voluntary guidelines. Nixon said the food and oil industry will be singled out for special treatment since the cost of groceries and gasoline has provided most of the push in the latest round of inflation.

Big companies will be required to clear price increases in advance with the COLC. And stabilization officials have indicated they will be strict on allowing firms to boost prices to reflect higher costs.

One of the biggest problems for the Nixon economic strategists is whether to make the rules simple or complex.

Arnold R. Weber, the first COLC director, has argued that a set of easy-to-understand rules, highly publicized, is the best way to win popular support for the controls. Public opinion polls, which show inflation as the No. 1 worry of the American consumer, also indicate that widespread backing for controls is a commodity that is sadly lacking.

But many administration officials, especially Dunlop, plus organized labor, are dead set against a single set of price and pay standards. Dunlop argues that guidelines inhibit collective bargaining and encourages the press to grade every contract "pass" or "fail" depending on whether it meets the wage standard, while ignoring other important issues.

The duration of Phase IV is another unanswered question.

There have been recent hints that the new wage-price controls won't last long.

The 10-member Labor Management Advisory Committee, an outside group that carries great weight in the administration, said last week that "all wage and price controls should be eliminated as soon as possible this year..."

And Shultz, nixon's chief economic adviser, is a longtime foe of controls.

Plan to develop Russ resources

Japan, U.S. near pact in Siberian oil venture

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan and the United States appeared close to an agreement today to work together on investment in developing the oil and natural gas resources of Soviet Siberia.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers gave his blessing to the idea in a speech at the ninth meeting of the U.S.-Japan Joint Economic Committee today.

Discussing measures to be taken by oil importing nations, Rogers listed "the expansion of supply through joint projects between Japanese and American firms aimed at the development of new energy resources in Siberia and elsewhere."

"While the United States cannot direct the investment decisions of our private firms," Rogers said, "we stand ready to encourage them to consider the possibility of common ventures with Japanese firms."

The Soviet Union for almost a decade has been seeking a loan of $1 billion from Japan for construction of a 4,850-mile pipeline from the Tyumen oil fields in the Urals to Nakhodka harbor on the Siberian Pacific Coast.

Under the Soviet proposal, Japan would take its repayment in crude oil starting in about 1980, after the pipeline is completed. Serious negotiations between the two countries have been under way since early 1972.

Japanese government sources said today that Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka has decided that the project would be too much for Japan to handle alone. Tanaka, who is scheduled to visit Moscow in October, will present the idea of joint Japanese-American venture to the Soviet government.

Informed Japanese government sources told UPI that behind Tanaka's decision lies a fear that the Soviet Union would not hesitate to use the oil deal for diplomatic bullying of Japan.

Going it alone, the Japanese would have to sink their $1 billion in a pipeline whose cutoff values were in Soviet hands. There was a fear in the Japanese government that Moscow might not hesitate to threaten Japan with an oil cutoff, but would hesitate to take such a step against the United States.

For that reason the Japanese have concluded that if they go into the Siberian oil venture, they want America as a partner.

Countdown rolling smoothly toward record skylab trip

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — The countdown rolled along smoothly today toward the July 28 launch of three more Skylab space explorers who plan to man the orbiting station for a record 56 days.

The count was kicked off on schedule at 11 p.m. EDT Sunday, 12 days before astronauts Alan L. Bean, Jack R. Lousma and Owen K. Garriott plan to ride an Apollo command module up to the lab for another scientific research journey.

The first hurdle in the countdown is a practice launch at 7:08 a.m. EDT Friday. The countdown clock will then be turned back to T-47 hours and started again two days before the real launch of the space crew by a Saturn 1B rocket.

Launch officials will spend most of today running tests of the command module and rocket systems to make sure they will function properly on launch day.

The Skylab 2 countdown is the first time the dress rehearsal has been combined with a real launch.

Officials said they adopted the new countdown schedule because of the proven reliability of the Saturn launchers, the rockets that almost flawlessly boosted men toward the moon. The astronauts won't take part in the dress rehearsal for the first time, too, because of the Saturn 1B's good record.

Garriott, a civilian, is the first physicist-astronaut and his expertise is expected to add knowledge about the sun and about man coping with weightless space for long periods.

The astronauts will also be continuing research begun in the 28-day Skylab manned mission about how the body reacts to prolonged space voyages, and what can be learned about the earth's natural resources from orbit.

Bean, Garriott and Lousma passed their next-to-last major medical examinations last week, and are continuing training in semiquarantine, to keep them from getting sick, at the Johnson Space Center in Houston.

Two brothers beaten severely; suspect booked

POMONA — Two Pomona brothers were beaten severely late Sunday night, apparently the result of a fight the younger brother was involved in the night before.

Most seriously injured was Robert Zamore, 19, who had injuries to his head and back. He was treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital and trasferred to County-USC Medical Center. His condition today was termed serious.

Less seriously hurt was 17-year-old Joe Alfred Zamore. He had head and upper torso injuries and was released after treatment at the local hospital.

The trouble was in the 900 block of W. Mission Boulevard. Police arriving there said they saw several young men flee and found the older Zamore brother sitting on a curb, covered with blood. The other brother was nearby, also bloody. The area was littered with broken bottles, pieces of window glass apparently used as weapons, and pieces of pottery, also used as weapons. Officers said the brothers had been cut and hit on the head with blunt objects.

Getty prepares to pay ransom for grandson

ROME (UPI) — Oil billionaire J. Paul Getty was reported ready today to pay ransom for the return of his namesake hippie grandson, missing since last week and the object of a "serious" police search.

"He is very worried about this matter and showed the greatest interest in the search," said the youth's mother, Mrs. Gail Getty, who said she spoke with Getty by telephone.

The missing youth, J. Paul Getty III, 17, was reported missing last week by his mother.

Mrs. Getty, who is divorced from the youth's father, J. Paul Getty Jr., said she received a telephone call last Thursday saying her son had been kidnaped and telling her to get money together for a ransom.

Police said young Getty was seen talking with three unidentified youths in Piazza Navona, a favorite meeting place for Roman hippies, just before he disappeared early Tuesday.

The young freckled-faced Getty neither slept nor ate regularly at his mother's home, but stayed with friends who included artists, hippies and young foreign actresses.

Martine and Jutia Zacher, 24year-old German twins in whose apartment Getty was staying at the time of his disappearance, told police they noticed three "suspicious-looking" men who seemed to be following the youth in a dark car.

Singer held in slaying of husband, 2 children

MIAMI (UPI) — Detectives said they would seek three murder warrants today against opera singer Salwa Merrige-Abrams on charges of killing her ex-husband and two children.

Mrs. Merrige-Abrams took a handfull of pills after the Saturday murders, police said, and was rushed to the hospital in serious condition. Doctors said her condition was "stable" Sunday.

The slayings were discovered Saturday afternoon just one day after Mrs. Merrige-Abrams ended 19 years of marriage by picking up the final circuit court papers.

Miss Phyllis Arick, a singer and Mrs. Merrige-Abrams' closest friend, said she visited the coprano's home Friday just after the divorce papers were signed and "everything seemed fine."

But Miss Arick said, "She seemed upset, sure, but anybody who goes through anything like that would be upset. I just don't understand it, I really don't."

A sheriff's deputy, after receiving a call from a friend who said Mrs. Merrige-Abrams "sounded strange" on the phone, found the performer unconscious on the dining room floor. A note was left, but police would not reveal its contents.

Found shot to death in his bedroom was Jack Abrams, 14. Mrs. Abrams' husband, airline pilot James Abrams, 45, was found in another room. Their 10-year-old daughter Melisa Ann Abrams was found dead on the living room floor.

The couple had been separated for about a year, with Abrams stopping by Saturday to take the children on an outing.

Mrs. Merrige-Abrams was featured with many national companies and performed in the South Floriad area for almost 10 years. She sang mainly with the Miami Beach Symphany, the Miami Opera Guild, and the Civic Opera of the Palm Beaches.

She gave up numerous opportunities for an international career.

Bernard Breeskin, conductor of the Miami Beach Symphony, called her "one of the best mezzo sopranos in the country.

"I tried to encourage her to join larger opera companies, but she wanted to stay down here and raise her family."

8 congressmen returning home

U.S. delegates call tour of China 'tremendous'

SHANGHAI, China (UPI) — The largest American congressional delegation ever to visit China left for home today after a two-week tour that took them to six Chinese cities.

Each of the eight congressmen said the trip was highly successful and should help speed up development of Sino-American relations.

The group left shortly after 10 a.m. local time aboard a special U.S. Air Force jet, en route to Seattle with a refueling stop scheduled in Yokota Air Force Base in Japan.

"There can be no doubt that this trip has been a tremendous success," said Sen. Warren E. Magnuson, D-Wash., leader of the delegation of four senators and four representatives.

"You will see that it will bear fruit in the not too distant future. I am sure of that," Magnuson said. "We are determined that our relations with the People's Republic of China should be improved and expanded as rapidly as possible.

"I believe that most of us in Congress feel this way, not only the members on this trip but those who have come before us and those who are anxious to follow."

Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the House Foreign Relations Committee and deputy leader of the delegation, agreed with Magnuson.

"I think this trip has just been tremendous," Morgan said. "It has helped give us a feel of China that is going to be very important in the future as we deal with issues that involve the interests of China and the United Sates."

The group also included Sens. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., and Gale W. McGee, D-Wyo., and Reps. John J. McFall, D-Calif., William S. Mailliard, R-Calif., and Jerry L. Pettis, R-Calif.

The delegation and the crew of the plane returning them to the United states were guests at a banquet on the eve of their departure, hosted by Wang Yiping, vice chairman of the Shanghai Revolutionary Committee.

In a toast to the group, Wang expressed hope that the visit to China would be "conducive to improvement of Sino-American relations and to mutual understanding between the peoples of China and the United States."

Responding to the toast, Magnuson said, "I think I speak for all of us when I say we are going away with deep feelings of respect nad admiin a small way. I don't know how your people and for what you are trying to do for your country, particularly in your reconstruction efforts. And I underline the word respect.

"We talk about improving relations often but I think we truly have done so in a small way. I don't know how you people feel about it but I want you to know that we feel we have added a chapter to China-United States relations. I think you all will agree with me."

The delegation spent the last day in China—Sunday—visiting an industrial exhibition and children's palace in the morning and shopping in the afternoon.

Sinatra's yacht ruined in fire

AVALON, Calif. (UPI) — Frank Sinatra's $250,000 yacht caught fire at sea during the weekend and the Coast Guard said the boat was "a total loss."

Sinatra was not aboard the boat, the 85-foot Christina, when flames broke out in the port engine off Catalina Island Saturday. Four members of the Irving Weiss family, friends of the singer, were using the yacht. They and two crewmen took to a lifeboat and were picked up by the Coast Guard. The boat, which burned for four hours, was towed into harbor here.

Police still hunt gunman

GLENDORA — Police are still trying to find a gunman believed wounded in an exchange of shots with officers following a $6,000 market robbery here Thursday night.

The robbery, at the Mayflower Market, 940 S. Grand Ave., was staged by two men shortly after closing time. One fired at a Glendora officer responding to a silent alarm. More shots were fired as police pursued the pair in a high-speed chase which ended when the getaway car was abandoned. It was at that point that one suspect was arrested and the robber being sought was believed to have been wounded by a shotgun blast.

Police recovered about $1,000 which was abandoned during the chase. Still missing was the balance, about $5,000.

W. Covina man shot in stomach; 3 held

WEST COVINA — A 24-year-old man was wounded critically early today when he was shot in the abdomen at 650 E. Alwood St., police reported.

The victim, Steven Holder, 625 Matchwood Place, Azusa, was admitted to the intensive care unit at Covina Inter-Community Hospital.

Police this morning said details of the shooting were lacking but reported that three persons were arrested in connection with the incident. They were booked on suspicion of assault with intent to commit murder. The shooting occurred shortly after 1 a.m.

The sheriff's department was used to rush six pints of uncommon-type blood to the Covina hospital from two other hospitals to aid in Holder's treatment.

A sheriff's helicopter picked up four pints at the UCLA Medical Center and flew it to Covina. And a radio car from the Altadena station picked up two pints at Huntington Memorial Hospital, Pasadena, and took it to the interchange of the 605 and 210 freeways where a car from the Industry station received it and transported it the rest of the way. The blood, type O-negative, was described as uncommon but not rare.

Stolen cups for 40 years

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It was a heavy package of paper cups. Heavy on the conscience at least.

L.C. Jones, director of city street maintenance, received a check for $1 recently, with a letter from a former employe, saying it was to pay "for the cups. They have been on my conscience. I want to be clear before God."

It turned out, Jones said, that the man had taken a package of paper cups from a city office more than 40 years ago. He would not disclose the employe's name.

Fireman pact going to City Council

POMONA — A tentative agreement on salary increases and other benefits reached between the 124-member Pomona Fireman's Association and the city's chief negotiator, Sidney Simms, will be submitted to the City Council for approval tonight.

The firemen's group will become the second city association to settle on salary negotiation this year.

The council earlier approved an agreement with the largest of the three municipal worker associations, the Pomona City Employes' Association. No agreement has yet been reached with the third, the Pomona Police Officers' Relief Association.

Vernon Johnson, president of the firemen's association, said a memorandum of understanding was signed Friday following a general membership meeting. The association was represented by attorney Richard C. Mallery.

Johnson said the tentative agreement calls for a 5 per cent cost-of-living increase effective tonight, a family dental plan yet to be spelled out and other minor benefits.

Park bond election plans come to head

LA VERNE — The City Council is expected to throw the switch tonight that will start the machine rolling toward a $1 million parks and recreation bond issue which will culminate in a special election next Oct. 16.

The size of the bond issue has tentatively been set at $972,000, but that may be changed tonight, depending on whether the council agrees to buy 160 acres of open space as urged by the Commission on Environmental Quality as part of the package.

Such a combination is opposed by the Parks and Recreation Commission which contends that the joint package would raise the size of the bond issue too high.

The council must adopt a working schedule toward the bond election by tonight to make sure it does not run out of time.

Tonight's agenda also calls for two resolutions in connection with the proposed bond issue: one declares the need for enlarging and improving three existing parks—Kuns, Pelota and Las Flores— and the other asks for the services of the county registrar of voters in connection with the special election.

In an unrelated matter, the council has set a public hearing for 8 p.m. to hear a request from McDay Estates for a zone change from commercial to multiple residential so that a mobile home park can be constructed on the south side of Foothill Boulevard between Moreno and Damien avenues.

3 guilty in CIM stabbing

ONTARIO — A West Valley Superior Court jury has found three California Institution for Men inmates guilty of stabbing two fellow inmates during a fight at CIM's Southern Reception-Guidance Center Dec. 15, 1972.

The jury delivering its verdict after a two week trial found inmates Augustine Elias, Joseph Henry Ortiz, and Frank Joseph Ruiz, guilty of assault with a deadly weapon on two brothers, Santos and Ernest Aranda.

Superior Court Judge Henry M. Busch set sentencing for the three inmates in the middle of August.

Contract negotiations with 'Big 3'

Auto unions begin talks

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — Auto contract negotiations beginning today between the United Auto Workers and the "Big Three" auto companies cover more than 700,000 auto workers and indirectly affect one in every six American workers.

After the largely ceremonial handshaking at General Motors today, Ford Tuesday and Chrysler Wednesday, bargainers for the union and auto companies will try to hammer out an agreement before current three-year pacts expire at 11:59 p.m., Sept. 14.

No Strike Seen

The continuing government control on wages and prices has eliminated much of the strike atomosphere that surrounded contract talks in 1970. Those did not end until after the union had closed GM with a crippling 67-day strike.

Coming into today's talks, UAW President Leonard Woodcock has said there is no need for a strike this year. Auto industry negotiators agree, but admit there could be one if the union remains as adamant in the talks as it has been in public on one key non-economic issue—voluntary overtime.

Woodcock has warned of a possible walkout over thati ssue, saying negotiators should not take an "over - our - dead body" stand on voluntary overtime.

Guide to Continue

Negotiators are almost certain Phase III wage guidelines calling for wage and fringe benefit increases not to exceed 6.2 per cent will be continued. That guideline has been flexible with most settlements this year in the 6-to-7 per cent range.

The key issues outline in six months of saber rattling on both sides include:

—Voluntary overtime. The union wants each worker to have the right to refuse to work overtime.

—Improvement in the "30-and-out" retirement program with the pension increasing to $650 per month with no penalty for retirement before age 56.

—Company-paid dental care.

—Improvement in the cost-of living clause to more accurately reflect price rises.

—Strengthened layoff benefits.

—In-plant health and safety programs jointly administered by the union and companies.

38 states

Should there be a repeat of 1967 negotiations, when Ford was closed for 66 days, or 1970 talks which ended only after the crippling GM strike, nearly every community in the country would be affected by the strike.

The industry is spread over 35 states — a total of 532 facilities located in 243 cities. One of every four retail sales dollars is for an automotive related purchase.

A slowdown or strike in the auto industry may mean a layoff for rubber workers in Akron, a reduction in the work force of steel mills in Pittsburgh and reduced markets for the fabric mills of the Carolinas.

It can mean economic disaster for cities with major auto plants or the hundreds of small towns whose main industries center in supplying vehicle makers with components.

The 1974 Mustang II will contain parts supplied by some 500 firms stretching from New Hampshire to California. Any slowdown in Ford production could seriously affect their economic well-being.

First detonation—28 years ago

Atom bomb test site quiet, calm

TRINITY SITE, N.M. (UPI) — The 28th anniversary of the detonation of the first atomic bomb—an event which scientists said would "change the whole course of human history" — passes almost unnoticed today.

Trinity Site, located deep in the southern New Mexico desert near Alamogordo, holds little evidence of the July 16, 1945, event that sent the world into the nuclear age.

Bunkers and buildings built for the test of the atomic bomb have crumbled into the desert. Ground Zero is now only a shallow depression in the desert floor.

Tiny pieces of "tinitite," sand melted into a greenish-colored glass by the explosion's heat, still can be found around the area.

Surrounding a stone monument at the point the bomb impacted is a fence that holds a weathered sign reading simply: "Trinity Site."

On the monument is a plaque that reads: —

"Trinity Site, where the world's first nuclear device was exploded on July 16, 1945."

The bomb was dropped from a 100-foot steel tower at 5:30 a.m. and, at the moment of impact, a light brighter than the midday sun covered the surrounding mountains.

Then came the shock wave that rippled the earth 30 miles away. It was followed by a deafening roar. The blast was seen hundreds of miles away.

Three weeks later, on Aug. 6, the second atom bomb was dropped on Hiroshima. Three days after that the third fell on Nagasaki.

Man's destiny had been set on a new course.

Dr. John Manley recalled the project. "We knew what we were working on," he said. "We knew the bomb was going to change the whole course of human history.

"The intensity of the flash was enormous. It is something you don't forget."

Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, who headed the project and died in 1967, said that at the moment of detonation he remembered an ancient Hindu quotation: "I am become death, the destroyer of worlds."

Test Director Kenneth Bainbridge told Oppenheimer: "Now we're all sons of bitches."

Tennis court backboards to be studied

CLAREMONT — Tennis court backboards at Cahuilla Park and a master plan proposal by Lampman and Associates for Sycamore Canyon Higginbotham Park will be considered by the Parks and Recreation Commission at the City Council chambers tonight at 7:30.

City Recreation Supt. Ron Hagan reported that the subject of whether to provide backboards at the new courts at Cahuilla Park has been "somewhat controversial" among tennis players.

Hagan said that the Claremont High School physical education department teachers would like to have the backboards installed as teaching aids, but city instructors feel the backboards might do more harm than good.

Hagan has recommended against the backboards, and suggested that the school district be contacted as to possible development of combination tennis backboards and handball courts directly south of the high school courts.

Warren Turner and Dick Malcolm of Lampman and Associates will present a master plan proposal for Sycamore Canyon Higginbotham Park.

The commission also will receive a request for city funds from Nature Nearby to pay a man to clear the brush and improve the trail in Sycamore Canyon.

OLD PAL — Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Van Brunt not only named their Volkswagen Klaus, but after it had traveled 175,000 miles, rather than scrap it, they had it made into a 700-pound coffee table. They bought the car for $375 in 1968 and the vehicle gave them dependable service until it was stolen and stripped of its engine. They had the auto compressed and gave it a place of honor in their living room.

Fingerprints bring criminals to justice

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Detective story writers attention: Fingerprint experts speculate that if anyone can commit the perfect crime, it's likely to be a pineapple cannery worker with a little larceny in his heart.

It's a fact that pineapple acids have a strange way of grinding down the fingertips, thus eliminating those messy clues at the scene of the crime.

And the fictional criminal naturally goes with shoes and gloves, because nowadays the science of dactylography — make a strong case in court with prints from the sole of a foot or the palm of a hand.

Take a close look at your hand for the reason why.

Veteran police fingerprint expert Earl W. Howe says the distinctive pattern of arches, loops and whorls at the tip of each of our fingers marks each person as an individual, giving him an "infallible" means of identification.

"A person's age, weight and height may change, and he may undergo illness or an accident," says Howe, "But his fingerprints never change, and they can't be successfully altered," Not permanently, that is.

Professional typists, and men who work around strong acids, abrasives or pottery wheels do find their fingers smoothing down, but their mysteriously curved prints never disappear forever.

That goes for pineapple packers, too.

Many a notorious fugitive has paid dearly in pain and money for crude surgical attempts to alter his prints, and all to no avail. Authorities easily caught up with one criminal who paid a fortune to have his fingers grafted to his chest, only to find his true prints emerged when the fingers were freed.

Gangster John Dillinger underwent surgery to alter his prints while on the run in 1934. Yet after he was killed by federal agents they found his new prints compared in 300 ways with the old prints.

And only a dozen prints are necessary to establish positive criminal identification.

Howe says the Los Angeles police Department has 1.5 million sets of fingerprints on file (the FBI boasts more than 196 million) and the police expert says the odds of finding two sets exactly alike are "about one in a billion trillion."

Howe says in 37 years of police investigations he's not seen one duplication.

Twelve centuries of human history have shown that thumbprints and fingerprints have been used to identify clay seals in China and various preChristian and Palestinian art objects. It wasn't until the late 19th Century that men began toying with the notion of using the "latent print" as a means of criminal identification.

Latent prints, impressions left by body oils and perspiration on any surface, are brought up ... or "lifted" as they say in the world of Mickey Spillane ... by adhesive tape.

Howe, who's been teaching dactyloscopy for 20 of his 59 years, says the fingerprint science needs a better classification system —using one, three or five fingers —and "we've got to devise a practical means of coding fingerprints for computer storage and retrieval."

Societies long ago dealt with criminals in a barbarous fashion, identifying them with tattoos or by brading them or gouging their eye. By 1870 the French had established an enormous archive of criminal photographs they delighted in calling their "rogue's gallery."

But crime marches on, and quickly the encyclopedia of criminal "mugshots" was outmoded. It fell to a Scottish missionary to suggest that fingerprints might radically change the system of catching thieves.

The idea caught on slowly and by 1903 New York had the country's first practical system of fingerprints.

In California stores are now introducing a new "touch-and-go" system of fingerprinting to cut down on the number of bogus checks. The device permanently records the customers' print on the flip side of his check.

Merchants say the system has already cut fraud and forgery losses more than 30 per cent.

Overcrowding in the garage

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

Take a dozen or two of cardboard boxes stuffed with a variety of items, several crates of magazines and old books, a small mountain of patio furniture and camping equipment, some old trunks, boxes of bottles—and what do you have?

You have "the other side" of your two-car garage.

Many American families today have two automobiles—almost a necessity. One is for the wife to get to the hairdresser, the other is for the teen-age son to get to the hairdresser. (Dad takes the bus to work.) But the guy that invented that stupid phrase, "two-car garage," must have been a bachelor living on the seventh floor of a Newport condominium. There is no such thing as a two-car garage.

Maybe once, just once, early in your occupancy of the new split-level home, you put your two cars in your two-car garage, side by side, snug and neat, and gazed at them smugly. Then Junior came panting home from school, slid his bike between the cars, scraping each of them rather badly, and you understood that phrase "conspicuous consumption" from your college course in Economics I. So you drove your sedan out and parked it in the driveway, figuring you could always use the space in that "empty" half of the garage.

Before you got out of the car, that half was crammed to the joists with boxes, water skis, motorscooters, empty trunks, cartons of Christmas decorations, cages of long forgotten rabbits and guinea pigs, science projects of long forgotten children, lawn chair, a potter's wheel and a few oddments of broken furniture. Your garage looks like a swap meet.

Carefully avoiding the extra beds and mattresses, the ant farm and the surf board, you may be able to set up your own little workbench, with vise, saw, drill, and a few tools neatly hung on the wall. Then forget it. Before you have reached for the first piece of plywood, your workshop has vanished under a landslide of motorcycle parts, discarded sleeping bags, a doll house, a canary bird cage, a broken fish acquarium and a deflated football.

What your two-car garage really is, is a one-car garage with the county dump attached. People with only a one-car garage to start with often have to give up the car and walk to work.

Furthermore, the fallout in a suburban home continues to increase. Keep one car in the "empty" side at all times, or the effluent of middle America will soon engulf it in a creeping tide of skateboards and scuba equipment, broken record players and garden tools, a mulch of old magazines and newspapers.

A week after moving into his new home, the average Dagwood Bumpstead will have trouble finding a place to park, whether he has a two-or four-or eight-car garage.

Ask Dr. Brothers

She's still stealing

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Although on the surface I think I probably look to most people like a normal teenager, for the last two years I've been living a dangerous life. Maybe what I'm doing is normal, but whether it is or not, I know eventually, if I continue, I could get in trouble. I have this problem of shoplifting and it's kind of like a disease with me. I don't understand it but I can't seem to stop. Sometimes, it's like a game where I can win anytime I want.

In my first year of high school, a lot of the kids would pick things up just for fun, but then most of them stopped. But I went right on, doing it not with a group, but when I was all by myself. My parents would flip if I ever got caught and every time I liberate something, I get really scared inside. I'm the only girl in a family with five brothers and I think about how everyone's so worried about them getting into trouble when I'm the only one who's apt to go to jail. This is a spooky feeling.—J.T.

Dear J.T.: What you are doing is extremely serious and cannot be treated lightly.

First of all, you are not "liberating," you are stealing. The real question is why? You are not stealing because you have a great desire to possess what you steal, you are stealing becuase the act itself gives you pleasure and a sense of excitement, even achievement. You feel as if you were playing a game where you could always win. Are there any legitimate games that you can win? Is there some legitimate way you can experience a sense of success and achievment?

Most people who steal, even though they may have no particular need or desire for the object they steal, are frustrated and angry. They want to rebel and express their anger but instead they never get to the root of it; they take out their anger on someone, the store owner, who has nothing at all to do with the real source of their anger. Sometimes, people who steal compulsively are rebelling against their parents, against all authority or symbols of authority, and sometimes they are rebelling against their sex.

Studies reveal that women are much more apt to hoplift than men and some psychiatrists believe this is a kind of rebellion against not being born male. They wish to steal the power, the privilege, the adventure, the freedom and all of the things that go with being male in our society. Their stealing is like getting back at the world for robbing them of being born male. This is almost always unconscious and the woman who steals rarely has any clue that she is angry because she is a female. If she did, she would probably find constructive outlets for her anger.

Most people who steal do so as an act of hostility toward society and to satsify sexual and aggressive impulses that find no other outlet, according to Dr. Ralph Banay, former director of the psychiatric clinic at California's San Quentin prison.

Stealing is a symptom of your problems and it is a dangerous and nonproductive way of acting them out. It is important to see a professional who is capable of helping you talk out your problems so that you can attack them directly.

While you are getting professional guidance, it might be helpful for you to enter into activities or games where you can win and achieve some real gratification. It is important to find ways to release some of your aggression, for stealing is, for you, an aggressive pleasure. There is also the appeal of the forbidden. Those who cannot enjoy unless they are doing something forbidden are immature. It is childish to want something for nothing.

The only way you will be able to mature is to face your problems, for stealing is an outgrowth of them.

Retired Chino warden honored at gathering

More than 100 friends, relatives and state employes gathered at Griswold's Inn in Claremont recently to honor Henry J. Bartol after his retirement from the position of Fish and Game Warden with the State of California.

Mr. Bartol has ended a career which began in 1939 in the Marine Patrol. He was transferred from the patrol to the Land Patrol and worked at the Yountville Game Farm and then the San Joaquin River. He was then drafted into World War II. After leaving the armed service, Mr. Bartol was stationed at the Chino Game Farm, then transferred to the main office in Los Angeles. After another transfer to Little Lake, Mr. Bartol was transferred back to the Chino Area.

As a retirement gift, Mr. Bartol received a complete set of fishing equipment and will spend much time fishing and continuing his hobby of raising exotic birds.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartol have two sons, Robert J. and Richard Joseph. The couple plans to continue to reside in the Chino area.

TODAY'S Women

Hathaway-Papac rites performed in Idaho

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Rexburg, Idaho, was the setting for the marriage of Miss Gail Jean Papac and Maurice Hathaway.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis N. Papac of Pomona and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Hathaway of Rexburg recited their vows before Bishop Marion Stoddard, uncle of the groom.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon organza trimmed with bands of reembroidered lace. The gown was accented with Queen Anne sleeves and a chapel-length train. Her elbow-length veil was caught to a headpiece of venise lace, organza bow petals and pearlized bead loops.

She carried a bouquet of baby yellow roses, tiny yellow and white mums and lime green ribbons.

Miss Pattie Curran of San Francisco, college roommate of the bride, was her only attendant.

Lynn Wolf of Rexburg was best man.

Attending the wedding and reception at the church were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Gladys Beck, and her aunt, Mrs. Henrietta Golenor, both of Pomona.

The couple was feted later at a reception at the home of the groom's parents. Guests included the groom's parents, his sister, Miss Shaunna Hathaway, and her fiance, Bob Miles of Mesa, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Hathaway will reside in Jackson, Wyo., after a tour of the western states.

Beads show history

Pick up a bead, a small thing — seemingly insignificant. Hold it to the light. Is it opaque or does the light filter through? Is it carved, enameled, woven or a piece of pierced stone?

Beads have been important in the formation of man's culture since the beginning of recorded history.

Although beads today are used primarily for decorative and ornamental purposes, the earliest beads probably were contrived from small fossils and worn as amulets. In Egypt the word for bead was "Shasha." The syllable "sha" was the Egyptian word for "luck."

The English word "bead" is derived from the Anglo-Saxon "bed" which means prayer. Beads have had religious significance for centuries. In Scotland, pensioners whose duty it was to pray for their benefactors were known as beadsmen.

Almost everyone knows that the island of Manhattan was purchased with beads.

As an object of commerce beads preceded the exchange of coins for goods and since the Middle Ages beads have been manufactured in Europe for sale or barter.

Some specimens which might be included in a collection are beads made from a snake's spine, the rare black coral, cornelian, onyx, ivory, amber, cypress, pewter, enameled metals, jade, rose quartz, jasper shells, sandlewood, seeds, glass.

There are many ways in which a collection can be assembled. Beads can be collected for historical significance, artistic merit, religious interest, or as geological specimens.

The collector of beads will find very little reference material on the subject. Instead, research will have to be done on a varity of subjects and enthusiasts will delve into the methods of manufacture, study the evolution of jewelry styles, probe the regions of commerce, history and religion. A bead collection can be enriching.

Patients don't follow doctor's rules

Somewhere between 20 and 52 per cent of patients fail to follow the doctor's advice.

Patients also forget one-third of what they are told, Philip Ley, a clinical lecturer in psychology at the University of Liverpool, who made a study of the average person's memory, reported recently.

They remember the diagnosis, but forget or ignore most of the instructions about what they do, Ley found. Neither age or intellectual level has anything to do with it, but the more medical knowledge the patient has, the more he remembers, perhaps because he had understood better what the doctor had said.

SPANISH SCENE — Pomona artist A. B. (Bud) Fages works on one of the paintings he did during a recent trip to Spain. An exhibition of his work is now on display in the Lobby Gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 399 N. Garey Ave., Pomona.

Bronson's in clover now, but he hasn't forgotten

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Save the lights " an assistant director hollered, and out of the gloom Charles Bronson emerged to slide into a chair in the dingy topless-bottomless joint.

Bronson's tough, furrowed Slavic features gave him the appearance of a man who might really frequent the El Rancho Club in the decaying Los Angeles neighborhood. His hooded eyes were humorless, his demeanor testy.

But far from it. Bronson lives in a Bel Air mansion and may be the world's biggest boxoffice attraction.

He was on location for his new movie, "The Stone Killer," from which he will earn more than a million dollars. But Charlie remembers his coal miner days in Scooptown, Pa., when he was 16 years old earning $1 a week for 80 hours work.

"I don't dwell on the past," he said in a near monotone. "But I haven't forgotten either. And I don't remind my kids about how rough the world can be. They wouldn't understand."

Bronson is a taciturn man. He grants few interviews and is uncomfortable when he does. The menacing figures he portrays on the screen carry over away from the camera, although he is a gentle man with a soft voice. He wears no makeup when working and doesn't socialize with costars.

He doesn't see his own pictures, not from any sense of humility. They make him ill at ease.

A one-time boxer, Charlie's powerful hands now hold a paint brush in his spare time. He has sold his paintings for as much as $3,000 per canvas.

Bronson's popularity as a movie star in the United States lagged behind his phenomenal acceptance by world audiences. His first big success, "Adieu L'Ami," earned $3 million in France alone.

"I was a hit in Europe, but for some reason Paramount never released the film in this country," he said without apparent rancor.

"Don't ask me why. There are other pictures that did well in Europe. Very successful. But they haven't been seen over here yet. Now my movies are beginning to make an impression in America."

Only a few blocks away, a theater marquee displayed "The Valachi Papers," with Bronson's name above the title.

Another of Bronson's films, "The Mechanic," has been doing runaway business in this country.

And while Charlie does not dwell on the future, neither can he forget the days when he'd have worked the year around for next to nothing. Acting was a lark compared to the mines.

"I never complain about the work now," he said, "just the time. There's a difference. I took two months off this year, the longest time I've been away from movies in six years.

"Only a dozen years ago I'd have been happy to do any picture. Now I get attractive offers, so I work."

Bronson s face did not change expression when the director called for another take. He moved away with easy grace, alone among other members of the cast and crew. Charlie Bronson is a breed apart.

Bit Parts: David Hartman, longtime television favorite, makes his movie debut in "Island at the Top of the World" for Walt Disney Productions ... David Janssen has been cast to star in "Fast Freight," an ABC television movie ... "The Hireling," starring Robert Shaw and Sarah Miles, was acquired by Columbia for release in the United States ...

Paintings of Spain hang at Pomona First Federal

POMONA — An exhibition of watercolors by A. B. "Bud" Fages of Pomona depicting scenes of Spain is now on view in the Lobby Gallery of Pomona First Federal Savings & Loan Association, 339 N. Garey Ave.

The watercolors were completed during a recent trip taken by Mr. and Mrs. Fages to visit relatives and trace their Spanish heritage. Fages also brought back many sketches which he will work into color. On exhibit, in addition, are Fages' lanscapes of Taos, N. M., and Utah.

Fages, a native of Pomona, is a graduate of Chouinard School of Art. He is a member of the Pomona Valley Art Association. His work has hung in the Southwest Museum, the Pomona library and several local revolving shows. Some of his early paintings are Yucatan scenes which he did on several trips while searching for Mayan ruins and artifacts to photograph. After 25 years in photography Fages returned to painting five years ago.

A retired Pomona camera store employe, Fages is an accomplished photographer, camera technician, musician, singer and display designer. He is chairman of the Historical Society of Pomona's booth at the Los Angeles County Fair.

Airline named official carrier for world's fair

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Expo '74 has named Scandinavian Airlines as the official European Air Carrier for the Environmental World's Fair.

King Cole, Expo president, said Monday SAS will help publicize the upcoming fair and the vacation opportunities of the Pacific Northwest to the customers of its 200 offices around the world.

Even though SAS does not serve Spokane, Leif Eie, SAS northwest manager, said the airline does not consider that a problem.

Eie said Scandinavian Airlines will bring Expo visitors from Europe to America, and Hughes Airwest, Expo's official United States air carrier, will bring them to the fair.

But never lava

Though an erupting volcano brings to mind pictures of flowing rivers of boiling lava, not all active volcanos emit lava. Mount Taal in the Philippines, with a history of death and destruction, has spewed forth noxious gases, steaming mud and ash, and white-hot rocks—but never lava.

Maddox claims President should talk or step down

BOSTON (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia says President Nixon should either come forward with a full, public explanation of his knowledge about Watergate or "step down and let the vice president take over."

The former Georgia governor said that the President's refusal to appear before the Senate Watergate committee can be construed as a concession of guilt and is destroying the presidency.

"If he does not come forward, then he should have the decency to step down and let the vice president take over," he said.

Maddox addressed the annual New England Rally for God, Family and Country. He told participants of the five-day meeing for "conservative Americans" Nixon has become "obsessed with trying to become a leader of the world rather than a leader of America and he has abdicated his responsibility to place America first."

He said the office of the presidency "is not dead. No one can believe in it, and for the next three years Congress will have to take the reins, if it can."

The administration, in "a supreme show of arrogance," thinks it is above the laws that govern the rest of America, Maddox said.

"America has become a totalitarian police state, and the administration has led us into this by hypocrisy deception and just plain lying."

The lieutenant governor also criticized the administrations's fiscal and education policies.

"He (Nixon) as president, along with John Mitchell and Elliot Richardson and the Justice Department, and others appointed by Nixon, have done more to wreck more schools, destroy more investments in communities, deny more people freedom of choice and force more busing, than all previous administrations in the history of this nation," Maddox said.

State offers wide variety of trees

By JOHN D. LOWRY

FRAZIER PARK (UPI) — Anyone with a scrap of land can grow his very own 300-foot giant Sequoia with patience and a little help from the state Division of Forestry and an irrigation company.

The forestry service offers a wide variety of trees, ranging from sturdy pines that will challenge desert climes to the gigantic Sequoia so prevalent in Northern California. It is a state project aimed at reforestation and conservation.

The service even makes recommendations as to variety to suit your particular location whether along the coast, at protected inland areas or even the parched high desert of Southern California.

My project was a one-acre site at the 4,500-foot level in the high desert 70 miles north of Los Angeles. The forestry spokesman recommended a variety of pines and suggested the giant Sequoia which seemed out of character with the semiarid location. He reassured me on the chances of successful growth and when I told him my thinking was to plant them a foot or so apart to achieve nearly instant forest he disagreed strongly.

"You have to plant them at least five feet apart, they'll eventually be at least five feet thick and 200 to 300 feet tall!" When I asked how long this would take he replied, "about 2,000 years!" He said that within five years the seedlings might be 10 feet tall.

I passed up cedar, cypress and eucalyptus in favor of the Sequoia and placed my order in January for 100 seedlings. The cost was minimal, only a few cents each. They were delivered two weeks later in wooden crates, 50 individually planted seedlings per crate in their tarpaper containers and all 6-8 inches tall.

The labor came in digging holes a foot wide and equally deep in the sandy soil and screening out the rocks before mixing it with mulch to make sure moisture would be retained after planting.

Next watering. How to overcome dragging hoses around to nurture each individuality tree.

A visit to a commercial nursery brought the inexpensive solution.

Roberts Irrigation Co. of Pauma Valley manufactures a simple easy to install system. It can be adapted to various needs but basically begins with a coil of ½ inch to one-inch plastic tubing in lengths of no less than 100 feet at less than $5 per coil.

The tubing can be laid out above or below ground with length cut to your need and an end cap cemented to one end and regular garden hose connection at the other, all available from Roberts.

Your next step is piping to individual trees or plants using a coil of ⅛-inch "spaghetti" plastic tubing. A 3-16 inch electric drill can punch holes in the large tubing and then the "spaghetti" is inserted, glued and cut to length. A patented Roberts spot-spittemathen is stuck in the ground near the plant and the "spaghetti" inserted in its top.

When you connect the garden hose to the fitting and turn on the water to just a trickle you soon see the value of the system as each little spitter begins to dribble into the soil around your tree.

With each main-line watering 20-25 small trees or plants it takes a minimum of water, and no waste, to maintain your forest. And if you have enough faucets to water them all at once, your irrigation chore is over quickly.

So your forest is bought, planted and irrigated for less than $100. Mine doubled in size in less than six months but I don't plan on watching the trees mature to their potential 300-feet.

Earnings not always telling

By ROGER SPEAR

Q — I have noticed that Superior Oil Co. (NYSE) has a price earnings multiple of over 180x while other companies have ratios that are much smaller. Why is this? — C. I.

A — Superior reports earnings on an ultraconservative basis, i.e., after taking out various drilling, exploratory expenses depreciation, depletion, etc. This produces artifically low earnings, which are misleading. In this case, cash flow is a more meaningful figure. Last year this was equal to $22.30 per share and for 1973 cash flow should reach $26.00 per share. On that basis, the cash flow price-earnings multiple is about 10x currently, in line with others in the industry.

Q — We hold 300 Pan American World Airways (NYSE) purchased at $34. What is the prospect for this stock? Do you recommend holding, selling or buying more for future gains? — F. S.

A — According to Pan Am's chairman and president, William T. Seawell, the airline has "a chance this year to break even." In the first four months through April, a loss of $22.6 million was reported. This was substantially below the $35.1 million loss in the comparable 1972 period. Revenues were up 9.6 per cent year to year. Factors which helped Pan Am improve operating results were: increased promotion of first-class travel, a stricter policy on discounted fares and reduction in military travel.

There are still many negatives in this situation, however, that might continue to be reflected in depressed share trading levels. For one, labor negotiations (contracts expire in mid-summer), covering close to half the company's employees, could be costly for Pan Am. Another uncertainty is the effect that a receding economy and devaluation will have on summer air travel.

Of the four markets —Atlantic, domestic, Pacific and Latin America — which Pan Am serves, yield per revenue passenger mile is the highest on the latter two, averaging $5.47 in the 1973 first quarter. Fare increases have been approved on one of the routes and are pending on the other. Hold for eventual rally.

Q—Would you explain the disadvantages of buying stocks in "odd lots"? Because of the penalties involved, I have been advised not to buy less than 100 shares of any one issue. What are these extra fees?—G. M.

A—On major exchanges most stock transactions involving less than 100 shares are not traded by auction. They are handled by odd-lot dealers who buy or sell at the next round lot price after receipt of order, plus or minus an odd-lot differential which amounts to ⅛ of a point. The second consideration is the commission rate. For example: The broker's fee on 10 shares of a $20 issue is $8.40 or 4.2 per cent of the money involved; a round lot of a $20 stock involves a commission of $38 or 1.9 per cent. As the amount of money involved rises the fee generally drops, on a percentage basis. The rate on a 10-share purchase of a $50 stock is 2.9 per cent and on a 100-share transaction it is 1.3 per cent. A new commission schedule now under study, if adopted, would raise the fee on a $100 to $5,000 order by 10 percent.

Passersby take 2nd look: gals on construction job

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Two 19-year-old Superior, Wis., girls have been attracting attention as hard hat construction laborers in the French Quarter.

Jim Baldwin hired them as part of his demolition crew to chip plaster, pull nails, tote lumber and shovel trash into wheelbarrows.

Jeanette Levin and Karen Hinz get paid $2 an hour.

Baldwin said recently that besides these two girls, six other young ladies have worked on his crews.

"I think most are looking for a good job where they're not hassled because they're chicks. You know, office jobs, tending bar, they get hassled on the sexual level."

The girls planned to return home this weekend after spending a week on the job.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Today the 40-hour work week is an accepted standard for workers in the United States and many other nations. The animal-loving Costa Ricans of Central America have made laws restricting horses, mules and oxen from working more than 48 hours per week, The World Almanac notes.

The doctor comments

Heart attack victim given reassurance

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am terribly depressed because I've been told by my doctor that nothing can be done for my heart attacks caused by atherosclerosis. I can hardly believe this. I was hospitalized last year for about three weeks and given all kinds of tests, then about two months later I had another attack. The first one occurred in Bible class and the second one in church. I didn't have any undue excitement of any kind previous to either attack. What is your opinion, doctor?

I've been on some medicine for high blood pressure, and also Coumadin to keep my blood from clotting. I have blood tests and checkups regularly. The doctor said on my last examination that my blood tests, blood pressure and electrocardiogram were all satisfactory, but I'm afraid to move for fear I'll have an other heart attack.

Dear Reader—Your doctor is doing something about your heart attacks. This is what the medicine to treat your blood pressure and the Coumadin to prevent blood coagulation is for. He's studying the function of your heart and circulatory system to regulate your medicine and, if necessary, institute other measures.

I'm sure thet what your doctor tried to explain to you was that the disease itself, the atherosclerosis, was difficult to treat, and the damage that had already been done to your heart from the previous attack was there to stay. This doesn't mean, however, that you can't make a good recovery or that there is nothing at all that can be done to help you maintain your health in the best condition.

Your diet is important. If you have any excess weight, it can be eliminated by a sensible program. You should be on a moderately restricted fat diet, restricted in saturated fats and limited in cholesterol. By proper diet, often you can reverse the fatty deposits that develop in the arteries. This has been demonstrated in animals. You can't eliminate the scar in the heart muscle or some of the scarring that develops in the arteries when they've been damaged from fatty deposits, or the calcium deposits that gradually developed around where the fatty deposits are in the walls of the arteries. But, I would like to stress that there are things which can be done.

Anyone with a severe cardiac problem is usually able to do more if the body weight is decreased. It's very simple. The body must work harder to move 200 pounds across the room than it does to move 100. This means there's less work for the heart and circulation to move a small body weight around. There are other beneficial effects too. The blood pressure is often significantly lowered if a person has any excess fat and eliminates it.

It's important for people who've had a heart attack to be given some reassurance. Many people do make excellent recoveries. I know that it's common to sit around and worry about what may happen after an episode, but appreciating the fact that some benefits can be achieved, and that if you've recovered well enough to go home that you may well have a reasonably good outlook, should help to dispel the discouragement that some people have. I am personally impressed about how well some people do after they have made a complete recovery from the initial heart attack. As I've mentioned before, both President Johnson and President Eisenhower are good examples of this point.

Monopoly suit filed against 15 oil firms

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Florida Attorney General Robert Shevin filed a federal "monopoly power" suit against the 15 largest petroleum companies Monday and said other such suits would follow from around the nation.

After threatening a suit for weeks, Shevin formally asked U.S. District Judge David Middlebrooks to order the firms to break up their alleged monopolies by selling their crude oil exploration interests.

Shevin predicted that although his was the first such state or federal suit, others will be forthcoming, including one from the state of Connecticut and another by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC).

He named as defendants Exxon, Texaco, Gulf, Mobil, Shell, Atlantic-Richfield, Phillips, Continental, Sun, Union, Cities Service, Marathon, Standard Oil of California, Standard Oil of Indiana, and Standard Oil of Ohio.

When to play for singleton

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Oswald: "When declarer lays down an ace and drops a singleton king there is usually a comment by an opponent along the line of 'I must be holding my hand too far forward.'"

Jim: "Declarers have been known to see a defender's hand but if declarer is a good player the chances are that he has another reason for his play."

Oswald: "Here is an elementary example, West's queen of clubs holds the first trick. He continues the suit. South ruffs the second club and plays three rounds of trumps. Then if South is a good player he planks his ace of hearts on the table and drops West's singleton king."

Jim: "This play couldn't do him any harm. If the king failed to drop he would eventually get to dummy with a diamond after losing the diamond finesse and lead a heart toward his queen."

Oswald: "He was sure to make his contract if East held the king of hearts. This way he had that small extra chance. West just might hold the king all by itself."

Auto transport firm makes good on claim

I am a lifelong resident of California and was residing temporarily in Rome, N.Y., last winter while my husband was stationed at Griffiss Air Force Base. When we received orders in February 1972 for immediate transfer to March AFB, we planned to ship one car and drive another together.

An auto transport firm in Syracuse, N.Y., was contacted and the office manager picked up my 1969 Mercury Montego station wagon March 29, 1972. The car was in excellent running condition, had been recently serviced for the trip and had no body marks or dents of any kind.

As I later learned, a team of drivers was to bring the car to my home in California, with all responsibilities for damage to be assumed by the auto transport firm.

My car was delivered to Upland on April 12 by a driver from the Los Angeles office. I was not at home then and my father signed for the car. He mentioned a dent in the right front door and fender but, as the driver had not come from New York, it was assumed that the dent was already in the car prior to shipment. This definitely was not the case.

Upon seeing the dent, I immediately called the Syracuse office. A representative of the firm suggested I send the lowest of three body repair estimates to him as soon as possible. The lowest of $76 was forwarded to his office on April 19.

Since my telephone call on April 12, I had no response from the transport firm. I have placed phone calls, received messages to record my questions, but no one has answered my calls. I have written three times but again there has been no response. I have called the Los Angeles branch office but they have been unable to give any assistance.

Can you help me? — D.C., Upland

Our records show that Action Line wrote to the transport firm in your behalf on Dec. 1, 1972. When you notified us on May 14 that you still had received no response, we immediately wrote again.

The firm's claims manager responded from New York City that the letter to the Syracuse office had been forwarded to him. He said a search of his files did not reveal any correspondence with "either your good selves or Mrs. C. concerning the transport of her vehicle."

He assured us that your claim would be processed. Since then, you have written that he made good on his promise and your claim has been settled.

Early in February I ordered three paintings from a Los Angeles studio. My check was processed by my bank on Feb. 28. Since that time, I have written two letters and made several phone calls attempting to obtain either the paintings or a refund.

When I call, the customer service representative assures me that someone will look up the account and call me back, but I have had no reply. — E.H., La Verne.

We reminded the studio that California law requires the mail order merchant to deliver his product within six weeks or issue an immediate refund.

You telephoned us twice, the first time to say that two of the pictures had arrived and finally that you had received the third.

Some time ago you had a story about cleaning cement driveways. I cut the article out but have lost it. You listed ways to get rust and oil off a cement driveway.

My son drained his radiator out on the cement and it looks terrible. I've tried hard to keep it looking clean and free from oil and spots.

Can you send me the information? — V.S., Montclair.

More than two years ago several readers answered this question for us. We sent you a copy of their replies and now summarize them for others with sons who work on cars.

1. Use one part of muriatic acid to several parts of water, pour it on the rust spot and brush with a broom. Then wash thoroughly with water. If this doesn't work, make the solution stronger. Wash the entire driveway with the solution while you are at it. After it is applied, the sun will bleach the driveway so that it is all the same color.

2. You should use muriatic acid that is a formula with a metal inhibitor to protect your car, etc. A full-strength solution could be a threat to pets even after the driveway is wash down.

3. One thing that helps remove rust stains in sinks and bathtubs and should work on driveways is a mixture of salt and vinegar. Take a fairly generous amount of salt and moisten it with vinegar. Let it set a few minutes and then moisten a cloth with the solution and scour the stained area. Don't let this solution get on grass or shrubs. Mop it all up before turning the hose on the cleaned area.

4. Get a small bag of cat litter, sprinkle some on the rusty streak and grind in with a block of wood or your leather shoes. If it won't do the job, the effort won't be a total loss since it will hide the grease spots on the concrete.

INCINERATOR TOPPLED

The 100-foot-high incinerator at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds, a landmark since its installation in 1955, was toppled this week by Thomas House Movers of Pomona. The smokeless 75-ton incinerator was designed by Greelis Sales and Service. Although it was originally approved by the Air Pollution Control District at the time of its construction, present air quality standards necessitated its removal.

Nude-dancing counts against 12 dismissed

POMONA — So-called topless and bottomless entertainment here has come under tighter control despite dismissal of criminal charges against most of the persons arrested last May in a local crackdown.

The action was in Pomona Municipal Court where Judge James H. Piatt dismissed charges against 12 of 15 persons charged either with topless dancing, bottomless dancing or with allowing such entertainment.

The offenses are violations of city ordinances which the Supreme Court ruled earlier were valid controls of local entertainment. Conditions of the dismissals included the stipulation to abide by a civil injunction prohobiting such entertainment here. The injunction was being sought in Pomona Superior Court.

At the hearing, Playmate tavern operator Robert Lindenbaum pleaded no contest to one of seven counts against him and was given a 90-day jail term. The term was suspended, however, and Lindenbaum was placed on probation for three years on condition that he not violate the same city ordinance — allowing topless or bottomless entertainment.

Earlier in the week, City Atty. Patrick Sampson said the city was more interested in shutting down nude entertainment than it was in punishing violatbrs. The agreement to dismiss against the defendants apparently was the result of that theory.

Two others, arrested during the raids last May, still face prosecution, however. Rudolph Angelo Cicciarelli, 30, Rowland Heights, and Janice Ann Kirkland, 27, 1052 Airshire Lane, were accused of exhibiting obscene movies and were scheduled for pretrial hearings Aug. 20. The offenses are violation of the state penal code.

Those who won dismissal of charges Thursday were Robert Newger, 41, of 1254 Paseo Dorado, San Dimas; Rhondo E. Bryant, 21, Long Beach; Jackie Rochelle Ellavsky, 25, of 627 Lorrane Ave.; Ann Christine Bargeman, 26, of 144 N. Palmetto St., Ontario; Sidney Jackson Harris, 36, of 10246 Coalinga Ave., Montclair; Susan Elaine Venetucci, 23, Cucamonga; Cynthia Jean Sparks, 24, of 310 E. Foothill Blvd.; Rita Le Neil Rogers, 30, of 4597 Berkeley Ave., Montclair; Sandra Lynn Simon, 22, of 536 E. Phillips Blvd.; Leslie Faye Willett, 24, Hollywood; Henry Thomas Bleeker, 27, of 1522 Baldy View, and Deborah Ann Cullis, 23, of 1360 W. 3rd St. Charges of exhibiting obscene movies against Margie Anna Marshall, 22, of 2235 Kellogg Park Drive, and Miss Bargeman, were dismissed June 14.

Car wash firms being washed out, file protest

POMONA — Too much of a good thing can ruin it for others.

That's the message operators of three car washes conveyed to the Pomona Planning Commission.

"We are taking these issues to your attention because we feel that there hasn't been good judgment in allowing another car wash to be built on the corner of Holt (Avenue) and Indian Hill (Boulevard)," stated the letter.

"The reasons for our concern is because we car wash owners feel that another car wash within a half or quarter mile from four other car washes in the same area will put some out of business."

The letter bears the signatures of Mrs. Richard L. Drake, Drakes Car Wash, 401 N. East End Ave.; Joseph L. Frey, Village Car Wash, 530 E. Foothill Blvd.; and Shanker Patel, Palms Car Wash, 530 E. Holt Ave.

"Right now, there are over 10 car washes in the City of Pomona. How many more can be allowed before half of us go broke? The population is small with about 65,000 to 70,000 people. How can we all do any business with such population service?" it asked.

The operators suggested an ordinance be permitted to prohibit any more car wash operations be built in the city because of economics and survival of the existing car washes.

"We can only feel as we look around right now that there are already many gas stations and other businesses that are closed because of lack of business," they stated.

City planners took no action regarding the letter other than voting to "receive and file" it.

'We T.I.P.' strikes again; 2 booked on drug charge

POMONA — Information from We Turn In Pushers, Inc. (We T.I.P.) last week aided police in the arrest of two Pomona men for investigation of possession and cultivation of marijuana at 580 E. Columbia Ave.

According to Pomona police, the two suspects, Joseph Penn Campbell, 23, and Michael Anders Pickering, 23, both of 580 E. Columbia, were arrested outside their apartment carrying six suspected marijuana plants and about 20 grams of cut marijuana.

Police said that the arrests were the result of investigation launched with information supplied by a We T.I.P. tipster. Both suspects were booked in Pomona Jail.

We T.I.P. is a community-based, non-profit organization dedicated to aiding local police agencies in their battle against the drug menace. We T.I.P. offers anonymous informants a reward of $100 to $500 for information that leads police to the arrest and conviction of suspected drug pushers in local communities.

Informants calling on the local We T.I.P. telephone line (983-9611) or the state We T.I.P. line (800-472-7785) between noon and 6 p.m. weekdays, are told not to give their name but only information about suspected drug pushers.

Each person is assigned a code name and number by the We T.I.P. operator that he or she may use to collect the reward in the event of a conviction.

Bill Brownell, state director of We T.I.P., Inc., said there are now 63 member cities in the We T.I.P. organization throughout California with information being supplied to almost 200 police and sheriff's departments.

To date there have been 3,200 anonymous tips phoned into We T.I.P. leading to 308 arrests and 50 convictions. Drugs with a value of nearly $1.3 million have been confiscated by local police agencies following up on We T.I.P. leads. A total of $5,500 in rewards has been paid to tipsters.

He will discuss legislation sponsored by the league in both Sacramento and Washington, D.C. The public is invited.

Teachers to be granted class time for planning

POMONA — Beginning in September, third through sixth graders in Pomona's public schools will spend slightly less time in the classroom than they have in the past to allow their teachers a regular planning time.

This decision was made last week when the school board approved a recommendatin made by the Elementary Curriculum Planning Committee.

The committee felt that with a regular planning time, the quality of instruction could be increased, substantially outweighing the reduction in teaching time.

Under conpensatory education programs, the Stull Law and increased district requirements, more emphasis is being placed upon the determination of instructional objectives, evaluation of the learner and his placement at the proper level of instruction, committee members pointed out.

The individualization or personalization of the instructional program is being stressed to meet the needs and objectives that have been determined in the district.

Under the new plan, third graders will go from 285 to 255 minutes ,and fourth through sixth graders, from 320 to 296 minutes, in daily classroom instruction.

First and second graders will not be changed. They will remain in the classroom 1,650 minutes a week, attending from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Staffs will have the option to arrange these minutes so that one day per week will be set aside to coincide with the teacher preparation day for grades four through six.

Third graders will attend 1,650 minues per week, normally from 9 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. If a preparation day is established to be consistent with grades four through six, grades one through three would run normally from 9 a.m. to 2:36 p.m. four days a week, and from 9 a.m. to 2:05 p.m. one day per week.

Fourth through sixth graders will attend 1,805 minutes each week. Normally they will attend four days from 9 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. and one day from 9 a.m. to 2:05 p.m.

In a survey of surrounding school districts, including City of Los Angeles, it was found that Pomona, in grades three thrugh six, had the greatest number of minutes in actual class time.

This past year some Pomona schools were encouraged to modify the total number of instructional minutes to include a regular planning time for teachers.

Evaluation of these schools and their programs indicated that the regular planning time had paid off, the educators said.

That big wheat sale a goof

It would appear to be a classic case of bringing troubles on ourselves.

Watergate, the ailing dollar, Liz & Dick & Liza notwithstanding, the painfully primary concern for most of us these days is prices—of the galloping variety, with those for food leading the field.

Now the General Accounting Office the watchdog agency that keeps tabs on federal income and outgo, tells us that a primary factor in the crisis at the checkout counter is the effect of last year's huge wheat sale to the Soviet Union.

You remember. That was the unexpected but ecstatically—at first—welcomed profiting from Soviet harvest misfortunes that was supposed to mean prosperity for U.S. farmers and support for a shaky dollar in the world trade.

Only as some small critical voices have been suggesting for some time and the G.A.O. now documents in some detail, it didn't quite work out that way.

Instead, the massive deal—440 million bushels, one-quarter of the entire U.S. crop—created a grain shortage in the United States, driving wheat prices up from $1.68 per bushel in July 1972 to $3 early this year. Directly and indirectly, it has meant higher consumer prices for, in the G.A.O.'s listing, "bread and flour-based products . . . beef, pork, poultry, eggs and dairy products . . ."

And so in the end, it is the U.S. consumer who pays for the big Soviet deal—twice in fact. Now directly out of his food budget, and initially indirectly through the public funds involved in the generous credits—$750 million—extended to Moscow by Washington and the $300 million in export subsidies to make up the difference between a normally higher domestic wheat price and an export price which, the G.A.O. now says was unnecessarily low to the great advantage of the Soviets.

The G.A.O. report, submitted to Congress, places primary responsibility on the Department of Agriculture for, first, being inadequately informed as to the size of the Soviet purchases and not foreseeing the likely effects on the U.S. economy, and then for mismanaging subsidies and permitting speculation by grain dealers.

Agriculture, of course, demurs. And there may indeed be extenuating circumstances and contributing factors beyond its control.

But the consumer confronted with even-higher prices, aware of too-late half measures such as the ban on soybean exports and appalled by such desperation measures as the destruction of chicks by growers caught in the feed-cost squeeze, does not need pages of expert economic analysis to know that someone goofed somewhere.

The United States is a food-surplus nation, capable of producing still more than it now does. Without seeking exorbitant profit from the needs of others, it should still be possible to share this basic wealth with a world in many parts on the thin edge of hunger, even famine, to the benefits of its own economy—certainly not, in any circumstances, the detriment.

The administration is looking to a big grain crop this year, up from 6 per cent in corn to 24 per cent in soybeans according to Agriculture's forecast just out, to ease the price strain eventually.

Trust in providence is fine. But it also helps to help one's self, such as thoroughly checking out future big deals to be certain they are all they appear to be.

For if we take it from the G.A.O., appearances can indeed be deceiving.

Kleindienst bungled Watergate case

WASHINGTON — After questioning ex-Attorney General Richard Kleindienst for four hours in secret, the special prosecutors concluded that the Watergate case might have been cracked months earlier if he had mentioned meeting ringleader G. Gordon Liddy less than 12 hours after the Watergate break-in.

Kleindienst was questioned recently by special prosecutor Archibald Cox's two top aides, James Neal and James Vorenberg, who were satisfied from Kleindienst's answers that he wasn't personally implicated in the scandal. But they couldn't understand his failure, as the nation's top law enforcement officer, to tell his subordinates about the Liddy incident.

Here's what happened on June 17, 1972:

A few hours after the Waterbuggers were arrested at gunpoint inside Democratic Party headquarters, Liddy located Kleindienst at the Burning Tree golf course and rushed off to consult him. Powell Moore, the campaign press chief, asked to go along.

Kleindienst surprised

They found Kleindienst sitting with several people at a large table and called him into a backroom. Liddy reported urgently that the burglary-bugging squad had been headed by the President's campaign security chief.

Kleindienst said he was aware of the arrests but surprised at the involvement of a campaign official. Then Kleindienst picked up a telephone and dialed Assistant Attorney General Henry Petersen. "Henry," instructed Kleindienst, "I want to be sure that these people are treated as any other person would be treated who is arrested under those circumstances."

The prosecutors aren't critical of Kleindienst's handling of Liddy, which was entirely proper. But Kleindienst's failure to mention the incident to his subordinates delayed their investigation.

It took them another ten days, for example, before they learned the extent of Liddy's involvement. More important, they knew nothing about Powell Moore until the following year.

Moore's testimony

Unlike Liddy who is still refusing to talk, Moore testified fully and frankly the first time he appeared before the grand jury. His testimony led to other important pieces of the Watergate puzzle. This could have brought a breakthrough in the case a full year ago.

Here are a few of the revelations that came, at least indirectly, through Moore's testimony:

— Moore realized the morning after the break-in, he testified, that Liddy had prior knowledge of the crime. Moore reported this to campaign official Robert Mardian, a former Assistant Attorney General, who had come to the campaign directly from the Justice Department. He is now under investigation for alleged involvement in the Watergate cover-up.

— Moore witnessed the destruction of documents by Liddy, who started with a small shredder and then moved to a larger shredder to speed up the process. Liddy began the shredding operation after a long telephone conversation with his superior, Jeb Stuart Magruder, in California, Moore swore.

Magruder's instructions

— The same morning, according to the testimony, Moore overheard Magruder's assistant, Robert Reisner, getting instructions over the phone from Magruder. When Reisner eventually was called to testify, he told the grand jury that Magruder had asked him to remove sensitive files from the office, including a blue folder marked "Gemstone." This turned out to be the secret incriminating Watergate file of wiretapped conversations.

— Liddy mentioned to Moore during the morning after the break-in that three people should be notified. They were former Attorney General John Mitchell, campaign official Fred Larue and Magruder. All three, it was learned several months later, were key figures in the Watergate scandal.

— Moore testified that Mitchell helped to draft the public statement denying that the campaign committee had anything to do with the Waterbuggers or their crimes. The statement was laced with noble terms about this type of activity having no place in the American political system.

All these events happened within a few hours after the Watergate break-in. If the prosecutors had known about Moore and had been able to take his testimony last summer, the Watergate case almost certainly would have broken wide open long before the election.

Yet Kleindienst, though free of any Watergate taint himself, failed to tell his own prosecutors about his curious meeting with Liddy and Moore on June 17, 1972.

Footnote: Kleindienst explained to us that he didn't regard the Liddy-Moore visit as significant at the time. He later learned that Moore asked to come along so he would be a witness in case Liddy tried to compromise the Attorney General, Kleindienst told us.

Gossip for today

We were hero worshippers in those days. And why not? After all, what red blooded young boy wouldn't have been when he had such a super hero as Frank Merriweather, the clean-cut, all-American boy athlete, to serve as his model and inspiration? Then, of course, there were Christy Matthewson, Jim Thorpe and Gentleman Jim Corbett for good measure.

All of which makes me feel a bit sorry for today's youth in search of sports heroes. What must they think when they learn that it is now being proposed that urine tests be given to football players to make sure these super athletes aren't using dope.?

INSIDE REPORT

Nixon's worsening political condition

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — President Nixon abandoned his studied aloofness from the Watergate scandal and personally shaped his hard-line refusal to appear before the Senate Watergate committee, sharpening conflict between him and many Republican politicans distraught over the President's deteriorating situation.

Shortly before Mr. Nixon's letter flatly refusing either to testify before the committee or hand over presidential papers, the White House received dramatically contrary advice. Sen. Howard Baker of Tennessee, the committee's senior Republican, advised the White House that Mr. Nixon should engage in some of kind of dialogue with the committee or risk dire consequences.

Baker's view is increasingly shared by Republican politicans, both around the country and in Congress, alarmed by the President's worsening political condition. But Mr. Nixon's active participation in the refusal to testify has cheered middle-level presidential staffers who have consistently advocated a hard line. Thus, a three-month-old battle over tactics between seasoned Republican politicans and youthful White House aides has entered a new phase, with the President himself now on the side of his hard-line staffers.

Request from Sen. Ervin

The President's letter was prompted by a request from Sen. Ervin of North Carolina Watergate committee chairman, for the papers of 35 past and present White House aides. When committee counsel Sam Dash then asked White House counsel Leonard Garmen to immediately get papers of ex-aides H. R. Haldeman, John Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson, Garment promised a quick reply.

The president ordered that the papers be refused. Smoldering over suggestions by Republican and Democratic members of the Ervin committee that he testify, he expanded the refusal to embrace presidential testimony even though no formal request had been made by the committee.

The original refusal was drafted in Washington but rewritten in San Clemente. The chief rewriter: Richard M. Nixon, imparting his special tone to the letter. "This is vintage Nixon," one high presidential assistant told us.

That overjoyed middle-level White House staffers, including former lieutenants of Haldeman and Colson, who in informal "attack group" meetings had mourned the "soft line" at the White House. They had been dismayed by successive presidential "retreat"—waiving executive privilege, confessions in his May 22 statement, giving the committee White House logs on Mr. Nixon's meetings with deposed White House counsel John W. Dean III.

These hard-liners were particularly enraged by Dean's being permitted to rummage in his old files and feared those files next would be supplied to the Ervin committee as requested. The blanket presidential refusal is taken by "attack group" staffers as a welcome sign of Mr. Nixon's deciding to fight it out.

But the President's letter dismayed Republican politicians who agree with Sen. Baker, a veteran Nixon loyalist. Just before the President's letter was released, Baker spelled out his views to chief White House lobbyists William Timmons and listed three possible ways for a Nixon-committee "conversation": (1) written questions, answers and further questions; (2) interrogation (not under oath) at the White House; (3) interrogation (not under oath) on neutral ground. Whatever the arrangement, Baker urged some such dialogue.

Full support of Baker's view

Baker's view is supported not only in the Senate Republican cloakroom but at the state party level. "I believe this President is not guilty, but he sure acts guilty as hell," one conservative state chairman told us. Such politicians doubt Dean's devastating testimony can be countered solely by friendly witnesses (a view supported by John N. Mitchell's current performance).

Among Senate Republicans, the hard-line letter is regarded as unnecessarily stoking up hostility with the Ervin committee. Since the committee had not formally asked the President to appear, no formal reply was needed. But the reply provoked Ervin's harsh reaction, which in turn generated outrage at the White House.

There is no sign that the sage political hands just signed on at the White House, Melvin R. Laird and Bryce Harlow, contributed to the President's letter. Nor is there any hint they disapproved. But if it becomes politically necessary, Laird and Harlow might well recommend something along lines recommended by Baker.

Indeed, some presidential aides suggest Mr. Nixon's present refusal to "testify" does not preclude "conversing" with the committee. But that would again force a public retreat from a position shrewd politicians in his own party feel the President never had to take in the first place.

TV can be good for parent, child

There are few men, women and children among us who do not succumb to viewing television each day. Particularly the latter. Recent national surveys reveal that the average child plops himself before a TV set for an annual 1,000 hours of fantasy, fakery and fact. He spends about 500 hours in a classroom.

Appalling? Possibly not. Many child psychologists and educators are revising their thinking about television and its programming. Some now say that instead of pushing families apart, television viewing can bring a parent closer to his child. The boob tube is being touted as a brain tube.

This is the thesis of the creators of a new television magazine, "Tube Talk," written for the preteen set (8-year-old average) to be enjoyed and shared with their parents.

To be distributed with newspapers, "Tube Talk" includes interviews, games, puzzles and educational features. According to a preview article, the crucial and valuable factor in the viewing of TV by the impressionable very young is that the experience be shared and that parents help a child learn while he is being entertained.

Many adults still object to TV programming for children without really watching the shows, discussing them with the young viewer or really listening to what he says about what he is seeing. TV is far past the stage of being an inexpensive babysitter yet some parents still use it as one. It is an educational force and one that more parents must learn to share.

Television as we know it is in its 26th year. Perhaps the elements are right for adult viewers, producers and advertisers to stretch themselves to the point where they will insist that this visual electronic god meet its immense potential in education and entertainment.

Dandruff problem vital to progress

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The human race progresses by solving problems. If there were no more problems, the race would soon become static and probably begin regressing.

Already this has happened in some places. The town of Farthing, S.D., became a problem-free area aboout 10 years ago and hasn't advanced a lick since.

Other communities brought to a standstill by a shortage of problems include Sinking Hills, Mont., Buttermilk Falls, Wis., Tinker's Dam, Alaska and Puma City, Ariz.

But these are freakish phenonema. Fortunately for the race as a whole, some problems defy solution. The very act of grappling with them moves man forward.

Have you, for example, every considered how much the onward and upward movement of the human race has been stimulated by the dandruff problem?

Man's age-old fight against dandruff has built giant industries, provided gainful employment for thousands, and inspired chemists and advertising copywriters to new heights of creativity.

Scores of dandruff removal shampoos have been formulated, but all do just that — remove it. None actually conquers dandruff in the sense of vanquishing it, the way man has eradicated razor drag for instance.

No, dandruff keeps turning up like a bad penny. The most that can be said is that we have managed to "control" it. Which is a heap of progress itself.

The extent of that achievement can be seen if you picture to yourself what the world would be like if dandruff should ever get out of control.

Reasonably, then, we could expect the dandruff problem to be with us for years to come, But that rosy outlook is now threatened by an ominous action by the Federal Trade Commission.

Shampoo manufacturers who claim to deal with the problem are being required by the FTC to define what they mean by dandruff.

Suppose they are unable to come up with an acceptable definition? Where will that leave us?

In limbo, that's where. It will mean that all these years we have been struggling to overcome a problem that technically doesn't even exist.

If you were able to picture a world in which dandruff was out of control, now try to picture a world without any dandruff at all.

I don't know what you see but I see a catastrophe of the first magnitude —giant shampoo companies going bankrupt ... workers in breadlines ... Madison Ave. account executives leaping from office windows.

In short, the dandruff problem is vital to our continued progress. Let us hope and pray it's for real.

Flag display

June 14, 1973, Flag Day, was fittingly observed by the City of Pomona, in an impressive display of the American Flag in great numbers in the planter sections bordering the Pomona Mall.

As it happened that I was on the Mall most of the day, I had occasion at least six times to replace in upright positions flags which had fallen over and lay on the Mall itself. This was due in part to breezes which blew them over, but mostly to the fact that the flag poles were not set in sockets but merely placed on the ground in the planters. I also observed, due to my necessarily close inspection of fallen flags, that most of the flags were soiled and dirty beyond belief.

It does seem that this shoddy display could be given a brighter and more respected appearance if the City custodian of these flags (whoever he may be) could be authorized to replace the dirty flags with new ones, and if metal sockets could be set in the planters for any future mass display of our American Flag. —D. Passenger mark set at Ontario

ONTARIO — Gasoline shortage, inflation and summer vacations.

Officials cited these as contributing to a record 112,986 airline passengers who passed through Ontario International Airport last month.

The June total broke the previous monthly record of 102,432 set last August.

"June is always a good month for summer vacation travel," said Al Dubiel, airport official. "Many students are then out of school."

He said many travelers may have also been concerned over the reported gasoline shortage. "Rather than drive, they decided to fly.

"Many may have decided to take a trip this summer before inflation raises the price of airline tickets."

As an example of the heavy passenger traffic, Dubiel noted that PSA one day had a total of three empty seats on its four regular flights. Each plane, he said, carries about 105 passengers.

The airport is served by eight major air carriers and one commuter airline, which provide daily service to more than 20 cities.

The June traffic, a gain of nearly 20,000 passengers over June 1972, boosts the total number of passengers so far this year to 544,702. This is a 14 per cent gain over the 476,250 reported the first six months of last year.

Last month's passengers included 95-744 on scheduled flights; 12,487 on scheduled commuters; 1,424 on non scheduled flights; and 3,301 on alternate flights.

Despite the large passenger increase, the number of flight operations was upped only 6.3 per cent over the previous June—13,033 compared to 12,266, reported Robert Hamilton, airport manager.

"This tends to indicate a better load factor for each flight," he added.

The flight operations include: air carrier, 2,904; alternates, 76; air taxi, 1,860; military, 1,203; and general aviation, 6,990.

The June flights boosts the total this year to 74,174, compared to 71,151 the same period last year.

The amount of air cargo shipped through the airport climbed last month with 503,873 pounds being handled. This compared with 335,114 pounds the previous June, for a 50.4 per cent gain.

To illustrate the increased use of the airport, Hamilton compared the June and mid-year totals with airport activity during the 1960s.

"In the first half of this year, we've seen almost as many passengers as we did during all of 1968, and the June count alone was higher than all the passenger volume of 1960, 1961 and 1962 combined," he added.

The air cargo figures for the 1960s aren't available. "But the air cargo activity has gone up an average of 32 per cent a year for the past three years," said Hamilton.

Anti-abortion group begins bracelet drive

UPLAND — Mrs. John Stanley of Pomona is chairman of the new Bracelets for Life Committee of the Pomona Valley-West End Right to Life League, an anti-abortion organization.

The bracelets, Mrs. Stanely said, are similar in concept to the POW bracelets. "They will serve a dual purpose of declaring the wearer's positive view of life and of protesting the Supreme Court decision that a fetus is not a person in the full sense," she explained.

The silver nickel alloy bracelets have black etchings of the Greek letters A and Z and a circle with spokes symbolizing the continuity of life from conception to its natural end at death.

The date of the Supreme Court decision, Jan. 22, is engraved on the bracelet. "The bracelets become a point of conversation for those who wish to defend the unborn," said Mrs. Stanley.

Those interested in obtaining bracelets may call Mrs. Stanley at 629-5763. The cost is $3.25 each. Orders also may be placed by writing the Pomona Valley-West End Right to Life League, Box 651, Upland 91786.

The league's Lifeline telephone number, where counseling may be obtained, is 985-0205.

Veteran postal workers retire

ONTARIO — Post office employes have bidden farewell Saturday to the last of the city's "old time" workers.

John Lenert, 69, last of the employes who worked at the old post office building which was located just south of the present structure, retired after 32 years of service.

Lenert, a 1922 graduate of Chaffey College, served as chief of maintenance for the post office.

Joining Lenert in retirement was Pedro S. Murillo, 62, who retired after 16 years of postal service. A former professional baseball player in the old Pacific Coast League, Murillo worked as a distribution clerk.

Light navel orange crop seen for W.E.

SAN BERNARDINO — Hot spells and a "June" drop may cause a light navel orange crop here.

"A late blossom and fruit setting period was followed by sudden hot spells, a flush of new tree growth and June drop," reported Warren Burr, assistant county agricultural commissioner.

These conditions may also affect both the valencia orange and grapefruit crops, he added.

A new growth of lemons, associated with a light bloom, is becoming evident under the influence of hot spells. "Present indications are also a short lemon crop for next season," said Burr.

Workers are now picking valencia oranges. The fruit size continues below normal. Those oranges diverted to processing are running from 35 to 50 per cent due to small sizes, wind and thrip scars, regreening and frost damage, he noted.

"Domestic sales are slow while export demand is good," said Burr. "The present estimates are now 300 field boxes per acre, with 25 per cent of the crop harvested."

Lemon picking was only slight during June as the season neared an end. By mid-summer, however, light picking is forecast when the new season begins.

Fruit from the old crop is rapidly moving out of storage as domestic shipments continue heavy. Exports, were reduced during the month.

In other crops, Burr reported leafhoppers are posing a problem to grape growers and the sweet corn harvest began July 1.

Mail delivery routes may change slighty

ONTARIO — Residents here may notice a change in the delivery time of their mail and possibly a new carrier serving them.

"Every year we are required to inspect the carrier routes, and based on the statistics of each route—such as the volume of mail, time required to sort case and deliver the mail—regular routes must be adjusted to as close as eight hours daily as possible," explained Charles F. Linck, postmaster.

This is difficult to do as each carrier and each delivery route are usually different, he added. "This year, in an effort to increase mail delivery productivity, carriers are being adjusted to routes which mostly have been increased about 10 per cent."

This is in keeping with the national delivery requirements and regional budgetary demands, said Linck.

On a normal day, a carrier should be able to handle his regular route in eight hours. On heavy mail volume days, however, he will probably require assistance or overtime to complete the route.

"Residents are urged to be understanding of their mail delivery situation as carriers attempt to adjust to their new delivery areas and duties," he said.

"This adjustment, coupled with the present heat wave, makes the carrier job very difficult."

Chino High School has the largest attendance with 435 students, followed by Newman Elementary School with 433 and Don Antonio Lugo High School, 415.

Other schools include: E. J. Marshall School, 356; Ramona School, 338; Gird Primary School, 272; Los Serranos and Glenmeade Schools, 251; El Rancho School, 160; and Gird Elementary School, 129.

Chino Basin Water District proud of new cleaning device

CUCAMONGA — The Chino Basin Municipal Water District (CBMWD) has purchased a $60,000 sewer cleaning machine which may clean five times as much line per year at one-fourth the cost.

"With conventional equipment, a crew of four or five men normally can clean 500 to 1,000 feet of sewer line per day at an average cost of 50 to 75 cents per foot," said Andrew Schlange, CBMWD general manager.

The new "Vacto-Jet Rodder," a combination sewer cleaner and catch basin cleaning machine, will average 3,000 feet of sewer line daily at a cost of under 10 cents per foot, he added.

"The water pump in the machine creates a surging action which overcomes obstruction and blockages in the line. The nozzle is reeled back through the pipe, dislodging grit, grease, sludge, small roots and other objects.

"The vacuum portion of the equipment sucks up this debris by means of a suction pipe lowered into the manhole, and conveys it to the receiving tank, thus completing the cleaning of the sewer line and removal of the material from the system in a single operation."

The district seeks to clean 50 miles of non-reclaimable waste line and 100 miles of interceptor sanitary sewage lines every two years in its preventive maintenance program.

Friends, foes join in praising Ryan

United Press International

DETROIT (UPI) — Frank Robinson has batted against all the best pitchers in both leagues over the last 15 years, including Nolan Ryan, and he says his current teammate with the California Angels rates right up there with the best of them.

"He throws as hard as anybody I've ever seen," said Robinson, the only man ever to win the Most Valuable Player award in both leagues. "His curve ball made him, not his fast ball. He threw a lot of curves out there.

"In fact," he added with a big grin, "he struck me out three times and I wasn't even playing."

Both California teammates and Detroit rivals joined in praising Ryan after the young righthander threw his second no-hitter of the season Sunday as the Angels beat the Tigers, 6-0. Ryan struck out 17 batters, the most by any pitcher in a no-hit game. He walked four batters.

No Detroit batter reached second base, every Tiger in the lineup struck out at least once, and there was only one hard-hit ball for the California fielders to handle. That came with one out in the ninth inning when Gates Brown drilled a line drive that had Detroit shortstop Rudy Meoli, only 5-9, stretching as high as he could to snare it.

"Pitching against as good a hitting team as Detroit is right now is really doing a job," Manager Bobby Winkles of California said.

"He is as good, stuffwise, as any pitcher in the game today," Winkles said.

"It's kind of hard to compare him with the greats right now," teammate Vada Pinson said, "but he's got a great future ahead of him."

Duke Sims, who struck out three times against Ryan, at first said he was "embarrassed" but thought about it and admitted there was nothing shameful in being overmatched.

"I've had no-hitters thrown against me," Sims said, "but never as overpowering as that one."

"It's a hard thing to do a nohitter," the Detroit catcher said. "A shutout is hard enough, but to throw a no-hitter with 17 or 18 punch-outs (strikeouts) . . .

"The thing is he only threw 126 pitches. Normally when you strike out as many as he did, you're going to throw 150-160 pitches," Sims said. "It's incredible."

"I wanted the no-hitter," Ryan admitted. "I'd rather have that than the strikeout record. I think, with the stuff I had, I'll get another chance at that."

Singles by Art Kusnyer and Sandy Alomar plus Pinson's sacrifice fly in the third inning kept Ryan clinging to a 1-0 lead until the Angels exploded like their pitcher's fastball for five runs in the eighth.

Until that outburst, Ryan said later, he was more worried about winning the game than anything else—and if you know Nolan Ryan you know that wasn't just talk.

But Winston Llenas and Al Gallagher each singled home two runs and Bob Oliver singled home one to pin Jim Perry with his ninth loss against nine wins.

Kusnyer's single broke an 0-for-30 slump and was his first hit since May 5 while Llenas' hit, his 11th in 27 pinch-hit tries, enabled him to establish a new club mark with 13 pinch runs batted in.

Ryan is only 11-11 this season and his earned run average only slightly below 3.00 despite the two hitless games. His other was May 15 at Kansas City, when he struck out 12 and walked three in a 3-0 win.

This time he let it be known to the 41-411 fans who showed up on Cap Day that he was superb right away. Ryan struck out 12 of the first 14 outs Detroit made.

"Either his fastball or his curve should be outlawed, they're that tough," home plate umpire Ron Luciano said after the game, and after Ryan had been mobbed by his teammates and given a standing ovation by the crowd.

Ryan, who's only 26, now has 220 strikeouts this season, more at this time of the year than any pitcher has ever had. Sandy Koufax' season record of 382 is in definite jeopardy if Ryan stays healthy.

"He doesn't need any superlatives," shortstop Ed Brinkman of Detroit said. "You just have to watch him pitch."

RYAN'S NO-HIT FORM

This is what American League hitters must face when they bat against the Angels' no-hit ace, Nolan Ryan.

McCluskey can't beat Foyt

By United Press International

Roger McCluskey could get a complex the way he keeps losing to A.J. Foyt.

On July 1, McCluskey was leading the Pocono 500 when he ran out of gas on the last lap and Foyt cruised past to win his second United States Auto Club championship race of the year.

They finished in the same order Sunday when A.J. scored a 6.3 second beat on McCluskey in a USAC stock car race at the Michigan International Speedway. Foyt averaged 134.429 miles an hour.

The second place finish ruined McCluskey's chance for a double on the day. The Tucson, Ariz., driver opened his bid for the "iron man" stunt earlier when he beat Johnny Rutherford by 24.4 seconds in the championship car half of the Twin 200 with an average speed of 161.146 miles an hour.

McCluskey, point leader in the USAC driver standings, earned $21,076 for his day's work, including a $17,250 check for the first race victory.

Mike Keyser and Bob Beasley's Porsche Carrera staged a 5½-hour battle with the Horst Kwech-Harry Theodoracopulos Capri and won the International Motor Sports Association Camel GT Challenge at Mid-Ohio when their rivals were forced into a lengthy pit stop with a broken axle shaft just 30 minutes from the finish.

The Keyser-Beasley tandem averaged 81.634 miles an hour to beat the Corvette of runnerup Ike Knupp, Allan Barker and Mike Murray. Kwech and Theodoracopulos finished third.

The team of Nick Craw and John Morton won the six-hour B.F. Goodrich Radial Challenge race on the 2.4 mile Mid-Ohio course Saturday, leading a 1-2-3 BMW finish.

Bob Sharp, driving a Datson dealer 610, beat pole sitter John McCombe's Triumph in a Sports Car Club of America production race at Pocono Raceway. In a Sunday co-feature, Sharp lost to Bob Tullius' Triumph when he gambled on using rain tires and an expected downpour did not materialize.

Heavy rain forced postponement of Sunday's scheduled National Northern 300 stock car race at the Trenton Speedway. The race was put over to Aug. 5, with defending champion Bobby Allison maintaining the pole position when the race goes off next month.

In Saturday's big overseas race, Peter Revson became only the fifth American to win a Grand Prix Formula One race when he captured the British GP in a Works McLaren-Ford. An eight-car accident on the first lap, precipitated by Jody Scheckter's tire blow out, forced Can-Am leader George Follmer out of the race.

Revson was the first American to win a GP race since Mario Andretti's victory in the 1971 South African Grand Prix.

Ryan's no-hitter was for Angels

By United Press International

Nolan Ryan really wanted a no-hitter Sunday, but not for himself, for someone else.

Corny as it sounds, he wanted it for the California Angels, and they needed one more than Nolan Ryan did.

He had pitched a no-hitter against the Kansas City Royals on May 15 and when he duplicated the feat against the Detroit Tigers Sunday, Ryan became the first pitcher in 20 years to pitch two no-hitters in the same season.

Ryan, a fireballing 26-year-old righthander from Alvin, Tex., struck out 12 of the first 14 batters he retired as the California Angels blanked the Tigers, 6-0. Ryan finished with 17 strikeouts—the most ever in a no-hit game—before a Cap Day crowd of 41,-411 in Detroit. Ryan walked four batters.

The victory broke a four-game California losing streak and snapped a winning string of five games for the Tigers. It marked the second time this season that a no-hitter has been thrown against Detroit.

"I really wanted it," said Ryan, who rarely talks about himself. "The club needed it and I needed it."

The Angeles, in third place, are 4½ games behind the Oakland A's in the American League's tight Western Division scramble.

"I haven't pitched that well recently," said Ryan, who places a high premium on the club's overall success and accepts personal achievements with modesty.

"I think Nolie feels that for us to be a contender he has to have a good second half," Winkles said. "He's made up his mind he's going to have a good second half even if we don't get him any runs."

In other American League action, New York stopped Kansas City, 2-0, Oakland downed Milwaukee, 8-5, Minnesota edged Cleveland in 10 innings, 7-6, Baltimore edged Chicago, 3-2, and Boston beat Texas, 3-1 in a rain-shortened 5½ inning game.

Roy White singled home two runs in the eighth inning to back up the combined four-hit pitching of Sam McDowell and Sparky Lyle in New York's win over Kansas City. McDowell, 4-1; allowed three hits while walking seven and fanning seven. Lyle pitched the ninth to pick up his 24th save of the year.

Bill North's ninth-inning double drove in two runs and Reggie Jackson added a two-run home run as Oakland scored four runs in the ninth for a victory over Milwaukee. Dick Green and Bert Campaneris singled in the ninth. With one out, North doubled to score Green and Campaneris and with two outs, Jackson hit his 20th home run into the right field bleachers.

Danny Thompson's one-out sacrifice fly in the 10th inning scored pinch-runner Mike Adams and gave Minnesota a victory over Cleveland. Adams entered the game as a pinchrunner for Tony Oliva, who walked to lead off the 10th, and took second when George Mitterwald walked and third on a walk to Jim Holt.

Successive eighth-inning home runs by George Mitterwald, Joe Lis and Jim Holt gave the Twins a 6-5 lead but Buddy Bell singled home the tying run in the ninth. The homers erased a 5-3 lead supplied earlier in the inning on a three-run homer by George Hendrick, his 19th.

Dwight Evans cracked a solo homer in the second inning to give Boston a victory over Texas. Evans snapped a 1-1 tie with his fifth homer of the year into the left field screen with one out in the second. Rain delayed the start of the game for 2 hours and 52 minutes and showers persisted throughout the contest before it finally was called.

Baltimore erupted for three runs on four hits in the top of the sixth inning to edge Chicago. The winning rally started when Mark Belanger doubled and Al Bumbry singled Belanger home. Paul Blair walked and Tommy Davis singled to score Bumbry before Earl Williams singled home the third run.

Prep fans get more action

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Staff Writer

AZUSA — Prep football fans attending Thursday's San Gabriel Valley All-Star football game at Citrus College will get something extra.

12 more minutes of football than they're used to.

Under the rules of the All-Star game quarters will be played in the 15-minute segments that professionals operate under.

High school games normally are played in 12-minute quarters.

The extra three minutes that are tacked onto each period presents unique conditioning problems that are compounded by the gap in time between a player's last game, probably late last November or early December.

Both East and West have had to cram conditioning and practice into the last two weeks before the game — and the effects of the lay-off and lengthened playing time may have an effect on play Thursday night.

East head coach Ken Gunn thinks the playing time will, indeed, be a factor to consider.

"The 15-minute quarter gives us quite a conditioning problem," says Gunn. "It is quite different from a normal game. Three more minutes may not seem like a long time, but to those guys down on the field it is."

The timing isn't the only difference.

Each team is limited in the number of formations it can assume during the game, which will make for a pretty conventional game plan.

The reasoning behind the field rules is prevention of injury.

The purpose of the game is to showcase great players at the peak of their careers, not to curtail those careers.

West coach Dick Salter explains the effect of formation limitiation.

"We want, above all, to protect individuals. It would be a shame to have a defensive back red-dog through the line and have a leg broken.

"Another protective rule is that when you line up to punt, you must punt. Something like a tackle-eligible play has been thrown out altogether.

"We're now locked into three offensive sets. We must always line five players up, at least, on the line in order to snap the ball."

Salter is particularly concerned about injury to this year's All-Star team.

"It's been a great plasure to work with a group of kids eager to sacrifice their plans for football. It's a privilege to work for a greater charity." (Proceeds from the game go to Casa Colina hospital in Pomona.)

"Rewards in many forms have come to these players for their participation in football. This is their chance to give some back to charity."

Gunn concurs with Salter's judgment of this year's crop of All-Stars. "The one thing that has really improved is the enthusiasm. Each young man we called was really eager to play, with the exception of one who had to work. The Game has increased in stature. Students, players, and coaches all over are really looking forward to it."

Rams welcome more veterans

FULLERTON, Calif. (UPI) — Twenty-nine more veterans, headed by all-pros Merlin Olsen and Tom Mack, checked into the Los Angeles Rams' camp Sunday night.

The Rams disclosed that 10-year safetyman Jerry Logan, obtained during the off-season from the Baltimore Colts for a draft choice, had told them he was retiring.

Coach Chuck Knox said the Rams—now 84 strong—will work out in the morning and the afternoon Monday.

Olsen, the 12-year defensive tackle, and Mack, the 11-year offensive guard, are among 46 veterans in camp.

Killebrew sets knee operation

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI)—Hermon Killebrew, the Minnesota Twins' ailing slugger, will undergo an operation on his left knee July 23 and is expected to be lost for the remainder of the season.

A Twins' spokesman said Killebrew will be operated on for a torn medial cartiledge and could be available to the Twins in six or eight weeks. He suffered the injury June 25 while batting against the Chicago White Sox.

Killebrew is batting .245 this season with three homers and 26 runs batted in.

Broken jaw KOs Shavers from fight

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (UPI) — Heavyweight Earnie Shavers suffered a broken jaw in a workout at the Grossinger Country Club Sunday and he will be unable to fulfill a scheduled date against Jerry Quarry on July 25.

It is estimated that the fifth ranking Shavers will be out of the ring for at least six months.

The accident happened in the second round of a two-round workout with sparring partner Jeff Merritt. Shavers, of Warren, Ohio, was taken to the Community General Hospital in Liberty, N.Y., where he was found to have a fracture of both sides of the jaw after an examination by Dr. Seymour Bessen.

Bassen, who wired the jaw Sunday night, reported that Shavers had a fractured mandible with fractures on the right side of his face to the top near the temple and along the lower left hand side of the jaw.

Shavers, who has a record of 45 wins and two losses, was placed in intensive care following the operation and will remain in the hospital at least a week.

An official for Madison Square Garden said that another opponent for Quarry might be found.

Sizzling hot Dodgers spoil Cubs' party

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — Midway through Sunday's game between the Dodgers and Chicago Cubs, the visitors' announcer, Jack Brickhouse, wandered through the pressbox.

"Baseball is no fun anymore," he said with a wry grin.

At that time, Brickhouse's Cubs were merely trailing 5-2. It got worse for the Chicagoans before the game ended.

What was to have been a showdown between the leaders of the National League's East and West divisions a possible preview of the playoffs turned out to be a disaster for the Cubbies.

With Claude Osteen junkballing the slump-ridden Cub hitters into submission and Dodger batters pounding Chicago ace Rick Reuschel (10-6) and his successors for nine runs on 13 hits, the ambitious young Dodgers rolled over the Cubs, 9-3, leaving the dazed and battered Chicagoans to reel out of Dodger Stadium with their East lead cut to two games over the hot St Louis Cardianls who edged San Diego 5-4.

Meanwhile, the Dodgers, rolling merrily on their way again, retained their seven game lead in the West.

In the three games, the major league-leading Dodger hitters for team average) mauled Cub hurling for 31 hits and scored 21 runs while the Cubs could manager only six.

Only some three minor injuries marred the day for the high-flying Angelenos.

Willie Davis suffered what was described as a "minor muscle spasm" in his left hamstring just after rounding first base on what still turned out to be a triple in the seventh inning. Davis hippity-hopped his way around second and safely into the third.

He's expected to be out just a "couple of games."

Bill Russell the other irreplaceable on the Dodger roster, was hit on the left elbow by a Reuschel pitch in sixth inning. Russell remained in the game and afterward said the bruise didn't bother him much.

Winning pitcher Osteen (11-5) has been bothered by an aching elbow on his pitching arm and had doubts about his durability before and during the game.

"I came to the ball park wondering what kind of stuff I'd have," he remarked as he sat in the trainer's room, his left arm immersed in ice.

"I told them (manager Walter Alston and pitching coach Red Adams) in the fifth inning that my arm was aching and I didn't know how far I could go," he revealed. "I don't know what caused it. I've had it for a couple of days. It's just kind of a tired ache."

The aching arm caused Osteen to pitch an entirely different kind of game.

"I didn't seem to have too much so I went to what I call my offspeed stuff, slow curves and changes," he continued. As a result, when I did throw a fast ball, it seemed faster than it really was."

What Osteen did have in abundance was control. Of his 108 pitches, 76 were strikes. He didn't walk anyone and struck out five.

"The last two or three innings, I had a heck of a time just throwing the first pitch," he related. "My arm really stiffto get my arm up anyway and this really threw my game off."

The middle of the Dodger batting order was most productive this sunny, cool Sunday afternoon.

Davis went 2-for-4, batted in his 55th and 56th runs, scored his63rd and 64th, and raised his average to .304.

Joe Ferguson had two singles and a walk, batted in his 51st and 52nd runs, scored his 47th and 48th, and jacked his average up to .281.

But batting honors went to Willie Crawford who smashed a wrong field home run in the third inning to account for three of the five Dodger runs i that stanza and a double in the seventh.

Willie C. brought his RBI total to 38, his runs scored to 47, and raised his average to .308.

"I had a felling I'd hit one out today," the one-time $100,000 bonus baby said. "I hit a hanging hook. I finally have learned how to think positive about this game. That's why I'm enjoying this year so much."

All of Crawford's seven homers have been hit at Dodger Stadium. "I guess," he grinned," I just like hitting in front of the home crowd."

Steve Garvey ripped two singles and batted in two runs. Garvey now is batting. 328. He has hit safely in seven of the last eight games (13-for-33. . .329).

The Cubs scored in the first on a leadoff double by Rick Monday and two infield outs. They added another in the third inning on Monday's single and a checked-swing double by Billy Williams.

The third run came in the eighth inning on Jose Cardenal's infield hit and Ron Santo's double.

The Dodgers bunched their hits to score five times on five hits in the third, once o two hits in the fifth, and three times on four hits in the seventh.

It marked the 27th time this year the club has come from behind to win.

DODGER NOTES — The Dodgers flew out of Los Angeles for Pittsburgh right after Sunday's game. They open a three-game series with the Pirates tonight.

Don Sutton, Andy Messersmith, and Tommy John will oppose Nelson Briles, Luke Walker, and Dock Ellis.

Sunday's 42,975 paid attendance brought the total for the three games with the Cubs to 145,903 and the season total to 1,300,175. The Dodgers now are only 37,668 behind their last two million-plus season, 1971.

The Dodgers played errorless ball Sunday. They have made only 69 in 94 games this season. Last year thef passed the 100 mark in miscues and had 101 in 93 games. The infield has made only 46 errors compared to 74 last year.

McCovey hits 400th HR

By United Press International

Willie McCovey's approach to "getting even" with those wonderful folks who were responsible for sitting him on the bench five days ago, seems like a good way of getting back.

He hit two home runs Sunday to become one of only 15 major league players ever to reach the 400-mark as the San Francisco Giants ripped the Pittsburgh Pirates 12-0..

"It could have been a bigger thrill. I don't feel I have to be put in the position of having to prove anything." said McCovey, who at the age of 34 this season has hit 17 homers and batted in 43 runs.

The two shots by McCovey paced a 15-hit Giant attack and gave him 17 for the season, adding to a total of 401 lifetime.

Juan Marichal pitched the Giants over the Pirates, allowing four hits to gain credit for his seventh victory in 12 decisions.

"This game certainly restored my confidence," said Marichal, "Now I feel like I'm earning my money. I didn't feel that way in the bullpen where I hardly pitched at all and wasn't helping the team."

Also Lending support were Garry Maddox and Ed Goodson with two run homers as the Giants piled up 10 hits off four Pirate hurlers.

San Francisco completed the rout with five more runs in the eighth off rookie Tom Dettore. Key hits were a two-run single by Gary Matthews, a two-run double by Mike Phillips and a run-scoring double by Bobby Bonds.

In other National League games, Los Angeles beat Chicago 9-3, Atlanta toppled Montreal 6-1, Houston blanked Philadelphia 2-0 in a rain shortened game and St. Louis edged San Diego 5-4 in 15 innings.

Willie Crawford hit a three-run homer and a double and Willie Davis added a two-run single and triple as the Dodgers whipped the Cubs to complete a three game sweep of the series between the divisional leaders.

By capturing their fifth victory in a row, the Dodgers maintained their seven-game bulge over San Francisco in the NL West. Dodgers' left-hander Claude Osteen went the distance to register his 11th victory in 16 decisions.

Ron Schueler scattered five hits in leading Atlanta to its 11th victory in 15 starts by beating the Expos. The Braves broke away with five runs on five hits and three walks in the third inning. The key hit was Johnny Oates' single that drove in Schueler and Ralph Garr.

Ross Grimsley picked up his ninth victory against five losses as the Reds topped New York. Grimsley had a perfect game until Jim Beauchamp beat out an infield single with one out in the fifth inning. He allowed only three other hits, one of them a leadoff homer in the seventh inning by Willie Mays, his fourth of the season and the 658th of his career.

Dave Roberts blanked the Phillies in a rain-snortened 5⅓ inning game and the Astros used RBI singles by Doug Rader and Bob Watson to beat Philadelphia. Roberts has now beaten the Phillies eight straight times.

Bernie Carbo doubled with two out in the top of the 15th inning to drive in Ken Reitz from first base with the winning run as St. Louis outlasted the Padres. The win moved the Cardinals to within two games of the first-place Cubs in the Eastern Division.

Pomona 30 sweeps series over S. Gabriel

SAN GABRIEL —Pomona Post 30 stayed in the thick of the red-hot District playoff race Sunday completing a weekend series sweep with a 7-4 romp over San Gabriel.

Greg Ballard started and went five innings allowing a scratch singles in five innings of work, one of his most impressive outings of the year.

Mark Lambert picked up Ballard and was touched up for four hits and four runs in the sixth before retiring the final seven batters he faced.

Larry Pekarcik pitched outstanding ball in his two inning stint. The righthander struck out seven batters, one reached base via a pass ball, in his best showing of the year.

The Gems scored once in he first and two runs in the second, third, and fourth frames while racking up 17 hits, giving them 33 safeties in the two games.

Jeff Corkill had three hits including a triple, Keith Thomas matched the three-hit effort, while Wil Lewallen, Roger Slayton, Greg Gallard, and Eddie Carmean added two hits each. in fact, the only starter without a hit was Bobby Chaulk. Ballard picked up two ribbies.

La Verne shows muscle

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — Confidence is a must in any endeavor. In baseball it's a necessity. Besides being good, talented and lucky the better clubs must believe they are capable of beating any other club.

La Verne Post 330 called on its strongest characteristic—confidence—Sunday afternoon and made believers out of West Covina Post 790.

The big club blasted five round-trippers while pitchers Jim Vallone and Greg Thompson checked West Covina on four hits en route to a 12-1 rout.

La Verne, now 26-11 for the season and 11-5 (including a pair forfeit wins from Glendora scheduled for next weekend), in District 18 play can now relax and enjoy its waiting role.

Covina (12-1), West Covina (10-4), Pomona (9-5), and Arcadia (8-5) are still waging the battle for the four playoff spots. Covina, who plays South Pasadena in a make-up game Tuesday and Arcadia next Saturday and Sunday, appears to have locked up the conference title and the number one seed in the district playoffs.

West Covina looks to have a berth in the playoffs, finishes up with La Puente for a pair of games. While La Verne is assured of at least a tie for the third or fourth spot, Pomona and Arcadia must win their remaining games to get the at-large spot. The Gems have the easier schedule against South Pasadena (6-6) while Arcadia plays South Pasadena for a singleton Wednesday and league-leading Covina Friday and Saturday.

Vallone (9-7) drew a few oohs and ahs from the partisan fans as the southpaw, who started yesterday's ball game in which La Verne dropped 9-7 despite a five-run ninth inning rally, got the starting nod again and hurled starting nod again and hurled seven innings of two-hit ball.

The 'golden arm', who didn't allow a hit until a fifth inning nubber by Chuck Taylor, escape a touchy fourth frame unscathed. Vallone plunked Tony Robles with a curve and Frank Marini reached first by an error.

Following an argument with the umpire in which the lefthander felt he'd picked Marini off first, Thompson (catcher) picked Robles off second base. Bob Adams struck out and Dave Snyder grounded out to end the threat.

While Vallone displayed the poise from the rubber, Thompson and company supplied the sock.

Thompson broke a scoreless deadlock in the fifth with a grand slam home run, smashing Jim Worth's 3-1 fastball far over the left field screen (320-foot mark) scoring Rick Ortega who had doubled and Vallone and Mark Willman who had loaded the bases on back-to-back walks.

West Covina's only run came in the seventh when Adams opened with a double, advanced to third on a wild pitch and scored on a ground out by Jim Boyles.

Post 330 bounced right back with a pair of runs in the bottom of the frame when Ortega reached on an error and Mark Willman blasted a home run, his sixth of the year. It was his 25th and 26th RBI's of the season.

La Verne closed its scoring with a six-run eighth inning. Dave Alexander walked and Jim Richards singled. Al Ascosta then blasted a Worth-fastball for a three-run home run, his first of the year and giving him 18 ribbies. Ortega thrilled the fans by matching the fete with a roundtripper over the left-center field fence, his third four-bagger of the year and 16th RBI. Following Willman's double, Thompson hit his circuit clout of the game, this time a curve ball that hung, over the left-center field screen, his two roundtrippers and six RBI's gives him five and 27 respectively—very respectively.

Besides Thompson's two hits, Willman collected three with Oretega garnering a pair of extra base hits.

Thompson, incidently, hurled the final two frames, allowing two harmless singles.

La Verne's confidence will have to pay off in the past season activity as it will be without the services of Mark Bumstead, who suffered a hairline fracture of a lower lumbar vertebrae in yesterday's game, and Willman who will only see weekend duty because of a job. Pitcher Brian Ranney may miss the playoffs because of a sore arm suffered from a hit pitch.

Post 330 had 14 hits to steady its .310 team batting average.

Walnut earns playoff bid

POMONA — Walnut Connie Mack assured itself of a San Gabriel Valley Connie Mack League playoff berth Sunday afternoon with a 2-1 squeaker over powerful Industry behind the superb pitching of Bobby Salas.

Claremont Connie Mack, who has but to win one of its three remaining league games to earn a playoff berth, rallied for the second day in-a-row before falling on the short end of a 6-4 non-league decision to Covina Post 207.

Montclair, who received a forefeit win from San Bernardino, blanked Chino Post 299 6-0 in a non-league encounter behind the four-hit pitching of Tim Price.

Walnut earned its playoff spot with a ninth inning run in its narrow win over powerful Industry, who dropped its third game in 17 league decisions.

Lance Parrish opened the ninth with a walk and advanced to third base on Gerard Piccioni's single to right field. Jim Vallandingham then sent the Industry shortstop deep into the whole for a grounder, who threw too late to second trying to force Piccioni while Parrish was scoring the winning run.

Parrish put Walnutsose' end Parrish put Walnut's second inning run on the scoreboard with a 390-foot homer to left, his fourth of the year.

Salas (4-3) mixed his pitches well, keeping Industry off balance with an excellent change and a fine curve, chaulked up 10 strikeouts and only walked two batters in going the route.

Chris Chaney, who suffered the heartbreaking defeat, is now 10-2.

Walnut plays West Covina Legion in a non-league tilt Tuesday at MSAC before concluding its league season Thursday at home against Industry.

Claremont, for the second straight day, fell to defeat despite late inning rallies, this time to Covina Legion.

The Cardinals, who yesterday scored six times in the final three frames and lost 8-7, trailed 6-0 before coming back with a run in the fifth and three tallies in the sixth.

Harry Brown (2-3) started for Claremont and allowed eight hits and six walks over the first four innings before settling down stifle Covina without a hit the rest of the way.

Dave Stanton and Gary Bach led the Cards wih two hits each. Stanton's performance included a double and two RBI's.

Jack Helber's club concludes its campaign hosting Bassett today in a 5:30 p.m. tiff at Pomona College with John Huddleston (7-5) getting the starting nod. Tuesday and Wednesday Claremont travels for a pair of games with league foe Glendora.

Claremont needs only one win in the three games to gain a post season berth.

Montclair received a shot in the arm as hurler Tim Price threw a four-hit shutout over Chino Post 299.

The righthander started off shagily, yielding back-to-back singles to Paul Brionnes and Manny Delgado before settling down to retire the next 17 batters in a row. The string was broken by Delgado's sixth inning safety.

Price ended the o tteens Price ended the contest with 10 k's while issuing one pass in leading his club to a 20-10 overall mark.

Montclair was given a forfeit win from the now disbanded San Bernardino club. The game was to have been a completion of a 2-2 game played June 27.

Montclair blasted out 14 hits including Mike Pittman's triple. Pittman, who is hitting at a .358 clip, added a single and an RBI to the offense.

Jim Brown, who recently returned from an injury (broken collarbone), contributed three singles and a run-batted-in as did Kevin McLean, also three hits. Brown has 14 hits in 30 at-bats since returning to the lineup.

Coach Bob Lastoski's crew can clinch a tie for the District 25 Division 1 Championship Tuesday night when it travels to Apple Valley for an 8 p.m. meeting. Montclair won 8-3 earlier in the season.

Botts defeats Jacobs in PGA match play

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Former tour pro Rafe Botts of Los Angeles became the first black man to capture the Southern California PGA match play championship Sunday, beating Tommy Jacobs on the 35th hole of a scheduled 36-hole match

"Winning this tournament means a lot to me," said the 36-year-old Botts. "I feel it's a major event and it's my first big win."

Jacobs, 38, the head pro at the La Costa Country club, was trying to become the first man in 23 years to take the tournament three straight times.

By winning the 49th annual event, Botts gained an exemption to the PGA national tournament at Cleveland Aug. 9-12 and all tour events in California next year.

"I'm mad at myself for playing so poorly," said Jacobs, also an ex-tour pro. "I haven't played too much under pressure this year and I just didn't do the job."

Playing in his first Southern California event, Botts built up a big lead and then withstood Jacobs' late challenge.

Down seven holes early in the afternoon round, Jacobs won the 25th, 27th, 28th, 31st and 32nd holes to slice his deficit to two with four holes remaining.

Then came a lucky bounce that blunted Jacobs' comeback.

Botts hit an iron over the 15th green—the 33rd hole — that hit a woman spectator in the head and bounced onto the putting surface. He then parred the hole to halve Jacobs.

"That was the turning point in the match,' admitted Botts.

The woman was not seriously injured.

In consolation matches, Dave Hart defeated Gerry Preuss 4-2, Eddie Merrins won over Wally Bradley 4-3 and Dennie Meyer turned back Terry Ferraro 2 up.

FLYING START — Italian skier Alessandro Casse moves down the slope after a flying start to beat his world record at 114.227 MPH on third day of international contest at Cervinia, Italy.

McKay won't scrimmage 'Stars

CHICAGO (UPI) — If any of the 1973 College All Stars can't play against the Miami Dolphins in the annual pro-collegian football contest July 27, it'll be because they get hurt "eating ice cream."

Coach John McKay doesn't plan any scrimmages for his pro rookies before game time.

"It's my theory they don't need it," he said. "If any of them are going to get hurt, let them get hurt eating ice cream."

McKay, coach of the unbeaten national champion Southern California team last fall, said his club is "as physical as the average pro team."

McKay believed too that his players have as much speed as the pros.

"We've got backs as fast as Mercury Morris," he said, "and as big as Larry Csonka. And we think we have defensive backs as fast as their receivers."

McKay said "everybody seems surprised" that he plans no scrimmages, and laughed as he added, "the pro's spent $10 million drafting these players.

"If they can't play, I think they spent a lot of money for nothing. If I got to scrimmage four hours to find out who's tough, they ought to hire me to tell them who to draft."

Regardless, he said, "We're going to play everybody and we expect them to be ready to play. We didnt bring anybody here to sit on the bench."

McKay's coaching theory is the same he used with the Trojans in that he had a minimum of scrimmages. "It worked out well," he said.

Some of his current players worked for him earlier this summer in the East-West All Star game at Lubbock, Texas, so he got an idea what they could do and they did get contact in the game.

"We have a little one-on-one and one-on-two drills," he said of the current All Stars. "They're in good shape, so we work two hours a day on the field and an hour and a half on mental drills. Mistakes are the things that lose games and we want to work to prevent them.

"This is not a proven team," he added. "The pro's are. When two All Star teams play, mistakes can even out. So if we lose this, everybody will say it's because we didn't scrimmage."

Of course the All Stars haven't beaten the pros since 1962 and every team since has scrimmaged. Until this year.

Dallas may fine Morton

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (UPI) — Veteran quarterback Craig Morton, who arrived at the Dallas Cowboys training camp early but walked out in a salary dispute, faces daily fines if he doesn't report with the rest of the team's veterans tonight.

Morton, who has battled Roger Staubach for the starting position the last two years, says he wants to change some of the incentive clauses in his present contract for a higher basic salary. He said he is prepared to quit football if the team does not meet his requests.

A team spokesman said Cowboys president Tex Schramm did not talk with Morton Sunday, and that the team was not trying to trade the former University of California quarterback.

Last year's starting Dallas center, Dave Manders, also is not in camp because of a contract dispute.

Dallas rookies scrimmaged the Los Angeles Rams' rookies during the weekend.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Harry Gilmer was an All-American tailback for Alabama although he weighted only 160 pounds.

Beman wins Robinson Open, pleased to play solid golf

ROBINSON, Ill. (UPI) — Deane Beman was happy to pick up the $25,000 first prize money in the $125,000 Shrine Robinson Open Golf Classic, but he was even more pleased that he put his game together again.

"I played very solid golf," said the 35-year-old Bethesda, Md., title winner after his victory Sunday. "I drove the ball very well and the way I am playing now you can put me on any golf course in the country and I can play it."

Beman, with rounds of 69-68-67-67, had a total of 13-underpar 271 on the par-71, 6,556-yard Crawford County Country Club course to win by one stroke over Bunky Henry and Bob Dickson, each of whom picked up $11,562.

Chuck Courtney was alone in fourth with 273 for $5,875 while Larry Hinson was fifth with a 274 and earned $5,125. A tie for sixth at 275 gave George Archer and Andy North $4,250 each.

A birdie that Beman scored on the 68th hole proved the deciding stroke and kept the tourney from going into overtime for the fifth consecutive year. The last four Classics were settled by sudden death play, a PGA record. Beman, whose last victory came in the 1972 Quad-Cities Open following a 1969 win in the Texas Open and the 1970 Milwaukee Open, gave a large share of credit in his victory to a friend, Carl Lohran, golf pro at the Glenhead North Shore Country Club in Long Island.

"He helped straighten out my game," Beman said.

First money brought the former U.S. amateur champion's career earnings to $364,067.

The $11,562 share of second place money represented a bonanza for the hard luck Henry of Valdosta, Ga., a former place kicker for Bobby Dodd at Georgia Tech.

Until recently, Henry had been without a sponsor for about three years after "going broke." He was off the tour for a month before Robinson after a 5-year-old twin son suffered a head injury in a fall off a high dive and his wife went to the hospital to have their fourth child. He had earned only $455 this year on the tour.

Henry scored three birdies and an eagle three in his final round of 66, but was proudest of saving par on the 510-yard 15th hole when he "popped one shot into some trees" and put the next one into a ditch.

Sixty-eight players finished at 284 or better for the 72 holes and 74 of the 144 who started playing last Thursday finished in the money.

Smith seeks second win

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UPI) — Veteran Stan Smith, an easy winner Sunday in the Swedish International Tennis Championships, will seek his second straight victory here this week as the $60,000 U.S. Pro Tennis Championships open at the Longwood Cricket Club.

Nine matches were on the schedule for today and tonight with Smith set to join the 32-man field on Tuesday night against Jimmy Connors.

Smith easily disposed of defending champion Manuel Orantes of Spain, 6-4, 6-1, 7-6, in Baastad, Sweden, to win the Swedish title.

The 26-year-old resident of Pasadena, Calif., has now won three tournaments in Sweden during the past year. He is the top-seeded player at Longwood.

Four of the eight seeded players were scheduled to be in action today. John Alexander, seeded fourth, squares off with Jeff Borowiak, fifth-seeded Cliff Richey faces Haroon Rahim, sixth-seeded Dick Stockton meets Dick Crealy and seventh-seeded Roscoe Tanner goes against Eddie Dibbs.

No. 2 Arthur Ashe plays Harold Solomon, No. 3 Marty Riessen meets Ismael El Shafei and No. 8 Tom Gorman faces eric Van Dillen on Tuesday.

Pro football roundup

Namath just visits

By United Press International

Joe Namath stayed just long enough to get acquainted.

Namath, the New York Jets' quarterback, reported to the club's Hofstra University training site Sunday for a physical and a brief one-hour session with Ken Shipp, a new assistant coach in charge of the passing game, before leaving to fulfill some television commitments on the West Coast.

Namath, the American Conference All star quarterback last season, weighed in at 205 pounds, his normal playing weight, and passed orthopedic examinations of his tender knees.

Most of the Jet squad reported Sunday and begin two-a-day workouts today. Namath, given time off to avoid extra strain on his knees, will report next Sunday and begin workouts on Monday.

The only serious holdout expected on the Jets is running back John Riggins. Riggins, who just missed the 1,000-yard mark last season despite missing more than three games, is asking for a $150,000 contract, nearly eight times his present salary, and has said he will quit football rather than play for less.

Elsewhere on the training camp scene, the Dallas Cowboys announced that quarterback Craig Morton, who walked out of camp after a salary dispute, would be fined daily if he doesn't report with the club's veterans by Monday night.

Morton arrived at camp early and then left, also saying he'll quit if he doesn't get his price.

Dave Manders, the Cowboys' starting center, also has not reported because of salary problems.

The World Champion Miami Dolphins held their first scrimmage Sunday and Bob Griese looked in mid-season form. The talented quarterback hit 5-of-5 passes for 44 yards. Rookie wide receiver Bo Rather of Michigan caught six passes and rookie quarterback Don Strock of Virginia Tech hit 7-of-11 passes for 85 yards and a touchdown.

The Dolphins kick off the exhibition season on July 29 when they take on the College All Stars in Chicago.

The New England Patriots waived veteran tight end Tom Beer and rookies Dan Ruster, Luther Palmer, John Harrison and Homer May and the Chicago Bears announced the retirement of three veterans, guard Jim Cadile, defensive end Steve DeLong and linebacker Ross Brupbacher.

The Pittsburgh Steelers opened camp missing five rookies and Coach Chuck Noll sent the club through a mile run and timed 40-yard dashes prior to two-a-day workouts today.

Terry Beasley and Don Wesley, both wide receivers, turned in the fastest times in the 40 yard dash—4.5 seconds — as the San Francisco Forty Niners had their first day of practice. Three players, Bill Yanchar, Art Freemore and Jim Nottingham, were dropped after failing physicals.

The Los Angeles Rams said that veteran safetyman Jerry Logan, obtained in the offseason from Baltimore, is retiring. New Coach Chuck Knox welcomed 84 players to the Rams' camp.

Twenty of the league's 26 camps now are open. Only Buffalo and Kansas City in the American Conference and Atlanta, Minnesota, the New York Giants and St. Louis in the National have not opened camp.

Not official

DETROIT (UPI) — Wayne State University's first football team, the 1918 squad, went unbeaten, untied and unscored upon, but gets no official recognition in the NCAA record books because it played just four games. WSU wasn't nicknamed the Tartars at that time but did go 4-0-0 while scoring 100 points.

What energy crisis?

That's a very good question as far as Barrett Broad of Southfield, Mich., is concerned. Gas shortages won't bother anyone using his PPV (People Powered Vehicle) to get around. Pedals, of course, are the secret. Designed for fun and exercise as well as utility, the PPV, according to Barrett, is great for short trips in the neighborhood, is pollution free and best of all presents no parking problems — simply upend the 110-pound vehicle, right, and take it indoors with you.

Mom's vigil ends with a funeral

SOUTH HOLLAND, Ill. (UPI) — Mrs. Frances Wozniak has been praying for the return of her son for 30 years. Monday she finally had him home.

"Now he's home," Mrs. Wozniak, 81, of Dolton, Ill., told a daughter as S. Sgt. Leonard Wozniak of the Army Air Corps was buried with full military honors. "I know he's home."

Wozniak was a 20-year-old flight engineer when his B24 Liberator went down in the jungles of New Guinea during World War II. He was listed as missing in action on July 5, 1943, and the Air Force declared him dead in December, 1945.

But his mother waited and hoped that one day her son would return.

Unforunately, it was not alive. Last summer an oil company employe found the wreckage of the four-engine bomber 12 miles from a New Guinea village. In it were the remains of 10 American flyers.

One was Wozniak. His remains were returned Friday following positive identification by technicians working n Japan, a sister said.

"Mother has been praying for his return for 30 years," the sister, Mrs. Dorothy Karp of Morris, Ill., said. "Now she's content."

Traps set to snare bighorns for relocation

LAS VEGAS (UPI) — A project designed to trap big horn sheep to be transported to new homes at Zion National Park has started in the Lake Mead Recreational area.

Some of the big horn also will be marked with transistor collars and turned loose again in the Lake Mead Recreational area so their habits can be traced by transistor radios.

A spokesman for the Nevada Fish and Game Department said several big horns were trapped Monday for the Zion Park project. Ultimately, officials hope that nine ewes and three rams will be transporter to the Utah park.

A corral-type trap surrounding a waterhole at Lake Mead National Recreational area is being used in the joint trapping venture.

Participating in the project are personnel of the National Park Service, the Nevada Department of Fish and Game and the Utah Division of Wildlife Resources.

UPLAND CASE

Police probe plane crash, arms cache

UPLAND — Formal complaints charging grand theft aircraft have been filed with West Valley Municipal Court against two Norwalk men who were seriously injured in a plane crash Sunday morning near Cable Airport.

The two men, Rodney Lee Crane, 25, and Michael George Perry, 25, remained in serious to critical condition at San Bernardino County Hospital this morning with burns and other injuries suffered in the crash.

Capt. Howard Seay of the Upland Police Department and Detective Robert Baringer were expected to interview Perry this morning in an attempt to unravel the mystery surrounding a cache of three rifles, two shotguns, and three pistols, along with survival gear, camping equipment and dehydrated food found in the charred remains of the Cessna Skymaster airplane.

Perry, a licensed single engine aircraft pilot, and Crane are suspected of stealing the airplane owned by an Upland physician. Both suspects, according to police, are ex-convicts.

Baringer said this morning officers found one of the suspects had seven checks with the imprinted name of "Lois G. Earl, 1179 Wessely, Los Angeles," imprinted on the left hand side, in his possession. Baringer said that Mrs. Earl reported her Los Angeles apartment burglarized on July 9, 1973, but did not report the burglary to Los Angeles Police.

Police reports said the airplane crashed bout 7:13 a.m. Sunday 100 yards west of the western Cable Airport runway near a drainage ditch. Two men walked out of the burning airplane and refused help from several rescuers on the scene.

They were picked up on Foothill Boulevard south of the crash scene near Padua Avenue by a Forestry Service employe, who transported them to the San Dimas Forestry Station where they were given first aid. From there, they were sent to San Antonio Community Hospital for emergency treatment and then transferred to the county hospital for further treatment.

Crane suffered burns over 65 per cent of his body and remained in critical condition at the hospital this morning. Perry was still listed in serious condition at the hospital this morning with a fractured back and burns, but was table to talk this morning.

CHARRED ARMS CACHE

Upland Police Officer William Gettings, left, and Capt. Howard Seay carefully examine the charred remains of several rifles, shotguns and handguns found in the wreckage of a stolen airplane that crashed at the end of Cable Airport's west runway Sunday with two men aboard. The two suspects in the crash were seriously injured and are in the San Bernardino County Hospital.

Agnew's vote on earlier decision clears the way

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate voted overwhelmingly today to give the green light for construction of the $3.5 billion Trans-Alaskan oil pipeline. The vote was 77-20.

It passed and sent to the House a bill that would grant a right-of-way across public lands for the 789-mile pipeline from the Alaska Coast to the ice-free port of Valdez.

A short time earlier, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew broke a 49-49 tie and cast the deciding vote today as the Senate voted to block further environmentalist court challenges to construction of a Trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

Agnew's vote blocked further consideration of an earlier decision to declare that the pipeline met requirements of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

It was the first time that Agnew had voted to break a tie since taking office in 1969.

The amendment offered by Sens. Mike Gravel and Ted Stevens of Alaska was meant to exempt the project from the 1969 environmental law. Stevens sought unsuccessfully to amend it further to provide for a three-judge panel to determine the constitutionality of such an exemption.

That amendment was defeated by a 54-43 vote.

The original amendment to exempt the project from the environmental act was approved, 49 to 48.

The vote in which Agnew broke the tie came on a motion by Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., to reconsider the earlier vote.

Stevens' unsuccessful move to further amend the bill to provide for the three-judge panel came after Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., warned that the Gravel-Stevens amendment would not head off court challenges.

Phone blackout linked to S.D. store burglary

SAN DIMAS — A burglar stole more than $3,000 in cash from Levitz Furniture Corp., after tying up a workman and cutting telephone cables — an act knocking out service to homes in the area.

The thief was surprised inside the warehouse at 633 W. Bonita Ave. by a workman, Grogorio M. Solis, 24, Los Angeles, who was cleaning up shortly after midnight. Solis, who speaks no English, told deputies through an interpreter that he heard pounding noises at 12:30 but paid no attention at first, thinking it was the air conditioner. Later, as he was working in a hallway near the office he found a man with a long-barreled automatic pistol in his right hand.

The man pointed the weapon at Solis and forced his hands behind his back. He tied up Solis and forced him to lie face down on a couch which was on display nearby. Solis said that when he lifted his head once, the man placed the muzzle of the pistol against his temple.

After a few minutes the man left, but Solis could not untie himself for more than two hours. When he did, he went to a telephone to call for help and found the instrument dead. So, he decided to wait for other employes to arrive for work at 8 and then tell them of the break-in.

In the meantime, telephone service in the area had gone dead. Even calls to the sheriff's station were interrupted and were possible only through an indirect routing system.

Authorities explained later that when the burglar entered, he cut several cables in an effort to foil the burglar alarm system and, in doing so, he cut the phone cables.

The intruder broke in through a fire exit door. Then he went to the office and broke open a safe, removing a little less than $4,000. Several tools used to force open the safe were left behind.

Investigators said that the burglary was similar to one at the Levitz warehouse in Redondo Beach. In that break-in early Jan. 22, the burglar got away with $35,000 and in that burglary, telephone cables also were cut.

Solis said the gunman was white, about 30 and had dark hair and a heavy mustache. He said he was 5 feet 7, weighed 170 and wore a short-sleeved shirt and dark trousers.

Power to lift freeze on some items okayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has voted to give the agriculture secretary power to take off the freeze in prices on any foods which are in short supply.

The surprise action came Monday without debate on a voice vote as the House considered the omnibus farm bill.

Under the amendment, offered by Rep. Harold V. Froelich, R-Wis., action to boost controlled wholesale or retail food prices could be triggered if the agriculture secretary told the President that the supply of a particular item would be "reduced to unacceptably low levels" if it were kept under a freeze.

Once the President had that certification he would be compelled to make "appropriate adjustments" in price regulations for any items covered by the certification of an existing or threatened shortage.

Froelich told newsmen he was "very surprised" no other congressman rose to debate this amendment before it was approved.

However, Rep. Charles M. Teague, R-Calif., ranking Republican member on the House Agriculture Committee, indicated the matter was handled routinely because "frankly, I think something like this (to allow increases in food prices) will be in Phase IV."

Froelich said he believed his amendment was needed because shortages of meat, poultry and other items are developing under the current price freeze.

Administration officials have indicated some increases in retail and wholesale prices will be permitted in Phase IV so that increases in raw farm product costs can be fully or partially passed on to consumers.

Kidnaper slays hostage, is shot

OCEANSIDE (UPI) — A kidnaper, halted at a roadblock by highway patrolmen and border patrol officers Monday, shot a woman hostage to death and was killed himself by police bullets.

The kidnaper, a black, appeared mentally disturbed and had vowed to "get as many white people as possible," said the husband of the dead woman.

The kidnaper was identified by the California Highway Patrol as Gary Raphael, 24, of San Diego.

Arthur Loomis, 53, of San Diego, told police that he worked with Raphael. When Loomis picked him up to go to work Monday, Raphael was armed with a sawed off shotgun and held him hostage at gunpoint, Loomis said.

Loomis said Raphael left Loomis' car outside the home of John C. Coronado, and his wife, Clara, because he saw a van he wanted to steal.

Raphael took the Coronados hostage, fleeing with them in the van. But Loomis escaped and alerted police.

Nixon to be out of hospital Friday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon has recovered sufficiently from his bout with viral pneumonia to be released from the hospital Friday morning, his doctors said today.

Dr. Walter Tkach, Nixon's personal physician, said the President would go directly from Bethesda Naval Hospital in suburban Maryland to Camp David for a long rest this weekend at his mountain top retreat.

Tkach told reporters, "If I'm smiling today it's for a very good reason —the President is convinced he now looks better and feels better."

Nixon stepped up his schedule today, meeting for 40 minutes with his Watergate lawyers Leonard Garment and J. Fred Buzhardt, apparently about the new disclosure before the Senate Watergate Committee that the President had recording devices on the telephones in all his offices.

White House Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler told reporters that tapes from the recordings from Nixon's conversations fall into the presidential documents class which Nixon has refused to turn over to the Senate committee.

At noon, the President began a final decision-making meeting on his Phase IV economic program with Treasury Secretary George P. Schultz and others. Ziegler said Phase IV definitely will be announced this week and made it clear that today's consultation would be the last with Nixon before the plan is unveiled.

Near record low of 52 in Valley

POMONA — Temperatures dipped early this morning to within six-tenths of a degree of a record low for July 17.

The chilliest reading for July 17 is 51.4 degrees, recorded in 1940. This morning's low was 52 degrees, according to Cal Poly weather observers.

Little change in temperature is expected tonight and Wednesday. During the day temperatures are predicted to reach 84 today and Wednesday with sunny skies.

Man flees, sees train smash his stalled tractor

CUCAMONGA — What a place to run out of gas.

Florentino Vallejo, a farm worker, was driving a farm tractor north on Milliken Avenue when the machine sputtered and came to a stop—right across some railroad tracks.

As Vallejo huffed and puffed to get the tractor off the steel rails, a train was spotted in the distance.

As the large locomotive drew nearer and nearer, Vallejo fled on foot, highway patrolmen said.

The train hit the tractor with such force, it split it in half.

Vallejo, 59, of 10246 24th St., was not hurt. The tractor belonged to his boss, Nick Divido.

White House mum on release of tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Every word spoken by or to President Nixon since the spring of 1971 in his Oval Office in the White House or his hideaway office next door has been tape recorded—and the Senate Watergate Committee wants to play the tapes.

The recordings could either confirm that John W. Dean III tipped off Nixon to the Watergate cover-up as early as September, 1972, or disprove Dean's sworn testimony and go a long way toward reestablishing Nixon's credibility. A Gallup poll says 71 per cent of the public rejects Nixon's denial of Watergate complicity.

So far, White House officials aren't saying whether Nixon will release the tapes. But he already has laid down a firm policy of refusing to release White House papers touching on Watergate despite the prospect the senators may seek to subpoena them.

The existence of the procedure for taping every conversation in Nixon's office was one of Washington's best secrets.

The disclosure may touch off a diplomatic storm—testimony before the committee indicates the White House has taped and filed even the most confidential conversations between Nixon and visiting foreign dignitaries.

His phone calls—if made over phones in the Oval Office, his hideaway office in the Executive Office Building next door to the White House, the Lincoln sitting room in the residential part of the White House or at his desk in Camp David—were similarly taped.

Alexander P. Butterfield, deputy assistant to the President until last March 14 and administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration since then, disclosed the existence of the taping devices Monday as a "surprise witness" before the Senate committee.

He swore that the recordings were made solely "for posterity" —to be stored in the Nixon library which will one day record the Nixon era of the American presidency.

Only Nixon and a handful of others knew—a few aides, led by H. R. Haldeman, Butterfield's boss, and the Secret Service agents who installed and operated the devices.

Butterfield's disclosures stole attention from the witness who followed him, Herbert W. Kalmbach, personal lawyer for Nixon.

But Kalmbach's testimony contradicted the cover-up denials offered under oath by Dean, former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and John D. Ehrlichman, former close aide to Nixon.

Shock, disbelief, so what—reactions to tapes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Joseph M. Montoya, D-N.M., said today he would vote for subpoena action if he and his colleagues on the Senate Watergate committee are not given access to President Nixon's tape recorded conversations related to the scandal

Montoya made the comments as other members of the Senate and political figures continued to express surprise —and in some cases shock —at disclosure that recording of Nixon's talks was carried out routinely since early 1971 without the knowledge of most of those involved in the conversations.

"If the President is in the clear in this Watergate matter, then we'd like to get any evidence to show it," Montoya said in a statement as the Watergate committee resumed hearings.

"In the event the committee requests the tapes and is refused, then I'd favor voting to subpoena the tapes ... I intend to respect any official material strictly pertaining to presidential business, but when it comes to anything related to the Watergate issue, then I believe it should be brought into the open."

The White House confirmed the recording arrangehents soon after the practice was disclosed Monday by former presidential aide Alexander P. Butterfield. Officials gave no immediate indication whether the tapes would be turned over to the Senate investigators.

Sen. George S. McGovern, DS.D., called the practice "an invasion of privacy" while Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., said he saw nothing wrong with it.

Former Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst, in London, voiced astonishment when told of the taping. "No kidding!" he exclaimed.

Robert H. Finch, former Nixon Cabinet member and counselor, said he was "literally astonished — I'm incredulous."

AFL-CIO President George Meany let it be known through a spokesman that he found the taping "almost beyond belief" and that he never had "the slightest idea" that his talks with the President were recorded.

"God bless the blunderers at the Watergate," Meany was quoted by an aide. "If they hadn't been so clumsy, America would never have known this was going on."

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., said, "if this kind of thing did go on, it was an outrage, almost beyond belief."

Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, House Republican leader, said he was not aware of the recording practice but had no objections to it. "I have never said anything to any President that could not be a matter of public record," he said.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he wanted to "think over" the implications of bugging presidential conversations. Most other Democrats voiced their displeasure at the practice.

Sen. Hugh Scott, the Republican leader, gave a terse "no comment, no comment at all" when asked what he thought of his conversation with Nixon being recorded.

Johnson aide calls bugging charge 'outrageous smear'

By United Press International

A top assistant to President Lyndon B. Johnson said Monday the charge that bugging devices were used extensively at the Johnson White House was "an outrageous smear."

But David Halberstam, who won the Pulitzer Prize for his coverage of the Vietnam War, said several people had told him they felt Johnson sometimes recorded their conversaqtions. George Reedy, Johnson's former press secretary, said he did not know if bugging devices were used by Johnson.

J. Fred Buzhardt, counsel to President Nixon, told the Senate Watergate committee in a letter Monday that Johnson had installed listening devices at the White House similar to those used by Nixon. His statement came shortly after Alexander P. Butterfield, a former White House aide, told the committee about bugging practices at the Nixon White House.

Joseph A. Califano, a top aide to Johnson, said Buzhardt's charge was "an outrareous smear on a dead President." He said, "The White House was not wired for sound," and Johnson opposed all bugging.

However, Califano said there was the capability to record telephone conversations in Johnson's office.

Reedy said in Milwaukee that he did not know whether Johnson recorded conversations. "That doesn't mean it didn't go on," he said. "You have to realize that I was in the White House only until 1966 and that I was press secretary only until 1965."

He said, "The facts are that presidents do many things which are unknown to their assistants."

In Nantucket, R.I., Halberstam said that, while he was researching a book, "a number of people told me they thought from time to time Johnson was tape recording their conversations in the Whhite House. There was a tonal change in Johnson's voice. It was no longer natural, which made them think he was taking it down."

Halberstam said he could not remember the names of people involved, but that they usually opposed Johnson on issues such as the Vietnam war.

Everywhere Nixon went, bug was sure to follow

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Whenever President Nixon would move from his Oval Office to the Lincoln Sitting Room and then perhaps to his office in the Executive Office Building across the street the bug would follow.

Alexander P. Butterfield explained in some detail to the Senate Watergate committee Monday how this worked. Butterfield was a deputy assistant to the President specializing in administrative affairs, until last March 14. He is now federal aviation administrator.

As President Nixon moved about among certain key locations—such as his two offices, the sitting room and the west wing—his travels were recorded by lights or four 10-by-10 inch "locator boxes," one of which Butterfield had on his desk.

As the President changed places, the Secret Service would telephone a command post where someone would switch the lights, Butterfield explained.

He went on to explain that when the President entered, for example, his Oval Office, and the lights on the locator boxes were switched accordingly, this "spring-loaded" the recording apparatus in that office, so that it was ready to pick up any conversation.

The recorders then were voice-activated, meaning that when someone began to speak, the tape would start to roll. If there was silence in the room, the tape would stop until someone again started talking."

Butterfield said the devices were sensitive enough to pick up even low voices in most of the locations. He said the Cabinet Room was an exception in that a button had to be pushed to record, and voices there were not recorded clearly unless they were loud.

Butterfield said the recordings were for historical purposes—for the Nixon library. He said Presidential telephones at several locations in the White House and in the President's study at Aspen Cabin at Camp David, Md., were bugged for the same purpose. (The Camp David bugs, he said, were removed when foreign dignitaries used the cabin.)

Chief Committee Counsel Samuel Dash asked, "To your knowledge, did the President ever ask while he was in the Oval Office to have the system not operate, the locator not show in that particular office?"

"No sir," Butterfield replied. "As a matter of fact the President seems to be totally oblivious, certainly uninhibited by this fact."

Watergate medallion depicts Nixon in three 'no evil' poses

MELROSE, Mass. (UPI) — For $45, a Massachusetts firm is selling a Watergate commemorative silver medallion that depicts President Nixon in the three poses of "See no evil, hear no evil, speak no evil."

Edward J. Aleo said his company, E.J. Aleo & Co., sold about 150 of the medallions in the first day of mail order sales Monday.

The medal—two inches by three inches, and an eighth of an inch thick—portrays the President blocking his eyes, ears and mouth. Aleo said his wife, Louise, designed it.

He said he conceived the idea about two months ago when watching three reporters talking about Watergate on television.

Nixon's portrait is depicted in "very fine detail," Aleo said. "You can even see his wedding band.

"However, his head is blown up and his feet are very snall."

Aleo said he had placed advertisements in the New York Times, Washington Post and Boston Globe.

The advertisements said: "The watergate incident has touched the lives of all Americans. Whatever your feelings about this controversial issue, this ingot will be a lasting memento for generations to come . . .

"It will long endure as tribute to this great country of ours whose standards of principle shall always be 'of the people, by the people and for the people'."

Not a taxpayer around when Claremont cuts tax rate 90 cents

CLAREMONT — The school board Monday night adopted an official budget of $8,518,886 for the 1973-74 school year, which reflects a decrease for the Claremont Unified School District taxpayers of 90 cents per $100 assessed valuation on their tax bills this fall.

Not a single member of the general public was present at the meeting as new board president William Anderson rapped the gavel at 8:32 p.m. Only the district staff and press was on hand for the meeting.

Business Manager Charles Abbott told the school board that the general fund tax rate in 1972-73 was $6.1125, and that the 1973-74 rate, including the 78 cents tax override voted by taxpayers two years ago, will be $52125 per $100 assessed valuation.

District taxpayers at a special election June 5 voted by a 56-per-cent majority to receive a 40-cent smaller tax exemption this coming school year. Senate Bill 90 would have given them a $1.30 tax exemption.

Abbott said that the budget as presented to the board anticipates deficit financing in the amount of $127,768, but that he had purposefully kept the tax rate at the 90-cent reduction as promised to the electorate at the last election.

Abbott explained that Assembly Bill 1267, signed by Governor Reagan last week, would allow the district to obtain up to an additional $135,000 to compensate for the loss of the average daily attendance of 284 pupils this coming school year, but that would increase the tax rate by 20 cents.

Abbott said that the district's reserves are sufficient to continue the present level of school programming despite deficit financing and declining enrollment for another year or two at which time the board still would have the option to ask for a higher tax rate.

In a surprising announcement, Abbott reported that National Community Builders—who had offered the school district $173,500 for the district's 12.64-acre site at Garey Avenue and Dartmouth Street—had withdrawn their offer because of "circumstances which make it impossible to continue "the business transaction.

Abboutt said that he received a letter Monday morning from Vanir Research Inc. who were serving as brokers for the Scottsdale, Ariz.-based firm informing him of National's withdrawal.

National had submitted the only bid June 18 for the school site, but the board announced at the time that the county counsel would have to rule on the bid as acceptable.

National wanted 120 days to perform "full-blown" soil and engineer studies on the site, but the board gave the firm 30 days or until the meeting Monday night to submit performance standards on the studies.

Bumper crop could reverse adequate fuel situation, says farm official

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Although fuel supplies for California's vast agriculture industry appear adequate for the crucial summer harvest, an expected bumper crop could reverse the situation abruptly, according to a top state farm official.

"Right now everything looks good," said Raymond S. Long, deputy director of the State Department of Food and Agriculture.

"But looking down the road a little ways, we're still tensed up —I guess that's the only way I can describe it," he said in an interview Monday.

Actual harvesting appears "okay," he said, for both gasoline and diesel fuel. "But there may be some equipment shortages in terms of trucking availability.

"We're going to have one of our biggest crops ever in tomatoes, peaches, grapes, and all of our fruit crops are going to be big. So we may not have enough trucking to move it— even without a diesel fuel shortage," Long declared.

California farmers this year are growing an estimated 6.3 million acres of field crops, 5 per cent more than the 6 million acres harvested in 1972. The total industry, largest in the state, was estimated at $5.1 billion in 1972 and is expected to jump to $6 billion this year.

But the bumper harvest, with production up in crops ranging from grapes to wheat to walnuts, will probably not mean a break for the consumer, even if it survives any possible fuel shortages because of its record proportions.

"I don't anticipate lower prices," said Long. "I would expect that even with the bumper crops prices will remain high because of increased costs to all of the people handling the crop.

"We have higher labor costs. Diesel fuel has increased 6 to 12 cents a gallon. Gasoline is up 4 cents a gallon. These things are hitting the farmers, the truckers ... everybody's getting hit," Long said.

The total crop harvest this year, Long said, will increase by as much as "10 to 15 per cent of the total average last year.

"This (increase) is going to be at a time when normally we have out-of-state truckers coming in to work the harvest— people with their own rigs."

These independent, out-of-state truckers account for up to 20 per cent of the shipping for the late summer-fall harvest during peak periods, Long said.

Any shortages of fuel will affect them, Long predicted. "We don't know where these people will be getting the diesel fuel to move to and from California and also where they'll get the fuel after they're here," said Long, who leaves his post Aug. 1 to head up the state of Arizona's new Department of Administration.

"There could be a problem because diesel is in short shpply and will generally go to your permanent customers," he added.

Nixon's hospital bill: $1.75 a day

WASHINGTON (UPI) — It costs President Nixon $1.75 a day to stay in Bethesda Naval Hospital, where he is being treated for viral pneumonia.

lawsuit filed by the Democratic party that he knew nothing of the cover-up until March 21, the same day Nixon says he learned.

But Kalmbach said last July 26 he went to Ehrlichman and asked him to look him in the eye and say it was "proper" for him to be raising cash from Republican contributors for the original seven Watergate defendants without telling how the money was being used.

"And did he look you in the eye?" asked Samuel Dash, chief committee counsel.

"Yes, he did," Kalmbach said. "...He said, 'Herb, John Dean does have the authority. It is proper and you are to go forward."

He also pictured Dean as a key figure in the payoffs and Mitchell as involved in raising funds to buy the defendants' silence.

Last week, from the same seat occupied by Kalmbach, Mitchell swore under oath he played no such role.

28-year search by brother

WWII straggler listed as dead found in Philippines

MANILA (UPI) — A 28-year search for a World War II Japanese straggler listed as dead has led to his discovery in the Southern Philippines, where he has married a Filipino woman and raised a family, the Japanes Embassy said today.

The embassy said the former senior seaman in the Imperial Navy wants to remain in his adopted country for the rest of his life.

Two brothers and two sisters of the straggler, Ryoji Miki, 50, flew in by chartered plane today from Japan to try to see their long-lost brother. One of them was Ryoji's twin, Sekizo.

Another brother, Sozo, 55, found Ryoji in Davao Province in the Southern Philippines, about 600 miles south of Manila, where the former soldier had married a Filipino woman and raised a family, according to Japanese Ambassador Toshio Urabe.

Urabe said Sozo refused to believe that his brother was dead and had spent 28 years looking for him.

Embassy Minister Wataru Miyakawa said he was in touch with Sozo, who relayed to him Ryoji's desire "not to be disturbed and to be left alone." On Sozo's request, Miyakawa said he has asked the Philippine government to allow Rytji to remain in this country for "humanitarian reasons." He said the initial Philippine response appeared favorable.

Urabe ttld UPI correspondent Fernando del Mundo that Sozo, after some doubts in the beginning, has positively identified Ryoji as his brother who was listed killed in action during World War II.

"There is one slight doubt as to his identity. He cannot speak Japanese or write in Japanese, something unimaginable," Urabe said. He said that Sozo "at one time sent word that this man was not his brother but he reversed his word when he came here yesterday (Monday)."

Urabe said Sozo finally became convinced about Ryoji's identity due to the man's knowledge of names of their relatives "which cannot be concocted by a stranger." Urabe said Sozo told him the man remembers the name of his father, Kenzo, 83.

Ryoji's discovery makes him the second alive. Former Japanese army Sgt. and Japanese straggler to be found Shoichi Yokoi was found living in a cave in Guam in January, 1972.

Two more Japanese holdouts from the Pacific war were discovered on Lubang Island 75 miles southwest of Manila last October by a military patrol. One was killed during a gun fight and the other escaped and was never found despite an extensive search on the island by both the Philippine and Japanese governments.

In Takamatsu City in Japan, Rytji's father, Kenzo, said, "I don't care whether he wants to come back to Japan or not. All I want is to see him."

Pastor convinced to 'help' thieves

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two men came to the Holy Family Roman Catholic church Monday and asked to see the pastor, Msgr. Timothy Flynn.

"They were gentlemanly and well dressed," Flynn said. "They waited very patiently for me to come downstairs and then asked if we were alone. I assured them their conversation would be private when they pulled out the guns and said 'We've come here to take your money. We hope you'll cooperate. Well, I cooperated fully."

Each of the gunmen held a gun to his neck while he opened up a safe and gave them the $800 Sunday collection, Flynn said.

Illness delays state visit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's illness has forced Pakistani President Zulfiquar Ali Bhutto to postpone his visit to the United States.

Bhutto was to start the visit today. The White House said Monday the conference between Nixon and Bhutto has been rescheduled for Sept. 11.

Remembered for the children's sake

MOSCOW (UPI) — More than 50 years ago, Burle Bramhall of Seattle, Wash., helped rescue 900 starving children during the Soviet civil war. Then a member of the American Red Cross, Bramhall helped reunite the children with their families at the end of a winter trip across Siberia.

On Monday, the Soviet Red Cross gave Bramhall, now a retired banker, its highest decoration for his work.

Israeli archbishop fasting for Arabs

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Taking pills and drinking water, Archbishop Joseph Raya began a hunger strike Monday outside the Knesset (parliament) to demonstrate his belief that Arab settlers should be allowed to go back to their villages.

"These people have been loyal citizens of the state of Israel for 25 years," said Raya, Greek Catholic primate in the Holy Land. The Israeli government has refused to let the settlers return to their lands along the border with Lebanon.

Wallace notes new 'Southern strategy'

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Gov. George Wallace, in his first news conference since sharing the platform with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy on the Fourth of July, said Monday the "liberals have finally discovered the South."

The governor said he was "particularly proud" that national politicians were visiting Alabama. Kennedy's speech "sounded like part of it was written in Alabama," Wallace said. About 200 letter writers criticized Kennedy's appearance, Wallace said.

Chinese to import desire for debts?

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said Monday that trade relations with China may be small in the early stages, but would be pursued vigorously by the United States.

"One of the problems in trading with the Chinese is they have almost a horror of having a national debt," said Magnuson, who led a congressional delegation on a two-week tour of China. He said the tour of six Chinese cities and four agricultural communes was "highly successful" and that he believes Congress will extend most-favored nation trade status to China.

Conservationist new Colorado governor

DENVER (UPI) — John Vanderhoff was sworn in Monday as the new governor of Colorado and said he will emphasize conservation of the state's natural resources during his administration.

"Our desires are infinite but our resources finite," Vanderhoof said. "Our best energies must be devoted to continued new gains on the conservation front."

Vanderhoof, 51, a Glenwood Springs banker, succeeds John A. Love who resigned last month.

Deliberations in Burt trial in fourth day

SAN BERNARDINO — Jurors in the trial of Benton and Andrea Holman Burt went into their fourth day of deliberations this morning.

The jury must consider the guilt or innocence of Burt, 30, and his wife, 19, who are both charged with murder, assault with a deadly weapon, and rescuing a prisoner, in connection with the escape of Beaty, a California Institution for Men inmate who was freed at the cost of the life of prison guard Jesus Sanchez last Oct. 6.

The jury was given its instructions in the case Friday afternoon by San Bernardino Superior Court Judge Thomas M. Haldorsen and went into deliberations through Saturday. It returned Monday for further deliberations asking the court reporter to read back portions of the transcript. Today it was to continue deliberations. The jury has not been sequestered.

2 arrested in robbery at market

ONTARIO — An Upland man and an Ontario youth were arrested in connection with the strong-arm robbery of a Circle K Market Sunday at 603 S. Euclid Ave., police reported.

John Solares Rodriquez, 26, of 105 N. 13th St., Upland, and the 17-year-old youth were arrested Sunday shortly after the Circle K Market was robbed of several bottles of wine. Police said the pair were driving a car similar to one used as an escape vehicle in the robbery.

Police said the two suspects went into the market to purchase some wine from the store clerk, Carol Paine. Police said the clerk refused to sell the pair any wine and walked away from the counter and into a backroom where she was baking a pie. Police said one of the men allegedly held the clerk in the back room while the other stole the wine.

The clerk told police she followed the men to their car and asked them to give the wine back. They refused and drove off. A police officer in the vicinity spotted the suspects driving a car matching the description of the car used by the robbers.

Parks bond issue okayed

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — The City Council officially approved a $972,000 parks and recreation bond issue Monday night and fixed the date of the special election for Nov. 6.

The vote was 4-1 with Councilman Dan Lopez dissenting. It was cast after Councilman Jack Russi tried unsuccessfully to add a $260,000 item to the ballot to purchase open space at the northern end of the city.

The council passed a resolution determining that "there was a public interest and necessity" for the improvement of its three existing parks and for the acquisition of two additional 5-acre park sites, their locations to be determined later.

Lopez cast his dissenting vote despite admonitions by other councilmen, by the Parks and Recreation Commission and by parks consultant Ron Paige during the past year that the only way to insure passage of the bond issue was through a unanimous vote.

"I'm not in support of this bond; never have," Lopez said. "It will burden the taxpayers for a million dollars more."

But Mayor Mike Morales disagreed. He said that for the past 11 years "the people have been telling me we need more and better parks. This election will tell us whether they're willing to pay for it."

The bond issue calls for improvements at Las Flores, Pelota and Kuns parks including a community building at Las Flores, and new parks north of Foothill Boulevard and south of Bonita Avenue. All parks would have rest rooms.

The council decided to move the date of the special election from Oct. 16 to the date of the general state election Nov. 6, after City Manager George Caswell showed cost figures indicating a saving of about $2,000.

"Not only would we save money if we held our election at the same time as the state," he explained, "we probably would have a better turnout."

But the council balked at the $260,000 open space purchase as requested by the Commission on Environmental Quality.

Sanborn said he felt a two-part bond issue would not succeed. He suggested that the council rezone the proposed open space area to low density housing and to fence it off to keep the public out. He said this would be necessary to prevent forest fires in a highly combustible area.

Montclair amends general plan

By ED PRATHER
P-B Staff Writer

MONTCLAIR — The City Council gave first reading Monday night to a city ordinance amendment that will establish greater building setbacks and improved city control on developments in R3 (multiple family dwelling) zones.

The ordinance amendment, as explained by Mike Loehr, director of community development, will allow the city to meet the state requirement that all zoning match the property designation of the city's general plan.

Currently the city has two types of R3 designations on the general plan, high density and medium density. This conflicted with the city's single R3 zone density of 18 units per acre. Under the amendment the City Council will be able to set varying densities throughout the city according to the unique position of a particular parcel. Densities may vary from 8 to 18 or more units per acre.

The amendment also s the minimum building s backs for all new structu in R3 zones at 25 feet. The standard was 20 feet. T amendment stipulates t the setback will apply to parts of the structure. The feet is applicable to the fi floor of a two-story structu with a requirement of 35 f for the second floor. T would require that the sec floor be staggered or that entire structure have a 35-f setback.

Another added control p vided by the amendment i requirement that all propo developments of five acres more, or higher than stories, receive a conditio use permit in addition to proval of a precise plan design.

The city can exercise gr ter control through a c ditional use permit, s Loehr, than is presently p sible with a precise plan design.

In other business, the co cil:

—Approved an ordina amendment that will al the City Council to set bicy licensing fees by resolut Cost of licensing is expec to rise from the present $ $1.40 in the near future to ver the cost of the city's p ticipation in the new st wide bicycle program.

—Approved a resolu raising salaries of police partment personnel. Increa ranged from 2.5 to 7.5 cent.

Upland council tells fears of SCAG rule

By PATRICK SPENCER
P-B Staff Writer

UPLAND—A majority of the City Council would not be in favor of pending legislation to require mandatory local participation in the Southern California association of Governments (SCAG) and to give that agency the power to levy taxes.

The council expressed those opinions individually following an appearance at Monday's night's meeting by Assemblyman Jerry Lewis, R-73rd Dist., who discussed his counter-legislation to pull San Bernardino County out of SCAG if it is granted the madatory participation and taxation features.

Lewis said he had been stumping the cities in the county to assess the feeling of local governments over the proposal to give SCAG more power especially in the area of regional planning. In general, he said, the reaction in 10 cities he's visited thus far was one of caution over the advisability of the legislative proposals.

Leading off individual remarks by councilmen, A. M. Hawkins Jr. said he definitely opposes SCAG in any form and hoped the council would oppose the mandatory idea.

Mayor Abner Haldeman, although not metioning SCAG by name, commented that "anything that takes away from the local sector, I look askance at." He added that "we are losing too much local option" under the guise of ecology and other moves to solve large scale problems.

Councilman George Gibson agreed with Mayor Haldeman and said he favored regional control that is "as limited as possible." He added that he considered SCAG worthwhile, but didn't favor the mandatory pariticipation idea.

Mayor Pro-Tem John McCarthy, a member of SCAG's Executive Committee, said he, too, was opposed to the mandatory idea and felt SCAG should continue in its present voluntary organization.

Only Councilman Harold Bailin had no strong reaction to the new SCAG power. Although he, too, favored local control of the organization, he thought the expanded role of SCAG "with modifications, is an answer rather than something we're afraid of."

He argued that SCAG is already an adequate channel of funding throughout the county and is already recognized as a regional agency. He regarded Lewis' bill as a possible danger that might "destroy SCAG or make it ineffective," thus "playing into the hands of Los Angeles people who don't want it (SCAG)."

He added that SCAG needs more power — especially in relation to the smog problem — so it can "stand up to Los Angeles and say 'You will start obeying the law'."

Chaffey approves teacher pay hike

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Over impassioned pleas by teachers and their representatives to withhold approval, the Chaffey school board Monday night okayed a certificated salary schedule base and adopted a list of 14 proposals which had been tentatively agreed upon by negotiators for both the board and the teachers.

In the unhurried, three-hour 40-minute session, the board also agreed to further discussion on a grievance procedure for certificated employes and approved the publication budget.

The board's approval of the salary schedule base for the 1973-74 school year represents a 4.7 per cent increase over that of last year. The hike elevates a beginning teacher's pay from $7,750 to $8,114, and jumps the maximum teacher salary from $16,043 to $16,796.

The action resulted from the absence of an agreement regarding the salary schedule issue between the board's representative and the Certificated Employes Negotiating Council. Discussions have been going on since May 16.

CENC had originally asked for a 10.97 per cent wage increase last April, immediately after it had been granted a 4 per cent hike for the 1972-73 school year which had ended 13 months of negotiations.

Paul Sage, chairman of the CENC, had asked the board to withold the adoption of the measure because that matter was still under negotiation.

However, the board was unanimous in its approval, and cited its consistency each year in granting wage increases. Adrian Chalfant, board vice president, noted that the board is 12.2 per cent base increase given teachers over the last three years is the highest in an area from West Covina to San Bernardino, which is the area in which the district enlists most of its teachers.

Action was taken on the 14 proposals in order that rules and regulations resulting from them would become effective with the fall school term beginning in September. The proposals range from reports of assaults on teachers to industrial accident leave.

Sage charged that the action would result in a "breakdown of negotiations," because "none of the items should be adopted until negotiations are finished."

Mississippi was the first state to have a planned system of junior colleges.

Developer to offer revised zoning plan for housing

CLAREMONT — Developer Ralph Lewis, whose proposals last month were rejected by the Planning Commission and residents living on Claremont Heights Drive, will present new zoning proposals to the commission at its 7:30 meeting tonight.

Lewis has requested a zone change from single-family residential 13,000-square-foot lots to 10,000-foot lots and an accompanying conditional use permit for a 20-acre housing project south of Bluefield Drive between Mills Avenue and the extension of Grand Avenue.

The developer has revised his site plan, varied the house setbacks, and indicated a backup wall treatment. He has proposed a 3.09 per cent common open space in the form of a 20-to 30-foot strip of trail system, which allows him under a revised density bonus system to build 72 housing units on lots ranging from 7,000 to 10,000 square feet.

Lewis also has asked for rezoning of 19.6 acres to R-1 10,000 and a conditional use permit to allow him to build single-family and condominium units north of Base Line Road between Claremont Heights Drive and Grand Avenue extended.

In mid-June, 18 couples living in the county area petitioned the city for talks about possible annexation, because they wanted to retain the "rural feeling" they had enjoyed and were afraid of losing if Lewis Homes, Inc., was able to develop units east of their homes.

Under Lewis' new plan, he has indicated 30 per cent open space in a trail system, park areas, recreational facilities, including two tennis courts and a swimming pool, and landscaped areas.

Under the revised density bonus system approved since the June proposal, Lewis would be allowed to build 109 units. He has site-planned for 15 homes on the west side of Grand Avenue extended and 94 one and two-story garden homes to the east.

Be careful in selecting sunglasses

Poorly chosen sunglasses can lead to eye irritation, headaches, eye strain, nausea, and dizziness, Peter Y. Evans, MD, Professor of Surgery (Ophthalmology), Georgetown University School of Medicine, warns.

Dr. Evans offers the following tips on selecting a good pair of sunglasses:

Don't use cost as the only guide to quality. Check the manufacturer's tag to see if the sunglasses meet the minimum standards of the U. S. Food and Drug Administration or American National Standard Institute. Look carefully for scratches, bubbles, or other flaws on the lenses. Neutral gray or smoke tinted lenses are considered best.

Ask Dr. Brothers

Spanking leaves scars

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: My husband is a severe disciplinarian who feels that the only way to get a point across is through spanking. We have seven children ranging in age from 8 to 17 and several times each week one of them is punished for some wrongdoing. What disturbs me and them most about the spanking is that each child, whatever his sex or age, is forced to strip below the waist. The spankings are usually done in front of the other children, the neighbors, or even visiting boyfriends or girlfriends.

This is humiliating to the children, but my husband feels that this additional embarrassment is all part of their punishment. He feels this is going to keep them on the right track. I have mixed feelings about all this, but something tells me that when it causes this much emotional pain to my children, it can't be right.—A.L.

Dear A.L.: What you have described is a form of child-abuse. We read with horror of children being physically mistreated, battered by their parents, but we may forget or fail to recognize other forms of brutal mistreatment that may not be so physically painful as emotionally painful to the child. The damage done to your children by this kind of treatment may affect their whole lives and it should be stopped immediately.

If you cannot reason with your husband and convince him that he is the one in need of help, then you might consider reporting this matter to outside authorities who will prevent this situation from occurring again.

This kind of punishment, especially for adolescent children, is unnatural and can leave permanent emotional scars that may determine your children's relationship with the opposite sex in later years. Often it is precisely this kind of treatment that leads to several sexual maladjustments in adults. They may learn to love with physical pain and humiliation, rather than tenderness.

Your husband may be quite unaware of this, but there are sexual implications in his treatment that cannot be overlooked.

Sexual intimacies of any kind, and this obviously includes nudity, or semi-nudity, are inappropriate in a parent-child relationship. It is not only damaging to the child being punished, but it is damaging to thoese who view this kind of punishment. It becomes a kind of exhibition, and because of the nudity, it becomes a sexual exhibition where sex is linked to pain.

A child's capacity to love and the nature and form of his love are built on his early relationship with his family. If he sees a confused picture that involves cruelty, either mental or physical, the pattern is bound to affect him as an adult. When a child experiences such pain, frustration and humiliation from his parents he is being emotionally crippled and branded for life.

Apart from the unhealthy and degrading sexual implications of this type of punishment, spanking, in general, is a questionable form of discipline for any child. Children should learn from their parents that physical force is not the answer to problems and that it is not a way to overcome difficulties or misunderstandings.

Mathis, Mancini set for Amphitheater

UNIVERSAL CITY — Singer Johnny Mathis and Henry Mancini and his orchestra will perform at the outdoor Amphitheater at Universal Studios July 25 through 29.

Over the past 17 years Mathis has recorded 57 albums. He is the only singer to have had an album ("Johnny's Greatest Hits') on Billboard's "Top 100" charts for eight consecutive years and the only singer to have had four albums listed simultaneously.

Mancini's talents as a motion picture composer make him sought after as composer, arranger and conductor in the popular music field.

For his film work, Mancini has been honored with 13 Academy Award nominations and is the recipient of three Oscars. He has won 20 Grammy Awards, six Gold Album awards and Hollywood Foreign Press Association's Golden Globe. He is also a familiar television personality, having hosted his own series, "Mancini Generation," and several hour long specials.

Performances are nightly at 8:30. Tickets may be obtained at the Amphitheater box-office and all Mutual, Liberty and Ticketron agencies.

Following the Mathis-Mancini concert will be Tom Jones, July 30 Aug. 4; Harry Belafonte, Aug. 12; the Carpenters, Aug. 13-19; WAR, Aug. 20 26; 5th Dimension and Blood, Sweat & Tears, Sept. 5 9; Bette Midler, Sept. 10 16; and Engelbert Humperdinck, Sept. 17 13.

Music festival hits with two concerts

By RALPH PIERCE

CLAREMONT — For a full houe of music devotees at Bridges Hall of Music, Pomona College, Friday the 13th was anything but an unlucky day. Giora Bernstein, director of the Claremont Music Festival, led the young instrumentalists in a varied and interesting program which featured Charles Libove, a member of the resident faculty, as soloist in two varied works for violin and orchestra.

For this year's appearance Libove chose the Mozart Concerto No. 5 in A Major and the Tzigane by Ravel. In the A Major Concerto the 19-year-old Mozart gave us a strikingly inventive and original work which marked the beginning of his mature period. Both Libove and the orchestra gave it the kind of a performance we always hope to hear. In the Tzigane, which Ravel called a "Rhapsody for violin and orchestra," we heard a composition designed to show off the brilliant capabilities of the violin which has always seemed to be associated with gypsy music. In both works Libove showed that he was a violinist of the first rank, and the enthusiastic response of the audience and the orchesta would indicate that there was unanimous approval of his artistry.

The program opened with a spirited reading of the overture to Mozart's "The Mariage of Figaro" and closed with the infrequently heard "Peacock Variations" by Zoltan Kodaly. In both of these works one was constantly surprised at the skill and virtuosity of the young group of musicians that make up the summer orchestra. Whether it is in music of the classical tradition, as in the Mozart compositions, or in the 20th Century style of Kodaly, their playing was clean and brilliant, and their interpretations would set an enviable standard for any professional orchestra. Bernstein seems to get even more out of them each summer and, as has been said before, these festivals should go a long way toward putting Claremont on the map as a center of musical events of the highest calibre.

Sunday night marked the first of three scholarship benefit concerts which are a part of the Festival this season. Featured on this concert were hornist Barry Tuckwell and pianist Peter Hewitt, both members of the resident faculty. If there are any performers on the horn today who could be considered in the same league with Tuckwell it would be hard to find them. He plays with a technique and artistry that would do credit to any musician on any instrument, let alone one as hard to control as the French horn. At the keyboard, Hewitt held up his end of the program with the usual cool artistry and musicianship he displays in all of his appearances.

For this reviewer it was the first time to hear a sonata recital for piano and horn and, since the repertoire available for this combination is somewhat limited, the only familiar work during the evening was the Beethoven Sonata, Op. 17. If you have heard recordings of this piece it can only be said that the live prformance we heard would be hard to duplicate. The program opened with a delightful bit of classical writing in the form of a sonata by Danzi, an early classical composer of the Manheim school. This was followed by the bravura piece of the evening, a work dedicated to Tuckwell by the contemporary Scottish composer, Thea Musgrave. It bore the title "Music for Horn and Piano" and is in a very contemporary style demanding the utmost facility from both performers. Many special effects such as muting and stopping as well as extended leaps between high and low registers are demanded of the hornist. The piano part was also not one you would read through for relaxation! Both performers made light of the difficulties and gave a thoroughly convincing performance of the difficult work.

The program closed with a sonata written by Paul Hindemith in 1939. It was in the neo-classical and craftmanslike tyle of this composer and was another good example of his skill as a composer who understood the capabilities of so many instruments. If there was a discordant note during the evening it was a piano which produced a hard and strident sound which even Peter Hewitt couldn't alwavs control into a blending with the other instrument.

WRITERS AWARDED PETS

Michelle Waddy, 10, left, and April Holland, 12, hold pets they won in joint Pomona Library-Pomona Valley Humane Society essay writing contest. Animals were supplied by Bruce Richards, center, director of the society, and awarded during ceremonies last week at the library. "Animals need love, care. I can give them everything they need," wrote April, first-place winner. Michelle, who placed second, wrote: "I could make a good home for a pet because my father has experience in puppies and I read books about dogs." Third-place winner Melanie Indo, 12, Montclair, was presented a guinea pig. She wrote: "We have love in our family, especially for pets." April and Michelle live in Pomona.

Council, firemen agree; police pressure grows

By TONY NAVARRO
P-B Staff Writer

POMONA — The City Council reached an agreement Monday night on salary negotiations with a second city employe association and continued to receive pressure for a settlement from a third, the 138-member Pomona Police Officers' Relief Association.

On a unanimous vote, the council approved a memorandum of understanding with the 124-member Pomona Fireman's Association and passed an ordinance giving members a 5 per cent cost of living increase. The pay boost went into effect Monday.

The memo also calls for a family dental plan and the city's paying for a telephone at fire department headquarters for personal use by firemen.

Last week, the council okayed a memo of understanding with the Pomona City Employes' Association, the largest of the three employe groups, for the 5 per cent hike and dental plan effective July 9.

The pay increase to more than 400 miscellaneous employes was authorized in the form of a measure passed as an emergency and regular ordinance.

This measure was resubmitted to the council Monday night to be placed on a second reading as a regular ordinance but action was held up after questions were raised as to whether all or just some employes paid hourly wages were included.

Asst. City Administrator Joe Korpsak said only hourly employes from the recreation department were included and Anthony Skvarek, president of the PCEA, asked why some part-time employes were getting a raise and not others.

Following an executive session, the council by unanimous vote reaffirmed its position that the raise for regular miscellaneous employes would start July 9 and that the same increase would apply to all part-time employes, including crossing guards, effective Aug. 1.

This decision involves some 80 part-time employes, including those from the recreation department whose raises already had been assured.

Monday's meeting was attended by a large group, mostly wives, in support of the police association.

Three wives spoke during the audience communications portion of the meeting. They were Mrs. Linda Klippenstein, Mrs. Peggy Guest and Mrs. Carol Barkly.

Mrs. Klippenstein said the group was there to ask why the city would not negotiate, adding, "We feel our husbands are deserving of your time and support."

At two previous council meetings when the association's attorney spoke, the council has declined to become directly involved in the negotiations, saying pay discussions should be channeled through Sidney Simms, the city's chief negotiator.

Mrs. Guest said that in these times a policeman was expected to be more than just that, including a public relations man and a diplomat, and faced certain hazards in his profession.

"Don't let a bad situation grow any worse," Mrs. Guest said. She asked the mayor to negotiate on behalf of the council.

Mrs. Barkly said she was upset the council "has so little regard for police officers."

The council listened attentively but made no response.

City Hall has taken the position that pay increases will not be made retroactive to the start of the new fiscal year July 1.

The council reportedly has offered the police association the 5 per cent increase and dental plan.

The association last week said it wanted to negotiate for a 3 per cent increase retroactive to July 1, another 3 per cent raise Jan. 1, the dental plan, time and one-half for all holiday work and for hours when called back, and a change in the uniform allowance.

Fern and exotic plant show set

POMONA — Miss Exotic Fern of 1973, Margaret Porter, South Gate speech pathology student at Cal State Los Angeles, will be on hand to welcome visitors to the 10th annual fern and exotic plant show at the International Pavilion at the Los Angeles County Fairground Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Porter is the official goodwill ambassador for the shade garden show staged by the Los Angeles International Fern Society.

Doors will be open Saturday from 1 to 10 p.m. Hours on Sunday will be 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. A donation of $1 is asked of adults. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

More than 50 exhibits have been entered in the show, the largest display of shade plants in patio and garden settings in Southern California.

In addition to fern entries, the 1973 show will include prize-winning specimens exhibited by the Bromeliad Socieyt, Akebono Bonsai Society of Southern California, and the National Fuchsia Society.

Horticultural classes from Canoga Park, John H. Francis Poly, Fremont, Gardena, La Puente, Narbonne, North Hollywood, Sylmar, Taft, Van Nuys, and Westminster high schools will compete this year for cash awards.

Students from the ornamental horticultural department at Cal Poly also will enter a display of outstanding plants.

Parked car hit on freeway; 2 persons injured

ONTARIO — A Pomona man's car, parked on the shoulder of the Pomona Freeway east of Archibald Avenue, was struck by another car, burst into flames and was destroyed shortly after midnight Sunday.

The California Highway Patrol reported that Bruce E. Bass, 29, of 1265 W. Fernleaf Ave., had stopped on the shoulder of the freeway to check his tires when a car driven by Martha M. Bergman, 32, of San Bernardino, ran into the stopped vehicle.

Bass had just gotten out of his car when the accident occurred. He received minor injuries from flying debris and was treated at the hospital for a broken nose and right wrist and numerous lacerations and transferred to San Bernardino County Hospital.

CHP officers said Mrs Bergman could not explain how she happened to run into the parked car.

Public library to show 3 films

POMONA — Three films will be shown Wednesday at the Pomona Public Library as part of a summer series open to the general public free of charge.

The program will begin at 2 p.m. The first film, "Seashore," by Fred Hudson, is a close look at the ocean and its wildlife.

"Footnote to Genesis," produced by the Canadian Broadcasting Co. in cooperation with Carousel Films, shows efforts to save the trumpeter swan from extinction.

The third film, "Fire Mountain," is about an erupting volcano in Hawaii with actual close-up views of molten lava and bursting flames.

Different films are being shown at the library every Wednesday afternoon. Further information may be obtained by calling Dave Buchanan at 620-2014.

POMONA — Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr. will be the guest speaker at the Eleanor Roosevelt Democratic Club meeting Thursday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Basham, 1993 Westwood Place.

The meeting, which is scheduled to begin at 7:15 p.m., is open to the public.

Funds approved for dedication events at parks

POMONA — The City Council took three steps Monday night backing festivities planned Sunday to celebrate the completion of Cherrieville and Sharkie parks.

Expenditures from city general funds of $500 for dedication ceremonies at Sharkie and $300 for the dedication program at Cherrieville were unanimously authorized.

On another 5-0 vote, the council referred to the police department, with power to act, a request to close a portion of Park Avenue on Sunday for the Sharkie dedication and an all-day fiesta.

The council also approved the issuance of a proclamation noting the completion of the two parks and inviting citywide participation in the festivities.

The $800 had been requested from contingency account of general revenue sharing funds but this was questioned by Councilman Charles W. Bader, on whose motion the expenditures were okayed from the general government account.

Cherrieville Park, at Hamilton Boulevard and Monterey Avenue, and Sharkie, at Park and Grand avenues, were developed with mini-park grants received from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Mayor Ray J. Lepire made note of this in justifying the city's expenditures for the ceremonies.

Ceremonies at Cherrieville will start at noon with the blessing of the park. The program there will include entertainment and the sale of food.

An all-day fiesta will be held at Sharkie. Following the dedication at Cherrieville, officials and guests will proceed by motorcade to Sharkie at 2 p.m.

Local men attending were H.M. Barnes, R.W. Biggs, G.G. Bowes, R.B. Curry, K.L. Helliesen, C. Lacy, E.A. Langlois, J.L. Saddler Jr. and L.L. Turner.

Opinion

Army volunteers mostly no-shows

Uncle Sam is no longer sternly pointing at prospective Army recruits, commanding "I want you!"

These days he is down on his knees, proffering wads of money and photographs showing messhall go-go girls and air-conditioned barracks, pleading. "Pretty please, join up."

It isn't working very well.

There have been more and more reports lately that the Army and Navy have been falling short of meeting their quota of recruits under the new all-volunteer military system.

Despite a publicity barrage extolling the "new Army" — no KP, no reveille, no higher pay and less-spartan living conditions — the armed forces' newly expanded recruiting departments still find most young men volunteering to stay civilians.

Once again circumstances have made a prophet of Thomas Jefferson, who said that the United States can never have a regular army in America because there are not enough paupers to fill the ranks.

The draft has not in fact been used since January, though the draft machinery still exists if it is needed. And there is no reason why a reinstitution of the draft would have to be an event on the order of the return of Frankenstein.

For what the military's current recruiting problems show is what many of the all-volunteer forces critics have always contended: that revolutionary changes must be made in the armed forces before they can attract enough volunteers, particularly enough volunteers who are not in Jefferson's "pauper" category.

The current starting pay for an Army private, for example, is $307 per month. This is a gigantic increase but it still adds up to only $3,684 a year, which is not enough to keep most young men in haircuts these days, even at post exchange prices.

The all-volunteer concept was to a large extent a selfish device engineered to keep college men — the sons of the most vocal and influential segement of the population — out of the service. Let any future Vietnams be fought by the poor, its supporters were saying, in effect if not in intent.

The poor, to their credit, are apparently not buying the idea.

One alternative, of course, is to raise pay again — double or triple it — and make more civilizing changes in life and work styles in the armed forces.

But it is doubtful if Congress and the majority of the people would be willing to spend the money that kind of program would require. And even if they did, the country would still face another danger inherent in the all-volunteer concept: the creation of a huge permanent force of career military men.

As former Army colonel George Walton says in his recent book, 'The Tarnished Shield: a Report on Today's Army": "That military forces numbering two-and-a-half million should become isolated from American life, become an enclave within our society, is not only undesirable but dangerous."

An alternative might be to explore changing the armed forces into paramilitary organizations whose members would be trained to fight but would also be trained for other, more constructive functions, perhaps in conservation and urban development.

This would help to remove the stigma of a professional soldier as a "paid killer," it would give military men a more positive goal than the essentially negative and morbid one of "defending their country" and even if it cost more in the short run it might turn out to be profitable for the nation, even in financial terms.

It could even make a return of the draft a bearable, if not welcome, phenomenon.

'Jo the boxer': Secret U.S. report

WASHINGTON — When Brahmin Victor Joseph Marie Attia died in France a year ago, he left behind a wealthy mistress, contacts high in the French government and countless American clients addicted to his high-grade heroin.

For "Jo" Attia at 57, was the very model of a modern major drug trafficker, right down to his dossier of nicknames: "Jo the Boxer," "le Grand Jo" (Big Joe) and "The King of Dropped Charges."

Attia ran a narcotics empire that stretched from Hong Kong to the heartland of America. Sometimes he failed spectacularly, such as the time U.S. agents seized $14 million worth of heroin packed in Spanish fish cans. More often, the "junk" slipped through.

Shortly after Jo's death, federal narcotics agents, who had shadowed him remorselessly for decades, put together a highly-classified account of his life and times. We have obtained the 8,500-word Justce Department document; the names of sources are omitted to prevent their murder.

Ex-boxer

"During the pre-World War II period," the document commences, "having tried his hand at boxing, he joined hoodlum circles in Paris."

During World War II, some said he worked for the Gestapo; others claimed he only posed as a Gestapo agent to extort money from frightened Jews. Still others said he was "a hero of the Resistance who was deported to Germany, escaped and was re-deported three times (and) killed German guards during his escapades."

But whatever his lapses from crime during the war, he returned to his old ways at war's end. He fenced stolen U.S. military supplies and engaged in petty robbery. His first big break came when his gang leader died after a jewelry store shootout. The boss' mistress was also murdered because she knew too much, and she was shoveled into her lover's country grave. Attia took over.

Working both side of the law, he shifted to Morocco. He served as an informer for French counterintelligence while he simultaneously smuggled arms and manipulated currency. When local authorities arrested him for his crimes, "Attia's mistress, Carmen Cocu, traveled to Morocco with a full money belt," to buy his freedom. Big Jo's friends thought it was underworld money, but it "actually was provided by French counter-intelligence," says the report.

African Adventure Ends

"Attica rounded out his African adventure by appearing in Abidjan, Ivory Coast," the report continues. "There, the dread French Deuxieme Bureau" (military intelligence) set him up in a nightclub so he could inform against anti-French elements. The men fingered by Attia were "discreetly eliminated," the report goes on.

At about this time, Attia was linked to the murder of two rival entrepreneurs who were scraping dirty grease from garage floors, packaging it in U.S. cans and selling it "to the French Army as new weapons grease." Attia's associate in the case helped kidnap Kotanga leader Moise Tshombe, who also died mysteriosuly.

In the mid-60's, working out of Paris, Jo and his friends, using their contacts in the French secret police and Moroccan Interior Ministry, assisted in the murder of Moroccan exile leader Mehdi Ben Barka. Attia escaped prosecution.

All the while, he compiled an amazing record of 22 criminal charges dismissed since 1948, including one for concealing a corpse. This brought him his proudest nickmane: "Roi du Nonlieu" (King of Dropped Charges).

The Gavroche

Despite a file as heavy as an uncracked safe, Attia was allowed to open a Parisian restaurant called the Gavroche. Even by Parisian standards, the Gavroche, where Attia built his drug kingdom, had an apache quality. "A dozen people have been killed at Gavroche," asserts the Justice Department report.

"The most celebrated violence there occurred (when) a hoodlum named Christian Jubin shot and killed the barmaid . . . and kidnapped Attia's beautiful 26-year-old daughter, Nicole. Jubin took her to a nearby apartment, raped her, freed her and disappeared," says the report.

The Gavroche rapidly became Attia's headquarters for running narcotics to the United States. "Parisian political, business, and show world people (also) go there to rub elbows with the milieu (underworld)," says the document. A French businessmen could "add a Runyonesque touch to his entertaining by taking open-mouthed clients to the ganster-infested Gavroche."

In the spring of 1968, in the Gavroche's kithcne, Attia plotted his most famous drug deal. He called together a criminal shipowner, a Corsican close to the mayor of Marseilles, Belgium underworld financiers and a chemical engineer.

Fishcan affair

Attia lined up three illegal labs outside Marseilles and a scheme was hatched to smuggle huge amounts of heroin in containers of nuclear material being sent from France to the United States for decontamination. Attia finally rejected the plan because "there were too many controls, and people involved would have to be bought."

Instead, the conspirators packed their $14 million worth of heroin in cans labeled as paella, a Spanish fish and rice dish. The "Fishcan Affair," as it is now known, ended when U.S. Customs and narcotics agents seized the cans.

Furious at the failure, Attia established a personal drug-smuggling network which made him renowned in narcotics circles.

Gossip for today

One of the requisites these days if a girl intends to become a successful secretary, is that in addition to her other duties she must be thoroughly conversant with the operation of a paper shredder. And it is also intersting to note that in appreciation of her ability to successfully perform such new duties as paper shredding, today's secretary is now known as an administrative assistant.

INSIDE REPORT :

Ehrlichman stubs toe on end run

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

WASHINGTON — John D. Ehrlichman not only moved in to take over the government's internal security function from the FBI with his infamous White House "plumbers" operation, but also tried to steal a large piece of the action last year from the Committee to Reelect the President (CREEP).

Successful in setting up and running the "plumbers," Ehrlichman stumbled not once, but three times—in his secret grab for political power from CREEP.

The bizarre story of Ehrlichman, then President Nixon's White House domestic chief, jockeying for partial command of CREEP's overmanned political battalions—and getting his comeuppance from CREEP's director, Clark MacGregor—came to light only after publication of Ehrlichman's outlandish accusation against MacGregor this week.

On May 4, in his first testimony to federal prosecutors on the Watergate investigation, Ehrlichman charged that MacGregor had rejected repeated Ehrlichman suggestions to "get to the bottom" of the Watergate scandal. A summary of Ehrlichman's interview with the investigators was published earlier this week.

MacGregor, the former Minnesota Congressman put in charge of CREEP July 1, 1972, with the sudden post-Watergate resignation of John N. Mitchell, flatly denied Ehrlichman's accusation. Moreover, MacGregor told us, the only "repeated" proposals he was getting from Ehrlichman last summer were proposals that Ehrlichman's top lieutenants be given major campaign roles.

Adds to his authority

Thus, in those critical days, Ehrlichman was not concerned with uncovering Watergate mischief but in adding the reelection campaign to his immense presidential delegation of authority over the domestic side of the U.S. government.

Ehrlichman's pressure apparently started while Mitchell, never an Ehrlichman intimate, was still running CREEP. Ehrlichman wanted to give his own top aides, including Edward L. Morgan and John C. Whitaker of his Domestic Affairs Council staff, overall control of key states he felt CREEP was taking for granted: California, Michigan, Ohio, Illinois, Pennsylvania, New York and Missouri.

Ehrlichman began by applying pressure to Frederick V. Malek, top political deputy in CREEP. Malek went to MacGregor in early August, complaining that Ehrlichman's pressure was becoming intolerable and asking for help in cooling off Mr. Nixon's powerful confidant.

But MacGregor couldn't stop Ehrlichman either. Ehrlichman kept interposing himself between CREEP and local Republican organizations. Puzzled by the pressure, MacGregor set up a breakfast in his Miami Beach suite during the Republican national convention.

At the breakfast, Ehrlichman did most of the talking but ran into a stone wall. MacGregor said no, the help of Ehrlichman's personal staff was not needed. The matter seemed closed.

It was far from closed. On either Aug. 27 or 28, after Mr. Nixon left Miami Beach to plot his fall campaign in San Clemente, MacGregor received another long distance call, this one from Ehrlichman's patron and collaborator: the all-powerful H. R. Haldeman, who was with the President.

Pressed Haldeman to intervene

Haldeman said Ehrlichman felt his plan had not had a "fair hearing" and was pressing Haldeman to intervene. Furious at what MacGregor later called Ehrlichman's "hammer and tongs" pressure, MacGregor nevertheless agreed to fly to San Clemente with Malek and confront Ehrlichman yet again.

With Haldeman listening, Ehrlichman went through the now familiar refrain: under Malek's field operation, CREEP was losing the biggest states to the Democrats, but the MacGregor-Malek team couldn't know it because of poor reporting from its field staff.

Again, MacGregor and Malek rejected the proposal and ridiculed Ehrlichman's political intelligence. The President, they said, would carry each state on Ehrlichman's "lost" list.

One hour later, Haldeman turned to Ehrlichman and said: "For heaven's sake, John, drop it. Clark has made his decision and he's acting within his authority." That finally finished one of Ehrlichman's longest, most futile end runs.

But Ehrlichman was also attacking in another place. He personally telephone MacGregor's wife, Barbara, to criticize her plan to send surrogate women campaigners around the country for Mr. Nixon. Barbara MacGregor listened politely, but made no changes.

Contrary to his present claims before federal prosecutors, Ehrlichman was exerting no such energy in trying to "get to the bottom" of Watergate. If he had, John D. Ehrlichman might to day still be riding in that long black limousine and running the federal government, instead of battling desperately for his life.

A lib switch

A century and a quarter ago, on July 18, 1848, the first women's rights convention was held in Seneca Falls, N.Y.

Women's rights, or more modernly, Women's Lib, has come a long way since that beginning.

Note, however, what would seem to be a backward step. For some time now, San Francisco's meter maids, those girls who do a considerable part of the city's parking control work, have been outfitted in what they quite properly consider mannish uniforms. According to a recent dispatch from the Bay Area the girls want to look more feminine. They have to wear men's pants all the time now, for instance. In Berkeley, the meter maids can wear skirts in the summer, at least. Other feminine touches are being asked in San Francisco.

It seems a lot of people have taken the maids for men, and that isn't the happiest part of their job. According to the report, the San Francisco police department is giving the matter sympathetic, if perhaps somewhat surprised, consideration.

Progress in Koreas

Nobody seems to be taking particular notice of the occasion, but July 1973 marks the 20th anniversary of the Korean Armistice.

And come August, it will be one year since the two Koreas decided to take the next step and begin discussions on eventual reunificaton, a goal that still appears as distant and difficult of achievement as ever.

Progress, we see again, is measured in small steps, and often exceedingly slow ones. But considering the alternative in this case, it is still progress.

You can't afford to fly for fun

Most of the planes now in the sky are on a flight to nowhere. Most of today's pilots, because of rising costs, have flown about as far as they're going to.

Most of the planes you see in the sky are not airliners. There are only 2,500 airliners. There are 136,000 others—not counting military. Those "others" we call "general aviation." Most are there on business.

Few fly for fun any more. It costs too much. Also the skyways are now policed in such a manner that the pilot is a puppet pulled this way and that by electronic strings, manipulated by people he never sees. That's no fun.

So, as I say, most of the other-than-airlines planes you see these days are going somewhere on business. But every day some land never to fly again because, their owners say they can't afford to.

Aviation fuel prices and taxes have soared. Maintenance costs have multiplied. And now the Federal Aviation Administration contemplates a "use tax"—a landing fee—at all airports where there is an FAA tower. Any airplane would pay, depending on its size, from $3 to $60 for each landing!

With this and other fuel and passenger taxes, the FAA hopes to collect $187 million from general aviation next year. But isn't it fair, you say, to make the users of airports pay? Yes. But we're not debating whom, we're discussing how much.

The FAA's punitive proposal for landing fees is only the tip of the iceburg. The FAA has been costing all taxpayers an increased amount that's not at all commensurate with increased air traffic each year. The toal number of aircraft flying increased 2 per cent this year; the FAA wants a budget increase of more than 35 per cent.

Presently, without the increase, the FAA is so top-heavy that its budget breaks down to more than $11,000 for every active airplane in our country.

Any time you see another airplane flying, jetliner to puddle-jumper, you know that the FAA has another $11,000 worth of employees or hardware somewhere.

General aviation is very easy for the taxers to tax because there are only about 750,000 active certified pilots in our nation, and they can't or don't protest much—though many are right now staggering into the air overloaded with taxes and fees and permits and expensive mandatory modifications.

This much more will be too much for many. Granted, the FAA's primary service is an essential service—but does the FAA really need 35 people in the tower and 18 more in flight service just in Roanoke?

Good reporting

The coverage of the hearing before the Planning Commission on the evening of June 27 on the subject of putting a Child Care Center into the Phillips Ranch was one of the finest pieces of reporting that I have ever seen. L. T. Rogers achieved a sensitive understanding of what we were trying to explain. His story gave us great comfort. It has been sent far and wide in this state and abroad as well for it covered a subject of especial interest to women of today. His story will do much to help explain the need for this change in tracts that will soon be copied all over the U.S. if the builder decides to incorporate it into the Phillips Ranch.

This child center will be a definite financial asset for the men who are concerned with the building of these tracts. And for the future of Pomona as well. It will also help little children to find their way in the future.

So we are grateful to the Progress Bulletin for what you have done to encourage this development for the future through the channel of good reporting. —Jessie Butler, La Verne.

Foreign-speaking persons to get lessons at home

LA PUENTE — The "English as a Second Language" program of the La Puente Valley Adult Schools has started a "grass roots" campaign to meet foreign speaking persons in their new home.

The foreign language program was recently transferred from the Adult Education complex to the La Puente Community Adult School Hudson campus in downtown La Puente, bringing it closer to many Spanish speaking persons, program coordinator Holda Dorsey said.

"We felt that there are many people who could make good use of our English classes if only they knew about us," she said.

The foreign language program has taught English to over 6,000 persons from practically every foreign nation in the world. "Enough English so that they can qualify for a job, earn citizenship papers or simply talk better with their neighbors," Mrs. Dorsey said.

In addition to morning, afternoon and evening classes the school provides on-campus child care and free bus service throughout the Hacienda-La Puente Unified School District. For further information on the second language program call the La Puente Community Adult School at 213-330-5030.

MSAC graduates learn flying from the pros

WALNUT — Seven recent Mt. San Antonio college graduates are learning about commercial flying from the pros at United Air Lines in a 28-day school program.

The students, who have obtained DC-8 flight engineers ratings, are getting practical turbo jet experience, in-the-air experience and are learning cockpit procedures, says instructor Don Chase.

Chase, who teaches aeronautical courses at Metro State College in Denver, is providing the instruction in a cooperative program run through United Air Lines and a company owned by United Capt. William Arnott.

Arnott pioneered the idea of a flying classroom course through MSAC and has been active in furthering aeronautical education. MSAC has a federally approved flight engineering ground school.

Students participating in the course are Roger Rashok, Lynn Krogh, Alan Melilli, Todd Trescott, Gary Eckel, Eldon Askelson and David Reed.

Following two weeks of training in a DC-8 cockpit procedures trainer Chase guides them through 10 hours of realism in a simulated flight where actual air craft flight characteristics are duplicated. Five hours of actually flying the huge four-engine jet completes the program.

"I'm very pleased with the fact that we are getting started on this program. It will help young people to get into the airline industry," Arnott said.

FUTURE PILOTS AT WORK

San Antonio College graduates before the start of a training session in a DC-8 flight simulator at the United Air Lines Flight Training Center at Denver. School redistricting set for public hearing Aug. 1

By JOE FARLEY
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — A proposal to redistrict north Diamond Bar schools from the Pomona to Walnut school district has been set for public hearing on August 1 after more than six months of controversy and debate over the issue.

The Walnut school board officially accepted petitions containing 2,430 validated registered voter signatures for the proposal and set the hearing for 8 p.m. at the Walnut High School multi-purpose room.

The board must hold a public hearing within 30 days of receiving the petitions from the County Superintendent of Schools' Office, according to the law, but does not have to decide the question at that time.

Supt. Dr. David Brown said he received the petitions, all 94 of them, from the county office on July 13 with a letter from Dr. Richard Wales, special service coordinator for county schools, outlining the legal process in accepting or rejecting the proposal.

If the Pomona school board officially votes against redistricting before the Aug. 1 hearing, Brown said, the matter is dead and Walnut need not hold a hearing.

School trustees indicated that they would hold the Aug. 1 meeting, hear both sides of the issue, and then postpone decision to at least September when Trustee J. Edwin Nettell returns from vacation.

Redistricting, first proposed by the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association, has been a heated issue here, with Walnut residents generally opposed to the proposal, according to Community Club questionnaires.

The homeowners group says it wants out of the Pomona district due to deteriorating education, violence and high tension in Pomona schools, according to redistricting leader Nick Ruggiero. Many Diamond Bar residents feel "alienated" from Pomona and want their community united under one school district, he said.

Proposed changes in regulations for horses to be aired at hearing

WALNUT — The Planning Commission will conduct a public hearing Wednesday on proposed changes in the regulations of keeping horses in a rural overlay zone here.

Some residents in the West Walnut zone have pushed for less restrictive horse regulations, while other homeowners are campaigning for stricter regulations.

The current city law permits two horses per 20,000 square feet of property with one or two additional horses permitted per additional 20,000 square feet.

The proposed changes would permit two horses per 12,000 square feet of property and 3,000 additional square feet per additional horse.

A public hearing is also scheduled on an environmental impact report, a change of zone and a tentative tract map for a 64 lot subdivision planned by the California Savings and Loan Association.

The association proposes to build the 64-home complex on Camino De Teodoro between Calle Baja and Paseo De Sevilla in West Walnut. The zone change is from residential, 8,500 square foot lots to residential 7,200 square foot lots.

Under old business the commission will discuss zoning study area one, which is north of Valley Boulevard between Lemon Avenue and Pierre Road south of La Puente Road. The commission proposes to re-zone the area from commercial to manufacturing and residential uses.

Arthur W. Johnson of 425 Castle Hill Drive will ask the commission to approve a lot split for his property. He is building on one portion of the property and proposes to divide the remainder into three separate lots for further home development.

Walnut planners delay decision on tract map

WALNUT — City councilmen have continued until July 25 any action on a request that they reverse a Planning Commission decision denying a tentative 17-home tract map.

The Planning Commission contends the N. La Puente Road subdivision is poorly planned and its entrance too narrow.

The council continued the matter at a recent meeting so the city staff can determine what conditions should be changed before a reversal is granted.

The commission and city staff came under fire by Mayor Richard Laughter in a recent interview for "not working these technical matters out before council sessions."

"The council wants to tag on more conditions and that's something the city staff should work out before they come to the council," Laughter said. "If someone files a tract map and it meets your city codes it should be a routine matter. We have no right to turn it down."

Developer Gene King is appealing to the City Council in the hopes of getting a reversal of the Planning Commission decision. The denial is just one in a string of problems for King, who runs a small construction company out of Sante Fe Springs.

The Planning Commission previously denied a short form environmental impact statement King prepared, forcing him to pay $2,500 for a full report. He also met a number of legal delays, it was reported.

Fast-pitch softball league to begin in Rowland Heights

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — The Rowland Recreation Department will sponsor an adult softball fast pitch league beginning Monday, July 30.

Teams will play two games a week, one at 10 a.m. Saturday and one at 6 p.m. on a week day.

The team entry fee will be $110.

Teams will play a double round with a playoff between first and second round champions. Trophies will be awarded the playoff champions and the runners up.

All games will be played at Friendship Park adjacent to the Hollingworth Elementary School in West Covina.

The recreation department will supply two softballs for each game.

Additional information may be obtained by calling the recreation department at 965-2541, station 284 or 285.

Phil Anderson named school board chairman

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Phil "Andy" Anderson, now serving his second term, was named president of the Rowland school board at a recent reorganizational meeting.

Board members Louis Guzman and John Blackburn were elected vice president and clerk respectively.

Three members, incumbents Dean Anderson and Blackburn and Mrs. Donna McGee who were elected in April, were sworn in for four-year terms on the board.

Anderson was one of the founding board members when the district was unified in 1970. He helped establish policy and said the transition was accomplished with "very, very few problems."

He attributed the success of the unification to "the good staff we have working with us."

Anderson has lived in the area 15 years. In his new position he said he would "strive to vote the conscience of the people" he represents.

He is just beginning his fifth year as a board member. He had the opportunity of presenting a Nogales High School graduation diploma to his eldest son in June.

PHIL ANDERSON

As board president he hopes he will be able to sign his youngest son's diploma upon graduation from the same school next year.

School buildings can be used, call principals

ROWLAND HEIGHTS — Community groups who wish to use school buildings during the 1973-74 school year are urged to contact principals now.

Information on what groups are eligible may be obtained from principals.

The state Education Code allows a limited use of school facilities by both civic and sectarian organizations.

The law also provides that no charge will be made except in certain cases when an admission is charged or a contribution or collection is made.

The district is permitted to charge a fee at least sufficient to pay the cost of supplies, utilities and salaries of school employes necessitated by use of the property.

The regulations specify that use of facilities may not interfere with the educational program, and lease agreements may not be granted for longer than a year.

Airport foes to detail research

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — Mrs. Christine Gilbert and Mrs. Sharon King, leaders of a drive against the proposed City of Industry airport, will speak here Thursday on the facility at a community meeting at Newton Junior High School in Hacienda Heights.

The meeting, sponsored by the Sunset Junior Women's Club, begins at 8 p.m. and is open to the public.

The women will share information they have gathered on the airport facility during more than six months of study. The airport is planned for a small flat valley surrounded by West Covina, Walnut and Diamond Bar residential areas.

Industry envisions the airport as a means of keeping ahead in Los Angeles County industrial competitions. Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. King and other members of "Citizens Aginst the Airport," contend it will cause a property value drop and add to air pollution in the area.

TV show to focus on adult school

LA PUENTE — The La Puente Community Adult School, part of the La Puente Valley Adult Schools, will be the subject of a forthcoming segment of "Steps to Learning," the Channel 2 television show produced in cooperation with Los Angeles county Schools.

The show features parent and preschool education courses, home and family life classes and volunteer programs at the school. It will air Sunday at 10 a.m.

Tom Johnson, director of the La Puente Valley Adult Schools, and Nancy Donahue, head of the volunteer programs, are the guest speakers.

Funds to provide jobs for students

CITY OF INDUSTRY — The office of education of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has awarded the Valley Vocational Center $34,770 in college work study funds.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Feelings of being unappreciated will be easily aroused today. Forget it—the martyr role doesn't become you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You will find yourself dealing today with one who hides her true motives beneath a friendly veneer. Don't be buffaloed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An important agreement you have is not as sound as you'd like to believe. Try not to deceive yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Plans that you make today should be reviewed later. They will fail to encompass important aspects.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You are much more sensitive than usual today, so don't wear your heart on your sleeve.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Neither you nor the person you're supposedly having a frank discussion with will realy tell it as it is today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Work that should be attended to today will be neglected unless you exercise self-discipline. Make a real effort.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This is one of those days. You'll be more wasteful than usual with money or material assets.

Bridge

The time to nix finesse

By Oswald James Jacoby

Here is another instance of an expert declarer picking up a singleton king. The hand was played by George Rapee of New York in the trials for the 1969 North American team. George, who has the best team record over the last 20 years of all American players, makes a habit of finding the best play for his contract.

He won the first trick with dummy's nine of spades. Then he saw that four diamond tricks would give him his contract. He saw no way to get those four tricks if West held four diamonds to the king.

He also saw that at least four tricks were sure against all 3-2 breaks and against four diamonds held by East irrespective of the location of the king provided he refused the diamond finesse and played his ace.

The play wocld cost him a trick if East held two or three to the king, but the trick lost would not be the contract trick.

George led a dimaond and went up with the ace. The king dropped and now George was able to score five diamond tricks by leading through East's diamonds.

George made an overtrick. The other declarers tried the diamond finesse and went down at least one trick.

Doctor's advice hinges on own physical makeup

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — If a doctor smokes, he is less likely to advise his patients about such health hazards.

If he is fat, his attitude toward a patient's weight problem will be different from that of a thin physician.

If he hates exercise, he will be less likely to urge physical training on the patient.

Those were the conclusions Monday by a University of Alabama team that studied the health of 822 doctors and their spouses in five American cities.

The report was made to the American Society for Preventive Dentistry by Dr. Emanuel Cheraskin, who is both a doctor and a dentist and who was in charge of the study.

Dr. Cheraskin also said the study showed that doctors and their spouses developed the same biochemical problems.

Similarities existed "all across the board," he said, showing up in studies of cholesterol, blood sugar, enzymes, hormonal balance and urine.

"It seems to be that as a couple lives together their biochemistry becomes the same," he added.

Piracy in parking lots: they steal boats off streets now

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two men recently drove their automobile into an apartment house parking lot in suburban New York City, hitched the car to a trailer containing a $5,000 boat and calmly drove away.

An apartment house tenant who happened to be in the lot helped them make the hitch and wished them "a good trip."

"How was I to know," he told police later, "that they were stealing the boat."

With the sudden upsurge in the popularity of boat trailering, this type of theft is on the rise and, according to one insurance company spokesman, the problem is "reaching epidemic proportions."

It is particularly acute in southern Florida, New Orleans, Detroit and parts of metropolitan New York City, says Carl S. Cichon, director of marine services for State Farm Fire and Casualty Co.

Cichon says that the total his company paid policyholders whose boats had been stolen grew nearly threefold — to $1,177,000 from $472,000 — between 1969 and 1971.

"Policyholder compensation for theft now amounts to 21 per cent of State Farm's total loss dollars on boat insurance," Cichon said. "While figures for 1972 are not yet available, the upward trend is continuing."

Boats are far easier to steal and dispose of than cars, Cichon pointed out. Moreover, the recovery rate is low — perhaps 5 per cent for pleasure boats compared with about 85 per cent for autos.

"Most states have only minimal boat registration laws," Cichon said. "In any case, it's an easy matter for a knowledgeable thief to obtain the necessary documents for a stolen boat."

If a trailer-hauled boat has been made difficult to steal, a thief is likely either to pass it by, give up in the midst of his attempt or be caught committing the crime, Cichon said.

"While no boat can be made 100 per cent theftproof," he said, "certain steps can be taken to make a craft more difficult to steal or more liable to be recovered if it should be stolen."

Here are some of his suggestions:

—Keep a boat and trailer in a garage, a fenced area that can be locked, or at least in a backyard. Never park a rig on the street. If a boat must be left in a driveway, block it at night with a locked car.

—If possible, illuminate the area where a boat and trailer are parked.

—If a chain is used to anchor a trailer to the ground, it should be of case-hardened steel attached to a heavy duty eyebolt and secured by a case-hardened steel chain and lock also should be used to lash outboards to the boat proper.

—A ball lock on a trailer hitch may thwart inexperienced thieves, but not professionals. They usually carry their own hitch extensions with them.

—If a boat is not going to be used for some time, put the trailer on blocks and remove the wheels, storing them in a safe place. Or jack up one wheel and remove it.

— Never load a boat the night before a trip.

A boat that has been stolen stands a better chance of being recovered, Cichon said, if its owner has:

—Listed all serial numbers and kept them in a place where they can be quickly retrieved.

—Filed away registration papers and other documents establishing ownership, rather than leaving them on the craft.

—Made identifying marks on the boat and equipment. These can be the owner's name or social security number, the boat's registration number or a distinctive design.

Electric pens or diamond tipped scribes are especially useful in marking metal.

Angels won't give up

Late rally falls short

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

ANAHEIM — The Angels lost a ball game Monday night but again demonstrated that they have something that other Angel ball clubs have lacked.

It's the ability to bounce back when they have been left for dead by the opposition.

They did twice Monday night at Anaheim Stadium. Trailing 6-1, the Halos rallied for three runs on Bob Oliver's three-run homer in the eighth inning to narrow the gap to 6-4.

Then, after the visiting Cleveland Indians had gotten the three right back on an infield hit, a hit batter, and John Ellis' home run, the Angels came back again, strong.

By all rights they should have been finished. But they weren't They'd committed five errors, their season high. They were down 9-4 going into the last of the ninth.

But they wouldn't quit.

They came back again on walks to pinch hitters Richie Scheinblum and the forgotten Billy Grabarkewitz, a single by Sandy Alomar, and a three-run pinch homer by Frank Robinson, the 536th fourbagger of his illustrious career. It moved him into a tie with Mickey Mantle for the number five spot on the all-time homer list and provided another thrill for the remainder of the 20,265 in the Monday night crowd.

They lost, 9-8, because of the errors wheich led to three unearned runs.

In the silent Angel clubhouse, manager Bobby Winkles stared at the floor as he tugged off his socks.

"If we can just catch the ball and throw the guys out on routine plays," he said softly, "we can win."

The Indians had scored twice in the first inning off loser Bill Singer (14-5) when Singer himself threw the ball away on an easy tap by Oscar Gamble that was labelled double play.

The Diamond Bar resident was tagged for six runs (three unearned) on 10 hits in 6 1-3 innings before being replaced by Dick Lange in the seventh.

The visitors added another in the third on Rudy Meoli's second error of the game.

Although the three Cleveland runs in the ninth were earned, they wouldn't have scored if Art Kusnyer, catching after John Stephenson had been taken out for a pinch hitter, hadn't thrown the ball wildly to third base when he appeared to have Buddy Bell out by at least 10 feet on the front end of an attempted double steal.

But despite the defensive lapses, the Halos came back to make a game of it.

Winkles has his theory on that. "I believe in a relaxed atmosphere," he explained. "When nobody is on your back because you strike out or is yelling at you all the time if you miss a play, I think you feel more like going out there and giving all you can toward winning."

Whatever the reason, the freshman manager has definitely instilled a spirit on this club that other habitants of the Big A never exhibited.

Robinson explained his absence the last two days from the lineup. "I'm not tired. I just wasn't swinging the bat well. This club needs all the offense it can get and I wasn't doing the job."

Although he hesitated to commit himself, Robinson indicated he'd prefer to be a full time performer as much as possible.

"I talked with him (Winkles) three weeks ago about it," he said. "My leg wasn't 100 percent, but I thought if I could play night games and be the designated hitter in the day games I would be able to stay strong. But I haven't talked to him since then."

Robinson made it clear that he would do whatever Winkles desires. Asked what would happen if he were to go to the manager and ask to be put back in right field, Robby answered, "He would probably play me. But I don't want him to feel that I am forcing him."

The three runs batted in gave the slugger 47 runs batted in, the same as Oliver. Big Ollie has 12 roundtrippers.

The Halos tonight will send Clyde Wright (7-12) against the Indians who have changed their previously announced rotation. Dick Bosman (3-8) replaces Brent Strom (1-9) tonight.

ANGEL NOTES — Singer's four strike outs brought his season total to 150 in 184 1-3 innings.

In his last start, the Diamond Bar native was slapped around by the Tigers. . . four hits, three walks, and three earned runs in only one inning.

In his last two starts, Singer has allowed nine runs (six earned) on 14 hits and four walks in 7 1-3 innings. He has struck out only four.

The run score by Robinson on his homer was the 1,678th of his career and moved him one ahead of Mantle as he became number 17 on the all-time list.

Pomona Post 30 will be celebrating No. 25

Attempting to pull out a few names and places dating back 25 years ago was a game a few of the Pomona American Legion Post 30 Legionaires were forced to play late last week.

It started when I took to the task of trying to nail down the original coaches of Post 30's American Legion baseball team in order to do this little piece on its Silver Anniversary.

Asking around, I only came up with a few scattered names and a handful of interesting information.

But that wasn't the fun part about it.

By having to go through various channels in order to find out what made Post 30's baseball team what it is today, I had to meet a few new faces and get better acquainted with a few I've known for only a little time.

That was the fun part.

Baseball didn't seem to be the main concern to most of the people I met. What seemed more important were the players involved with Post 30's baseball program.

Merle Wooten, who has been involved with Post 30's baseball since 1956, said it best:

"It's the kids who went on to become dentists, teachers, priests and all the others who have been successful in all walks of life professionally—that's what makes it a great program."

Players, coaches return

Post 30 will stage its aniversary ceremonies Sunday afternoon before the baseball game against South Pasadena at Ralph Welch Park.

The annual fund-raising breakfast leads off the day in the morning. Open to the public from 8 a.m. till noon, the breakfast will include hot cakes, sausage, juice and coffee or milk.

Then just before the 2 p.m. ball game, Post 30's 1973 Baseball Commission, composed of Wooten, Tommie Jones and Leo Lewis, plans to pay tribute to all the players and coaches of the past. One of the coaches attending will be Larry Wellins, who piloted the Legion team in 1957 and '58. He now is the sponsor with his Wellins Jewlers establishment.

A moment of silence will also be asked for the past players who died in Vietnam. The VFW colorguard will be on hand for the pre-game ceremonies.

Big little changes

Wellins, who has been sponsoring Post 30 for the past six years, revealed some changes that have taken place from the time when he coached the team to now.

"Then, we only played 16 games per season," said the '57-'58 skipper. "Now, it's much more intense, more demanding and more competitive.

"The coaching hasn't improved though," he added jokingly. "After all, I've got to give myself a little credit."

Although Wellins does agree that not many American Legion players make it into the big leagues, he did bring up a name or two that his teams faced. One was Mike McCormick, former pitcher for the San Francisco Giants.

Post 30 has produced enough talent to claim two of its former players who are now in the major leagues.

Along with Angel pitcher Bill Singer, there is Kansas City Royal pitcher Doug Bird and Randy Stein, who is now hurling for Rochester, N. Y., an Oriole farm club in the International League.

Wellins contributes $250-$500 per year to the Legion program and he admits, "It's expensive, but it's worth it."

One of the big changes Merle Wooten pointed out was the involvement of the players.

"Back when I was coaching the team, we used to have the hungry players. But the ball players nowadays have too much going on—with the beach, girls and cars The caliber of the player is still the same though."

Merle went to compare how much more expensive it is to run a team. It used to cost at the maximum $800 to run the team for one year. Now it costs somewhere in the vicintiy of $2500-$3000.

Woody Hansen, who has been coaching the team for the past 16 years, liked the teams in 1959-61. "we had really outstanding talent then," he said.

"This year we have the ability and the horses, but the competition is a little tougher," Woody added.

Hansen agrees with Merle on outside interest topic. "Nowadays the boys have too many outside interests. But with the Dodgers and Angels in the area, the kids have the chance to go out and watch them play. I think that's one reason we come up with a lot of good athletes."

I'm convinced.

In order to really appreciate the Legion baseball program you have to know the people involved in putting it together and making it stick.

Happy Anniversary, Post 30!

Lakers to open on Sept. 18

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers will open a seven-game exhibition schedule against the Golden State Warriors at Santa Barbara, Calif., Sept. 18.

The remainder of the slate for last year's NBA runners-up:

Portland Trail Blazers, at Portland, Sept. 21; Portland, at Seattle, Sept. 22; Seattle SuperSonics, here, Sept. 28; Golden State Warriors, at Oakland, Sept. 29; Milwaukee Bucks, at Reno, Nev., Oct. 2, and Phoenix Suns, at Tucson, Ariz., Oct. 6.

Sutton has learned to pitch

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Don Sutton says he believes he is a better pitcher this year because he has learned how to pitch to the hitters.

"I feel as though I'm a better pitcher this year because I don't make the same mistakes on certain hitters," the 28-year-old Los Angeles righthander said Monday night after blanking the Pittsburgh Pirates 1-0.

Sutton was at his best against the Pirates. He struck out nine and walked none in winning his 12th game against five losses. Only one Pirate got as far as third base. It was Sutton's third win over the Pirates this season, compared to one loss.

Sutton's mound opponent, Nelson Briles, was almost as effective. His only mistake was a gopher ball to Willie Crawford in the second inning.

Briles, who lost his eighth game against eight victories, retired 21 of the last 22 men he faced. Dave Giusti pitched the ninth inning for the Pirates. Briles gave up three hits and Sutton allowed six.

Sutton said his catcher, Joe Ferguson, should receive a lot of credit for the shutout.

"I'll tell you the guy who should get a lot of credit when a pitcher throws a shutout," Sutton said. "It's the catcher and Fergy was just great tonight. He called the right pitch at the right time, especially on those two strikeouts against (Willie) Stargell."

Stargell didn't have much luck against Sutton. He struck out twice, popped up and grounded out in four at-bats.

Crawford said he felt he was overdue for a homer.

"This was my first homer on the road," the lanky outfielder said, "and there have been some people who have been reminding me that I hadn't hit any on the road."

The homer, eighth of the season for Crawford, came on the first pitch in the second inning, and it went over the right field fence.

The Pirates threatened in the third and seventh innings. Dave Parker opened the third with a double but was stranded on third. Hebner and Rennie Stennett singled around a fly out in the seventh but a double play killed the rally.

Andy Messersmith (8-6) opposes Luke Walker (5-7) in the second game of the series tonight.

John Wiegmann suddenly quits 49ers camp

GOLETA — Former Cal Poly tight end John Wiegmann, who walked into the San Francisco 49ers camp a few days ago and was signed on the spot, left Monday without explaination after the club ran through its daily drills.

"There was no word from Wiegmann on why he decided to leave," said a club spokesman. "He packed his stuff and left without saying a word to anyone."

Wiegmann was a three-year all conference player with the Broncos and made College Division All-American in his senior year in 1971.

He was drafted by the Cincinnati Bengals but sustained injuries that eventually resulted in his release. His departure leaves the 49ers with 48 players in camp with 16 veterans scheduled to report Wednesday.

East's defense stronger

By CURT WEBSTER
P-B Staff Writer

AZUSA — The East defensive unit enjoyed less than spectacular success in the 1972 San Gabriel Valley All-Star Game.

Last year's game turned into a 57-point debacle for Eastern defenders, as the West turned the annual affair into a long, long nightmare.

But Ken Gunn and Esper Keiser aren't looking to allow a repeat this year.

"We've mentioned last year's score to them several times," Gunn says. "As the game approaches, they'll start to think about it."

As East head, Gunn doesn't work with the defense intimately during the two-hour practice sessions each evening at Citrus College, but is well appraised of its progress from Keiser's reports.

While nothing is definite at most positions in the secondary, Gunn sees it as a problem most coaches like to have—a lot of talent and not enough spots to go around.

At the corners, Gunn mentions three names that are, interestingly enough associated with running back prowess. Rocky Chapman (5-9, 175) of Upland, Doug Hopper (5-9, 175) of Monrovia, and Northview's Bill Music (5-10, 150) are in the running for the two spots.

"All three were primarily running backs in high school," Gunn says. "But they're good athletes and appear to be picking it up."

Neither of the safety positions appears to be crying for talent either. Once again, a three-way race is shaping up.

Jeff Nelson (6-2, 178), the first San Dimas grad to be picked for the game, is battling Glendora's Bill McCadden (6-1, 187) and Charter Oak's Steve Sylvester (6-1, 174).

All three served primary service as wide receivers during their prep careers, but are adapting to the positon.

"They're working really hard out there," Gunn says of the safety candidates. "Only two of them have really played there."

But Gunn reserves his highest praise for the three linebackers who have the inside track. Pomona's Coolidge Goodall (6-1, 181), Ganesha's Dave Bell (5-11, 192, and Royal Oak's Roger Steinke (6-0, 181) all made names for themselves at the position in high school and they're starting to show why.

Especially Goodall.

"Coolidge is something else," Gunn reports. "He's super. The coaches tell me he loves to hit."

Gunn's overall evaulation of his secondary is optimistic, but guardedly so. "I don't know what's going to happen when we get out there Thursday night, but right now we're in real good shape."

Apparently the East offense, which has scrimmaged with the defense, is convinced. At a recent scrimmage, it was the defense that dominated.

"The defense is ahead of the offense, but that's to be expected, really," Gunn says. "The defense is just superb. Either our defense is tough or we don't have much of an offense."

Since the offense boasts two of the better passers in CIF history, it may be concluded Gunn is opting out for his first choice.

NFL Broncos open camp

POMONA — Coach John Ralston will greet an initial group of 54 players tonight as the Denver Broncos open their 1973 training camp at Cal Poly.

This will mark the second straight year the Broncos (Denver variety) have trained at Cal Poly.

The pro Broncos are dedicated to shedding a history of 13 losing seasons. Under Ralston last year, his first in the pro ranks, the Broncs were 2-3 in exhibition play and 5-9 in regular season competition.

Ralston, in talking about the camp, said, "Speaking for the coaching staff, we can't wait to get started. And I think that goes for the majority of players as well. There is just no comparison in the atmosphere this year as we are so far ahead in so many areas."

The former Stanford coach would like to get one question settled once and for all. "I have probably been asked a couple of thousand times about the difference between college and professional coaching. I really feel the length of the season is the only major difference."

"The season is twice as long," he continued," and I think we know how to pace things this time around."

The group of players reporting tonight are primarily rookies and players new to the team. However it will include all quarterbacks and centers, and a handful of veterans coming off the injured list.

The first on-the-field practice sessions are scheduled for Wednesday. The majority of veteran players will report Saturday with the first full team practice slated Sunday.

Three standout rookies have been excused from the early sessions because they are with the College All-Stars. They are running back Otis Armstrong of Purdue, the team's number one draft choice, guard Paul Howard of Brigham Young and defensive end John Grant of USC.

Veteran quarterback's Charlie Johnson and Steve Ramsey along with Mike Earnst (CS Fullerton) and John Hufnagel (Penn St.) are expected to be among the early arrivals.

Of the 87 players who will make up the full Denver roster, 42 are members of the offense and 45 are defenders. Of the 57 reporting tonight, 19 are returnees from the '72 squad.

The Denver pros will work at Cal Poly through the morning of August 9. On that date, they'll break camp and fly to Washington D.C. for a night game Aug. 10 against the Redskins in RFK Stadium. Following the exhibition game with the 'Skins, the team will fly to Denver where they will headquarter the remainder of the season.

Bench, Allen tops in All-Star votes

NEW YORK (UPI) — Johnny Bench, perhaps the most popular player in baseball today, led a parade of three Cincinnati Reds to the starting lineup of the National League All-Star team after a record 4,011,237 ballots were counted.

Bench, who was named to the starting catcher position for the fifth straight year, garnered 1,738,557 votes, more than any other player in either league.

Joining Bench from the Reds will be second baseman Joe Morgan and outfielder Pete Rose.

Hank Aaron, hot on the trail of Babe Ruth's career home run record, received the second highest vote in the majors with 1,362,447 to place him at first base in the NL's starting lineup. Aaron has been selected to the starting All-Star squad nine straight years and 15 times throughout his brilliant career.

The Chicago Cubs saw two of their players selected to the starting lineup: third baseman Ron Santo and outfielder Billy Williams. Williams, with 889,559 votes, led a tight race for the second and third outfield spots behind Rose. Houston's Cesar Cedeno drew the third outfield position with 860,575 votes, narrowly defeating San Franciscos' Bobby Bonds, who had 855,344 votes.

Chris Speier of the Giants easily nailed down the shortstop position with 930,353 votes, almost 400,000 more than his nearest competitor, Dave Concepcion of the Reds.

The NL squad chosen by the fans blends both fielding ability and hitting, with four of its eight starting players currently batting over .300. Only the 38-year-old Aaron, however, among the starters has hit more than 18 home runs this year. Aaron, with 24 so far, is followed by Bench with 17 and Cesar Cedeno with 15. Bonds ran fourth for an outfield berth despite his .304 batting average and 25 homers.

Opposing the NL squad at the 44th mid-summer classic at Kansas City's new Royal Stadium July 24th will be an American League team dominated by sluggers—Dick Allen of Chicago, Reggie Jackson of Oakland, Bobby Murcer of New York, [illegible] Rask of Boston and Amos Otis of Kansas City.

Allen, last year's Most Valuable Player, was the top vote-getter (1,111,366) in the AL but may not be able to play due to a leg injury which has sidelined him for several weeks. If the White Sox slugger cannot play, the starting first base assignment probably would be given to runner-up John Mayberry of Kansas City.

Rod Carew of Minnesota gained the second base starting assignment in a tight ballot battle with K..C's Cookie Rojas. Carew's margin of victory was only 4,000. Brooks Robinson received 826,621 votes to earn a starting role at third base for the ninth time. Oakland's Bert Campaneris will be the AL's starting shortstop.

Rams look in shape reports Chuck Knox

FULLERTON, Calif. (UPI) — Twenty-nine veterans made their first appearance at a Los Angeles Rams workout Monday and Head Coach Chuck Knox was pleased with their overall condition.

"This is probably the leanest they've ever been,' Knox said after a full squad of 86 players participated in two practice sessions.

The team, consisting of a total of 46 veterans and 38 rookies, held a light workout in the morning and "went at it in full gear" in the afternoon, according to a Ram spokesman.

The team announced that rookie quarterback Tom Bergner, who was trying to make the club as a free agent, had left the camp to pursue a coaching position.

The Rams now have four quarterbacks in camp—veterans John Hadl and Jim Harris, and rookies Ron Jaworski of Youngstown State and Sonny Sixkiller of Washington.

Joe trades Bubba, Duane gets boot

Thomas' stay in action

By United Press International

The controversial Thomas' were in action on both sides on the nation Monday. Joe Thomas' vacuum cleaner at Baltimore swept up Bubba Smith and Duane Thomas was on the receiving end of Coach Harland Svare's foot in San Diego.

Smith, the Colts' 6-foot-8, 275-pound defensive end, became the latest housecleaning project of Thomas, Baltimore's general manger, on Monday when he was traded to the Oakland Raiders for tight end Raymond Chester is a straight player deal.

Smith, one of the many Baltimore veterans who had become disenchanted with Thomas last season as the Colts. Super Bowl champions just three seasons ago, underwent complete collapse, joins John Unitas and Tom Matte (San Diego), Jerry Logan (Los Angeles), Bill Curry and Tom Nowatzke (Houston), Dan Sullivan (Oakland), Fred Miller (Washington), Norm Bulaich (Philadelphia) and Billy Newsome (New Orleans) in Thomas' cleanup campaign.

"I guess they did what they thought was right," said Smith. "I don't know why Joe Thomas is doing whatever he's doing. The Colts are turning into a rookie ball club. You're going to see a lot of mistakes next year.

"What really, really hurts me about the trade is I've developed a lot of friends in six years," he said. "I'm very appreciative of the way the people in Baltimore have treated me. Of course, my thinking and the manager's thinking is completely different."

A Colt spokesman said that Smith's contract had run out and he had not agreed to terms on the new contract but he stressed it was, "strictly a football trade. It will help both teams. We needed more offense and they wanted more defense."

Joe Schmiesing, a recent acquisitiion from the Detroit Lions, is expected to fill Smith's left end slot.

Chester is a graduate of Morgan State in Baltimore and played in the Pro Bowl the last two seasons. In the past three years, he caught 104 passes for 1,574 yards and 22 touchdowns.

Duane Thomas, meanwhile, reported to the Chargers' camp 24 hours late after sitting out all of last season and was ordered to go back home by Svare. "No one is going to show up at camp any time he wants," said the San Diego coach.

Elsewhere in the training camps, running back Larry Brown, Washington's Player of the Year in the National Conference, failed to show at the club's first workout. Brown is said to be trying to renegotiate his contract but his attorney said that he was just taking care of some personal matters in Washington.

Greg Cook, Rookie of the Year in the AFC a few years ago before being sidelined with shoulder problems, failed to impress Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown in his return to pro football.

"I wasn't surprised Cook didn't look good," Brown said. "We're not pressing him. It's just a matter of time and Greg must be patient."

Bob Lilly, Craig Morton and Dave Manders failed to report to the Dallas camp and faced fines as did running back John Riggins for failing to report to the New York Jets' camp.

Former Green Bay star Herb Adderley was tried at free safety on Monday by the New England Patriots as part of an experiment and Pittsburgh Coach Chuck Noll said he would try Preston Pearson, a starting running back before being ousted by rookie sensation Franco Harris last season, as a wide receiver.

Defensive end Joe Jones and offensive lineman Jim Copeland suffered minor leg injuries at the Cleveland Browns' camp and 12 players, including veteran safety Gus Hollomon, left the Houston Oilers' camp.

Pomonans notch wins in playoffs

By BRETT DODY
P-B Correspondent

POMONA — Two Pomona teams — American and National — stayed alive Monday evening in the District 20 Senior Division Tournament at Ralph Welch Park.

While John Andrzjewski pitched a five-hitter to lead Pomona American past Pomona Northwest - Southwest, 13 - 3, Jeff Brackey hurled a three-hitter to give Pomona National a 3-1 victory over La Verne.

Monday's wins sets the stage for two big games at Welch Park this evening beginning at 5:30 p.m. The tourney's two undefeated teams, Diamond Bar and San Dimas, clash on diamond No. 1 while Pomona American and National battle for survival in the double-elimination tourney on diamond No. 2. Pomona NW-SW and La Verne are eliminated.

Andrzjewski went the distance for Pomona American, allowing just five hits while striking out seven batters and walking four. The southpaw also helped his own cause with a two-for-four, two-RBI performance at the plate.

Ameriican started things rolling in the second inning taking advantage of five pass balls and a key hit by Andrziewski to score five times. times.

A five-run third frame extended American's lead to 10-0. After a walk and an error, the winners got three consecutive run-scoring hits from Andrzjewski, Randy Akers, and Steve Bakers. Eddie Lee rounded out the scoring with a two-run double down the right field line.

American closed out its scoring in the fifth with three runs as John Saunders drove home a pair and Larry Acosta added a ribbie to finish 13 run bombing.

Andrzjewski fired perfect ball for the first three innings before giving up two straight walks which cost him a shutout. After walking Dana Hutchinson, he also issued a pass to Wayne Smith. Hutchinson stole third leaving Smith at first. Smith was picked offf first but Hutchinson scored on the play. Bob Scott picked up NW-SW's first hit with an infield hit after Hutchinson's score.

Hutchinson also delivered a long triple to center in the sixth, but was stranded in a losing cause.

Brackey fired a three-hitter as his Pomona National teammates recorded a 3-1 victory to oust La Verne from the tourney.

Brackey went the distance and registered nine strikeouts to lead the Nationals into today's game with Pomona American.

Trailing 1-0 entering the fourth, Pomona's Mike Forsyth doubled home the tying run and Mike Willet followed with an RBI single to score Forsyth for a 2-1 advantage.

With runners at first and third and facing a drawn - in infield in the seventh, Dave Lahar chopped one over the third baseman's head, the shortstop fielded the ball but threw late to first base. The run scored, giving the Nationals a 3-1 win.

Birds ready to make run

By United Press International

Baltimore's young and not-so-young got a chance to show off last night and if optimism counts for anything, the Orioles may be ready to make a run for first place.

"I feel as if I'm going to do better in the stretch," said 36-year old Brooks Robinson, who earned his way onto the American League All-Star starting team by continuing his brilliant fielding at third base despite a lackluster .231 batting average.

"Like a golfer I've gotten into some bad habits," Robinson explained, "but I feel my swing has been coming around in the last week or so."

Robinson's swing came around just fine on one pitch last night—a slider that slid right over the middle of the plate in the seventh inning. Robinson connected for a three-run homer and helped the Orioles to a 7-5 victory over the Oakland A's.

But Robinson's heroics on his election to his 17th All-Star game were only part of Baltimore's victory. The other involved a 23-year old rookie who was nervous about pitching in his first big league game.

Don Hood, up from Rochester and facing the world champions, said "I couldn't think about too many things, I was just too nervous." But Hood didn't show it. Instead he mixed fastballs and breaking pitches to shut out the A's on two hits through the final four innings to gain his ice-breaking victory.

"I never would've brought him (Hood) in if we were tied or ahead," said Oriole Manager Earl Weaver after the game. "But with us behind 5-4, it was a perfect spot for him. He showed a lot of poise for a youngster. He showed us a good fastball, which he got past a few good hitters, and he also has a pretty good breaking ball.

In the only other American League games, Kansas City drubbed Detroit 10-2, Boston clipped Chicago 9-8 in 11 innings and Cleveland beat California 9-8.

In the National League, Los Angeles nipped Pittsburgh 1-0, Atlanta downed New York 8-6, Houston beat Montreal 6-5, Cincinnati edged Philadelphia 1-0 and St. Louis beat San Francisco 3-2.

Reggie Smith's second homer of the game with two out in the 11th inning gave the Red Sox their victory over the White Sox and enabled Boston to pull within a half-game of the idle New York Yankees in the AL East. Baltimore is another half-game back.

The White Sox tied the game 8-8 on Ed Herrmann's home run with Tony Muser aboard and one out in the top of the ninth.

Paul Schaal and Amos Otis each homered and drove in three runs, Dick Drago pitched a six-hitter, and the Royals went wild with five stolen bases before beating the Tigers.

Joe Torre singled home Lou Brock, who had singled and moved to second on a sacrifice, in the eighth inning to give the Cardinals' Bob Gibson his ninth victory and the 234th of his career. Gibson is now tied with San Francisco's Juan Marichal for the most wins by an active pitcher. Jim Barr also yielded a homer to Torre as he suffered his ninth loss against seven victories.

Dusty Baker's two-run double, following a bases-filled walk to Hank Aaron, was the big blow of a five-run seventh - inning rally which enabled the Braves to hand the Mets' Jerry Koosman his ninth setback. Marty Perez singled home the first run of the inning and Sonny Jackson capped the rally with a sacrifice fly. Jim Panther, who allowed one hit in 1 1-3 innings, received credit for his second win of the year.

Tommy Helms' sacrifice fly scored Bob Watson with the winning run for the Astros after Ken Singleton's three-run ninth-inning homer tied the score for the Expos and sent the game into extra innings. Doug Rader's two-run double keyed a four-run sixth inning which enabled the Astros to take a 5-2 lead.

Fred Norman pitched a six-hitter and struck out seven to win his sixth game since the Reds acquired him from San Diego on June 13. Doubles by Bill Plummer and Pete Rose in the sixth inning produced the game's only run off Ken Brett.

Claremont earns spot in post-season tourney

POMONA — Claremont Connie Mack clinched a San Gabriel Valley Connie Mack League playoff berth Monday evening as John Huddleston hurled a neat two-hitter as the Cardinals romped past Bassett 6-1.

Coach Jack Helber's crew can cinch first place in the Eastern Division with a win either today with Glendora Legion at Azusa Pacific College in a 5:30 p.m. game or Wednesday against Glendora Connie Mack at Industrial Park in a contest to be played under the lights.

Again it was Mr. Dependable, Huddleston, to rise to the occasion as the righthander struck out eight Bassett hitters in gaining his eighth win in 13 decisions.

Huddleston, who is the iron man of the Claremont pitching staff, has pitched in 24 of the teams 31 games and has three saves to go along with his eight wins.

Todd Ervin supplied the Cards' offense with a two-for-two performance, including an RIB triple.

Claremont scored twice in the second on five walks and two more times in the third on an error and Rich Tullis' RBI single. Ervin's triple scored Gary Bach who had singled in the fourth frame while a walk to Dave Stanton, a single by Mark Robertson and Kent Stalwick's RBI producing hit closed the Cardinal scoring in the sixth.

Claremont, who owns a 9-8-1 league mark and 17-13-1 overall record, will start Monty Moose (2-3) today.
